SHRI BAHADUR[SINGHI] SINGHI

BY

Acharya Jina Vijaya Muni

On the 7th of July 1944, Babu Shri Bahadur Singhji Singhi left his mortal coils at the comparatively early age of fifty-nine. His loss has been widely felt. His aged mother received this rude shock so ill that she did not long outlive him. His worthy sons have lost an affectionate and noble father, the industrialists and businessmen of the country one of their pioneers, the large number of his employees a benevolent master, scholarship one of its best patrons and the poor people of his native district a most generous donor. To me his loss has been personal. My contact with him was a turning point in my life. Whatever I have been able, during the past fifteen years, to achieve in the field of scholarship is due directly to him. The financial assistance with which he backed up my activities was the least of his contributions. But for his love of scholarship with which he inspired me, this chapter of my life would have been entirely different. To his sacred memory I am penning these few lines. This volume is brought out in his memory.

Babu Shri Bahadur Singhji was born in Azimganj, Murshidabad, in Vikram Samvat 1941, in the ancient family of the Singhis, who were of old the treasurers of the Mughal emperors. The family had passed through many vicissitudes of fortune and in the 17th century it migrated from Rajaputana to Bengal, but thanks to the energy and enterprise of Singhji's father, Babu Dalchandji Singhi, the family firm became a very flourishing concern.

At an early age Singhji joined the family business and by pushing ahead with father's enterprises, succeeded in making the firm the foremost in the mining industry of Bengal and Central India. Besides he also acquired vast zamindaries and had interests in many industrial and banking concerns. This early preoccupation with business affairs prevented his having a college education. But Singhji was studious and introspective by nature. Unlike many other wealthy men who spend their money and time in such fads as the races, the theatres, and the like, he devoted all his spare time to study and cultural development. He acquired an excellent command over several languages. Art and literature were the subjects of his choice. He was very fond of collecting rare and invaluable specimens of ancient sculpture, paintings, coins, copperplates and inscriptions. His manuscript collection contained a large number of rare works of historical and cultural importance, among which mention must be made of a unique manuscript of the Koran which was handed down from Baber to Aurangzeb and bears the autographs of all of them. It is recorded therein that it was considered by them all as more valuable than the empire. His numismatic collection, especially of Kushan and Gupta coins, is considered the third best in the world. He also had a good and large collection of works of art and historical importance. Singhiji was a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts (London), a member of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, the Bangiya Sahitya Parishad, the Indian Research Institute and a Founder-Member of the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan. He was also the President of the Jain Swetambara Conference held in Bombay in 1926. Though he had made no special study of law he was well up in the legal matters. On one occasion when he found that his lawyers were not properly representing his case he himself pleaded out the case successfully, much to the surprise of the bench and the bar who took him for an accomplished advocate.

Though a highly religious and leading figure in the Jain community he had an outlook which was far from sectarian. More than three fourths of the six lakhs and over of his donations were for non-Jain causes. More often than not he preferred to give his assistance anonymously and he did not keep a list of his donations even when they were made in his name. To the Chittaranjan Seva Sadan Calcutta, he gave Rs. 10,000/-, when Mahatmaji had been to his place for the collection of funds; to the Hindu Academy, Daultapur, Rs. 15,000/-, to the Taraqi-Urdu Bangala 5000/-, the Hindi Sahitya Parishad 12,500/- to the Vishud-dhanand Sarasvati Marwari Hospital 10,000/-, to several maternity homes 2,500/-, to the Benares Hindu University 2,500/-, to the Jiaganj High School 5,000/-, to the Jiaganj London Mission Hospital 6,000/-, to the Jain Temples at Calcutta and Murshidabad 11,000/-, to the Jain Dharma Pracharak Sabha Manbhum 5,000/-, to the Jain Bhavan, Calcutta, 15,000/-, to the Jain Pustak Prachar Mandal, Agra, 7,500/-, to the Agra Jain Temple 3,500/-, to the Ambala Jain High School, 2,100/-, for the Prakrit Kosh 2,500/-, and the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan 10,000/-. At the Singhi Park Mela held at his Ballyganj residence in which Viscount Wavell, then Commander-in-Chief and Lord John Herbert, Governor of Bengal and Lady Herbert participated, he donated Rs. 41,000/- for the Red Cross Fund.

The people of the district of Murshidabad, his native place, will ever remain grateful to him for having distributed several thousand maunds of rice at the low price of Rs. 8/- when rice was selling at Rs. 24/- in those terrible years of 1942-52, himself thereby suffering a loss of over three lakhs. In May-June 1944 he again spent Rs. 50,000/- for the distribution of cloth, rice and coins for the people of that place.

My close association with Singhiji began in 1931, when he invited me to occupy the Chair for Jain Studies which he was starting at the Vishvabharati. Due to unfavourable climatic conditions of Shantiniketan I could not continue to work there for more than four years, but during those years was founded the Singhi Jain Series. During the period of ten years of my principalship of Gujarat Puratattva Mandir, Ahmedabad, and even before that I had been collecting materials of historical and philological importance and folk-lore etc. which had been lying hidden in the great Jain Bhandars of Patan, Ahmedabad, Baroda etc. I persuaded Singhiji to start a series which would publish works dealing with the vast materials in my possession, and also other important Jain texts and studies prepared on the most modern scientific lines. On the works of the Series he spent through me more than Rs. 75,000/-. During this long period of over a dozen years he not even once asked me as to how and for what works the amount was spent. Whenever the account was submitted he did not ask for even the least information, but sanctioned it casting merely a formal glance on the accounts sheets. But he showed the most discriminating interest in the matter that was being published and on the material and manner in which they were being brought out. His only desire was to see the publication of as many works as possible during his lifetime. In May 1943 at my instance he gave over the Series to the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan. In September 1943 I had been to Calcutta to negotiate the purchase, for the Bhavan, of a well-equipped library of a retired professor. Singhiji casually asked me what arrangements had been made for meeting the cost. I promptly replied that there was no cause for worry as long as donors like himself were there. He smiled; he had decided. Eventually he persuaded me to go in for the Nahar Collection which was a still more valuable one. He did not live long enough to present this literary treasure to the Bhavan; but his eldest son and my beloved friend, Babu Shri Rajendra Singh has fulfilled his father's wish though he was totally ignorant of it and has got this unique collection for the Bhavan and spent Rs. 50,000/- for the purpose.

By the end of 1943 his health began to decline. In the first week of January, 1944, when I went to him at Calcutta in connection with the work of the Bharatiya Itihasa Samiti I found him extremely unwell. Notwithstanding his ill-health he talked to me for more than a couple of hours on the day of my arrival there. The first thing he said in the course of this lengthy, though very sweet talk, was to give me a mild reproof for undertaking the long and tedious journeys to Calcutta, Benaras and Cawnpore in spite of my ill health. He discussed with absorbing interest the details of the Samiti's proposed History of India, a subject of great interest to him. Our talks then drifted to the subject of the History of Jainism in which connection also he expressed his opinion about the material to be utilised for such a work. At the termination of our talks, which this time lasted for over three hours, I found him much exhausted and drooping in spirits.

On the 7th January his health took a turn for the worse. On 11th January I went to take leave of him, which he, full of emotion, gave with a heavy heart, exclaiming "Who knows whether we shall meet again or not?" I requested him to take heart and remain buoyant. He would be soon restored to normal health. But while I was stepping out of his room, my eyes were full of tears and his last words began to eat into my heart. Ill-luck prevented our second meeting. That lofty and generous soul finally left its mortal habitat at mid-day on 7th July, 1944. May his soul rest in peace!

His sons, Babu Rajendra Singh, Babu Narendra Singh and Babu Virendra Singh are treading in the footsteps of their revered father. During the past year on the Singhi Series alone they have spent over Rs. 20,000/-. I have already mentioned how Babu Rajendra Singh purchased for the Bhavan the valuable Nahar collection. Babu Narendra Singh has also spent Rs. 30,000/- for a foundation of a Jain Bhavan at Calcutta. Babu Rajendra Singh and Babu Narendra Singh have also very generously promised me to continue to meet all the expenses of the Singhi Jain Series and requested me to bring out as many works as possible, at whatever cost so that this unique series founded and cherished by their late lamented father may continue to bring to light the invaluable treasures of Jain literature and culture.

In recognition of his unique assistance the Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan has decided to perpetuate Singhiji's memory by naming its Indological library after him. Further, one of its main halls will bear his name. The Bhavan's Jain Department will also be known as the Singhi Jain Shikshapith.

GENERAL EDITOR'S FOREWORD

I have great pleasure in presenting to the world of scholars Vol. I of Prof. P. K. Gode's "Studies in Indian Literary History," which is being published as the fourth volume of Shrī Bahādur Singhji Singhī Memorial Series established in the sacred memory of the late Bābu Shrī Bahādur Singhji Singhī, the founder of the Singhi Jain Series.

On 7th July 1944 my esteemed friend Shrī Bahādur Singhji Singhī of memorable name passed away. To perpetuate his sacred memory a bulky issue of the Bhāratiya Vidyā, the Hindi-Gujarati Research Journal of the Bhāratiya Vidyā Bhavan, Bombay, was edited and published by me. This issue contained numerous valuable contributions from distinguished scholars together with an extensive essay by me recording my cherished reminiscences of Singhji. At the time of issuing this Memorial Volume it occurred to me that a Memorial Volume of this type should be published every year to commemorate the name of the late Singhji in a fitting manner. Accordingly a special issue of the Bhāratiya Vidyā (containing important articles in English) was published as the Bābu Shrī Bahādur Singhji Singhī Memorial Volume. Owing to unfavourable circumstances the idea of bringing out a Commemoration Volume of this type every year could not be given effect to, though I continued my efforts in this direction. In 1947 I undertook to publish in the present series two volumes of Prof. P. K. Gode's "Studies in Indian Literary History," which present a rich collection of articles bearing on the history and chronology of literary works and their authors. Subsequently Prof. Gode discussed with me personally the plan of the two volumes, giving details of the articles to be included in them, but the difficulty of getting a suitable press fully equipped with the necessary types and paper still remained. Luckily for these volumes we found in Shri S. R. Sardesai, B.A., LL.B., the Manager of the Samarth Bharat Press, Poona, a willing co-operator in our task of getting these volumes printed carefully but the difficulty of getting the necessary supply of paper could not be got over immediately. After some months Shri Sardesai secured the necessary paper for the first volume and the printing work was started in right earnest and completed by the end of 1950. Immediately thereafter the printing of the second volume was started by Shri Sardesai and it has been now brought to completion. I record here my best thanks to Shri Sardesai for his efficient and careful execution of the printing work of both these volumes.

The author of the present Studies in Indian Literary History, Prof. P. K. Gode, needs no introduction to the world of Indology. He was first introduced to me in 1919 by my most affectionate friend the late Dr. P. D. Gune, one of the chief founders of the Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute and also its enthusiastic Secretary upto his sad demise in 1922. In April 1919 Prof. Gode joined the service of this Institute. I was then examining the rich Bombay Government Collection of Mss which was shifted from the Deccan College to the Institute in June 1918. This collection of Mss known as Government Mss, Library was put in the charge of Prof. Gode and I had day to day contact with him during the period of my stay in Poona. This contact gradually developed into indissoluble friendship not only on account of his unfailing courtesy and kindness in lending out Mss to me from the Mss Library in his special charge but mainly on account of the use made by Prof. Gode of the valuable manuscript material that surrounded him. During the last 37 years he has published no less than 445 original research papers (about 3500 pages). About half the number of these papers deal with literary history i.e. the history and chronology of Sanskrit and Prakrit works and their authors; the other half deals with the history of Indian Culture. The encyclopaedic range of the subjects handled by Prof. Gode and the strictly scientific form and character of his published papers dealing with them have endowed them with a reference value. In fact Prof. Gode's brother-workers in the field of Indology like myself have been constantly asking him to bring out all his papers in a book-form with exhaustive Indices. As Prof. Gode has entirely dedicated his life to the service of Sarasvatī and as Śrī and Sarasvatī never go hand in hand it is beyond his means to publish his writings in a book-form. It is the duty of his rich friends and learned bodies to publish his studies in a book-form and thus help future research in the fields of Indology touched by him. As a first step in this direction I undertook to publish the two volumes of Prof. Gode's papers not only to satisfy my own urge to help a brother-worker in the field of literature but also as an act of personal friendship. It is also my proud privilege to publish in a permanent form the results of research carried on by a pupil of my esteemed friend the late Dr. P. D. Gune. Prof. Gode joined the service of the Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute on the advice of his guru, Dr. Gune. He has been serving as the Curator of the Institute for the last 35 years and has utilised every moment of his leisure for the promotion of Oriental learning not only by his own splendid example but also by his editorial work on several journals and commemoration volumes published by him. So far as I know no Curator of Indian Research Institutes has been able to publish as many research papers as he has published on diverse subjects in the field of Indology. Prof. Gode is now running his 63rd year. I wish him long life and plenty of energy to continue his service to Sarasvatī with single-minded devotion as hitherto. The Bhāratiya Vidyā now requires a large number of workers of the type of Prof. Gode and I confidently hope that his example will not fail to inspire the younger generation of scholars in a free India, with its rich heritage of literature and culture and a brilliant future now provided by a country-wide interest in the glory that was Ind.

INTRODUCTION

In his Foreword to the third Edition of the *Bibliography*¹ of my Published Writings my esteemed friend Rao Bahadur K. V. Rangaswami Aiyangar observed as follows :— “ Every library and institution interested in Indic Studies, and every scholar that can afford the price, will require a set of the published papers. Every student who has gained some light and guidance in his own special field from some paper or papers of Prof. Gode will, therefore, one feels assured, join in the prayerful hope that before a scholarly life of such remarkable fecundity reaches its sixtieth year, the next edition of this Bibliography will be replaced by the contents sections of a collection of Prof. Gode’s research publications and reviews, representing the achievement of over thirty years of a life dedicated to the discovery and propagation of historical truth. ”

This prayerful hope of my learned friend was not expressed in vain. In the rainy season of 1946 I had the good fortune of meeting after many years my old friend Ācārya Muni Jinavijayaji, when he stayed for a few days in the Nizam Guest House of the B. O. R. Institute. I entered the service of the Institute on 26th April 1919. At this time the Government Manuscripts Library containing about 20,000 manuscripts was given in my special charge and Muniji, who was then staying in the Bharata Jain Vidyalaya near the Institute, was engaged day and night in studying the Jain manuscripts in the Government Manuscripts Library and preparing a Descriptive Catalogue of them and planning critical editions of Jain texts, many of which have been published in subsequent years. It was at this time that the bonds of friendship between myself and Muniji were forged for the first time and strengthened in later years even though Muniji left Poona and continued his studies outside Poona. During his stay in Poona referred to above I had occasion to ascertain Muniji’s deep interest in all my writings pertaining to Indian literary history and the history of Indian culture and allied topics. In one of our talks he expressed his great appreciation of all my writings published in numerous Oriental

1. Thirty Years of Historical Research or Bibliography of the Published Writings of P. K. Gode (1916-1946), Poona, 1947, Page iii of Foreword. The first Edition of this Bibliography was published in 1939 and the Second Edition of this Bibliography dedicated to my revered guru the late Dr. P. D. Gune, was brought out in 1941 with a Foreword by my venerable friend Principal J. R. Gharpure.

Journals since 1919 and desired that I should publish them in a book-form. In response to this desire I estimated the extent of my published writings and the probable cost of publishing them. According to my estimate the total extent of my writings came up to about 2500 printed pages, which if published in a book-form would cost about Rs. 25000, a sum which no Indian scholar of moderate means can afford to spend on his writings. Without getting perturbed at the estimated cost of publishing my writings in a book-form, Muniji spontaneously offered in a spirit of brotherhood to publish two volumes of my studies in literary history, each volume consisting of about 500 pages. I cannot adequately express my sense of gratitude to Muniji for this act of brotherhood prompted solely by his disinterested love of learning and catholicity of literary interests, characteristic of all true devotees of Sarasvatī, the goddess of learning, worshipped alike in this Bhāratavarṣa from remote antiquity up to the present day by all our countrymen, Brahmanical, Jain and Buddhist.

As the Director and General Editor of the Singhi Jain Series Muni Jinavijayaji has maintained a broad outlook in the selection of works to be published in this series. This outlook has been doing yeoman's service to the cause of the Bhāratīya Vidyā, for the promotion of which Muniji agreed to work as the Director of the Bhāratīya Vidyā Bhavan, founded by his eminent friend Śrī K. M. Munshi ten years ago. In the conduct of my own studies during the last 33 years I have also maintained a broad outlook in the selection of problems for historical investigation as will be seen from the contents of my Bibliography referred to above. "Bhāratīya Vidyā" in the broadest sense of the term includes studies pertaining to Indian literature, Brahmanical, Jain and Buddhist. Though the Brahmanical studies have been my main concern I have not excluded the field of Jain literature and history from my investigations as the two fields are intermingled. I could not carry out any studies pertaining to the Buddhist literature for want of Buddhist Manuscripts in our Manuscripts Library, which contains, however, about 4000 manuscripts pertaining to the Jain field, a source of inspiration to me as it is rich in chronological data, which are the very back-bone of all historical research worth the name. Some of my studies in Jain literary history included in the present volume will amply bear out the truth of my statement.

An accurate and encyclopaedic history of Sanskrit literature cannot be written unless all the known sources of such a history represented by the wealth of manuscript material in our manuscript collections, private or public, have been fully exploited by generations of diligent research workers dedicating their lives to this academic work of national importance. I developed this view thirty years ago and applied myself seriously to the study of the history and chronology of Sanskrit works as far as it could be reconstructed on documentary evidence of published and unpublished literary sources. Wrong chronology produces wrong history and want of chronology produces no history worth the name. In my studies I have all along endeavoured to fix the limits for the chronology of each author and his works, known or unknown, studied by me so that the work of the historian may become easy and dependable for further research in the field. My approach to the problems handled by me has been strictly realistic as I have explained in a special article "Indian Chronology: A Plea for Realism" published in the Aryan Path (June 1945, pages 201-206). In all my papers I have tried to record detailed references to the books and manuscripts used by me so that future workers may examine my evidence and satisfy themselves about the validity of my conclusions as limited by the evidence at my disposal. In short my papers provide an index-finger to the varied sources of historical research that still await exploitation and critical investigation. Only when the history and chronology of all known texts have been determined we shall be in a position to use them for the reconstruction of Indian literary or cultural history. For the history of Indian linguistics also the study of Indian literary chronology is of paramount importance. I strongly hope that my studies in literary and cultural history of India would be of some use for the Sanskrit Dictionary on historical principles which has been projected by my learned friend and colleague, Dr. S. M. Katre, the Director of the Deccan College Research Institute, Poona, and work on which has been proceeding apace through a special Sanskrit Dictionary Department working under his guidance and supervision.

The method of historical research adopted by me is patent to every one who has cared to carry on historical investigation in any field of knowledge. It is, however, necessary to say a few words about the specific technique of this method which has been responsible for the type of studies incorporated in the present volume. To me all old manuscripts, documents, printed books, not to say other sources of history, are worthy of reverence and careful preservation. In fact they are the very life-blood of all historical research. Catalogues of all these sources of history in general and Descriptive Catalogues in particular provide us an important tool of research as they are a view-finder through which one can have a glimpse of the vast and varied source-material for research in different collections of manuscripts, books etc. available throughout the world. It is the duty of every genuine research-worker in the field of Indian literary and cultural history to squeeze out this source material again and again for enriching our scanty knowledge of the specific fields of this history. In an ideal history of literature the chronology of every author and his literary production ought to be represented definitely or at least within narrow limits. If we cast a glance at the entries about works and authors in Aufrecht's Catalogus Catalogorum we find that with the exception of a few entries for which some chronology is available the whole catalogue looks like a big sign of interrogation in time and space. This sign of interrogation will be enlarged when the *New Catalogus Catalogorum*¹ is published by the University of Madras. As inheritors of the immense wealth of literary heritage, which would be briefly indicated in this great catalogue we would be failing in our duty towards this treasure of knowledge if we do not make an organised effort to reduce this sign of interrogation if not remove it altogether in the years to come. At any rate I have spent the best energy of my life during the last thirty years of my service at the B. O. R. Institute in contributing my mite towards such an organised effort. All my studies in the field of literary history have been designed as stepping stones to a monumental history of Indian literature, Jain, Brahmanical and Buddhist, when it comes to be written with the help of well chiselled bricks of historical facts and the durable cement of definite chronology gathered year after year by an indefatigable band of literary masons working in unison without a break.

There is nothing inherently enchanting in the dead bones of the sources of history but they become enchanting to an investigator of historical truth when he realizes the bearing of the contents of these sources on the problems under his investigation. In fact it is the spirit of investigation that makes these dead bones alive and speak for or against a thesis which the investigator wants to prove. Though no investigator can be a "monster of omniscience", he should at least try to get acquainted with the contents of all known sources of his investigation, published or unpublished.

1. Work on this Catalogue is being done by Dr. V. Raghavan for the last fifteen years. When completed this Catalogue would provide a first-rate tool for research in Indian Literary History. The first Volume of this Catalogue containing entries for the letter A-अ has just been published. It fully justifies my expectations about its high standard of scholarship and usefulness as I have pointed out in detail in my review of this volume in the Hindu of Madras for 18-12-1949.

Without such acquaintance he cannot evaluate any new source when it comes to light accidentally or through the efforts of brother-investigators. The wider and the deeper the acquaintance of an investigator with the known sources, the larger is the number of problems that crop up for his investigation. He alone is a "Complete Angler" in historical research who sits patiently on the shores of antiquity by casting a close and comprehensive net of knotty problems and catches daily some new facts bearing on the solution of these problems. Though I am not a "Complete Angler" I have practised such angling on the shores of Indian antiquity commensurate with the scanty leisure at my disposal. I have under investigation innumerable problems and have maintained separate "Problem files" for them. Facts bearing on these problems, as soon as they are discovered, are noted on separate sheets with indication of their chronology and inserted in these files. When a sufficient number of analogous facts clarifying a problem is gathered in course of time these facts are released in the form of an article. Sometimes it takes years before a problem is clarified or completely solved; but if an investigator toils diligently year after year he is sure to be rewarded for his toil by a decent number of original research papers every year as will be seen not only from my Bibliography but from those of other savants' in the world. The Yogavāsiṣṭha rightly emphasises the need, value and fruitful character of abhyāsa or study in the following lines :—

“ भाग्यानि यान्ति वैफल्यं नाभ्यासस्तु कदाचन ”

(Yogavāsiṣṭha, Nirvāṇapraṅgaṇa, Sarga 67, Verse 32).

1. The Bibliography (95 pages) of one of these savants, William Healey Dall (1845–1927) published by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, 1946, records no less than 1607 publications of this great American Scientist whose remarks about an ideal seeker of the truth are forcefully applicable to any ideal research worker in the field of Indology as well. These remarks made in 1888 and quoted on the first page of the above Bibliography are as follows :—

.....“ Naturalists are born and not made ; that the sacred fire cannot be extinguished by poverty nor lighted from a college taper. That the men whose work is now classical and whose devotion it is our privilege to honour owed less to education in any sense than they did to self-denial, steadfastness, energy, a passion for seeking out the truth and an innate love of nature. These are the qualities which enabled them to gather fruit of the tree of knowledge.”

“ Fortunes may become fruitless but never so study ”

“ येनाऽभ्यासः परित्यक्तः दृष्टे वस्तुनि सोऽधमः ”

(Ibid, verse 34)

“ He is the meanest wretch, who abandons the pursuit of his ideal.” Abhyāsa is defined as “ repeated application ” :—

“ पौनःपुन्येन करणमभ्यास इति कथ्यते । ”

These remarks¹ of the Yogavāsiṣṭha will not fail to carry their message to all genuine students of all times and climes. At any rate I have realized their full significance in my post-graduate research work for the last thirty-three years of my life.²

The articles included in the present volume were originally published in different Oriental Journals and other publications at different times. I have indicated at the commencement of each article in a footnote the exact title of the publication in which the article was originally published together with such details as would facilitate a reference to the original article. In the arrangement of articles in the volume I have generally followed the chronological order. It was, however, found impossible to give a definite chronological order for the entire matter included in the volume owing to certain authors and their works being fixed up only within broad limits of chronology, which may be narrowed down by subsequent students of the problems handled by me. The idea of the arrangement of these articles subjectwise had also to be given up owing to the overlapping character of the material in many of the

दृढाभ्यासाभिधानेन यत्ननाम्ना स्वकर्मणा ।

2. I had an occasion to point out the remarks of the Yogavāsiṣṭha on abhyāsa to the audience at a function in my honour held on 18th May, 1949 at the B. O. R. Institute with M. M. Dr. P. V. Kane in the chair. Though no students in the audience approached me to learn the details of these remarks, some professors approached me next day and took down the exact verses from the Yogavāsiṣṭha quoted by me at the function.

articles. Some of the authors have written works on different subjects and consequently my articles dealing with these authors and their works could not be classified subjectwise. My only object in bringing out my scattered articles in a book-form is to make them available to the research students who are handicapped in their studies for want of access to all Oriental journals in any single library. The present volume will be useful not only to such research students but also to me in my future work on account of the exhaustive Indices prepared by my learned friends Dr. A. D. Pusalker, M. A., LL. B., Ph. D. of the Bhāratiya Vidyā Bhavan, Bombay, and Principal N. A. Gore, M. A. of the Kanara College, Kumta. These Indices enhance the reference-value of the volume. I am deeply indebted to both these friends for their arduous labour of love, which is a token of their brotherly affection for me and disinterested devotion to Sarasvatī. The first of these Indices, a work of immense scholarly labour, was prepared by Dr. Pusalker in spite of his heavy work as Assistant Editor of the History of India projected by the Bhāratiya Vidyā Bhavan, and sent to me punctually as soon as I completed the printing of my articles in the Volume. The second Index, no less scholarly and important, was prepared by Principal Gore in spite of all his literary work and administrative commitments, as Principal of a newly started college and sent to me just in time as soon as I completed the printing of Dr. Pusalker's Index. One rarely enjoys such self-less and dependable scholarly collaboration in one's literary endeavours.

In the Introduction to the Bibliography of my writings published in 1947 I have thanked all my friends and well-wishers, whose co-operation and blessings have encouraged me to carry on my researches in Indian literary and cultural history for over three decades. It remains for me to thank some of these friends who have directly helped me in the publication of the present volume. Among these friends I have to convey my cordial thanks to my esteemed friend and literary confrère, Dr. S. M. Katre, M. A., Ph. D., whose advice and co-operation not only in all our joint efforts for the promotion of Indology during the last sixteen years but also in my own research work I have fortunately enjoyed without a break. As far as possible I have followed his very useful suggestions with regard to the arrangement and publication of the papers included in the present volume. Special thanks are due to, Mr. S. N. Savadi, B. A. (Hons.), the senior assistant of the Manuscript Department and Mr. G. N. Shrigondekar, B. A., the Librarian of the B. O. R. Institute, for their willing co-operation in the correction of some of the proofs, especially of the Indices to the Volume.

As Curator of the B. O. R. Institute for over 30 years I have enjoyed the privilege of the friendship and unstinted co-operation of all the past and present office-bearers and other members of the Institute. I take this opportunity of recording my most cordial thanks to all these friends, some of whom are unfortunately not living to-day to see the publication of this volume ! Among these departed friends I remember with gratitude and reverence my friend and guru the late Dr. P. D. Gune, M. A., Ph. D. (died 1922), who put me on the path to Indology, and the late Dr. V. S. Sukthankar, M. A., Ph. D. (died 1943), the General Editor of the Mahābhārata, who was my friend and colleague for 17 years (1925-1943). Dr. Sukthankar's daily scholarly contact with me during this period gave the most vitalising stimulus and encouragement to my sustained literary endeavour of almost a quarter of a century.

Among friends from whom I have received considerable encouragement in all my work at the Institute I must gratefully mention Principal J. R. Gharpure, B. A., LL. B. and Dr. R. N. Dandekar, M. A., Ph. D., who as Chairman of the Executive Board and Secretary of the Institute respectively for the last ten years have tried their best to promote its growth in spite of the difficulties created by the great world war. Thanks are also due to all the members of the staff, especially Mr. Y. R. Junnarkar (Assistant Curator), Mr. G. N. Shrigondekar (Librarian), and Messers G. S. Deshpande and G. B. Kulkarni, whose loyalty to the Institute and harmonious co-operation with me have facilitated all my administrative work as Curator of the Institute for more than 35 years. In 1935 the work of the preparation and publication of the several Volumes of the Descriptive Catalogue of the Govt. Manuscripts Library was entrusted to me by the Executive Board. I started this work with the help of two assistants Dr. M. M. Patkar, B. A., Ph. D. and Mr. S. N. Savadi, B. A. (Hons.). In 1943 Dr. Patkar joined the Deccan College Research Institute and Mr. Savadi took his place as senior assistant in the Manuscript Department. I record my best thanks to these co-workers for their careful and conscientious work not only on the Descriptive Catalogue but in other matters connected with this Department.

• The present volume of my studies happily inaugurates a new series of Memoirs called "Shri Bahadur Singh Singhi Series" started in memory of the late Shri Bahadur Singhji Singhi (1885-1944), the magnanimous and enlightened founder of the Singhi Jain Series, by his great friend Ācārya Muni Jinavijayaji. Two volumes have already been published as commemoration volumes in memory of the late Shri Bahadur Singhji but this series of Memoirs has been commenced with the express purpose of commemorating his illustrious name permanently. This series of Memoirs will include all critical studies pertaining to Indian literature while the Singhi Jain Series will contain critical editions not only of texts pertaining to Jain literature but also those pertaining to Indian literature in general.

The Singhi Jain Series is the fruit of the pious liberality of Babu Shri Bahadur Singhji Singh and commemorates the name of his revered father Babu Shri Dalchandji Singh (1865-1927), who was a great patron of learning throughout his life. It is one of the declared aims of this Series to publish not only the critical editions of texts but also critical Studies by competent research scholars on all branches of Indian Literature, which are the glorious literary heritage of India. The volumes so far published in the Singhi Jain Series have already endeared themselves to Indologists all over the world. Literature knows no limitations of time and clime and I hope that the Singhi Jain Series of the critical editions of texts and the Shri Bahadursingh Singhji Memoris of critical studies inaugurated by this volume, will grow in content and world-wide literary prestige under the distinguished editorship of my esteemed friend Ācārya Muni Shri Jinavijayaji. The life-long services of Muniji to Indian literature and culture have been very great and they have been fittingly recognised by no less an academic body than the German Oriental Society, who have made him their Honorary Member. I take this opportunity of recording here my most hearty congratulations to Muniji upon this unique international honour conferred on him by this noblest body of the Orientalists' world and wish him long life and good health to continue his disinterested services to the Bhāratīya Vidyā.

Though Babu Bahadur Singhji Singh, the noble and illustrious founder of the Singhi Jain Series is no more with us to continue his ceaseless efforts for furthering the cause of our ancient literature and culture, his two worthy sons, Babu Rajendra Singh Singh and Babu Narendra Singh Singh have been carrying out the pious wishes of their revered father in promoting this sacred cause. I cannot adequately express my sense of gratitude and appreciation for their genuine love of learning and the spirit of benefaction, which have contributed in no small way to the distinguished progress of the Singhi Jain Series.

In conclusion I offer my sincere thanks to my friend Shri S. R. Sardesai, B. A., LL. B., the Manager of the Samartha Bhārat Press, Poona, for his careful and expeditious printing of the present volume in spite of all difficulties through which all presses in India had to pass during the last five years. Since 1920 Shri Sardesai has been a life-worker of the Samartha Vidyālaya, of which I was a student in the year (1906-07) of its foundation by Prof. V. G. Vijapurkar. It is a happy coincidence that the Samartha Bhārat Press (conducted by the Samartha Vidyālaya of Talēgaon near Poona) which printed the third edition of the Bibliography of my writings in 1947 should print in 1953 this first volume of my studies. My contact with Prof. Vijapurkar though short has left on my mind an indelible stamp of his self-sacrificing life, burning patriotism, deep learning and spotless character.

As my revered Guru the late Dr. Pandurang Damodar Gune initiated me into the study of the Bhāratiya Vidyā and his great friend Ācārya Muni Śrī Jinavijayaji has initiated the publication of this first volume of my studies, I have taken the liberty of dedicating it to both these benefactors in partial redemption of the heavy debt of gratitude I owe to them.

Bühler's Life of Hemacandra (Eng. Trans. by M. Patel) 1936, mentions the following Gacchas:—चंद्रगच्छ, कोटिकगण, पूर्णचन्द्रगच्छ.

A Kannaḍa inscription on a pillar at Patasivaram (Anantapur Dist. South India) dated 24th February 1185, mentions पुस्तकगच्छ, देशीगण and मूलसंघ to which belonged पद्मप्रभ मलधारिदेव, disciple of Virapandi-Siddhānta-Chakravartideva (Vide p. 299 of Madras Presi.

literature, philosophy and religion as it will give us a skeleton outline of the history of Jaina Schools and the several ācāryas that were associated with them. This is, however, a subject to be tackled by students interested in the history of Jaina literature and religion. In the absence of any encyclopaedic work dealing with the various Jaina Schools and their historical development it would be useful to collect and record data pertaining to the several schools separately to facilitate a closer study of them, as also to enable us to understand the interrelations of these schools through changing vicissitudes of political and religious history of India.

In the present paper I shall confine myself to one Gaccha viz. the Caitragaccha of Chitor in Rajputana and shall record a few references to it in inscriptions and literature.

(1) The *Prasasti Saṃgraha*¹ records the following colophon of a MS of the Meghadūta in a Bhandar at Pātan :—

“संवत् १६०४ २ वें वैशाख सुदि २ भूषवासरे श्रीचित्रगच्छे भ० श्री० ६ नयकीर्ति-
सूरि सूरिन्द्रान् ॥ तत् शिष्य मू० विनयकीर्तिलिखितं स्ववाचनाय, चित्रांगद^३ दुर्गमध्ये ॥
श्रीरस्तु ॥ श्री ॥”

The above colophon of A.D. 1547 gives us the names of two Jainas viz., (1) *Nayakīrti*⁴ and (2) Vinayakīrti associated with the Kannāḍa Inscriptions, ed. by Shamasastri and Lakshminarāyan Rao, 1939—Ins. No. 278). Vide also p. 400 of the above volume, where an inscription of A. D. 1297 records the gift of some land to विनयचन्द्रदेव, disciple of नेमिचंद्र रावुळ of the पुस्तकगच्छ, देशीगण and मूलसंघ. On p. 89 again we have inscription No. 115 dated A. D. 1054 which mentions a Jain teacher belonging to मूलसंघ, देशीगण and पोत्तगगच्छ.

1. Ed. by A. M. Shah, Part II, p. 102.

2. This MS was copied in April 1547.

3. In the Chitor Stone inscription of A. D. 1287 engraved on a pillar about a mile or so from Chitor in the reign of Samara-Simha a grant is made to the temple of Vaidyanātha built on a tank called Citrāṅga (mod. Chitrang Moris tank at Citrakūṭa (Vide H. C. Ray : Dynastic History of Northern India II, p. 1194). In a MS copied in in Sarnvat 1597 (= A. D. 1541) i.e. six years earlier than the Meghadūta MS of A. D. 1547 we find the mention of Citrakūṭa durga in the reign of “Rājādhirāja Śrī Vanavīra” and the Gaccha existing at Chitor is styled as “Añcala Gaccha.”

4. The Jain Granthāvali does not mention any author of the name Nayakīrti. Winternitz (His. of Ind. Lit. II, Calcutta, 1933) & S. Vidyabhusana (Ind. Logic, 1921) make no reference to any author of this name in their Chapters on “Jaina Literature” (pp. 424—595) and “Jain Logic” (pp. 158—224) respectively.

Caitragaccha in the Chitor fort. The Paṭṭāvali No. 1 of the Kharatara Gaccha contains the following dated reference to Citrakūṭa or Chitor :—

Death of Jinavallabhasūri at Citrakūṭa in Samvat 1168 (= A.D. 1112).¹

If the above date of the death of Jinavallabhasūri at Citrakūṭa is correct it shows the association of the Kharataragaccha with Chitor at the beginning of the 12th Century but it does not help us to know the history of the Caitragaccha mentioned in the Meghadūta MS referred to above.

Kṣemakīrti, pupil of Vijayendu and belonging to Candrakula composed his commentary on the Bṛhatkalpasūtra in Samvat 1332 i. e. A. D. 1276. At the end of his commentary he possibly refers to the genesis of the Caitragaccha in the following verses :—

“श्रीजैनशासन-नभस्तल-तिग्मरश्मिः
श्री सद्य-चांद्रकुल-पद्मविकाशकारी ।
स्वज्योतिरावृताद्गंबरबरोऽभूत्
श्रीमान् धनेश्वरगुरुः प्रथितः पृथिव्यां ॥ ७ ॥

The above verses tell as that one Dhaneśvaraguru was the originator or founder of the Caitragaccha (तस्मात्.....श्रीचैत्रगच्छोऽजनि). This guru is styled as “चित्रपुरप्रबोधतरणेः” i. e. “the Sun for the awakening of Citrapura” obviously on account of his spiritual

1. This Caitragaccha referred to in A. D. 1276 by Kṣemakīrti is not found in the following 84 Gacchas of the Jainas, which originated with the pupils of a Jaina high priest named Udyotana who flourished about the middle of the 10th century.

These Eighty-four Gacchas as given on pp. 78—79 of Bühler's The Indian Sect of the Jainas edited by J. Burgess, London, 1903, are :—

(1) Vaḍa, (2) Osvāla, (3) Añcala, (4) Jiravala, (5) Khaḍatara or Kharatara, (6) Lonkā or Ricmati, (7) Tapā, (8) Gaṅgeśvara, (9) Koranṭavāla, (10) Ānandapura, (11) Bharavati, (12) Uḍhaviyā, (13) Gudāvā, (14) Dekāupā or Dekāvā, (15) Bhinmālā, (16) Mahuḍiyā, (17) Gacchapāla, (18) Gośavala, (19) Magatragagadā, (20) Vṛhmāniyā, (21) Tātārā, (22) Vikāḍiyā, (23) Munjhiyā, (24) Citroḍā, (25) Sācorā, (26) Jacaṇḍiyā, (27) Sidhālāvā, (28) Miyaṇṇiyā, (29) Āgamīyā, (30) Maladhārī, (31) Bhāvāriyā, (32) Palivāla, (33) Nāgadigeśvara, (34) Dharmaghoṣa, (35) Nāgapurā, (36) Ucatavāla, (37) Naṇṇāvāla, (38) Saḍerā, (39) Maṇḍovarā, (40) Śūrāṇi, (41) Khambhāvatī, (42) Pācamda, (43) Sopāriya, (44) Māṇaliyā, (45) Kocchīpanā, (46) Jāgaṃnā, (47) Lāparavāla, (48) Vosaradā, (49) Duivandanīyā, (50) Citrāvāla, (51) Vegadā, (52) Vāpaḍā, (53) Vijahāra, Vijharā, (54) Kāupurī, (55) Kācala, (56) Hāmḍaliya, (57) Mahukarā, (58) Putaliyā, (59) Kaṃnariseyā, (60) Revardiyā, (61) Dhandhukā, (62) Thambhaṇīpanā, (63) Paṃcīvala, (64) Pālaṇpurā, (65) Gaṃdhārīya, (66) Veliyā, (67) Sāḍhpunamīyā, (68) Nagarakoṭiyā, (69) Hāsorā, (70) Bhaṭanerā, (71) Jaṇaharā, (72) Jagāyana, (73) Bhīmasena, (74) Takāḍiyā, (75) Kaṃboja, (76) Senatā, (77) Vagherā, (78) Vaheḍiyā, (79) Siddhapura, (80) Ghoghari, (81) Nāgamīyā, (82) Punaṃmīyā, (83) Varhadīyā, (84) Nāmīlā — Some of these names are common to Col. Miles's list (Tr. R. A. S. vol. III, pp. 358 f. 363, 365, 370) and H. C. Brigg's list—Cities of Gujarashtra p. 339. I wonder if Gaccha No. 24 (Citroḍā) in the above list has any connection with the Caitragaccha mentioned by Kṣemakīrti !

knowledge. *Citrapura*¹ mentioned by Kṣemakīrti appears to be identical with modern Chitor. If this identification is correct it is but in the fitness of things that such an illustrious Jainācārya should be the founder of the Caitragaccha, the existence of which in the latter part of the 13th century and its continuity to the middle of the 16th century is proved by inscriptional and literary sources.

1. Chitor is mentioned in historical references as चितौड, चित्रकूट, चैत्रकूट, (Vide Index to Kharatara Gaccha Paṭṭāvali Saṁgraha, p. 3) though I have not come across the name चित्रपुर as such for Chitor used in documents or elsewhere. The Prasasti Saṁgraha by A. M. Shah records the following names of Chitor :—

Catalogue* Vol. I (Baroda, 1937) contains the following references to Chitor :—Page 34—MS dated Samvat 1185 = (A. D. 1129) mentions हरिभद्रसूरि as resident of “चित्रकूटाचल” (कृतिः.....चित्रकूटाचलनिवासिनः श्रीहरिभद्रसूरिः) — P. 66 “चित्रकूटमहादुर्ग” mentioned in a MS dated Samvat 1314 = A. D. 1258,— P. 156 (चित्तउड = चित्रकूट).

The name Dhaneśvara Sūri is very commonly met with in the literature of the Jains. It is, therefore, necessary to identify him if possible and for this purpose we shall have to note all the namesakes' of Dhaneśvara in dated sources, who flourished before A. D. 1276 the date of composition of Kṣemakīrti's commentary on the Bṛhatkalpasūtra.

The Jesalmere Inscriptions edited by P. C. Nahar contain the following references to the Caitra Gaccha :—

1. A MS of Yogaśāstravṛtti was copied for Dhaneśvara Sūri at Śrī Pattana in Samvat 1255 (= A. D. 1199) Vide Praśasti Saṁgraha Part I, p. 82 (Pr. 130)—संवत् १२५५ वर्षे मार्ग शुदि १ रवौ ॥ अद्यह श्री पत्तन श्रीदवाचार्यवसत्यां श्रीधनेश्वरसूरीणां हेतोर्द्वादशसहस्रयोगशास्त्रवृत्ति परमश्रावकठक्कुरवर्थमानेन सुदर्शनग्रामवास्तव्य पारि० वांशलपाश्चात् लिखापिता etc. Part II, p. 93—In a MS dated Samvat 1592 (= A. D. 1536) the Sūris of the नाणावाल गच्छ viz., शांतिमूरि, सिद्धसेगसूरि, धनेसरसूरि etc., are mentioned. This Dhaneśvarasūri has no connection with our Dhaneśvara on account of the difference of chronology and the difference of the Gacchas.

One Dhaneśvarasūri of the नाणकीय गच्छ is mentioned in the Jesalmere Inscription No. 2230 dated Samvat 1329 (= A. D. 1273) but he is obviously a different person as he does not belong to the Caitra Gaccha (Vide p. 61 of Jesalmere Inscriptions III by P. C. Nahar, Calcutta, 1929). Two more namesakes of this Sūri are found in the same Gaccha in inscriptions dated Samvat 1476 (= A. D. 1420) and Samvat 1527 (= A. D. 1471) vide Inscription Nos. 2291 and 2348 in the above volume of Jesalmere Inscriptions. It would appear that Dhaneśvarasūri of the Nānakīya Gaccha living in A. D. 1273 was a contemporary of Kṣema-Kīrti who composed his commentary on the Bṛhat-Kalpasūtra in A. D. 1276 i. e. three years after the Jesalmere Inscription of A. D. 1273.

While dealing with Jain influence under the Paramāra Kings Dr. D. C. Gongoly (Paramāra Dynasty 1933, p. 250) states that "Dhaneśvara lived in Malwa during the reign of Muñja." This Dhaneśvara belonged to Rāja Gaccha (Vide p. iii of Peterson's Fourth Report). The last known date of Muñja or Vākpati II is A. D. 993-4 (Vide p. 80 of Parm. Dynasty).

Inscription Number.	Samvat year.	A. D.	Sūris mentioned in the Inscription
2229	1327	1271	Kanakaprabhasūri (in the line of Ajitasimha Sūri “श्री चैत्रगच्छे”)
2416	1339	1283	Dharmadeva Sūri “श्री चैत्रगच्छीय”
2249	1381	1325	Dharmadeva Sūri “श्री चैत्रगच्छे”
2255	1388	1332	Āmadeva Sūri “चैत्रगच्छे”
2320	1503	1447	Malacandra Sūri “चित्रावलगच्छे” ¹

The Jesalmere inscriptions noted in the above statement bear further testimony to the continuity of the Caitra Gaccha between A. D. 1271 and A. D. 1447. We have already quoted the colophon of a Meghadūta MS of A. D. 1547 which carries further this continuity exactly by 100 years. With a view to having a thorough knowledge of the several sūris belonging to the Caitra Gaccha and their contribution to Jain and non-Jain literature and philosophy, it is necessary to record the names of these sūris as found in references to them in the entire Jain literature published and unpublished but this is a task which must be left to scholars who have specialized in the history of Jain religion and philosophy. I have, therefore, great pleasure in recording below the information about the Caitra Gaccha kindly sent to me by my friend Prof. A. N. Upadhye of Kolhapur :—

The Caitra Gaccha is also called Citra or Citravāla Gaccha. It is not so popular as Kharatara or Tapā Gaccha. From a book called “Jaina Dhātu-pratimā Lekha Saṁgraha by Buddhisāgara (Bombay, Samvat 1973), the following facts may be noted :—

Samvat year	A. D.	Reference to Caitra Gaccha (= C. G.)
1333	1277	Devānanda Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Śāntinātha.

1. Mr. P. C. Nahar in his Jesalmere Inscriptions, III, p. 218 identifies चैत्रगच्छ with चित्रावलगच्छ as he makes the following entry :—“चैत्र [चित्रावल] गच्छ.”

Samvat year	A. D.	Reference to Caitra Gaccha (= C. G.)
1339	1283	Vardhamāna Sūri of C. G. installed an image found at Chaveli.

1396	1340	Mānadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Pārśvanātha, now at Ahmedabad.
1400	1344	Rājadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image, now at Ahmedabad.
1405	1349	Dharmadeva Sūri of C. C. installed an image of Ādinātha.
1417	1361	Mānadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Ādinātha.

1451	1395	Pāsadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image, now at Uñjhā.
1457	1401	Pāsadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image, now at Ahmedabad.
1484	1428	Jinadatta Sūri of C. G. installed a plate of 24 Jinas, now at Visanagar.
1507	1451	Munitilaka Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Śāntinātha.

1512	1456	Ratnadeva Sūri, the disciple of Jinadeva Sūri, belonging to the line of Gunadeva of C. G. installed an image of Vimalanātha, now at Visanagara.
1519	1463	Śrī Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Sambhavanātha, now at Ahmedabad.

Samvat year.	A. D.	Reference to Caitra Gaccha (= C. G.)
1520	1464	Lakṣmīsāgara, the pupil of Malayacandra of C.G. installed an image of Śāntinātha, now at Koṣa.
1521	1465	Lakṣmīsāgara of C. G. installed an image of Pārśvanātha.

1559	1503	Ratnadeva Sūri, of the line of Guṇadeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image, now at Uñjhā.
1579	1523	Pāsadeva Sūri, Pupil of Vīradeva Sūri of C. G. installed an image of Sambhavanātha.

If we now sum up the data recorded above on the antiquity of the Caitra Gaccha it provides us the following chronological conspectus based on epigraphic and literary sources:—

Chronology	Source
A. D. 1271—1447	Jesalmere Inscriptions
„ 1277—1523	Ājaina Dhātu Pratimā Lekhasaṃgraha
„ 1276	Kṣemakīrti's Commentary on Bṛhatkalpasūtra
„ 1547	Pāṭaṇ MS of the Meghadūta

The dates recorded in the above conspectus show an unbroken continuity of the Caitra Gaccha for about 276 years between the years A. D. 1271 and 1547. We have also seen that various Jainācāryas were associated with the Caitra Gaccha during this period and it should be a matter for investigation how and to what extent they advanced the cause of Jain religion, literature and philosophy.

The text of the earliest inscription¹ of A. D. 1271 containing the reference to the Caitra Gaccha reads as follows :—

“संवत् १३२७ वर्षे फागुण सुदि १२ हरिचंद्रपुत्र जठासीह भगिणि मोहिनि
आत्मश्रेयोर्थं बिंबं कारितं ॥ प्रतिष्ठितं श्रीचैवगच्छे श्रीअजितसिंहसूरिसंताने श्रीकनक-प्रभसूरिभिः ”

This text shows that Kanakaprabhasūri of the Caitra Gaccha in the line of Ajitasimhasūri was living in A. D. 1271.

It is now necessary for us to take the history of the Caitra Gaccha backward from A. D. 1271 and for this purpose the Chirava Inscription² of the time of Samarasimha of Mewar of Vikrama Samvat 1330 (= A. D. 1273) is very much useful as it refers to the Jainācāryas of the Caitra Gaccha in the following verses³ :—

1. P. C. Nahar : Jesalmere Inscriptions, p. 60, Inscript. No. 2229.

2. Edited by R. R. Haldar in Epi. Indica, (XXII, October 1934) published in 1938, page 285 ff. This inscription was first edited in Vienna Oriental Journal, XXI, pp. 155 ff. but it is re-edited historically by Mr. Haldar. Exact date of the inscription is Friday-13th October 1273.

3. Mr. Haldar gives us the following English summary of these verses :—Page 286— “Then follows the description of the Jain Āchāryas, who flourished at that place (Chitor). Verse 44 says that there was at the head of the Pāśupata Sect Śivārāśi who possessed many good qualities and worshipped the God Ekalinga. After him Bhadreśvarasūri of the Caitra Gaccha, Devabhadra sūri, Siddhasena-sūri, Jineśvarasūri, his pupil Vijayasimhasūri, Bhuvanacandrasūri, his pupil Ratnaprabhasūri, then living, followed in succession (Vv. 45—47). The last named was highly honoured by Viśvaladeva and Tejāsīmha and composed this praśasti at Chitor (V. 48). The name of the writer of this record is given as Pārśvacandra, who was the pupil of Ratnaprabhasūri, while that of the engraver Kelisīmha, son of Padmasīmha. Delhaṇa was the artisan who did other things connected with it. The line of ācāryas as we find recorded in A. D. 1273 in the above praśasti composed by Ratnaprabhasūri and recorded by his pupil Pārśvacandra is as follows :—

This line of Bhadreshvarasūri in the Caitra Gaccha existing in A. D. 1273 and represented by Ratnaprabha and his pupil Pārśvacandra appears to be different from the line of Ajitasimha of the same Gaccha mentioned in the inscription of A. D. 1271 and represented by Kanakaprabhasūri then living. Evidently Ratnaprabha and Kanakaprabha were contemporary ācāryas of the same Caitra Gaccha.

The line of Bhadreśvarasūri of the Caitra Gaccha mentioned by Ratnaprabha in A. D. 1273 as having 6 ācāryas preceding him enables us to take the antiquity of the Caitra Gaccha to about 1100 A. D. if not a little earlier, presuming that a generation of the teacher and his pupil represents about 25 years and presuming also that Ratnaprabha's list of his predecessors is accurately recorded. We must, however, search for definite historical evidence for studying the details of the lives of the 6 predecessors of Ratnaprabha (living in 1273 A. D.).

Ratnaprabha states that the Kings Viśvaladeva and Tejasiṃha honoured him (v. 48 of the praśasti). Tejasiṃha belonged to the ruling line of the Guhilaputras of Medapāṭa or Mewar, a genealogical table of which has been recorded by Dr H.C. Ray.¹ As Tejasiṃha's dates are c. 1260—1267 A. D. and as he honoured Ratnaprabhasūri of the Caitra Gaccha we can presume that Ratnaprabha's influence at the Mewar Court was sustained say between A. D. 1260 and 1273. This conclusion is supported by a further inscription² found near Chitor which is dated Samvat 1322 i.e. A. D. 1265 and its praśasti which was composed by Ratnaprabha Sūri of the Caitra Gaccha. Another inscription³, mentioning Hemacandra Sūri and others of the Caitra Gaccha, is the Chitor Stone inscription dated Samvat 1324 i.e. A. D. 1267. It is incised on a stone fixed on an arch of the bridge on the Gambhiri river near Chitor. This stone is said to have originally belonged to the temple of Mahāvīra at Talahati at the foot of the Chitrakūṭa hill.

Though the evidence of literature and inscriptions recorded in this short inquiry about the antiquity of the Caitragaccha takes us

1. Dynastic History, II, pp. 1206—08—I quote below the dates given by Dr. Ray for the last four rulers of the Medapāṭa line of the Guhila-putras :—

Jaitrasimha (c. 1213—1256 A. D.)

Tejasimha (c. 1260—1267 A. D.)

Samarasimha (c. 1273—1301 A. D.)

Ratnasimha (c. 1302—1303 A. D.)

2. Ibid, p. 1191.—This epigraph is now in the Victoria Hall, Udaipur. It was noticed in Rajputana Museum Report, 1927, p. 3. It was found in the village of Ghagsa near Chitor. It describes the family who built the well, where the inscription was originally found.

safely to about A. D. 1100, the Jain tradition' as based on the Paṭṭāvalis claims the existence of a Śākhā of Mūla Sangha (Digambar School) at Chitor right from 515 B. C. upto A. D. 1881. The Paṭṭāvalis no doubt provide good data for historical verification but they need to be linked up with epigraphic and other objective evidence for a reliable reconstruction of Jain chronology and history.

1. Vide Appendix E (Chronological List of the Gaccha-heads) to the Epitome of Jainism by Puran Chand Nahar, Calcutta, 1917, p. lxxix—Mr. Nahar states that the Nandi Sanga (Chitor Śākhā) was founded by Meghanandin, disciple of Guptigupta or Arhadbali and is also known as Sarasvatī Gaccha, and Balātkāra Gaṇa. The list of Gaccha heads recorded by Mr. Nahar is based upon the Paṭṭāvali as published in the Jaina Siddhānta Bhāskara and by Dr. Hoernle in the Indian Antiquary (Vol. XX, pp. 341—361 and Vol. XXI pp. 51—84). The pontiffs of this Gaccha, adds Mr. Nahar, generally use the four surnames viz., Nandin, Candra, Kīrti, and Bhūṣaṇa. The table begins with Gautama the first Gaṇadhara or disciple of Mahāvīra, who is known as the founder of the Mūla-sangha by the Digambaris.

2. The Bhagavadgītā in the pre-Śaṅkarācārya Jain Sources*

In his recent paper¹ on the Kashmir recension of the Bhagavad-gītā Dr. S. K. Belvalkar examines the views of Dr. F. Otto Schrader of Kiel to the effect that the text of the Bhagavadgītā, to which the Gītābhāṣya of Śaṅkarācārya gave currency (and consequently the Gītābhāṣya itself) was completely unknown in Kashmir upto 1000 A. D. Dr. Belvalkar also examines in detail Schrader's hypothesis about a Kashmir recension of the Gītā. In the course of this examination he observes :—"Once Schrader's thesis is accepted as proved, it raises the possibility of other recensions of the poem being current at different times in different parts of India."²

What different recensions of the Bhagavadgītā, if any, were current at different times in different parts of India, no one can say with any degree of certainty. In the same manner it would be hazardous to conclude the impossibility of different recensions simply because no evidence in their support, of an incontrovertible nature has yet been discovered and recorded. In the present unsettled state of this problem it would be useful to collect all possible data about the text of the Gītā as found recorded in the form of quotations in works prior in date to the Gītābhāṣya of Śrī Śaṅkarācārya with a view to seeing if as a cumulative effect of this data we can assert or deny the possibility of different recensions of the Gītā current at different times in different parts of India.

If the importance of pre-Śaṅkarācārya quotations from the Gītā occurring in Brahmanical or non-Brahmanical texts is recognized to possess some value for historical or textual criticism, an attempt will be made by interested scholars to record all such quotations as they are traced during the course of their studies. In the present paper I shall record some such quotations from a Jain source.³

3 Siddhasenagaṇi (about 609 A. D.—Vide p. 182 of History of Indian Logic by Vidyabhushan) records the following verses in Āryā metre in his comm. on Umāsvāti's Tattvārthādhigamasūtra (p. 272 of T. sūtra, Part II (1930) ed. by H. R. Kapadia):—

Recently I had an occasion to peruse the works¹ of Haribhadrasūri. During the course of my perusal I came across some verses which looked like quotations from the Gītā. I, therefore, tried to read these works rather minutely with a view to tracing verses common to these works and the Gītā. The verses traced so far may be recorded in this paper to enable scholars to trace any more verses common to the Gītā and other works of Haribhadrasūri, not included in the pothī before me.

According to Muni Jinavijayaji² Haribhadra flourished in the middle of the 8th century A. D. Prof. Jacobi³ accepts this date and the evidence on which it is based and observes that Muni Jinavijayaji "puts his case in the clearest light." Udyotana in his Kuvalayamālā completed on 21st March, 779 A. D. mentions Haribhadra as his teacher in philosophy and praises him as the author of a great many books. Haribhadra quotes many authors, Brahmanical, Buddhist and Jaina', among whom we find Bhartṛhari (the author of the Vākyapadīya) about 650 A. D. and Kumārila. Haribhadra also quotes several passages from the Cūrṇi of the Nandisūtra by Jinadāsagaṇi-mahattara (A. D. 677). On the other hand he does not quote Śaṅkarācārya or discuss his māyāvāda. The birth-place of Haribhadra was Citrakūṭa or the modern Chitor. He was a Brahman by caste. It was chiefly due to him that Sanskrit became the learned language of the Śvetāmbaras and replaced Prakrit in several departments of their literature. He shows perfect mastery in philosophical discussion conducted in Sanskrit side by side with his comprehensive knowledge of Jain Lore due to his conversion to Jainism.²

With the foregoing remarks about the chronological and biographical details about Haribhadrāsūri it would be easy to understand the following verses found as part of Haribhadra's works, without mention of their source or without any indication to suggest that they are quotations from a Brahmanical work like the Bhagavad-gītā :—

(1) Verse 76 of the Śāstravārtāsamuccaya of Haribhadrāsūri (folio 52 of the pothī Edition of 1939) reads as follows :—

“नासतो विद्यते भावो नाभावो विद्यते सतः ।

उभयोरपि दृष्टोऽन्तस्त्वनयोस्तत्त्वदर्शिभिः ॥ ७६ ॥ ”

This verse is exactly identical with Gītā II, 16. Haribhadra must have taken it from the Gītā. In Jacob's Concordance³ no other

1. Muni Jinavijaya mentions 30 authors:—अवधूताचार्य, आसुरिः, ईश्वरकृष्णः, कुमारिलः, पतञ्जलिभाष्यकारः, पतञ्जलिर्योगाचार्यः, पाणिनिर्वैयाकरणः, भगवद्गोपेन्द्रः, भर्तृहरिर्वैयाकरणः, विन्ध्यवासी, शिवधर्मोत्तरः, बौद्धाः, कुहाचार्यः, दिवाकरः (१), दिनागाचार्यः, धर्मपालः, धर्मकीर्तिः, धर्मोत्तरः, भदन्तः, भदन्तदिज्ञः, वसुबन्धुः, शान्तिरक्षितः, शुभगुप्तः, जैनाः, अजितयज्ञाः, उमास्वातिः, जिनभद्रक्षमाश्रमणः, देववाचकः, भद्रबाहुः, मल्लवादी, समन्तभद्रः, सिद्धसेनादिवाकरः.

D.* Farquhar (1920) could not make use of Jacobi's latest view re. the date of Haribhadra recorded in 1926.

source is recorded for this verse except the Gītā.¹

(2) Verse 53 (folio 99) of Lokatattvanirṇaya of Haribhadrāsūri reads as follows :—

“उर्ध्वमूलमधःशाखमश्वत्थं प्रादुरव्ययम् ।
छंदांसि यस्य पत्राणि यस्तं वेत्ति स वेदवित् ॥ ५३ ॥”

This verse is identical with Gītā, XV, 1. Jacob's Concordance records no other source for this verse except Gītā, XV, 1.

वेत्ति (H) for वेद (G).

(3) Verse 77 (folio 100) of Lokatattvanirṇaya reads :—

This verse is identical with Gītā, XV, 16.

Variants :—“द्वावेव” (H) for “द्वविमौ” (G)—1st line and “च सर्व” (H) for “सर्वाणि” (G)—2nd line.

(4) Verse 81 of Lokatattvanirṇaya (folio 100) reads :—

“न कर्तृत्वं न कर्माणि लोकस्य सृजते प्रभुः ।
स्वकर्मफलसंयोगः स्वभावाद्भिप्रवर्तते ॥ ८१ ॥”

This verse is identical with Gītā, V, 14.

Variants :—“सृजते” (H) for “सृजति” (G),
“न कर्म फलसंयोगं स्वभावस्तु प्रवर्तते” —2nd line (G).

(5) Verses 83 and 84 of Lokatattvanirṇaya (folio 100) read as follows :—

“नैनं छिन्दन्ति शस्त्राणि नैनं दहति पावकः ।
न चैनं क्लेदयन्त्यापो न शोषयति मारुतः ॥ ८३ ॥”

This verse is identical with Gītā, II, 23. There are no variants.

“अच्छेद्योऽयमभेद्योऽयं निरुपाख्योऽयमुच्यते ।
नित्यः सर्वगतः स्थाणुरचलोऽयं सनातनः ॥ ८४ ॥”

1. Malayagiri in his Vṛtti on the Avas̥yakasūtra (folio 409 of Āgam. Sami. Series, No. 60, 1932) quotes the first line of Gītā, II, 16 as follows :—

“नासतो विद्यते भावो नाभावो विद्यते सतः” इति वचनात् ।

A Ms of the comm. on the Nandisūtra by Malayagiri is dated 1235 A. D. (Vide p. 592 fn. 2, Winternitz : History of Ind. Lit. Vol. II, 1933).

This verse is identical with Gītā, II, 24.

Variants :—“अच्छेयोऽयमदाहोऽयमक्लेशोऽशेष एव च”

(G)—1st line.

(7) Verse 88 of Lokatattvanirṇaya (folio 100) reads :—

“उद्धरेद्द्दिन्मात्मानं नात्मानमवसादयेत् ।

आत्मनैव आत्मनो बन्धुरात्मैव रिपुरात्मनः ॥ ८८ ॥”

This verse is identical with Gītā, VI, 5.

Variants :—“उद्धरेद्दिन्मात्मानम्” (H) for “उद्धरेदात्मनात्मानम्”

(G) First line.

“आत्मनैव आत्मनो बन्धुः” (H) for “आत्मैव ह्यात्मनो बन्धुः”

(G) 2nd line.

(8) Verse 52 of Lokatattvanirṇaya (folio 99) reads :—

“ सर्वतः पाणिपादान्तं सर्वतोऽक्षिशिरोमुखम् ।

सर्वतः श्रुतिमात्रं लोके सर्वमाश्रित्य तिष्ठति ॥ ५२ ॥”

This verse is identical with Gītā, XIII, 13.

Variants :—“पाणिपादान्तं” (H) for “पाणिपादं तन्”

(G) First line.

“श्रुतिमात्रं लोके” (H) for “श्रुतिमहोके” (G) 2nd line.

“सर्वमाश्रित्य” (H) for “सर्वमावृत्य” (G) 2nd line.

The verses of the Gītā identified by me in Haribhadra's works during my cursory perusal of some of these works number eight for the present and they were traced in only two works as follows :—

(1) Śāstravārtāsamuccaya—Gītā, II, 16.

(2) Lokatattvanirṇaya—Gītā, II, 23, 24 ; V, 5, 14 ; XIII, 13 ; XV, 1, 16.

In addition to the eight verses from the Gītā traced in Haribhadra's works, I found certain verses and portions of verses echoing some lines from the Gītā, e.g. verse 21 of Śāstravārtāsamuccaya (Folio 74) reads as follows :—

“जन्ममृत्युजराव्याधिरोगशोकाद्युपश्रुतः ।

क्लेशाय केवलं पुंसामहो भीमो भवोदधिः ॥ २१ ॥”

Compare Gītā XIII, 8 :—

“जन्ममृत्युजराव्याधिरुःखदोषानुदर्शनम् ॥ ८ ॥”

1. This reading is also the reading adopted in the Kashmir recension of the Gītā and also by Vallabhācārya.

In the Yogadr̥ṣṭisamuccaya (folio 6) we find the line “बुद्धिर्ज्ञान-मसंमोहखिविधो बोध इत्यते” which may be compared with Gītā, X, 4 —

“बुद्धिर्ज्ञानमसंमोहः क्षमा सत्यं दमः क्षमः ।”

A study of the Brahmanical sources¹ of Haribhadra's works would prove profitable if no such study has been already made by Jain scholars. In view of the early Brahmanical training and proficiency in the Śāstras attained by Haribhadra it is but natural that he should absorb in his writings some of the Brahmanical material with a stamp of his new faith. The Gītā appears to have been very popular with later Jain writers as well, though it is difficult to guarantee the accuracy² of these quotations in all cases.

1. Cf. शास्त्रवार्तासमुच्चय (folio 56):—

“कालः पचति भूतानि कालः संहरति प्रजाः ।
कालः सुषेधु जागर्ति कालो हि दुरातिक्रमः ॥”

This may be compared with Maitrī Upaniṣad VI, 15 which reads :—

“कालः पचति भूतानि सर्वाण्येव महात्मनि ।
यस्मिंस्तु पच्यते कालो यस्तं वेद स वेदविन् ॥ १५ ॥”

(Vide p. 417 of Upaniṣads, Anandashram, Poona, 1891.)

Mr. S. N. Tadpatrikar has drawn my attention to the following verse in the Critical Edition of the Mahābhārata (B. O. R. I.) Ādiparvan I, 1, 190—

“कालः पचति भूतानि कालः संहरति प्रजाः ।”

The 2nd line of Haribhadra's text as indicated above is found only in the Northern Recension of the MBH (Vide p. 29 of Ādiparvan).

2. Cf. the following quotation from the Gītā as such appearing in the Bharateśvara-bāhubali-vṛtti (Devachand Lalbhai P. Fund Series No. 77, 1932, folio 3 of Part I):—

“गीतायां—

पृथिव्यामप्यहं पार्थ । वायावमौ जलेप्यहम् ।
वनस्पतिगतश्चाहं सर्वभूतगतोऽप्यहम् ॥ १ ॥

यो मां सर्वगतं ज्ञात्वा न हिंसेत कदाचन ।
तस्याहं न प्रणश्यामि स च मां न प्रणश्यति ॥ २ ॥”

From the data recorded above we may arrive at the following conclusions for further verification :—

(1) Haribhadrāsūri (c. 750 A. D.) had before him some text of the Gītā which was different from the vulgate text.

(2) The absorption of the verses pointed out above by Haribhadrāsūri in his own works without acknowledgment was perhaps due to his early Brahmanical training in the Śāstras.

(3) It is also possible to suppose that the variants in the verses absorbed by Haribhadra from the Gītā are due not as a result of a different version of the text then current but may be due to his own making.

(4) It should be a matter for investigation whether any other pre-Śaṅkara Jain writers have drawn upon the Gītā incidentally or otherwise in the works composed by them.

(5) An exhaustive study of pre-Śaṅkara quotations Brahmanical, Jain, or Buddhist, if any, would clarify the present theory that Śaṅkarācārya established the vulgate text of the Gītā.

P.S.—Since this paper was sent to the press, I have discovered the following verses in a Jain work called the Padmapurāṇa written in the year 678 A. D. by Raviṣeṇa (see Ind. Literature Vol. II by Winternitz, p. 494):—

Ms No. 301 of 1883-84 (B.O.R. Institute—Govt. Mss Library), folio 104 :—

“विद्याविनयसंपन्ने ब्राह्मणे गवि हस्तिनि ।

सुनि चैव श्वपाके च पंडिताः समदर्शिनः ॥ ३ ॥

Compare the 2nd verse in the above quotation with Gītā, VI, 30 :—

“यो मां पश्यति सर्वत्र सर्वं च मयि पश्यति ।

तस्याहं न प्रणश्यामि स च मे न प्रणश्यति ॥”

I am unable to trace the 1st verse of the above quotation in the vulgate text of the Gītā even in the verses of Chap. X (19 to 42 dealing with Vibhūtiyoga). Śubhaśīla composed the Bharateśvaravṛtti in A. D. 1453 (Śaṃvat 1509). Unlike Haribhadra of the 8th century A.D., he mentions the Gītā and quotes verses from it, one of which cannot be traced in the present vulgate text of the Gītā, while the other shows marked variants in the first line. Can we suppose that Śubhaśīla had before him a text of the Gītā differing from the vulgate one or he is merely quoting from memory and in so doing warping the original verse in one case & composing another in the style of the Gītā?

चातुर्वर्ण्यं तथान्यच्च चंडालादिविशेषणं ।
सर्वमाचारभेदेन प्रसिद्धिं भुवने गतम् ॥ ४ ॥ ”

Verse 3 in the above extract is exactly identical with Gītā, V, 18, while verse 4 is an echo of Gītā, IV, 13 which reads as follows :-

“चातुर्वर्ण्यं मया सृष्टं गुणकर्मविभागशः ।
तस्य कर्तारमपि मां विद्वद्यकर्तारमव्ययं ॥ १३ ॥ ”

If the above extract from Raviṣeṇa's text of A. D. 678 is genuine it shows how Jain authors have indirectly absorbed the text of the Gītā from the version available to them.

3. Date of Malayagirisūri- Between A. D. 1100 and 1175 †

Winternitz¹ in his History of Indian Literature states that a MS of Malayagiri's commentary on Karmaprakṛti is dated 1395 A. D., a MS of the commentary on the Nandisūtra is dated 1235 A. D., a MS of the commentary on the Vyavahāra-Sūtra is dated 1253 A. D. Peterson² refers to the several works of Malayagiri and states that this writer's Śabdānuśāsana was written in the reign of Kumārapāla. Kielhorn³ states that one of Malayagiri's works was composed in Kumārapāla's reign between 1143 and 1174 A. D. I wonder why Winternitz has not recorded the above date for Malayagiri as given by Kielhorn and referred to by Peterson. In case he had any doubts in accepting the date given by Kielhorn we shall have to see if these doubts are justified on the strength of other evidence in support of or against Kielhorn's date for Malayagiri.

In the *Catalogue of Manuscripts*⁴ in the Jain Bhandars at Patan there are certain dated MSS of works, the author of which is stated to be Malayagiri. These MSS may be recorded as follows with their dates :—

1. By C. D. Dalal, Baroda, 1923.

It will be seen from the two foregoing tables of dated MSS. ascribed to Malayagiri that they were copied in the years A. D. 1165, 1192, 1233, 1234, 1240, 1275, 1276, 1322, 1335, 1381, 1390, 1406, 1424, 1425, 1427, 1432, 1433, 1434. The earliest dated MS. of Malayagiri's work recorded by Winternitz is dated A. D. 1235 while in the above chronological tables we have four MSS. of Malayagiri's works¹ bearing dates earlier than A.D. 1235 viz., A.D. 1165, 1192, 1233, 1234. According to Kielhorn Malayagiri wrote during King Kumārapāla's reign i.e., between A. D. 1143 and 1174. This statement, though not mentioned by Winternitz and accepted, appears to be corroborated by the dates A. D. 1165 and 1192 of Malayagiri's two works सप्ततिकाटीका and षडशीतिवृत्ति. We may, therefore, safely fix A. D. 1165 as one of the limits for the date of Malayagiri, the other limit being about A. D. 1050 as will be seen from the following evidence :—

Malayagiri in his commentary on the Āvaśyakasūtra mentions Prajñākaragupta and quotes a verse² from his work as follows :—

“उक्तं च प्रज्ञाकरगुप्तेन—

यथा वा प्रेयंते तूलमाकाशे मातरिद्वना ।

तथा शब्दोऽपि किं वायोः प्रतीपं कोऽपि शब्दवित् ॥”

This appears to me to be a quotation from one of the Sanskrit works of Prajñāka Gupta who was a Buddhist logician belonging to *about 940 A. D.*³ It may be possible for students of Buddhist

3. Vide p. 336 of the History of Indian Logic by S. Vidyabhushana, Calcutta, 1921. Prajñāka Gupta lived at the time of Mahīpāla, who died in 940 A. D. He wrote the following works :—

1. Pramāṇavārtikālaṃkāra, a commentary on the Pramāṇavārtika of Dharmakīrti. Vidyabhushan states that the Sanskrit original of this work of P. Gupta appears to be lost. Recently, however, the work has been recovered and edited by Rāhula Śāṅkṛtyāyana in the Journal of the Bihar and Orissa Res. Soc. Vol. XXI, Part II (1935). There is also a Tibetan translation of the work.

2. Sahāvalambanīścaya.—The Sanskrit original of this work also appears to be lost according to Vidyabhushan but there exists a Tibetan translation.

literature to trace the above verse in P. Gupta's one of the two Sanskrit works.' ' ' If the author of the name Prajñākara Gupta mentioned by Malayagiri is identical with the celebrated Buddhist logician of that name we may safely fix A. D. 1050 or so as the other limit to the date of Malayagiri. It would thus be seen that the date of Malayagirisūri may be taken to lie *between A. D. 1100 and 1175.*²

1. One of these two works viz., the Pramāṇavārttikālaṅkāra has been fortunately recovered for us by Rāhula Sāṅkṛtyāyana [Vide p. 42 of Jour. Bihar and Orissa Res. Soc. Vol. XXI (March 1935)]. The MS described by him consists of 59 leaves and contains Chapters II and III of the work. This MS has been published in the June 1935 issue of the above journal (pp. 1 to 158). The published portion is fragmentary as it begins from the Kārikā 330 of the text (vide p. 63). It ends with Kārikā 539 (p. 158) and is called प्रत्यक्षपरिच्छेद Cf. Colophon "प्रमाणवार्तिकालङ्कारे प्रत्यक्षपरिच्छेदो द्वितीयः" which corresponds to the 3rd Pariccheda of the text of the Pramāṇavārttika as stated by the Editor in the footnote on p. 158.

2. In the Abhidhānarājendra Vol. VI (1923) p. 156 there is a small article on Malayagiri but it contains no historical information about this author. The compilers of this encyclopaedia, however, observe :—

"मलयगिरेः समयो गुह्यपरंपरादिकं च न ज्ञायते तथापि हरिभद्रसूरेरर्वाकृतन इति ज्ञायते"

The date of Haribhadrāsūri is about 750 A. D.

4. Mammaṭa and Hemacandra†

In his chapter¹ on Mammaṭa and Allaṭa Dr. S. K. De observes : "A great deal of uncertainty exists with regard to the exact date of Mammaṭa."² According to Dr. De "Mammaṭa probably belongs to the period between the middle of the 11th and the first quarter of the 12th century."³ I am here concerned with Dr. De's remarks⁴ about the lower limit for Mammaṭa's date, which read as follows :—

"The lower limit of Mammaṭa's date, however, may be fixed with reference to two commentaries on the Kāvyaṭprakāśa of which the dates can be ascertained. The commentary of Māṇikyacandra is expressly dated in Samvat 1216 = 1160 A. D. The exact date of Ruyyaka's commentary is not known, but we know from other sources that Ruyyaka flourished in the second and third quarters of the 12th century. Mammaṭa, therefore, cannot be placed later than the beginning of the 12th century."

According to the above view we can fix say about A.D. 1115 as the lower limit for Mammaṭa's date.

According to Mr. P. V. Kane⁵ "the Kāvyaṭprakāśa was composed at all events before 1150 A. C., so the date of the Kāvyaṭprakāśa lies between 1050 and 1150 A. C. and is most probably 1100 A. C."

Prof. Keith⁶ also assigns the Kāvyaṭprakāśa to "about 1100."

5. Introduction to Sāhityadarpaṇa (2nd ed.) Bombay, 1923 p. cvi (Sec. 24)—Prof. Kane mentions the following evidence in support of his date :—(1) Mammaṭa quotes Abhinavagupta (living in 1015 A.C.). (2) M. also refers to the liberality of Bhoja to learned men यद्विद्वद्भवेण भोज नृपतेस्तस्यागलीलायितं on उदात्त. Bhoja could not have ruled beyond 1055 A.C. So the Kāvyaṭprakāśa is not most probably earlier than 1050 A. C. (3) The commentary of Māṇikyacandra on the Kāvyaṭprakāśa was composed in Samvat 1216 (A. D. 1159-60) and a Ms of it is dated Samvat 1215 (= A. D. 1158-59). (4) The Alamkārasarvasva of Ruyyaka refers to the Kāvyaṭprakāśa.

6. History of Sanskrit Literature, Oxford, 1928, p. 394.

It would thus be seen that the lower limit for the Kāvya-prakāśa as fixed by scholars is about A. D. 1100.

I propose in this paper to draw the attention of scholars to the following mention of Mammaṭa by the celebrated Hemacandra in his work called the Kāvyaṇuśāsana. Hemacandra composed two commentaries on this work called the Alaṃkāracūdāmaṇi and the Viveka and both of these commentaries along with the text have been recently published.¹ Prof. Athavale in his English Notes to this excellent edition of the Kāvyaṇuśāsana states:—"Our author (Hemacandra) has faithfully followed आनन्दवर्धन and मम्मट and advanced the stock arguments used by these two authors in defence of व्यञ्जना."² These remarks led me to search for any mention of Mammaṭa by name in Hemacandra's present work. The list³ of references to earlier authorities mentioned in the Kāvyaṇuśāsana as furnished by the learned editors helped me to locate the only mention of Mammaṭa and a verse of his quoted by Hemacandra. This verse reads as follows:—

“यथाह मम्मटः ।

अगूढमपरस्याङ्गं वाच्यसिद्धयङ्गमस्फुटम् ।

संदिग्धतुल्यप्राधान्ये काकाक्षितमसुन्दरम् ।

व्यङ्ग्यमेवगुणीभूतव्यङ्ग्यस्याष्टौ भिदाः स्मृताः ॥ इति ॥ ”

The above verses are identical with Kārikās 45-46 of Ullāsa V of the Kāvya-prakāśa of Mammaṭa.⁴

The above mention of Mammaṭa and a quotation of his Kārikās have a direct bearing on the date of the Kāvya-prakāśa.

Dr. Bühler tried to assign approximate dates to the several

1. Kāvyaṇuśāsana by R. C. Parikh and R. B. Athavale, published by Sri Mahavira Jaina Vidyalaya, Bombay, Vols. I and II 1938. Vol. I contains Text and Indices and Vol. II contains an elaborate Introduction in English. Prof. A. B. Dhruva in his Foreword to Vol. I (p. 11) states that "Hemacandra first composed the Sūtras and gave them the title काव्यानुशासन and to them he added an explanatory vr̥tti which he called alaṃkāracūdāmaṇi and the two together were intended to be Śāstra of काव्य (काव्यानुशासन)". "Viveka is a commentary on काव्यानुशासन."

works composed by Hemacandra. Mr. R. C. Parikh¹ regards these dates as "on the whole correct." In the opinion of Dr. Bühler the Kāvya prakāśa was probably written "in the beginning of the rule of Kumārapāla." The dates for the beginning and end of Kumārapāla's reign are A.D. 114 and 1174 respectively.² Presuming therefore, that Dr. Bühler's statement³ is correct we shall not be wrong in assigning the Kāvya ānuśāsana to the first decade of Kumārapāla's reign i.e. between A. D. 143 and 1153 so that Hemacandra's mention of Mammaṭa turns out to be the earliest one so far recorded in view of the fact that Māṇikyacandra's commentary on Mammaṭa's Kāvya prakāśa is dated 1160 A. D.⁴ and that the exact date of Ruyyaka's commentary is not known though he is said to belong to the 2nd and 3rd quarters of the 12th century.⁵

Hemacandra's indebtedness to Mammaṭa has already been pointed out by Dr. S. K. De⁶ but his accusation of Hemacandra as one who "appropriates without acknowledgment" is rather harsh, if not a biased one, as we cannot apply our modern standards of criticism with all their rigidity to works written 800 years ago. I have not examined Dr. De's charge of plagiarism without acknowledgment against Hemacandra with regard to the works of Rājaśekhara and others but so far as Mammaṭa is concerned, Hemacandra stands acquitted as he expressly mentions Mammaṭa and then quotes from him "यथाह मम्मटः.....इति" as we have seen above.

It is dated Samvat 1215, month of Āsvina, Śuklapakṣa, Budhavāra. The copyist is Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara.

His dependence on earlier works is so close as to amount at times to almost slavish imitation or plagiarism".

The dates of Hemacandra's birth, death and his initiation into the holy order are already known to scholars.¹ The relation of these dates to the chronological limits of Mammaṭa's date may be briefly represented as follows :—

1. Kāvyaṇuśāsana (Parikh and Athavale) Intro. p. CCLXVII and CCXIC. Hemacandra was born in 1089 A. D. He was initiated into the holy order in A. D. 1094 and was made a Sūri or Ācārya in A. D. 1110. He died in 1173 at the ripe old age of 84 years, a short time before the death of Kumārapāla.

The above conspectus of the dates pertaining to Hemacandra and Mammaṭa tends to show that the latter part of Mammaṭa's life may have been synchronous with the early literary activity of Hemacandra and that Mammaṭa may have been a senior contemporary of Hemacandra, who has freely drawn from the Kāvya-prakāśa as pointed out by Dr. De. It may now be asked if these contemporaries ever met each other at any time in their lives. This question cannot be definitely answered at present though the possibility of such a meeting having taken place cannot be ruled out owing to the frequent intercourse and contact between Gujarat and Kashmir in Hemacandra's time.¹

1. This literary intercourse between Gujarat and Kashmir is proved by the fact that the earliest dated MS (A. D. 1158) of the Kāvya-prakāśa of the Kashmirian Mammaṭa is found at Jesalmere and the earliest commentary on the same work of A. D. 1160 was composed by Māṇikyacandra in Gujarat. According to the Prabhāvaka-Caritra written about A. D. 1250 by Prabhacandra and Pradyumna-sūri, Hemacandra composed his Grammar with the help of MSS brought from the library of the temple of Sarasvatī in Kashmir. Though this may be an exaggeration as suggested by Dr. Bühler, Hemacandra must have made use of some MSS from Kashmir in view of Merutuṅga's statement in his Prabandha-Cintāmaṇi (A. D. 1305-6) that Jayasimha managed to gather grammars from various lands for the use of Hemacandra (Vide p. 17 of Life of Hemacandra by Dr. Bühler, trans. by Dr. Manilal Patel, Singhi Jain Series, edited by Muni Jinavijaya, 1936). CCLXXIII of Introduction to Kāvyañusāsana by R. C. Parikh.

5. The Oldest Dated Manuscript of the Deśināmamālā of Hemacandra, Dated September 1241 A.D.*

The Deśināmamālā of Hemacandra with his own commentary was based on the Prākṛit dictionary written by Dhanapāla in A.D. 972¹. Dr. Bühler discovered this work and published a notice of it from the only MS then in his possession. Pischel edited this work in the Bombay Sanskrit Series (No. XVII, 1880). This edition was based on 9 MSS designated by him as A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, I. I am concerned in this note with the dated MSS of the work used by Pischel. These are described by him in his Introduction to the Bombay Edition.² They are as follows :—

- (1) A—Samvat 1549 (Bikaner MS) = A.D. 1493.
- (2) C—Samvat 1587 (Ahmedabad MS) = A.D. 1531.⁴
- (3) E—Samvat (?) 1555 (Ahmedabad MS) = 1519 (?)⁵
- (4) H—Samvat 1628 (Ahmedabad MS) = A.D. 1572.

Pischel states that "In order to ascertain the correct reading" he "was very often obliged to have recourse to etymology." Where etymology failed him he had "nothing to guide him but the best MS" which, however, "was by no means trustworthy." Pischel's first edition has been revised by Principal P. V. Ramanujaswami and published by the B. O. R. Institute, Poona.⁶ For this edition

5. The colophon contains the date 1575 which, PISCHEL thinks, may be intended for the Samvat era.

the editor states that he had seven MSS at his disposal out of which one was a recent copy while three were already made use of for the first edition. The remaining three MSS (designated X, Y, Z) were utilized by him for the second edition (1938). Out of these three MSS only MS Y is a dated copy prepared in Samvat 1636 in the month of Phālguna (= February-March 1580).

Principal Ramanujaswami regards the text of the Deśināmamālā as "settled with considerable purity" and hence he has "allowed the text to remain as it stood in the first edition."¹

In spite of the efforts of the two editors of the Deśināmamālā to settle its text the discovery and use of other MSS of the work earlier in point of date will make the assurance regarding "considerable purity" of the text doubly sure and it is the purpose of this note to point out such MSS as are earlier than those used by the two editors viz. Pischel and Ramanujaswami.

The India office MS² of the work is a copy written in A.D. 1881 and is useless for our present inquiry regarding MSS of the Deśināmamālā copied earlier than A.D. 1493 which is the date of the Bikaner MS used by Pischel and which is the earliest dated MS known to the two editors of this work. Prof. Velankar describes three MSS³ of this work in the possession of the B. B. R. A. Society, Bombay. Only one of these MSS is dated, having been copied in Śaka 1786 (= A.D. 1864). The MSS mentioned by Aufrecht⁴ have been already utilized by Pischel and Ramanujaswami. The Oriental MSS Library at Ujjain records a MS under the title "Deśināmamālā (Anekārtha Saṃgraha)" by Hemacandra, but it is not clear whether the MS is one of the Deśināmamālā or of the Anekārthasaṃgraha as the entry in the list⁵ of Ujjain MSS is rather ambiguous. This MS also does not bear any date. The Jain Granthāvali records one MS of the Deśināmamālā, one of a ṛtti on it called "Ratnāvali" and a glossary called Uddhāra by Vimala.¹ None of these MSS is dated.

The foregoing survey of the dated MSS of the Deśināmamālā reveals to us the following chronology of the available copies of the work :—

A.D 1493, 1519 (?), 1531, 1572, 1580, 1864, 1881.

I shall now record a MS of the Deśināmamālā which appears to me the earliest dated MS of the work. It is deposited in the Saṅghavī Pāḍā Jain Bhandar of Patan and is described by the late Mr. C. D. DALAL in his Descriptive Catalogue of MSS in the Jain Bhandars at Pattan.² According to Mr. DALAL's description the MS consists of 119 leaves and is 10" × 1¾" in size. It was copied by a man of the Kāyastha caste in Samvat 1298, (aśvina śudī 10 ravau) = Sunday, 15th September 1241. The colophon mentions a king of the name "महाराजक श्रीवर्मा देव" who appears to me to be identical with the Caulukya king of the same name who became king at Anahilapāṭaka in Vikrama Samvat 1300 (= A.D. 1244) according to Therāvali.³ Jayantasiha mentioned in the colophon as the son of Tejapāla is the writer of the MS. This Tejapāla may perhaps be identical with his namesake who was one of the two great ministers of the father of Viśaladeva. These two ministers suffered great indignities at the hands of Viśaladeva and were replaced by a Brahmin named Nāgaḍa as the chief minister.⁴ The Jain Bhandars contain three other MSS written during the reign of king Viśaladeva⁵ in A.D. 1239,

This colophon was written 7 years earlier than the Kadi Grant dated 19th March A.D. 1261 in which we find "Viśaladeva ruling victoriously at Anahilapātaka and when the Mahāmātya Nāgaḍa was in charge of the seal." It appears, therefore, that the prime minister Nāgaḍa had an uninterrupted career between A.D. 1254² and 1261 as proved by the above colophon and the Kadi Grant.

The MS of the Deśināmamālā copied in A. D. 1241 during the reign of king Viśaladeva is a copy prepared 69 years after the death of Hemacandra³ and hence appears to me to be the oldest dated MS of the work so far known. This MS is also 252 years older than the Bikaner MS used by PISCHEL and which is dated A.D. 1493. In view of these facts the value of this MS for textual purposes should be the greatest as Pischel found that even the best MS used by him was not at times trustworthy in constituting the text of the Deśināmāmālā. Students interested in Prākṛta philology should try to procure a photographic copy of this MS from the authorities of the Saṅghavi's Pāḍā Bhāṇḍāra.¹

1. Vide p. 34 of the Jain Bhandars Catalogue (1937)—This collection belongs to the Laghuśālikā branch of the Tapāgaccha. Neither Dr. Bühler nor Peterson had access to this collection though they managed to get lists of the MSS prepared through agents. Mr. Dalal states that he had complete access to these MSS and that he discovered many new and important Sanskrit and Prākṛit works, both Jain and Brahmanical supposed to have been unknown or lost hitherto. He also discovered an enormous bulk of Apabhraṃśa literature, which is looked upon as the immediate source of many Indian vernaculars.

6. Date of Nāṭyadarpaṇa of Rāmacandra, The Pupil of Hemacandra— Between A.D. 1150 and 1170†

The Editors of the *Nāṭyadarpaṇa*¹ of Rāmacandra state that very little is known about Rāmacandra's confrère Guṇacandra. They further assign to Rāmacandra "a life-period from 1100 to 1175 A. D."² No attempt seems to have been made to determine the exact limits for the date of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa within the life-period assigned to him by the editors. I shall, therefore, try to determine, as far as possible, the limits within which the date of this work could be fixed satisfactorily.

According to Bühler Hemacandra composed the *Kāvyaṇuśāsana*³ "probably in the beginning of the rule of Kumārapāla."⁴ If this statement is correct we shall have to assign the Kāvyaṇuśāsana to the first decade of Kumārapāla's reign i.e. between A. D. 1143 and 1153. Hemacandra mentions Mammaṭa in his *Kāvyaṇuśāsana*⁵.

2. Ibid, Preface, p. 3—"As much has been said already about the life of Rāmacandra in the introduction to the Nalavilāsa it is not necessary to repeat it here. Suffice it to say that he lived in the time of Siddharāja (1093-1143 A. D.), Kumārapāla (1143-1172 A.D.) and Ajayapāla (1172-1175 A. D.). This last King Ajayapāla is said to have been the cause of Rāmacandra's death. Rāmacandra was made under his order to stand on a burning piece of copper and was thus killed—When asked by Siddharāja as to who should be the next successor (Pattadhara) Hemacandra replied in favour of Rāmacandra. As Hemacandra got Ācāryapada in 1110 A.D. it is reasonable to assign to his disciple Rāmacandra a life-period from 1100 to 1175 A. D. With regard to the place of Rāmacandra it is very probable that he was born and flourished in Gujarat."

4. Ibid, Vol. II, Intro. p. CCCXXVIII. Mr. R. C. Parikh regards Bühler's dates for Hemacandra's works as "on the whole correct." Vide my paper on Mammaṭa and Hemacandra in the Journal of the S. M. Library, Tanjore, Vol. I, No. 1, pp. 9-13 (1939).

5. Ibid, Vol. I, p. 157—"यथाह मम्मटः"

Hemacandra's pupil Rāmacandra also mentions Mammāṭa.¹ These references put both Hemacandra and his pupil Rāmacandra sufficiently away from A. D. 1100, the probable date of the Kāvyaṣaṅkṣa of Mammāṭa according to Keith and Kane. They² also support Bühler's date for the composition of the Kāvyaṣaṅkṣa referred to above. It is also possible to presume³ that Rāmacandra must have been studying the Sāhityaśāstra and helping his guru to compose the Kāvyaśāstra between A. D. 1143 and 1153. It may further be pointed out that Rāmacandra's reference to Mammāṭa in his Nāṭyadarpaṇa is obviously later than Hemacandra's reference to Mammāṭa. If this position is accepted we are in a position to fix the following chronological series from Mammāṭa to Nāṭyadarpaṇa :—

मम्मट —————→ हेमचन्द्र —————→ काव्यानुशासन —————→ नाट्यदर्पण of रामचन्द्र
c. 1100 A. D.	} { A. D. 1080- 1173 }	{ Between 1143 and 1153 A.D. quotes मम्मट.	Between 1150 and 1175 A.D.— quotes मम्मट

The above series fixes the date of Nāṭyadarpaṇa between say A.D. 1150 and 1175, a period of 25 years. This period further gets confirmation from the following evidence :—

Rāmacandra in his *Nāṭyadarpaṇa*⁴ quotes his own work called Raghuvilāsa composed by him earlier. In this drama a MS⁵ of which has been described by Peterson, we find Rāmacandra referring to the work of his guru Hemacandra as also to his own works¹, which he had composed earlier viz. Nalavilāsa and others. These references give us the necessary chronological data for fixing the earlier terminus to the date of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa, the later terminus being of course A. D. 1175 as stated by the editors of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa in giving us the life-period of Rāmacandra.

2. Vide p. 10 of my paper on Mammāṭa and Hemacandra.

3. Mr. Parikh observes that Hemacandra was not only provided with a good library by his royal friend but that he "had the assistance of his pupils like Mahendra Sūri, Rāmacandra, Guṇacandra and others who were only next to him in learning" [Vide p. CCC of Intro. to Kāvyaśāstra, Vol. II. (1938).

According to Bühler² Hemacandra's "Grammar must have been ready at the earliest towards the end of Vikrama year 1197—A. D. 1141." The editor of the Kavyānuśāsana, Mr. Parikh³ also observes :—"We may place the completion of the grammar at the earliest, towards the end of Vikrama year 1185—A. D. 1139." In view of this date for Hemacandra's grammar which is described as "सिद्धहेमचंद्राभिधानशब्दानुशासन" in the Raghuvilāsa of the author of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa we are justified in regarding A. D. 1140 as the earlier terminus to the date of Nāṭyadarpaṇa which mentions and quotes from the Raghuvilāsa several times as we have seen above. We, therefore, get the following chronological series with reference to the Nāṭyadarpaṇa :—

शब्दानुशासन mentioned in रघुविलास A. D. 1140.	रघुविलास quoted in नाट्यदर्पण	नाट्यदर्पण Between say A. D. 1150 and 1175.

2. Vide Intro. to Kāvyānuśāsana (Parikh¹). Vol. II, 1938 pp. CCCXXVIII.

3. Ibid.—The chronology of Hemacandra's works has been approximately fixed by Dr. Bühler. Hemacandra has himself indicated the order in which he wrote his works, though he nowhere gives exact dates for any of his works.

In recording the above series I have necessarily presumed an interval of about 5 years on either side of the work, Raghuvilāsa, so that we may safely fix A. D. 1150 as the earlier terminus for the date of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa, which appears to me to be the product of Rāmacandra's mature genius. In fact Rāmacandra refers to many of his earlier works¹ which number no less than eleven and which show that Rāmacandra was not only a critic but a poet and dramatist as well at the time when he composed this work on dramaturgy and its commentary called the Nāṭyadarpaṇavivṛtti, towards the close of which Rāmacandra bows to his guru Hemacandra in the following verse :—

P. 215 of Nāṭyadarpaṇa (Vol. I, 1926) —

“शब्द-प्रमाण-साहित्य-छन्दो-लक्षसंविज्ञयितम् ।

श्रीहिमचन्द्रादात्मो प्रसादाय नमो नमः ॥ १ ॥”

In this verse Hemacandra is referred to as the author of works on शब्द (= शब्दानुशासन), प्रमाण (प्रमाणमीमांसा), साहित्य (= काव्यानुशासन), छन्दस् (= छन्दानुशासन). This reference proves that when the commentary on the Nāṭyadarpaṇa was composed by Rāmacandra the works of Hemacandra referred to above were already in existence. We have already mentioned that according to Bühler काव्यानुशासन and छन्दोनुशासन were composed, say between A. D. 1143 and 1153, and शब्दानुशासन was composed towards the end of A. D. 1139 or say in A. D. 1140. The remaining work viz. प्रमाणमीमांसा belongs according to Bühler to the period viz., 1160-1173 (V.S. 1216-1229).² If this statement is correct we are in a position to infer that

1. Vide Index of citations in the Nāṭyadarpaṇa (Vol. I, 1929). The following works of Rāmacandra quoted by him in the Nāṭyadarpaṇa are noted in this Index :—

(१) कौमुदीमित्रागन्द प्रकरणम् । स्वोपज्ञम्, (२) नटवित्तां (नाटकम्) स्वोपज्ञम्, (३) निर्भयभीमव्यायोगः । स्वोपज्ञः, (४) नल्लिङ्गामकरन्द प्रकरणम् । स्वोपज्ञम्, (५) यादवाभ्युदयं (नाटकम्) स्वोपज्ञम्, (६) रघुविलासम् (नाटकम्) स्वोपज्ञम्, (७) राघवाभ्युदयम् (नाटकम्) स्वोपज्ञम्, (८) रोहिणीमृगाङ्गप्रकरणं स्वोपज्ञम्, (९) वनमाला नाटिका । स्वोपज्ञा, (१०) सत्यहरिश्चन्द्र नाटकं । स्वोपज्ञम्, (११) सुधाकलशः स्वोपज्ञः ।

A list of 39 works of Rāmacandra is recorded on p. 33 of Intro. to Nalavilāsa (G. O. S. Baroda, 1926). This list includes the above mentioned 11 works. P. 24—Fellow-students of Rāmacandra were :—

(१) महेंद्रसूरि, (२) गुणचन्द्रगणि, (३) वर्धमानगणि, (४) देवचन्द्रगुनि, (५) यशश्चन्द्रगणि, (६) उदयचन्द्र, (७) बालचन्द्र ।

2. Mr. Parikh's Intro. to Kāvyañuśāsana (II), p. CCCXXIX.

Rāmacandra composed his commentary नाट्यदर्पणविवृत्ति after the completion of Hemacandra's Pramāṇamīmāṃsā (between A.D. 1160 and 1173) that is to say after A.D. 1160 and before A.D. 1173. If the Nāṭyadarpaṇa and its Vivṛtti may be supposed to have been composed in close succession we shall have to assign both these works to the period A. D. 1160-1173. However, as the date stands at present I am inclined to assign the following limits to the chronology of the text and the commentary :—

- (1) Nāṭyadarpaṇa—composed between A.D. 1150 and 1170.
- (2) Nāṭyadarpaṇavivṛtti— composed between A. D. 1160 and 1170.

The later limit of A. D. 1170 indicated by me above for both the works is based on the following evidence :—

(1) King Ajayapāla¹ who killed Rāmacandra by torture ruled between A. D. 1173 and 1176.

(2) The story of the above torture is recorded by Merutuṅga in his Prabandhacintāmaṇi composed in 1305 A. D. (Sāmvat 1361) (Vide pp. 37-39 of Intro. to Nalavilāsa).

(3) Rāmacandra was living in A. D. 1173, when his guru Hemacandra died, and when Rāmacandra consoled King Kumārapāla according to the Kumārapālacarita composed in A. D. 1366 by Jayasimhasūri (vide p. 37 of Intro. to Nalavilāsa, G. O. S. Baroda, 1926).

(4) As Kumārapāla's reign is assigned to the period A. D. 1144-1173¹ and Ajayapāla's reign to the period A. D. 1173-1176, we must presume that Rāmacandra, the author of the Nāṭyadarpaṇa must have met his death after the death of Hemacandra² and also that of Kumārapāla in A. D. 1173. At any rate Rāmacandra could not have composed any works after A. D. 1173 if we believe in Merutuṅga's account of the hatred of Kumārapāla's successor towards him and the consequent death by torture which ended the brilliant literary career¹ of our author.

1. Vide p. 1047 of Dynastic History of Northern India by H. C. Ray, Calcutta, Vol. II (1936).

The chronology of the known works of Rāmacandra cannot be determined in this paper as it requires separate treatment. I shall, however, close this paper by recording a few dates about Rāmacandra which would give a useful back-ground for a close study of the chronology of his works :—

A. D.	Saṃvat	Particulars
1089	Birth of Rāmacandra's guru हेमचन्द्र.
1094	Initiation of हेमचन्द्र into holy order.
1139	हेमचन्द्र completes his grammar (शब्दानुशासन).

.....	हेमचन्द्र composed काव्यानुशासन & छन्दानुशासन.
1159	हेमचन्द्र composed commentary on रथनावली or दे. नाममाला.
c. 1159	Mānikyacandra (a of काव्यप्रकाशटीका) refers in his शान्तिनाथमहाकाव्य to Rāmacandra :— “स रामः कविरुद्वासः प्रबंधाब्धि प्रबध्य यः” (see. p. 32 of Intro. to नलविलास).
1173	Rāmacandra consoles कुमारपाल on the death of हेमचन्द्र. (vide कुमारपालचरित—A. D. 1366).

1. Mr. Parikh (vide footnote to his Intro. p. CCXIC. Kāv.) states :—“Hemacandra had a group of disciples who were very learned and who helped him in his work. Of these Rāmacandra deserves special mention. He is reported to be the author of a hundred Pra-bandhas, that is, compositions. Some of his plays are published; they are good as literature and show considerable skill in the technique of play-writing. His Nāṭyadarpaṇa a work on dramaturgy has been published in the G. O. S. It throws some new light on the history of Sanskrit drama. His Kumāra-vihāra-śataka is a fine piece of description and gives an idea of what big temples were in those days. The poem should be studied very carefully by every student of Gujarat architecture and art.”

A. D.	Samvat	Particulars
1185	1241	कुमारपालप्रतिबोध contains a quotation from Rāmacandra's नलविलास. (See p. 35; ibid).

7. Identification of Kutulakhāna Mentioned by Jinaprabhasūri in his Vividha-Tīrtha-Kalpa †

Dr. B. C. Law in his "Studies in the Vividha-Tīrtha-Kalpa" recently published in the *Jaina Antiquary*¹ states that this Jain work² is important and helpful in the study of ancient Indian Geography as some of the materials recorded in it are new and interesting. I find on a perusal of this work that this work contains some historical data also, which need to be properly exploited and corroborated from all sources possible, contemporary or otherwise. For this purpose, we must know the life-history³ of its author Jinaprabhasūri and hence we are giving below a chronological survey of the events connected with the life of Jinaprabha and his contemporaries :—

Jinaprabhasūri was greatly honoured by Tughlak Sultan Mahammad Shah in the same manner in which Hiravijayasūri was later honoured by Emperor Akbar in the 16th Century. Dealing with the date of composition of this work the Editor states that it must have required about 30 years for its composition, because the earliest date recorded in it is Samvat 1364 = A. D. 1308 while the latest date is Samvat 1389 = A. D. 1333.—The dated Mss. of this work used by the Editor are as follows :—A.—Samvat 1466 = A. D. 1271)—Vide No. 1256 of 1886-92. J. composed another work called the Pañcaparamaṣṭhīstava (No. 349 of A. 1882-83). See Klatt's Onomaticon for a list of the known works of this writer. His known dates range from Samvat 1349 (= A. D. 1293), to Samvat 1369 (= A. D. 1313). His guru Jinasiṃhasuri founded the Laghukharataragaccha in Samvat 1331 (= A. D. 1275).

1. Isamy wrote Futūh-us-Salātīn, a history of Musalman Kings of India in Persian verse. He migrated from Delhi to Daulatābād by the royal command in A. D. 1327 and lived at that capital for the next quarter of the century. He composed his history in 1349-50 A. D. after the establishment of Bahmani throne at Gulburga. Vide p. 261 of Indian Culture (Jan. 1939), Vol. V, No. 3). article by N. Venkata Ramanayya

Date A.D.	Event	Place
1293 to 1313	Known dates for J. according to Peterson.
1324	रुचादिगणवृत्ति (Composed Śaka 1246) See p. 126 Limdi Cata. 1928.
1327	Muhammad Taghlakh transfers his capital from Delhi to Devagiri and calls it देवलताबाद.	देवलताबाद
1332	Muhammad Taghlakh honours J. by providing him with a good house to live in, which he called Bhattāraka Sarāi (vide p. 6 of V. T. Kalpa). “अयोदश नवदशित वर आपाद कृष्ण समया” Corresponds to Wednesday, 15th July 1332 A. D.
1333	(12th September) Ibn Bāṭūta reached Indus.
1334	(22nd March) Settlement of a dispute (Pudukottah inscription).
1334-1339	Rebellions of Ma'bar and Lakhnauti.
1342 (22nd July)	Bāṭūta set out for China as ambassador.
1344 (8th December)	Recall of Qutlugh Khan from the Deccan.
1349-50	Isami composed his history, which is the earliest account of Muhammad Taghlakh's reign.
1355	Ibn Bāṭūta dictated his Travels from memory.

In the above chronology we get the dates of Jinaprabhasūri viz., A. D. 1271, 1275, 1293, 1296, 1308, 1309, 1324, 1332, the difference between the first date and the last date being 61 years. Evidently Jinaprabhasūri must have been a man of advanced age when he was honoured by Sultan Muhammad Taghlakh. Presuming that he was twenty years old when he composed his Apāpābṛhatkalpa at Devagiri in A. D. 1271 he must have been born towards the middle of the 13th Century and as his above work is associated with Deva-giri it may be reasonable to conclude that his contact with that place lasted upto at least A. D. 1332 when he was honoured by Muhammad Taghlaq as stated by him in his Vividhatīrtha-Kalpa (No. 51) in which he mentions one Kutulakṣān (कुतुलखान) as the officer in charge of Daulatābād (दउलताबाद) as will be seen from the following lines¹ :—

“क्रमेण पक्षं सिरिदउलताबाद दीवाणे । भणितं च सविणयं नगरनायगेण सिरिकुतुलखानेन
भट्टारकाणां सिरिपातसाहि फुरमानागमनं दिल्लीपुरं पक्षं पस्थाणं चाहं ।”

This appears to be the only reference to कुतुलखान by Jinaprabhasūri in the whole of the *Vividhatīrtha-Kalpa*² and as the editor has not identified him it is necessary to investigate and prove the identity of this historical personage on the strength of contemporary evidence.

I propose to identify कुतुलखान who is styled as नगरनायक with reference to the capital of Daulatabad in Jinaprabhasūri's work with QUTLUGH KHĀN about whom the following information is given by Prof. N. V. Ramanayya³ :—

- (1) He was recalled from his post on 8th December, 1344.⁴
- (2) He was governor of the Maratha country and his departure from Devagir must have taken place about March 1345 A. D.⁵
- (3) His brother's name was “Ālim-ul-Mulk.”⁶

1. My friend Prof. R. D. Laddu renders the above passage into Sanskrit as follows :—

“क्रमेण प्राप्तं श्री दौलताबाददीवाने । भणितं च सविनयं नगरनायकेन श्री कुतुलखानेन
भट्टारकाणां श्रीपातसाहि फुरमानागमनं दिल्लीपुरं प्रति प्रस्थानं च आदिष्टम्”

2. Prof. H. D. Velankar records the following information about this work in the press-copy of his Jīnaratnakośa (p. 238) :—
, ‘तीर्थकल्प’ also called कल्पप्रदीप containing legendary and historical account of the different Jain holy places of pilgrimage, composed between Samvat 1365-1390 (i. e. A. D. 1309—1334) by Jinaprabhasūri, pupil Jinasiṃhasūri of Kharatara Gaccha. It is a very useful book and is written partly in Sanskrit and partly in Prakrit. The different parts were written separately and then put together by the author. It is being published in the Bibliotheca Indica.”

3. Indian Culture, Vol. V (1938-39), pp. 135-146 and 261-269.

4. Ibid., p. 136.

5. Ibid., p. 144.

6. Ibid., p. 145.

- (4) According to Isamy he led a successful expedition against the army of Nuṣrat Khān in Bidar and that he defeated Ali Shah at Dhārur.¹
- (5) His son Alap Khān led an expedition against Chandgaḍh.²
- (6) The Sultan sent his order to Qutluḡ Khān for sending the people from Devagīr to Dehli.³

The above information clearly shows that Qutluḡ Khān was an important personage and played a prominent part at the Sultan's court at Daulatabad though he was recalled from the place in A.D. 1344. In the details about this governor of Devagiri recorded by Prof. Ramanayya I have not been able to trace the date of his appointment to the governorship of Devagiri but as Jinaprabhasūri mentions him as नगरनायक in A.D. 1332 it would be reasonable to suppose that he must have been appointed to that office some years earlier. It is, however, certain that he acted in that important capacity at least from A.D. 1332 to 1344, a period of 12 years. Ibn Battūta⁴ who was born on 24th February 1304 and who reached Indus on 12th September 1333 and later reached the Sultan's capital Daulatabad refers to our कुतुलखान in the following lines:—"At Daulat Ābād resides the great Khān Qutlu Khān, the Sultan's tutor, who is governor of the town and the Sultan's representative there and in the lands of Sāghar, Tiling (Telingāna) and their dependent territories. This province extends for three months' march, is well populated and wholly under his authority and that of his lieutenants."⁵

It appears to me that Kutula Khān mentioned by Jinaprabhasūri, Qutlu Khān mentioned by Battūta and Qutluḡ Khān mentioned by Isāmy and others are identical. If this identity is accepted it would be possible to suggest that Jinaprabha may have heard about Battūta who reached India about a year after Muhammad Taghlakh's meeting with Jinaprabha in July 1332. Though it is easy to imagine a personal contact of Qutluḡ Khān with Jinaprabha in A.D. 1332 and with Battūta after A.D. 1333 it is difficult to prove any direct contact between Jinaprabha and Battūta unless any documentary evidence on this point is discovered by scholars like Prof. Ramanayya and others, who have made a close study of the history of Muhammad Taghlakh's reign. I shall also be happy to learn from Jain scholars any historical facts about the biography of Jinaprabhasūri especially after A.D. 1332.

8. Date of Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa of Sāgaranandin—Before A.D. 1431 †

Prof. Myles Dillon in his preface to the edition of the *Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa*¹ of Sāgaranandin states that this work was discovered by Prof. Sylvain Lévi during his visit to Nepal in 1922 and reported by him in the Journal Asiatique xciii, p. 210 (1933). In examining the question of the chronology of this work Prof. Dillon observes :—

“He (Prof. Lévi) pointed out that the text is quoted by Rāyamukuta in a commentary on the Amarakośa written A.D. 1431 which would give an inferior date but it has not been possible to verify this as I have been unable to discover a complete edition of the commentary.”²

† Annals (B. O. R. I.) XIX, pp. 280-288.

1. Pub. by the Oxford University Press, 1937, Vol. I, Text with a Preface.

2. Do—Preface, p. vii. As Pro. Lévi's discovery of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa was announced in 1923 Dr. S. K. De could not make use of it in Vol. I (1923) of his History of Sanskrit Poetics. Dr. V. Raghavan of Madras appears to be unaware of it in 1933 when he made the following remarks in the Annals of the Bhandarkar Institute, Vol. XIV (1933), p. 260:—“On page 325 of his Poetics, Vol. I in the list of anonymous works Dr. De gives a work called Nāṭakaratnakośa as being cited by Rāyamukuta and Bhānuji on Amara and as having been noticed by Aufrecht. There is every likelihood of this Nāṭakaratnakośa being only that section of the Samgītarāja dealing with Drama proper, the Daśarūpaka and the Uparūpaka scheme, Itivṛtta, Saṁdhi etc. The sections on Rasa and Nāṭaka, these two being widely read parts of the Nāṭyaśāstra and connected more than the other sections to Alaṅkāra also perhaps got separated into independent works, as the existence of a separate Ms of the Rasaratnakośa and the citations of these sections with the mere chapter-name show.” Dr. Raghavan further observes in the footnote to the above extract:—“From these Ratnakośas that are sections of the Samgītarāja must be distinguished the lexicon Ratnakośa which is quoted in commentaries on Amara. The lexicon Ratnakośa is very much earlier to the Samgītarāja.”

Perhaps Prof. Lévi's statement may have been based on the following entry in Aufrecht's Cata. Catalogorum :—

“नाटकरत्नकोश quoted by Rāyamukūṭa and Bhānuji Qxf. 182 b^a”
In the above entry the fact of Rāyamukūṭa's quotation from and mention of the Nāṭakarātnakośa, if verified and identified in the text of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa now made available on the basis of the Nepal Ms. will have the highest chronological value. As however, Prof. Dillon has not been able to verify the above reference I propose to attempt such verification in this paper.

The *Padārthacandrikā*³ of Brhaspati surnamed Rāyamukūṭa-maṇi and generally known as Rāyamukūṭa was composed in A. D. 1431. It is based on sixteen earlier commentaries on the Amara-kośa. The author was a native of Rāḍhā in Bengal. He was the son of Govinda and father of Viśrāma, Rāma and others. Aufrecht has already recorded a list⁴ of authorities quoted by Rāyamukūṭa numbering about 270.

As neither a complete edition of Rāyamukūṭa's commentary nor the list of authorities published by Aufrecht was available to me I had to avail myself of a good copy⁵ of the work available in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. On folio 96^b of this copy I found the following passage :—

1. Vol. I, p. 284.

2. Cata. of Bod. Library, Oxford, 1864, by Aufrecht, p. 182—
Here a Ms of a commentary of Bhānuji Dikṣita on the Amarakośa has been described. In the list of authorities mentioned by Bhānuji नाटकरत्नकोश has been mentioned. Dr. Belvalkar assigns Bhaṭṭoji Dikṣita to “about 1630 A. D.” (Systems of Sans. Grammar, p. 47). Bhānuji, also called Rāmāśramī, was the son of Bhaṭṭoji Dikṣita. (Vide Kane : Hist. of Dharma. “ एवं प्रकारतः त्रिछिन्त्यादयो गृह्यन्ते
 ताश्चोक्ता नाटकरत्नकोषे—
 लिलाविलासो विच्छित्तिर्विभ्रमः किल किञ्चितम् ।
 मोट्टायितं कट्टिमितं विच्छोको ललितं तथा ॥
 विकृतं चेति विज्ञेया स्त्रीणां चेष्टाः स्वभावजाः ”

Now compare the following extract from Prof. Dillon's edition of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa with the above extract:—

“ अथ चेष्टालंकारः कथ्यते

 लीला विलासो विच्छित्तिर्विभ्रमः किल किञ्चितम् ।
 मोट्टायितं कुट्टमितं विच्छोको ललितं तथा ॥
 विकृतं चेति विज्ञेयाः स्त्रीणां भावाः स्वभावजाः । ”

As Rāyamukūṭa mentions “नाटकरत्नकोष” as the source of his quotation and as the quotation itself has been identified in Prof. Dillon's edition of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa we can easily conclude that नाटकरत्नकोश is identical with नाटकलक्षणरत्नकोश.¹ As Sāgaranandin has drawn largely on Bharata's Nāṭyaśāstra and as

1. The correct title of the work appears to be नाटकलक्षणरत्नकोश of which नाटकरत्नकोश is evidently an abbreviated form. At the beginning of the work the author remarks “नाटकलक्षणं दशरूपकंवक्ष्यामः” (lines 6 7). In the following extract from the end of the work the word नाटकलक्षण has been emphasized and the colophon gives us the title नाटकलक्षणरत्नकोश—Page 134 (lines 3217-3230)—

“ दृढं हि भरतमुख्याचार्यशास्त्राम्बुशो—
 रमृतमिव रसाढ्यं लक्षणं नाटकस्य ।
 प्रतिधृतमपहाय व्यासमुक्त्वा च लक्ष्या—
 ण्यधिगमयितुमल्पज्ञानमल्पश्रमेण ॥

 एषां मतेन भरतस्य मतं विगाह्य
 घुष्टं मया समनुगच्छत रत्नकोशम् ॥

समाप्तथायं नाटकलक्षणरत्नकोशः कवेः श्रीसागरनन्दिनः ”

Prof. Dillon has obliged us by giving us an exhaustive index of quotations from the Nāṭyaśāstra we are in a position to see that the three lines quoted by Rāyamukūṭa in A. D. 1431 as from नाटकरत्नकोश are found almost identical with the following lines found in chapter XXIV of the Nāṭyaśāstra called “सामान्याभिनय” :—

“लीला विलासो विच्छित्तिर्विक्रमः किलकिञ्चितम् ।
मोहायितं कुट्टमितं विश्वोको ललितं तथा ॥ २ ॥
विहृतं चेति विज्ञेया दश स्त्रीणां स्वभावजाः ।”

Though the above quotation from the Nāṭyaśāstra is identical with that in Dillon's text of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakōśa we must presume that Rāyamukūṭa has quoted from the Nāṭakarātnakōśa of Sāgaranandin and not from the Nāṭyaśāstra, as he mentions his source by name. It would be, therefore, reasonable to conclude that the work of Sāgaranandin was available to him. This inference enables us to state definitely that the date of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakōśa is earlier than A. D. 1431. We may even go a little further and conclude that it may have been composed before the latter half of the 14th century, presuming that a work to be quoted as authority by a writer of Rāyamukūṭa's learning and critical ability must have taken more than 50/60 years to attain the necessary celebrity and authority.

We have already recorded above that a work called नाटकरत्नकोश has been quoted by Bhānuji Dikṣita in his commentary on the Amarakośa as stated by Aufrecht in his description of an Oxford Ms. of the commentary. I find this quotation in a printed edition² of this commentary as follows :—

“लीला विलासो विच्छित्तिर्विभ्रमः किल किञ्चितम् ।
मोहायितं कुट्टमितं विश्वोको ललितं तथा ॥
विहृतं चेति मन्तव्या दश स्त्रीणां स्वभावजाः
इति नाटकरत्नकोशः”

The first two lines of the above quotation are identical with the first two lines of Rāyamukūṭa's quotation from the Nāṭakarātnakōśa but the difference in the 3rd line will be clear from their comparison as follows :—

1. Vide p. 210 of Nāṭyaśāstra, ed. by Batuknatha Sharma and Baladeva Upādhyāya (Kashi Sans. Series No. 60) Benares, 1929.

2. Amarakośa with comm. Vyākhyāsudhā or Rāmāśramī by Bhānuji Dikṣita (son of the grammarian Bhaṭṭoji Dikṣita) ed. by Pandit Śivadatta, N. S. Press, Bombay, 1905.—Page 95—नाट्यवर्ग, verse 31.

1431 A. D.— Rāyamukuṭa—

“ विकृतं चेति विज्ञेया स्त्रीणां चेष्टाः स्वभावजाः । ”

c. 1630 A. D.— Bhānuji Dīkṣita—

“ विहृतं चेति मन्तव्या दश स्त्रीणां स्वभावजाः । ”

As Bhānuji Dīkṣita is a later commentator on the Amarakoṣa the possibility of his copying in toto an earlier quotation in Rāyamukuṭa's commentary on the same work will have to be disproved before any importance is attached to Bhānuji's quotation from the Nāṭakaratnakoṣa. I am of opinion that the difference in the 3rd line of the quotation as is revealed in the above comparison is so marked that we can safely presume the existence of a Ms of the Nāṭakaratnakoṣa from which Bhānuji has taken the quotation in question. This Ms obviously shows a different version of the text if we can judge from the variations noticeable in a single line as pointed out in the above comparison of the versions of the same line as found in Rāyamukuṭa's quotation and in Bhānuji's quotation.

Let us now consider the date of Bhānuji Dīkṣita. Dr. Belvalkar assigns his father Bhaṭṭoji to about 1630 A. D.¹ Dr. Saletore, however, assigns him to the “last quarter of the sixteenth and the first quarter of the seventeenth century A.D.”² If this date is correct we shall have to presume that Bhaṭṭoji flourished say between A. D.

1. Systems of Sanskrit Grammar, Poona, 1915, Pages 46-47—“Jagannātha, the Court Pandit of Emperor Shahajahan, informs us in his Praudhamanoramākucamardīnī that Bhaṭṭoji was the pupil of Śeṣa-Kṛṣṇa, to whose memory he does very scant justice in his Praudhamanoramā. As Jagannātha himself was the pupil of the son of this Śeṣa-Kṛṣṇa, this gives us Bhaṭṭoji's date which must be about A. D. 1630. This is also confirmed by the fact that a pupil of Bhaṭṭoji wrote a work in Samvat 1693 (= A. D. 1637).”

2. Vide p. 98 of Karnataka Historical Review, Vol. IV, 1937 (Jan.-July) Nos. 1 and 2—Dr. Saletore's evidence may be briefly indicated here. Bhaṭṭoji in the opening verses of his तत्त्वकौस्तुभ states that he wrote the work at the order of Keladi Venkaṭendra, who is identified by Dr. Saletore with king Venkaṭapa Nāyak I (1582—1629 A. D.). This king was noted for his patronage to learned men and seems to have composed a comm. on the Śivagītā of the Padma-purāṇa. Bhaṭṭoji calls himself the son of श्रीमद्विद्वन्मुकुटमाणिक्यलक्ष्मीधरभट्ट in the तत्त्वकौस्तुभ.

1575 and 1625. Prof. Kane¹ assigns Bhaṭṭoji to the period "about 1575-1650 A. D." in one place while in another² place he assigns him to a period "1560-1620 A. D."—a date which agrees with Dr. Saletore's date for Bhaṭṭoji mentioned above. I am inclined to accept for the present Dr. Saletore's view about Bhaṭṭoji's date and assign Bhānuji Dikṣita³ (the son of Bhaṭṭoji) to about 1630 A. D.

In view of the above date for Bhānuji Dikṣita, 'about 1630 A.D.' would be one of the later limits for the date of the Nāṭakarātnakośa. Prof. Dillon states (Preface p. vii) that the Ratnakōśa cited by Rucipati in his commentary on the Anargharāghava appears to be the text of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇakośa edited by him and that Raṅga-nātha in his commentary on the Vikramorvaśīya cites Sāgara regularly by name and quotes the text (vide pp. 90-96, foot-notes of Dillon's Edition). Though Rucipati's date is uncertain, observes Prof. Dillon, the Ms from which the commentary is edited in Kāvya-mālā 5 was written in A. D. 1613. He, therefore, puts A. D. 1613 as the later limit for Sāgara's date.⁴

As we have, however, identified the reference to the Nāṭakarātnakośa mentioned by Rāyamukuta in the Dillon's edition of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakōśa, the later limit for Sāgara's date is A.D. 1431 definitely.

We have already referred to Dr. Rāghavan's view regarding the nature and contents of the Nāṭakarātnakośa. According to this view the work may have been originally a part of the Samgītārāja

3. Lakṣmaṇapaṇḍita wrote a work called अद्वैतसुधा in 1662 A. D. He mentions रामाश्रम and उत्तमश्लोक as his preceptors. See Ms. No. 143 of 1902-7, folio 3—"रामाश्रमउत्तमश्लोकमुनिद्वय" mentioned in Kalpa I of the work. Most probably रामाश्रम mentioned as one of the preceptors of Lakṣmaṇa Paṇḍita is identical with Bhānuji Dikṣita alias Rāmāśrama. Lakṣmaṇapaṇḍita hailed from the Mahārāṣṭra (दक्षिणदिश्य-पास्य श्रियः काश्यामुदासीनमतिः). Vide verse 10 at the beginning.

4. Sāgara quotes from numerous previous works. In the Index of authors given by Prof. Dillon we find the following names :—अश्मकुट्ट, कात्यायन, चारायण, दण्डिन्, नखकुट्ट, बार्दरायण, भरत, मातृगुप्त, राहुल, शातकर्णि. The Index of titles includes the following names :—अनुतापाङ्क, अभिज्ञान, अयोध्याभरत, उत्कण्ठितमाधव, उत्तरचरित, उन्मत्तचन्द्रगुप्त, उषाहरण, उर्वशी, composed by Rana Kumbha of Mewad (A.D. 1433-1468).¹ We have proved in this paper that the work mentioned by Rāyamukūṭa in A. D. 1431 as Nāṭakaratnakośa is identical with the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa now made available to us in Prof. Dillon's edition. The author of this work is Sāgaranandin who flourished definitely before A.D. 1431, the date of Rāyamukūṭa's commentary on the Amarakośa. There is no possibility of any identity of the two works viz. Samgītarāja of Rana Kumbha and the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa of Sāgaranandin as these two works are distinctly separated in points of time and authorship.²

2. Though the identity of the Nāṭakaratnakośa with the Samgītarāja is impossible in view of the evidence recorded in this paper it does not affect the other suggestion of Dr. Raghavan that the Rasaratnakośa forms a substantial section of Rana Kumbha's very voluminous work Samgītarāja. The nebular hypothesis of the Rasaratnakośa being separated from the central mass of the Samgītarāja and leading an independent existence is possible as the identity of authorship of these works is proved by Dr. Raghavan in his paper "The Rasaratnakośa, the Nāṭakaratnakośa and the Samgītarāja" (Annals, XIV, pp. 258).

We have fixed A.D. 1431 as one terminus to the date of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakośa. As regards the other terminus we quote Prof. Dillon's remarks :—"The Viddhaśālabhañjikā of Rājaśekhara which is cited at l. 3071 dates from the tenth century (see Konow : Das Indische Drama, p. 84). If the Dūtāṅgada cited at l. 983 is the play of Subhata, which there is no reason to doubt, the superior date is A.D. 1243 (see Grey J. Am. Or. Soc. 32, 39) but the identity is not certain as there are no quotations. The Rāmābhyudaya quoted is not that of Rāmadeva (fifteenth century), which has been edited by Losch, Das Indische schattenheater, p. 80 for none of the quotations are to be found in that text. The Ratnakośa may be as early as the thirteenth century but I cannot now put forward any more exact date as the author Sāgaranandin is not known except in connection with this work (Lévi. Jour. Asiatique xciii, p. 211)."

In the above remarks Prof. Dillon refers to the work Rāmābhyudaya mentioned and quoted from¹ by Sāgaranandin. As Rāmadeva's Rāmābhyudaya of the 15th century has been ruled out by Prof. Dillon we must find other works of this name. Aufrecht² records a Ms of this work, which is in 30 Sargas but the authorship is ascribed to one Veṅkateśa. The work of this name quoted by Ānandavardhana must also be taken into account. It is ascribed to Yaśovarman.³ I may, however, record an inscriptional reference to Rāmābhyudaya which appears to have been a Kāvya composed by a poet of the name Nārāyaṇa. The inscription in which this reference is found hails from the Central Provinces. The verse¹ containing the name of the work and the name of the poet reads as follows :—

“श्रीवत्सश्रणाब्ज(ब्ज)पूजनमतिर्नारायणः सत्कविः
श्रीरामाभ्युदयाभिधं रसमयं काव्यं स तद्यो व्यधात् ।

The bearing of this verse on the date of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇa-ratnakōśa will have to be studied at some length and hence must be left to a future study.²

1. This verse was kindly supplied to me by Prof. V. V. Mirashi of Nagpur in a private communication dated 27th July 1937, inquiring if I could trace a reference to this Kāvya. I have pointed out to him the available references to the Rāmābhyudaya. Perhaps Prof. Mirashi may be able to throw some light on this Rāmābhyudaya of Nārāyaṇa different from the works of the same name, by Veṅkaṭeśa, Yaśovarman, and Rāmadeva.

2. Since my paper was sent to the press, I have received the following information from my friend Prof. V. V. Mirashi in a letter dated 13th September 1938 :—The “verse which refers to a Rāmābhyudaya-Kāvya by the Poet Nārāyaṇa occurs in a stone inscription found at Pujāripāli, a village 22 miles north by east from Sarangarh the chief town of a feudatory state of the same name in the Eastern States Agency. It is now deposited in the Rajpur Museum. The inscription is undated but the prince Gopāladeva mentioned in it is identified by some with his name-sake, an inscription of whose reign has been found at Boramdeva in the State of Kawardhā dated in the Kalachuri year 840 (A. D. 1088-9). I am not inclined to accept the identification as in my opinion the Pujāripāli inscription belongs to a slightly later date i.e. to the twelfth or thirteenth century A. D.”

I am thankful to Prof. Mirashi for the above information. If we succeed in connecting the Rāmābhyudaya Kāvya of the above inscription with the Rāmābhyudaya quoted by Sāgaranandin, perhaps we may be able to assign the date of his Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnakōśa to the 13th century or rather the period between A. D. 1250 and 1350 but as the evidence stands at present this conclusion remains only a probability.

9. Date of Viśvalocanakośa of Śrīdharasena †

Aufrecht¹ makes the following entries about the lexicon Viśvalocana or Viśvalocanakośa :— “विश्वलोचन lexicon, quoted Oxf. 135 b, 185 b. Perhaps the Viśvapraṇāśa.” विश्वलोचनकोश², a synonymous lexicon by Śrīdharasena, son of Munisena, Peterson 5, p. 162. श्रीधर³ a lexicographer, very often quoted by Sundaragaṇi in Dhāturatnākara.’’

As Sādhu Sundaragaṇi composed his Dhāturatnākara in A. D. 1624,⁴ we may regard this year as one terminus to the date of Śrīdharasena, presuming that he is identical with the author of the Viśvalocana or Viśvalocanakośa.

The Oxford Ms⁵ of Raṅganātha's commentary on Kālidāsa's Vikramorvaśīya mentions the lexicon Viśvalocana ; and Aufrecht in his Catalogue of Oxford Mss identifies Viśvalocana with Viśvapraṇāśa, though in his *Catalogus Catalogorum*⁶ he states that this identification is a probability only.

An Oxford Ms⁷ of the Abhidhānacintāmaṇi of Hemacandra mentions Viśvalocanakośa and Śrīdhara in the margin of folio 61 b of the Ms ; but these marginal references have no historical value, as they are not found in the lists⁸ of works and authors mentioned by Hemacandra in his Abhidhānacintāmaṇi and its commentary composed by himself.

8. Abhidhānacintāmaṇi, Part II, Index etc., pp. 317-322. ed. by Jayanta Vijaya, Baroda, (1-8-1920).

Raṅganātha's commentary on the *Vikramorvaṣīya*¹ referred to above was composed in the Vikrama year 1712, i.e., A.D. 1656; and, as Raṅganātha quotes Viśvalocana, we have in this work another dated reference to Viśvalocana, though it is later by thirty-two years than the reference in the Dhāturaṭnākara composed in A. D. 1624. These references prove that the lexicon विश्वलोचन must have been composed earlier than about A. D. 1550.

Peterson in his Fifth Report (1896) gives an extract from a Ms of Viśvalocanakośa preserved at Anhilwad Patan (page 162, Paper Ms. No. 5); while in his Index to authors in the same Report (p. lxxv) he states about Śrīdhara that he was "the son of Munisena of the Senānvaya", and that the "Viśvalocanakośa is apparently ascribed to a pupil of his. 5, 162."

The Jain Granthāvalī² mentions Viśvalocanakośa and refers to the very Ms mentioned by Peterson in his Fifth Report referred to above, but mentions 'दिग्बर' as the author of the lexicon stating thereby that the author is of the Digambara Sect and not of the Śvetāmbara Sect.

Prof. Handiqui³ states that Jinarāja, commentator on the Naiṣadha-carita, quotes under XVI, 20, a lexicographer named Śrīdhara. According to Prof. Handiqui Jinarāja lived about A. D. 1650. Now the quotation⁴ from Śrīdhara referred to by Prof. Handiqui is as under :—

“शाणः सार्धतोलके कर्पेकषणेकरपत्रिके इति श्रीधरः”

This quotation is almost identical with the following line from the published edition of Śrīdharasena's *Viśvalocanakośa*⁵ :—

“शाणोर्द्धमाषकेकर्पे करणे करपत्रिके”

1. See p. XXV of Intro. of Vikramorvaṣīya by Prof. Charudeva-shastri, Lahore, 1929. Raṅganātha was a resident of Vyomakośa-putābhedana. His father's name was Bālakṛṣṇa and he came of the family of Simbekara.

3. Naiṣadha-carita Intro. p. XVII. (Punjab Oriental Series, 1934).

5. Viśvalocanakośa (also called Muktāvalikośa) p. 104—Edited by Natha Rangaji Gandhi, N. S. Press, Bombay, June 1912.

This quotation, therefore, furnishes us with another dated reference to the Viśvalocanakośa of Śrīdharasena.

Prof. Handiqui further observes about Śrīdhara thus :—

“Śrīdhara is quoted in the Puruṣakāra Commentary on the Daivam. The Puruṣakāra has been assigned to the 13th century.” (See Intro. to Trivandrum edn.)

The quotations from Śrīdhara referred to by Prof. Handiqui are as follows :—

“तथा च श्रीधरो नृत्यागेन नृत्यादीन् पठित्वा एतामस्य वज्रयित्वा इत्याह”

“श्रीधरस्तु ‘स्तृञ् छादने’ दीर्घः स्तृञ् छादने ऋस्व इत्युभावप्युपन्यास्यत्”

The above quotations appear to be from some grammatical work and not from the lexicon Viśvalocana of Śrīdharasena. At any rate these references have no chronological value for our present inquiry, unless the identity of Śrīdharasena, the lexicographer, with Śrīdhara the grammarian is proved on conclusive grounds.

A commentator on the Saupadma grammar of the name Śrīdharacakravartin¹ is known, but as we have not got the text of this commentary before us, it is not possible for us to identify the above quotations.

The editor of Viśvalocanakośa,² Mr. Nandalal Sharma, ascribes the authorship of the works () Śrutāvatara, (2) Bhaviṣyadattacaritra and (3) Nāgakumārakathā, to an author Śrīdhara, but remarks that as he had no occasion to examine these works, he is unable to say anything about their author. Out of these three works we have examined a Ms of Bhaviṣyadattacaritra viz., No. 1199 of 1891-95 in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona (folios 49). The author of this work is mentioned as Vibudhaśrīdhara, and we have no evidence to prove his identity with Śrīdharasena, the author of the lexicon Viśvalocanakośa. This Ms was copied in the year A. D. 1580 (Samvat 1636) at Ambāvatīdurga during the reign of Raja Bhagavantadāsa, who is called Mahārājādhirāja. Presumably this Vibudhaśrīdhara must have composed this work before about A. D. 1525, if not earlier.

2. N. S. Press, Bombay, June 1912.

We have already fixed A. D. 1550 as one terminus to the date of Śrīdharasena, and have seen that the references to his namesakes recorded above have been found insufficient to furnish the other terminus.

Before proceeding to note the internal evidence on the question of our inquiry, it may not be out of place to record some negative evidence having some bearing on the question of fixing the earlier terminus for the date of the Viśvalocanakośa. We have already seen above that Hemacandra in his Abhidhānacintāmaṇi does not refer to either the Viśvalocanakośa or its author Śrīdharasena. This omission may suggest that the Viśvalocanakośa was written after Hemacandra's time, viz., A. D. 1150.¹ Then, again, another lexicon, viz. Viśvapraṇāśa or Viśva of Maheśvara,² which was composed in A. D. 1111, does not mention Śrīdharasena or his Viśvalocana in the list of earlier works utilized by him.

This omission may also suggest the probability that the Viśvalocanakośa was not known to Maheśvara in A. D. 1111. On the contrary, there is ample evidence to prove that Śrīdharasena has borrowed freely with slight variations from both Hemacandra and Maheśvara, either directly or through *Medinīkośa*³ which criticizes the Viśvapraṇāśakośa of Maheśvara in an adverse manner. With a view to establish the indebtedness of Śrīdharasena to Hemacandra, Maheśvara, and Medinī, it would be useful to take some lines which are found common to all the three lexicons with slight variations :—

1. Duff, Indian Chronology, p. 152.

2. Viśvapraṇāśa, Preface, p. 1—"In compiling this volume our author has employed Nāmapārāyaṇa as his guide and has derived material aid from the following :—राजकोश भोगीन्द्र, कात्यायन, साहस्रनाम वाचस्पति, व्याडि, विश्वरूप, अमलमंगल, सुभंग, गोपालित, भागुरि" (Chokhamba Sans. Series, 1911).

3. Edited by Jivānanda Vidyāsāgar, Calcutta, 1872.

"अपि बहुदोषं विश्वप्रकाशकोषश्च सुविचार्य"

The extract of 6 verses containing names of previous writers is given at the beginning of this edition.

A. D. 1088-1172	हेमचन्द्र p.100 verse 106	गोमेदकं	पीतररने	काकोले	पत्रकेऽपि च
A.D. 1111	विश्वप्रकाश p. 18, verse 197	"	पीतमणौ	"	" "
After A.D. 1111	मेदिनी p.20, verse 186b	"	"	"	" "
	श्रीधरसेन p.33 verse 190b	गोमेदकः	"	"	" "

In the above table we know the indebtedness of मेदिनी to विश्व-प्रकाश, and may, therefore, conclude that the line गोमेदकं, etc. has been exactly copied by him from the विश्वप्रकाश lexicon. How far विश्वप्रकाश borrowed from हेमचन्द्र is a matter for investigation, because the possibility of a common source cannot be excluded in this case. Hemacandra (A.D. 1088-1178) and the author of Viśvaparakāśa, viz., Maheśvara (A.D. 1111) were contemporaries; and the possibility of one contemporary quite ignoring the work of another, even if it were accessible to him, or of utilizing it in extenso, is equally tenable. But in case it is definitely proved on independent grounds that the विश्वप्रकाश has borrowed from Hemacandra's Anekārthasamgraha we may infer that the reading पीतररने of the Anekārthasamgraha has been changed to पीतमणौ by the author of the Viśvaparakāśa; and श्रीधरसेन may have borrowed the line with this change either from the Viśvaparakāśa or the Medinīkośa.

In support of this probable evidence we may compare another line from the Viśvaloca and its variations or otherwise as found in these four lexicons :—

हेमचन्द्र p.49, verse 62a	पुलाको	भक्तसिक्ते	स्यात्	संक्षेपा	सारधान्ययोः
विश्वप्रकाश	पुलाक	-स्तुच्छधान्ये	"	संक्षेपे	भक्तसिक्थके
मेदिनी p.13, verse 122a	"	"	"	"	"
श्रीधरसेन p. 21, verse 117	"	"	"	"	" -सिक्थके

This table also shows that variations from Hemacandra's text as found in the Viśvaparakāśakośa have been preserved in the Medinī, as also in the Viśvalocanakośa of Śrīdharasena. It is, however, difficult to establish on conclusive grounds whether Śrīdharasena has borrowed from the Viśvaprakāśa or the Medinīkośa.

Another argument in favour of the late chronology of Śrīdharasena's lexicon is the following fact pointed out by Mr. Nandalal Sharma in his Hindi Introduction to this lexicon :—

“There are many nānārthakośas in Sanskrit but so far as I am aware there is no lexicon as comprehensive as or containing so numerous meanings of a single word as this lexicon.....For instance, the word रुचक has four meanings in the Amarakośa, ten in the Medinīkośa, and twelve meanings in this lexicon.”¹

The above remarks, if substantiated by many other analogous examples may go to prove that Śrīdharasena composed his lexicon after the Medinīkośa, in which case the date of Śrīdharasena's work will depend on that of the Medinīkośa. If this line of argument is accepted, we shall have to put Śrīdharasena between the twelfth century and the sixteenth century, because Prof. Rāmāvatāra Sharma² in this learned introduction to Kalpadrūkośa is inclined to push back Medinī's date to the twelfth century. As Medinī refers to and criticizes the Viśvaprakāśa (A.D. 1111) and as he is quoted in the Prṣodarādivṛtti of Padmanābhadatta in A. D. 1375,³ we may not be far wrong if we assign him to the thirteenth century, and, accordingly, assign Śrīdharasena's Viśvalocana to a date between the thirteenth and the sixteenth century, or tentatively between A.D. 1350 and A.D. 1550. These limits cannot be narrowed down in the present stage of our inquiry for want of conclusive evidence.

Now, as regards the parentage of Śrīdharasena and the town of his residence etc., we get some information in the *praśasti*⁴ in his lexicon. The name of his guru was Munisena, who was well-versed in logic and was also a great poet. He was also respected by some of the kings of his time. In verse 4 of the praśasti the expression “पदविदां च पुरे निवासी” is used with respect to Śrīdhara-sena’s town of residence. I am unable to identify this town at present.

10. The Genealogy of Maṇḍana, the Jain Prime-Minister of Hoshang Ghori of Malwa— Between A. D. 1405 and 1432 †

In a paper contributed by me to the Jaina Antiquary (Vol. XI, No. 77, pp. 25-34) on “Maṇḍana, the Prime Minister of Malwa and his Works” I have assigned this Jain author to the period A. D. 1400 to 1432 on the following grounds :—

- (1) Mss of Maṇḍana's works शुद्धारमण्डन and काव्यमण्डन are dated Samvat 1504 = A. D. 1448.¹
- (2) अलमसाहि or अलमसाहि, the patron of Maṇḍana has been identified by me with अल्पखान or Hoshang Ghori, who ruled Malwa between A. D. 1405 and 1432 or so.

Since the above paper was sent for publication I have discovered the following chronological evidence in support of my chronology for Maṇḍana and his works :—

- (1) Prof. H. D. Velankar in his जिनरत्नकोश or Catalogus Catalogorum of Jain Mss that is now being published by the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, makes the following entry about an author धनदराज :—

“शतकत्रय (नीति, वैराग्य and शुद्धार) by धनदराज संघपति, son of देहड—Chani. 69 ; PAPR. 18 (19) ; PAZB 1 (.8 ; 29—MS dated Samvat 1504); 23 (8—MS dated Samvat 1504).”

It is evident from the above entry that MSS of the शतकत्रय of this author धनदराज were copied in Samvat 1504 (= A. D. 1448) the very year in which the MSS of Maṇḍana's शुद्धारमण्डन and काव्यमण्डन were copied. Let us now see if धनदराज has any connection with मण्डन the Prime-Minister of Almsāhi of Malwa.

I have already pointed out in my paper on Maṇḍana that his father बाहड was a संघपति connected with the खरततरान्वय and that he himself was a संघपति like his father and a devout follower of Jain religion as he calls himself "श्रीमद्वन्द्यजिनेन्द्रनिर्भरनतेः कवेः. Maṇḍana further gives us the following information about his family :—

- (1) संस्रण was his grand-father.
- (2) संस्रण had six sons :—
 - (i) चाहड, (ii) बाहड, (iii) देहड, (iv) पय, (v) पाहुराज and (vi) कोलाभक्ष (?).
- (3) बाहड in the above list was Maṇḍana's father. Unfortunately Maṇḍana does not record the names of his cousins, the sons of चाहड, बाहड, देहड etc. This deficiency has, however, been partially made up by the entry regarding the शतकत्रय of धनदराज, son of देहड. I am inclined to identify देहड, the father of संघपति धनदराज, with Maṇḍana's uncle देहड. The title संघपति appears to have been held by many members of the family as मण्डन calls himself संघपति. He also calls his father संघश्वर (or संघपति). धनदराज was also a संघपति and MSS of his शतकत्रय were copied at मण्डपदुर्ग in A. D. 1448, the very year in which the MSS of Maṇḍana's works were copied.

धनदराज composed his शतकत्रय¹ at Maṇḍapadurga or Maṇḍu fort in Samvat 1490 = A. D. 1434. This date confirms my chronology for Maṇḍana viz. A. D. 1405 to 1432, a period during which his patron Hoshang Ghori ruled Malwa. Both these cousins मण्डन and धनदराज were men of literary taste and ability and if one of them composed a work in A. D. 1434 the chronology of the other cousin's works may be safely assigned to the period, A. D. 1405—1432, as determined by me already on the strength of probable evidence, which now gets confirmed by the date of धनदराज viz. A. D. 1434.

The genealogy of Maṇḍana's family may now be reconstructed as follows :—

1. Ed. in Kāvya-mālā, 13 (N. S. Press, Bombay). Vide p. 318 of Classical Sans. Literature by Krishnamachariar, 1937 — "Dhanadarāja, son of Dehala, wrote three Śatakas like Bhartṛhari in 1434 A. D."

In the following stanzas we find Maṇḍana recording his ministership with अहमसाहि, his Jain faith, his श्रीमालवंश, and his father's name :—

MSS of सारस्वतमण्डन (B. O. R. Institute, Poona) No. 675 of 1891-95, fol. 17a and No. 13 of 1877-78, folio 17—

 श्रीसारस्वतमंडनं रचयति क्षमामंडनं मंडनः ॥”

Udayarāja², a court-poet of Mahamūda Begdā, Sultan of Gujarat, composed a poem in praise of his patron called the राजविनोद. In this poem he refers to the confinement and release of अहमसाहि³ (= अहमसाहि, patron of मण्डन) or Hoshang Ghori of Malwa as follows:.

1. Cf. Ain-i-Akbari (Tr. by Jarrett, Vol. II, 1891).

p. 218—“Alp Khān, son of Dilāwar Khān was elected to the succession under the title of Hoshang.....Sultan Muzafer of Gujarat marched against him.”

2. Vide pp. 101—115 of Journal of the Bombay University, Vol. IX, Part 2, Sept. 1940. (My paper on the Rājavinoda of Udayarāja).

3. Ibid, p. 105, foot-note 1.

“मुमोच बंदीकृतमल्पखानमनल्पवीर्यं बलवत्तरोयः ।
वंशास्ततो मालवराजबंदिमोक्षं पदालयं विरुद्धं बहूनि ॥”

This confinement and release was carried out by Muzaffer, Sultan of Gujarat (A. D. 1392-1410) sometime about A. D. 1409. The poem राजविनोद was composed between A. D. 1458 and 1469 and consequently the use of the name अल्मसाहि for Hoshang Ghori is earlier than the use of the name अल्पखान recorded by Udayarāja.

The students of the history of Malwa should investigate and determine the exact period of Maṇḍana's Prime-ministership and the influence exercised by this Jain Prime-minister on the policy of Hoshang Ghori. This association of a Jain संघपति with a Muslim ruler of Malwa in the first half of the 15th century is as interesting as it is instructive. Maṇḍana refers to his Muslim patron in glowing terms in his काव्यमण्डन and शृंगारमण्डन, as also in his सारस्वतमण्डन. The MS of Maṇḍana's संगीतमण्डन is not available to me and hence I am unable to say what information it contains about its author and his Muslim patron.

Commentary on the Sārasvata-Prakriyā-
Dated A. D. 1556 (Samvat 1612)*

Puñjarāja, the author of two works on *alamkāra*¹ composed a commentary on the Sārasvata-prakriyā. According to Aufrecht² he lived at the end of the 15th and beginning of the 16th century i.e. between A. D. 1475 and 1530. Aufrecht³ records some MSS of his Sārasvata-tīkā, some of which are dated ones⁴, being copied in

In these additions two¹ more MSS of Puñjarāja's commentary were added to the Govt. MSS. Library, one of which is dated Samvat 1612 = A. D. 1555 as will be seen from the following extract :—

2. This date corresponds to Thursday, 21st November, 1555 (Vide p. 313 of Ind. Ephemeris, Vol. V).

3. Vide p. 34 of Kharataragaccha-Pattāvali-Samgraha by Muni Jinavijayaji, Calcutta, 1932—Here one जिनचंद्रसूरि of खरतरगच्छ is mentioned. His dates are as follows :

(1) Born—A. D. 1539 (Samvat 1595).

(2) Became Sūri—A. D. 1556 (Samvat 1612).

(3) Died—in A. D. 1614 (Samvat 1670).

It appears to me that the MS of A. D. 1556 from which I have quoted above is the earliest dated MS of Puñjarāja's *Sārasvataṭīkā*¹ so far as I can judge from the published Catalogues available to me for reference. The date of this copy viz., A. D. 1556 harmonizes with the date assigned to Puñjarāja by Aufrecht and accepted by other scholars viz., "A. D. 1475 to 1520." As Puñjarāja's uncle Megha was patronized by a Muhammadan king of Malwa² who flourished in A. D. 1475 we can definitely assign Puñjarāja

1. The genealogy of Puñjarāja as recorded by him in his Sārasvataṭīkā is as follows:—

Lane Poole (Muhammadan Dynasties, 1925, p. 311) records only one Khalji King of Malwa viz., Ghyāth Shāh b. Mahmud (A. D. 1475) who was the patron of Puñjarāja's uncle मेघ.

Ghias-ud-din Khalji was poisoned on 30th March 1501. Nāsir-ud-din Khalji succeeded him and ruled till his death on 30th April 1511—Vide p. 381 of Imp. Gazetteer, Vol. II (Oxford, 1928). Puñjarāja may to a period between ¹A. D. 1475 and 1520 and consequently the B. O. R. I. MS of his work dated A. D. 1556 is not much removed from the life-time of Puñjarāja. The line of the Khalji rulers of Malwa came to an end in A. D. 1531 when Nāsir's successor Mahmūd Khalji was put to death. The kingdom of Malwa was conquered by Humāyūn in A. D. 1535. We have no means of determining the fate of Puñjarāja's family, say, after A. D. 1531. The patronage to learning and the comparatively peaceful condition of life enjoyed by the family of our author must have ceased after the death of Mahmūd Khalji, the last Khalji ruler of Malwa.

Speaking of Puñjarāja Dr. Belvalkar¹ states that Puñjarāja "was a minister to Ghaisuddin Khilji of Malwa 1469-1500." The statement seems to be wrong because in the account of himself and his ancestry given by Puñjarāja in the praśasti at the beginning of his commentary on the Sārasvata we are only informed that Puñjarāja's father Jivana and his uncle Megha got the title of मन्त्रि from Ghaisuddin Khilji (स्वामिनः खलचिसाहिगयासात् प्राप्य मन्त्रिपदवीम् भुवि याभ्याम्). We are also told that Puñjarāja became king (नरेन्द्र) but abandoned the kingdom to his younger brother Muñja (मुंज...उपाहित-रजकार्यभार). Thus while he refers to his father Jivana and his uncle Megha as ministers (e.g. "मेघमन्त्री") in v. 11, he styles himself as "पुंजराजो नरेन्द्रः" in verses 13 and 23 of the praśasti. We must, therefore, try to verify from contemporary history of Malwa the exact significance of the title नरेन्द्र² applied by Puñjarāja to himself have been the contemporary of both these Kings. These Khaljis were not only patrons of learning but they were men of some literary taste. A work called Kaṅkāli Grantha has been attributed to Nāsir Shah Khalji (Vide my paper in the Annals B. O. R. Institute, Vol. XII, 289-291). Sardar G. N. Mujumdar has brought to light a Marathi commentary on the Samgītamakaranda, composed by one Mutoji of the Khalji Dynasty (Vide pp. 1 to 4 of offprint from Vol. IX of the Journal of Music Academy, Madras 1938).

a time Mahmud resenting the insolence of Medinī Rao, the all-powerful minister, fled to Guzerat. Bahadur Shah captured Malwa and Mahmud and his family were made prisoners. Mahmud was later put to death (in A.D. 1531). It remains to be seen if our Puñjarāja became पुंजरजा during the rule of Medinī Rao, i.e. say between A. D. 1511 and 1526 or after A.D. 1531 when the Khalji dynasty of Malwa came to an end. Humayun conquered Malwa in 1535. Perhaps our Puñjarāja, the son of the ex-minister of the Khalji ruler, may have declared independence between A. D. 1531 and 1526 as this period was most opportune for this purpose. Medinī Rao, the powerful minister of Mahmūd Khalji between 1511 and 1526 A. D. would not have tolerated our Puñjarāja styling himself as independent King (Vide p. 380 of Imperial Gazetteer, Vol. II, 1928.)

1. Vide Epi. Indo-Moslemica (1937-38) p. 23ff. — Bhonrasa Inscription (Gwalior State) of Sultān Ghiyāth Shāh of Malwa dated A.D. 1483 is in Hindi language. It refers to the revival of worship and prevention of vandalism to some Hindu temple [Vide also E.I.M. (1936-37) — Dhumeshtar Temple Inscription]. These inscriptions show the religious toleration of Muslim kings (p. 24).

12. Exact Date of Amarakīrti, the Author of a Commentary on the Ṛtusamhāra of Kālidāsa —A. D. 1593 †

In my note¹ on “A commentary on the Ṛtusamhāra of Kālidāsa by Amarakīrtisūri” I drew the attention of scholars to the only Ms of this commentary available in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, viz. No. 372 of 1887-91. I tried also to fix the probable limits for the date of the author of this commentary viz. 1550 and 1600 A. D. and tentatively assigned Amarakīrti to the 16th century.

The evidence for the limits of Amarakīrti's date recorded by me was more probable than direct but since my note was published, I have come across the following evidence regarding Amarakīrti's date which corroborates the limits fixed by me tentatively:—

In the *Dictionary of Jain Biography*² the following entry has been recorded regarding Amarakīrti — “Amarakīrti — Under him a Ms of Jinadatta's Vivekavilāsa was transcribed in *Vik. Sam. 1649-Samvat 1649*³ varṣe bhādrapada māse Kṛṣṇa-pakṣe, navamyām tithau, Somadine likhitoyam granthaḥ. Śrī... Ref.—Des. Cat. Cal. Sans. Coll. XI. p. 332”.

The Ms referred to in the above entry is deposited in the Library of the Calcutta Sanskrit College. It was copied in the year † Annals (B. O. R. Institute), Vol. XVII, pp. 208-210.

1. Calcutta Oriental Journal, Vol. I, pp. 234-236.

2. A Dictionary of Jain Biography (Part I-A) compiled by Umrāo Singh Tank, BA., LL. B., Pub. by the General Jain Publishing House, Arrah, 1917, p. 55.

3. Vide Indian Ephemeris, Vol. V, p. 387—The date of the Christian era corresponding to this date would be Monday, 18th September 1592.

Samvat 1649 = A. D. 1592 (18th September) at Ahipura (= modern Nagpur) when Amarakīrti was at the head of the Nāgapura tapā-gaccha during the reign of the Emperor Akbar.

The above particulars furnished by the Ms of the Vivekavilāsa are quite definite as regards time and place of the copy in question. We shall now try to identify Amarakīrti mentioned in the colophon of the Ms of the Vivekavilāsa with Amarakīrti, the author of the commentary on the Rtusamhāra, the only Ms of which is available in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute. The B. O. R. I. Ms definitely ascribes the authorship of the commentary to Amarakīrti ("अमरकीर्तिविनिर्मित[ता]यां.....काव्यवृत्तौ सगोऽजनि प्रथम एव नृपाभिरस्यः") and this Amarakīrti is further stated to be the head of the Nāgapur tapogaccha ("नागपुरीयतपोगणभूषश्रीअमरकीर्ति-विह(हि)तायां ऋतुवर्णनस्य वृत्तौ"). We are not aware of any other Amarakīrti acting as the head of Nāgapura tapāgaccha between A. D. 1550 and 1600 and hence will be justified in identifying the author of the commentary on the Rtusamhāra with his namesake under whom the Ms of the Vivekavilāsa was copied at Nāgapur in Samv. 1649 i.e. A. D. 1592 during Akbar's reign¹ (A. D. 1556-1605).

If our identification of the two Amarakīrti-s is accepted, we shall have to assign the author of the commentary on the Rtusamhāra to the last quarter of the 16th century.

The Dictionary of Jain Biography mentions two other namesakes of Amarakīrti : (1) "A Dig. Bhaṭṭāraka, author of the Svayambhu-Sahasranāma-Stotraṭīkā" and (2) "the Author of a commentary on Ratnaśekharasūri's Sambodha-sitterī." I have not examined the question of the chronology of these two authors and hence am unable to say anything about it in the present note.

The third namesake of our Amarakīrti not recorded by the Dictionary of Jain Biography has been brought to our notice by Prof. Hiralal² of Amraoti. He is distinct in all particulars of time and place from our Amarakīrti of the Nāgapura tapāgaccha. He belongs to the “Māthura Sangha” and his line of spiritual preceptors as recorded by Prof. Hiralal is as follows:—“अमितगति-शान्ति-सेन-अमरसेन-श्रीषेण-चन्द्रकीर्ति-अमरकीर्ति.” He completed his work पद्कर्मोपदेश in apabhramśa in “संवत् १२४७, भाद्रपद मास, द्वितीय (शुक्र?) पक्ष, १४ तिथि, गुरुवार” when कृष्णनरेंद्र son of वंदिगदेव of the Cālukya dynasty was reigning at Godhra in Gujarat. He wrote seven other works viz. (1) नेमिनाथ चरित्र, (2) महावीर चरित्र, (3) यशोधर चरित्र, (4) धर्मचरित्रटिप्पण, (5) सुभाषितरत्नविधि, (6) धर्मोपदेशचूडामणि and (7) ध्यानप्रदीप. I have verified the date of the पद्कर्मोपदेश as recorded by the author and find that it corresponds to Thursday, 16th August 1190.¹ It would thus be seen that this namesake of our commentator flourished 400 years earlier.

1. Akbar patronised the Jaina learned men. In A. D. 1582 he placed Hiravijaya Sūri in the first division of the order of the Learned. In 1592 he conferred the title of yugapradhāna on Jinacandra Sūri. An inscription of Samvat 1651-52 (A. D. 1594-95) at Aphilavāḍa Pāṭaṇa describes the interview between Akbar and Jinacandra Sūri (See Dict. of Jain Biography pp. 37-38).

2. Vide Jaina Antiquary Vol. II, Part 3, pp. 80-92 and Vol. II¹ Part 4, pp. 120-131 (1935-36).

13. A Commentary on the Vāgbhaṭālamkāra by Jñānapramodagaṇi Composed in Jehangir's Reign in A. D. 1625 (Samvat 1681)†

No mention is made of a commentary on the Vāgbhaṭālamkāra of Vāgbhaṭa I by a Jain Commentator Jñānapramodagaṇi either by Dr. S. K. De in his Sanskrit Poetics or by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum. Only the Jain Granthāvali (1909) refers to a manuscript of this work in the Patan Bhandar (on p. 312) but the date of composition recorded therein and indicated by the remark “रज्यनो संवत् १६२१” is wrong. Perhaps “१६२१” is a misprint for 1681 but this misprint is repeated in the Index of Dates given at the end of the Jain Granthāvali and is left uncorrected in the शुद्धिपत्र annexed to the volume.

The Govt. MSS Library at the Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Poona, possesses only one manuscript of this Vāgbhaṭālamkāravṛtti. It is No. 798 of 1899-1915 and is included in the list of MSS printed by this Institute in 1925. Though the folios of the manuscript are serially numbered, the manuscript is incomplete, as on folio 1 the commentary on stanza 22 of the 2nd Pariccheda begins. The colophon of the 2nd Pariccheda as recorded on folio 3 of the MS reads as follows:—

“इति बृहत्खरतरगच्छे भट्टारकप्रभुश्रीजिनराजसूरिविजयिराज्ये श्रीसागरचंद्र-तायां वाग्भटालंकारवृत्तौ द्वितीयः परिच्छेदः”

The MS consists of 78 folios and is uniformly written in a legible manner, characteristic of the Jain scribes.

The colophon of the MS reads as follows on folios 77-78:—

“इति बृहत्खरतरगच्छे भट्टारकप्रभुश्रीजिनराजसूरिविजयिराज्ये श्रीसागर-

The chronogram “विधुवसुरसशशि” in verse 18 of the above colophon gives us Samvat 1681 (= A.D. 1625) as the date of composition of this commentary by Jñānapramodagaṇi as stated in the verse. The expression “साम्राज्ये सिलमेसाहः” presumably refers to the reign of Emperor Jehangir, whose Christian name, as we are given to understand, was Muhammad Sultan Salim.¹ Then again the epithet “पातसाहिपुंगव” as applied to “सिलमेसाह” in verse 20 definitely states his imperial descent and this statement combined with the date of composition of the commentary viz. A. D. 1625 leaves no doubt that the reference to “सिलमेसाह” in the two verses 19 and 20 is definitely applicable to Emperor Jehangir alone and not to Salem Shah, who was Emperor of Delhi between A. D. 1545 and 1553² and who is stated to have honoured Candrakīrti, the Jain Commentator of the Sārāsvataprakriyā of Anubhūtiśvarūpācārya. The above colophon also mentions one “गजसिंहभूप” or “गजसिंह महीप”. I am inclined to identify this King with Maharaja Gaja Sing³ who was one of the distinguished officers employed by Jehangir to hunt down Shah Jahan in May 1623 A. D. during the latter’s revolt against the former. We also know that this officer of Jehangir was signally defeated in one of his encounters with Shah Jahan’s forces to such an extent that even his tent equipage was seized by the enemy. Dr. Sudhindranath Bhattacharyya⁴ describes this encounter in his learned article on “The Rebellion of Shaha Jahan etc.” as follows:—

“The need for wiping off the stain of this defeat was keenly felt and the rebel prince now made a fresh effort to dislodge the Imperialists from their entrenchments. The fleet and the artillery renewed their activities and the Rajput forces under Raja Gaj Singh of Jodhapur were now vigorously attacked and reduced to great straits. Raids upon the Imperialist Camp followed, in one of which even the tent equipage of the Rajput Chief Gaj Singh was seized and many of his followers slain. The turn of Sultan Pervez soon came. His camp was also successfully attacked and some of his personal effects including the bed-stead were carried away"—(Beharistan 313a—313b.)

As regards the identification of "लव्हेरस्थान" mentioned in verse 19 of the colophon, I am inclined to identify it with "Lahore" which was occasionally the seat of Jehangir's court and where Jehangir arrived from Kashmir on October 12, 1625 and stayed for a few months before he set out for Kabul in March 1626.¹ The name "लव्हेर" of the present MS colophon is phonetically nearer to "Lahore" than other names for it recorded by Mr. N. L. Day viz. लवपुर, लववर, लोहवर.²

Our commentator informs us in the last verse of the colophon that the present MS is the प्रथमादर्श i.e. the first original MS of the commentary, written by a scribe who is none other than one of his pupils named गुणनेदनगणि. It appears to me, however, to be rather a copy of this प्रथमादर्श than the प्रथमादर्श itself for the reason that in spite of the missing portion of the commentary for the 1st Pariccheda and 21 verses of the 2nd Pariccheda, the copyist has numbered the folios serially from 1 to 78 and secondly our MS contains scribal errors though it is neatly written, which would not have been the case, had it been a प्रथमादर्श prepared under the direct supervision of the author. Our copy appears, however, to be very old being characterized by the use of पृष्ठमात्रास.

Our commentator Jñānapramoda belonged to बृहत्खरतरगच्छ, which is the 11th branch line from the main line of खरतरगच्छ.³ The commentary was composed in Samvat 1681 (= A. D. 1625) when जिनराजसूरि was the head-monk of the बृहत्खरतरगच्छ (जिनराजसूरि-त्रिजयिराज्ये). He died in Samvat 1699 (= A. D. 1643)⁴ at Patan i.e. 18 years later. A year later i.e. in A. D. 1644 the खरतरगच्छ divided into several branches. The "सागरचंद्रसूरिसंतान" referred to in the colophon is the line founded by सागरचंद्राचार्य.⁵ His predecessor was one जिनराजसूरि who became सूरि in Saṃvat 1432 (= A. D. 1376) at Patan and died in Saṃvat 1461 (= A. D. 1405).

The "रत्नधीरगणिप्रवर" to which our commentator belongs has not been mentioned in the Kharatara Gaccha Paṭṭāvalis. There is, however, one रत्ननिधान¹ mentioned as one of the five pre-eminent pupils of जिनचंद्रसूरि. This जिनचंद्र was born in Saṃvat 1595 (= A. D. 1539) and died in Saṃvat 1670 (A. D. 1614).

The "चन्द्रकुल"² mentioned in verse 3 of the colophon is one of the four कुलs or families called after नागेन्द्र, चन्द्र, निवृत्ति and विद्याधर who are said to have renounced the world with their families at the advice of श्रीवज्रसेनाचार्य. Other सूरिs of खरतरगच्छ mentioned in verses 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 of the colophon are :—

उद्योतनसूरि³—He comes after नेमिचन्द्र in the Paṭṭāvali of खरतरगच्छ. He is said to have founded 84 गच्छs.

वर्द्धमानसूरि⁴—He is said to have died after installing जिनेश्वर in the line in Saṃvat 1088 (= A. D. 1032). He gave the title खरतर to his pupil जिनेश्वर.*

जिनेश्वरसूरि⁵—He obtained the title खरतर in Saṃvat 1088 (= A. D. 1032) from his guru वर्द्धमान.

The Paṭṭāvali (p. 44) records an anecdote of this Sūri according to which मोजदान पातिसाह of Delhi, while on death-bed, mistook an attendant called खवास मोजदीन for prince मोजदीन and granted the royal arms to him. खवास मोजदीन was the son of a पिंजारक, prophesied by जिनचंद्रसूरि to become पातिसाह. When the above mistake was pointed out to the Emperor he remarked:—"मया यद्दत्तं तद्दत्तमेव । सप्तपुरुषवाक्यं नान्यथा स्यात्." Thereafter the Emperor's true son was destroyed and खवास having obtained kingdom ruled as मोजदीन पातिसाहि.

अभयदेवसूरि¹—He is mentioned as 42nd Sūri in the Paṭṭāvali. No dates of this Sūri are recorded in the Paṭṭāvali. He is the author of नवांगवृत्ति.

जिनवल्लभसूरि²—He is mentioned as the 43rd Sūri in the Kharataragaccha Paṭṭāvali. He wrote many works and became Sūri in Saṃvat 1167 (= A. D. 1111) and died six months later in Saṃvat 1168 at Citrakūṭa. About this time the first branch line of the Kharataragaccha came into existence and was called "मधुकर खरतर."

जैनदत्त³—He is identical with जिनदत्त mentioned in the Paṭṭāvalis. The name जैनदत्त is applied to this Sūri in the खरतरगच्छसूरिपरंपरा (p. 4). He was born in Saṃvat 1132 (= A. D. 1076) and died in Saṃvat 1211 (= A. D. 1155) at Ajmere. Many anecdotes are recorded about his miraculous powers and achievements in the Paṭṭāvalis. The Sūris mentioned in the 1st line of verse 6 of the colophon under the expression "जिनादुदयराजभद्रसूरिणाः" are the following:—

जिनोदयसूरि⁴—He is 54th Sūri in the Paṭṭāvali. He was born in Saṃvat 1375 (= A. D. 1319) and died at Patan in Saṃvat 1422 (= A. D. 1366).

जिनराजसूरि⁵—He is No. 55 of the Paṭṭāvali. He became Sūri

जिनभद्रसूरि¹—He is No. 56 of the Paṭṭāvali. He became Sūri in Saṁvat 1475 (= A. D. 1419) and died in Saṁvat 1514 (= A. D. 1458).

The Sūris mentioned in the 2nd line of verse 6 of the colophon are:—

जिनचंद्रसूरि²—He is No. 57 in the Paṭṭāvali. He resided at Jesalmeru. He was born in Saṁvat 1487 (= A. D. 1431) and died in Saṁvat 1530 (= A. D. 1474).

जिनसमुद्रसूरि³—He is No. 58 in the Paṭṭāvali. He was born in Saṁvat 1510 (= A. D. 1450) and died at Ahmedabad in Saṁvat 1555 (= A. D. 1499).

जिनहंससूरि⁴—He is No. 59 in the Paṭṭāvali. He was born in Saṁvat 1524 (= A. D. 1468) and died at Patan in Saṁvat 1582 (= A. D. 1526).

The Sūris of the Kharataragaccha mentioned in verse 7 of the colophon are:—

जिनमाणिक्यसूरि⁵—He is No. 60 of the Jain Paṭṭāvali and was born in Saṁvat 1549 (= A. D. 1493) and died in Saṁvat 1612 (= A. D. 1556).

जिनचंद्रसूरि⁶—He is No. 61 of the Jain Paṭṭāvali and was born in Saṁvat 1595 (= A. D. 1539). He became Sūri in Saṁvat 1612 (= A. D. 1556) and died in Saṁvat 1670 (= A. D. 1614).

जिनचंद्रसूरि⁷—He is No. 62 of the Jain Paṭṭāvali. He was born in Saṁvat 1615 (= A. D. 1559), became Sūri in Saṁvat 1670 (= A. D. 1614) and died in Saṁvat 1674 (= A. D. 1618).

जिनराजसूरि¹—This Sūri mentioned in verse 8 of the colophon is No. 63 of the Jain Paṭṭāvali. As we have remarked above he was at the head of the बृहत्खरतरगच्छ at the time when the commentary by Jñānapramodagaṇi was composed in Saṃvat 1681 (= A. D. 1625). He died in Saṃvat 1699 (= A. D. 1643). His parents belonged to the बोहिथरा गोत्र. One of the pupils named सिद्धसेनगणि who belonged to the same गोत्र viz. बोहिथरा was made Sūri by him and named जिनसागरसूरि, who is identical with जिनसागर mentioned in verse 9 of the colophon. The branch of Kharataragaccha called the लघुखरतरगच्छ began with जिनसागरसूरि² in Saṃvat 1686 (= A. D. 1630).

The expression जिनराजगुरुधृतभुवनरत्नसूरिपद of verse 9 of the colophon obviously refers to the fact, corroborated by the Paṭṭāvalis, that जिनराजसूरि installed भुवनरत्न³ as a Sūri in his own line. In verse 10 of the colophon we are informed that an illustrious branch of the Kharataragaccha was named after सागरचंद्रसूरि,⁴ while verse 11 states that धर्मरत्नसूरि belonged to the branch-line called after सागरचंद्र. This धर्मरत्न is the same as was installed by जिनचंद्रसूरि in his line as stated in the Paṭṭāvali.⁵ Verse 12 of the colophon mentions that बल्लभ was the pupil of this धर्मरत्न. After बल्लभ comes दयाधर्मगणि and after him is mentioned श्रीशिवधर्म (verse 13). Verse 14 of the colophon introduces us to रत्नधीर who was the direct preceptor of our commentator as stated in verse 17. This preceptor रत्नधीर belonged to the line of गुणरत्नसूरि.⁶ Verses 15 and 16 of the colophon contain merely laudatory description of रत्नधीर who, as we have seen above, was the immediate preceptor of our author ज्ञानप्रमोदगणि.

In the foregoing lines we have tried to identify with the help of available documents all historical data of an important nature furnished by the only available MS of Jñānapramoda's commentary on the Vāgbhaṭālamkāra. It is not the object of the present paper to discuss the literary merits of the commentary in question and hence that question must be left to other scholars. Our purpose in the present study is mainly historical and more specifically chronological, as chronology is the very back-bone of all historical research.

As the present commentary furnishes its own date of composition, internal evidence is of no use for purposes of its chronology. Some of the references it makes to previous authors and works may, however, be noted here as the commentary is represented only by two MSS so far as we know. These references are the following :—

अभिधानचिंतामणि — folios 9, 44.

प्रभासपुराण — fol. 12.

दंडि — fol. 14.

काव्यप्रकाश — fol. 14, 33, 41.

वृत्त्यंतरध्याख्याने — fol. 21.

अमरुशतकटीका — fol. 29, 45.

सर्वकपावृत्ति (on माघकाव्य) — fol. 41.

Though the commentary does not bristle with references as in the case of Mallinātha's commentaries, it is quite learned in its tone and treatment.

It is said to be a work on “palmistry and divination”. It begins with “श्रीशङ्खेश्वरपार्श्व प्रणमन ध्यायंस्तमेव वृजिनवृषभे” etc. and ends as follows :—“इति हस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने हस्तस्पर्शनाधिकारः सम्पूर्णः.”

3. Vide p. 86 of Peterson's Catalogue of Ulwar MSS (1892)—“2028 Hastasañjīvanī by a Jain writer, L. 1514. Bik. p. 296, with the Commentary of Meghavijayagaṇi. The description of the Ulwar MS of the Hastasañjivana by Peterson creates an impression that the text of the work is written by one Jain author, while the commentary has been written by Meghavijayagaṇī. In the colophon of the Ulwar MS the name of this commentary is recorded as "सामुद्रिकलहरी." In a MS of the Hastasañjivana recently acquired by the B. O. R. Institute we find the following elaborate colophon :—

1. The number of stanzas in the MS is about 500 excluding the prose comment. These stanzas are not, however, all of them in anuṣṭup metre, some of them being quotations from earlier works.

श्रीमेघविजयगणकविरचितं हस्तसंजीवनं संपूर्णं ॥

(Here a line in Persian characters is recorded by the scribe). The metaphor of मेघ (cloud) and वृष्टि (rain) in stanza 85 of above extract is also found in the following extract from folio 2 :—

“सामुद्रिकोद्बोधपयो निपीय मेघो रसं वर्षति मृ...सुध्या ।
समेघतां तेन सुखेन लोकः श्रीहस्तसंजीवनमेतदाद्यम् ॥ २० ॥

इति श्रीहस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने शास्त्रपीठिका ॥ ”

Sometimes the verses are followed by a prose comment introduced by the words “भाष्य यथा” which show that the MS contains both the text and commentary.

The question now arises : Is Meghavijaya the author of the हस्तसंजीवन as stated in the colophon “मेघविजयगणकविरचितं हस्तसंजीवनं ” ? With a view to deciding this question we must record some of the colophons in the body of the MS. These colophons¹ are as follows :—

Folio 8—“इति हस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने तिथिवारनक्षत्रवेलादिवर्णगंधरसस्पर्शा- कारादि हस्तस्वरूपवर्णनाधिकारः ॥ १ ॥

Folio 11—“इति ह(स्तसंजीवने) ह(स्त)स्पर्शनाधिकारः”

Folio 19—“इति हस्तसंजीवने रेखाविमर्शनं नाम तृतीयोऽध्यायः ॥”

Folio 20—“इति वामहस्तरेखाविशेष(प)श्चतुर्थोऽध्यायः”

These colophons though irregularly recorded in the MS indicate that the work Hastasañjīvana consists of 4 adhyāyas or adhikāras. Let us now record the works and authors referred to in the MS. These are as follows :—

(1) नीतिशास्त्रविवेकविलासे, fol. 1 (Cf. CC I, 298—नीतिविलास and नीतिविवेक)

(2) नष्टजातक, fol. 5,—(Vide CC I, 282)

1. A MS of the Hastasañjīvana at the B. O. R. Institute (No. 1386 of 1886-92) has the following colophons:—Folio 8—

“इति हस्तसंजीवने तिथ्यादिहस्तस्वरूपवर्णनाधिकारः प्रथमः ॥ ”

Last Folio 11—“इति श्रीहस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने हस्तस्पर्शनाधिकारः संपूर्णः ॥ ”

Evidently this MS is incomplete as it contains 2 adhikāras only.

- (4) पवनजातक, fol. 5
- (5) पद्मकोश, fol. 5 (Vide CC I, 212 — ज्योतिष पद्मकोश and CC I, 321 — पद्मकोश, पद्मकोशजातक)
- (6) मतांतरेण, fol. 5, 7, प्राच्यां मते (fol. 8), 16

- (8) शैवसामुद्रिके, fol. 11, 19, 15 (दशमाध्याये), 17 (अष्टादशध्याये)
- (9) विवेकविलासे,¹ fol. 11, 15, 16, 18, 19
- (10) प्रकरणकारः², fol. 11, 15, 17, प्रकरणे, 12, 16, 17, 18, 14, 15 (प्रकरणमते)
- (11) हस्तबिंबकार, fol. 11, 15, 16
- (12) भोजकृतसामुद्रिके, fol. 16, 18 (भोजसामुद्रिके)³
- (13) जैनसामुद्रिके, fol. 16

The foregoing names of works and authors introducing certain views or quotations pertain mostly to the science of palmistry as expounded by Jain or non-Jain writers. It is necessary to see if these works on palmistry are now represented by any extant MSS in our Manuscript Libraries.

The MS of the Hastasanjivana analysed above contains some chronological data which may help us to fix the chronological limits for the work. On folio 3 we find the following comment :—

“अत्र सुखावबोधाय किंचिद्वाप्यं य(था) सं । १७३७ सा १६०२ प्रमोदसंवत्सरे ।
आषाढ शुद्ध द्वितीयायां तिथौ । शृगुवासरे । पुष्यनक्षत्रे । श्रीसूर्योदयाद्वातांतघटीषु ७।०

1. Prof. H. D. Velankar mentions two works of the name विवेक-विलास, one by भवसेनसूरि and the other by जिनदत्तसूरि of the Vayada Gaccha (Pub. at Ahmedabad, 1898).

2. The quotations from प्रकरण or प्रकरणकार are all in Prakrit verses e.g. (Folio 17)—“प्रकरणकारस्त्वाह ॥ वसद्गजछत्तचामरदामहयवज्जमच्चरेच ॥ ९३ ॥ ”

3. Compare सामुद्रिककण्ठाभरण (CC I, 711).

4. The date in this extract corresponds to Friday, 18th June 1680 (Vide 162 of Ind. Ephemeris VI).

Folio 8—“अत्रोदाहरणं । सं. १७३७ वर्षे सुभिक्षनिर्णयाय यथाविधि कुमार्पा-

Folio 10—“भाष्यं । यथोदाहरणं । सं. १७३७ ॥ आषाढसित द्वितीयायां

As the commentator Meghavijaya uniformly mentions Samvat 1737 (month of Aṣāḍha, tithi 2 of Śukla pakṣa) I am inclined to think that our commentator composed his commentary most probably in the month of Aṣāḍha of Samvat 1737 or Śaka 1602 (= A. D. 1680-81). At any rate it seems certain that the date of composition of the commentary lies in the year Samvat 1737 or after this year but not prior to A. D. 1680. Now let us see if this chronology of Meghavijaya's bhāṣya or commentary agrees with other known dates of his works¹ viz. A. D. 1660, 1671, 1691.

According to the *Jaina Granthāvali*² Meghavijaya composed Candraprabhāṭikā in Samvat 1757 (= A. D. 1701) and Hemakaumudī in Samvat 1758 (= A. D. 1702).³

If these dates are correct, we may take it for certain that Meghavijaya's literary career⁴ lies between A. D. 1650 and say 1705. It is thus possible that he composed his commentary on the हस्तसंजीवन at least in A. D. 1680-81 or between, say, A. D. 1680 and 1705.

1. Vide p. 425 of Classical Sanskrit Literature by M. Krishnamachariar — Meghavijaya composed his पञ्चाख्यानोद्धार in Samvat 1716 (= A. D. 1660). (Vide Keith's SL, 260.)

Page 193 — Meghavijaya (pupil of कृपाविजय) composed Digvijaya-mahākāvya (the life of विजयप्रभसूरि) in Samvat 1747 (A. D. 1691).

2. Jaina Granthāvali (Bombay, 1909), p. 78.

3. Ibid., 303.

4. Vide p. 192 of Krishnamachariar's Classical Sans. Literature — “Meghavijaya was a Jain monk. He was a pupil of Kṛpā-vijaya and 5th in hierarchical descent from Hīravijaya. He was well versed in grammar, astronomy and logic and his writings on these branches of learning are now appreciated.” His works :— (1) सप्तसंधान, (2) देवानन्दाभ्युदय (A. D. 1671), (3) शान्तिनाथचरित, (4) मेघदूत-समस्यालेख, (5) दिग्विजय महाकाव्य (A. D. 1691), (6) युक्तिप्रबोध.

We have now to see if our Meghavijaya the author of the Bhāṣya on the Hastasaṇjivana is identical with his namesake, the author of works composed between A. D. 1650 and 1705.

In verse 86 of the colophon quoted above Meghavijaya calls himself the pupil of Kṛpāvijaya (“शिष्यः कृपालोर्विजयस्य धीमतः”). He also refers to विजयप्रभ in the same stanza. We have already seen that the दिग्विजयमहाकाव्य, composed in A. D. 1651 by Meghavijaya, is a life of Vijayaprabhasūri as stated by Dr. M. Krishnamachariar. It is, therefore, clear that our Meghavijaya, the commentator of the Hastasaṇjivana is identical with his namesake, the author of works composed in A. D. 1660, 1671, 1691, 1701 and 1702. It is also proved that our commentator, the author of the सामुद्रिक-लहरी commentary on the Hastasaṇjivana composed this commentary in A. D. 1680-81 or sometime thereafter but before A. D. 1705 or so. The question already raised by me in this paper regarding the identity of the author of the Hastasaṇjivana with the author of the Sāmudrikalaharī commentary cannot be answered at present as I have no other complete MS of both the text and commentary for examination and comparison.

Mr. M. D. Desai on pp. 188-190 of his जैन गूर्जर कविओ, Vol. I, (1931, Bombay) supplies the following information about the Gujarati and Sanskrit works of Meghavijaya, the pupil of Kṛpāvijaya :—Gujarati Works : (1) विजयदेव निर्वाणरास, (2) पार्श्वनाथनाममाला (Samvat 1721 = A. D. 1655); Sanskrit Works : (1) देवानन्दाभ्युदयकाव्य (Samvat 1727 = A.D. 1671); (2) मातृकाप्रासाद (Samvat 1747 = A. D. 1691) composed at धर्मनगर; (3) चन्द्र-प्रभा व्याकरण (Samvat 1757 = A. D. 1701) composed at Agra; (4) सप्तसंधान-महाकाव्य (Samvat 1760 = A. D. 1704) with Tippana; (5) शांतिनाथचरित्र; (6) तत्त्वगीता; (7) धर्ममंजूषा; (8) युक्तिप्रबोधनाटक; (9) मेघदूतसमस्यालेख; (10) भक्तामर-स्तोत्रवृत्ति and (11) विजयदेवमाहात्म्यप्रयोगपरिस्फोटन.

15. A Contemporary Manuscript of the Hastasañjivana-Bhāṣya of Meghaviṣayagaṇi,
Belonging to Raghunātha Mahādeva Ghāṭe-
Between A. D. 1680 and 1700 †

In a recent paper contributed by me to the Bhāratiya Vidyā,¹ Bombay, I tried to establish that Meghaviṣayagaṇi, the author of numerous works in Sanskrit and a few works in Gujarāṭi, composed his commentary on the Hastasañjivana either in A. D. 1680-81 or between A. D. 1680 and 1705. I further suggested that this view of mine was in harmony with the known dates of composition of the works of this Jain author viz., A. D. 1660, 1665, 1671, 1691, 1701, 1702 and 1704. Since my paper was sent to the above journal for publication I have come across a rare MS of the Hastasañjivana, which appears to be identical with the Hastasañjivana together with Bhāṣya, the authorship of which is ascribed to Meghaviṣayagaṇi. This MS though incomplete is very important as it is a contemporary copy of the Hastasañjivana with Bhāṣya, composed by Meghaviṣaya and hence supports my chronology for it viz., A. D. 1680-81 or “between A. D. 1680 and 1705.”

The MS² of the Hastasañjivana referred to above belongs to the Sanskrit Pāṭhashālā, Rajapur (Ratnagiri District of the Bombay Presidency). It was presented to this Pāṭhashālā in 1931 by the late Narayan Sitaram Ghāṭe³ of the village Hardī near Rajapur along with many valuable MSS from his family collection. The description of the MS is as follows:—

Size:—10 inches by 4½ inches.

Material:—Country paper, very old, though well preserved.

Extent :—14 folios; 14 lines to a page; about 42 letters to a line. On folio 1a we find the following endorsement. “श्रीहस्तसंजी-

A similar endorsement ' is found at the close of the MS on folio 14 a.

The MS begins as follows:—

“श्रीगणपतये नमः ॥ श्रीभद्रकाल्यै नमः ।

Folio 2a—“इति श्रीहस्तसंजीवने शास्त्रपीठिका” —verses 1 to 19

Folio 3a—“इति हस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने पुण्यसाधने ध्यानविधानं” —verses 1 to 21

Folio 3b—“इति हस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने नामानि” —verses 1 to 15

Folio 4a—“इति हस्तसंजीवने सिद्धज्ञाने हस्तविलोकनविधिः” —verses 1 to 17

Folio 4b—“इति हस्तसंजीवने तिथिदर्शनं” —verses 1 to 18

Folio 8b—“इति ह० अंगुलीस्वरूप चक्री” —verses 1 to 83

Folio 13—ends—

“पनुरेखांगुष्टरेखा... ह्येनो तद्भवः ॥ ८७ ॥”

The MS breaks off here and is followed by the endorsement regarding its ownership which we have quoted already in this paper.

1. This endorsement reads as follows ;—

“श्रीमत्कौशिकमहर्षेः वंशकुलपरंपरागत र (?) घंटाभिधान-यशस्करभट्ट-सर्वज्ञसंपन्नसर्व-कुसु (?) सुरवंद्यश्रीमद्यशस्करभट्टस्यैदं पुस्तकं हस्तसंजीवनाख्यमित्यास्तां विस्तरः प्रकृत-मनुसरामः । ”

Verse 87 “पितृरेखांगुष्टरेखा etc.”) quoted above corresponds to verse 87 of the 3rd adhyāya (रेखाविमर्शन) of the हस्तसंजीवन of the B. O. R. Institute MS of the work acquired in 1942. The rest of the work as represented by folios 14 to 20 of the B. O. R. I. MS is wanting in the Rajapur MS before me and hence it is incomplete as the work consists of 4 Adhyāyas. Perhaps the original from which the Rajapur copy was prepared was incomplete. The B. O. R. I. copy which is complete and which gives us some verses at the close about Meghavijaya, Vijayaprabha and Kṛpāvijaya has the same text (verses and prose भाष्य) as is found in the incomplete Rajapur MS.

The Bhāṣya on folio 3 of the B. O. R. I. MS mentions as an example Samvat 1737, Śaka 1602 Pramoda Samvatsara with other chronological details which give us the date *Friday, 18th June 1680.*¹ Samvat 1737 is again mentioned on folios 8¹ and 10 of the B.O.R.I. MS. This mention of the year A. D. 1680 warrants an inference that the work Hastasañjivana-bhāṣya of Meghavijaya was composed either in A. D. 1680 or between A. D. 1680 and 1705, which is the last recorded date of one of Meghavijaya's works.

I shall now state my evidence for regarding the Rajapur MS of the Hastasañjivana as a contemporary copy. This evidence is as follows:—

(1) यशस्कर वांटे of कौशिक गौत्र, the owner of the हस्तसंजीवन MS, flourished between A. D. 1650 and 1700 and was a contemporary of मेघविजयगणि, whose dates range between A. D. 1660 and 1704.

(2) यशस्कर was also called येसंभट्ट or रघुनाथभट्ट. His genealogy as reconstructed by me is as follows:—

1. Folio 4a of Rajapur MS contains the extract giving these chronological details.

2. Vide folio 9a of the Rajapur MS.

(3) यशस्कर घांटे or घांटे composed some works on dharmasāstra viz., श्राद्धनिर्णयदीपिका निर्णयरत्नावलि, सोमेश्वरदशक etc. In these works he mentions निर्णयसिंधुकार i.e. the author of the निर्णयसिंधु of Kamalākara which was composed in A. D. 1612.

(4) यशस्कर performed a जप in A. D. 1680 and kept a record of it in his own handwriting. This document records his name and the year A. D. 1680 when the जप was performed.

(5) The Rajapur MS of the हस्तसंजीवन must have been copied presumably between A. D. 1680 and say 1700 i.e. during the lifetime of यशस्कर or रघुनाथ महादेव घांटे of the village Hardī near Rajapur, where his descendants are still living. The fact that this MS belonged to यशस्कर (alias रघुनाथ) महादेव घांटे is clear from the endorsements at the beginning and end of the Rajapur MS of the हस्तसंजीवन. Similar endorsements are found on other MSS belonging to यशस्कर-भट्ट and his brother अनंतभट्ट, both of whom flourished between A. D. 1650 and 1700. These brothers were definitely living between A. D. 1680 and 1683 as proved by the record of these dates on their MSS. In my paper¹ on रघुनाथ महादेव घांटे (between A. D. 1650 and 1700) I have recorded sufficient contemporary documentary evidence regarding the chronology of the works of this author and hence it need not be repeated here.

That an author who flourished between A. D. 1650 and 1700 should own a copy of the हस्तसंजीवनभाष्य of मेघविजय proves beyond challenge the contemporary character of the copy and hence supports my limits for the date of composition of this work viz. "between A. D. 1680 and 1700." Most probably the work was composed in the year A. D. 1680 which is mentioned twice or thrice in the body of the work.

16. The Chronology of the Commentary of Sadānandagaṇi on the Siddhānta-Candrikā of Rāmāśrama or Rāmacandrāśrama — A. D. 1743 †

Aufrecht¹ records a few Mss of a commentary on the Siddhānta-Candrikā of Rāmacandrāśrama by Sadānandagaṇi but records no date of composition of this commentary. Dr. Belvalkar² refers to this commentary in his account of the "Commentaries on the Sārasvata independently of the Prakriyā" but records no chronology for the work of its author. H. P. Śāstri³ describes a few Mss of Sadānandagaṇi's Subodhinī but makes no remarks about its date of composition. Prof. H. D. Velankar⁴ in his Īṇaratnakośa or Catalogus Catalogorum of Jain Mss refers to Subodhinī Vṛtti composed by Sadānandagaṇi, pupil of Bhaktivijaya of the Kharatara-Gaccha but does not mention its chronology. The Jaina Granthāvali also refers to this author without recording his chronology. I propose, therefore, to record in this paper some information about this author and his commentary Subodhinī on the Siddhānta-candrikā.

Two of these Mss are important as they contain the verse recording the date of composition of the work viz. Samvat 1799 = A. D. 1743. In the preliminary six verses of the Subodhinī Sadānanda gives us some information² about himself, his guru Bhaktivinaya and the Prof. H. D. Velankar states in his Jīnaratnakosa that क्षमाकल्याण who composed the above vṛtti was a pupil of अमृतधर्म of the खरतरागच्छ.

The commentary of Sadānandagaṇi is rich in citations especially in the Uttarārdha. I may note below some of the authors and works mentioned by this commentator. The number against each reference indicates the folio of Ms No. 347 of 1895-1902 of this commentary in the Govt. Mss Library.

The foregoing analysis of the Mss of Subodhinī of the Jain commentator of the Siddhānta-Candrikā proves the following points about his history and chronology:—

- (1) Sadānandagaṇi (=S) composed this commentary in A. D 1743.
- (2) S belonged to the Kharataragaccha, his guru being Bhaktivinaya.
- (3) S was a very close student of Sanskrit grammar as will be seen from his voluminous commentary Subodhinī and his acquaintance with the works of previous writers on grammar as also the numerous lexicons quoted by him profusely in his work.
- (4) S shows in an ample degree the interest of the Jain writers¹ in Sanskrit grammar as late as the middle of the 18th century and maintains the great tradition of scholastic studies established by such early writers on grammar Śrī Hemacandrācārya.

I shall feel thankful to our Jain scholar-friends if they bring to light any other works of Sadānandagaṇi known to them, either with private persons or public libraries not accessible to me.

1. Prof. H. D. Velankar in his Jīnaratnakośa, which has been published by the Bhandarkar O. R. Institute, Poona, refers to three Jain Commentaries on the Siddhānta-candrikā of Rāmacandrāśrama :—

- (1) Subodhinī by Sadānandagaṇi, the subject of my present paper.
- (2) Ṭippaṇa by Candrakīrti, which is different from his commentary on the Sārasvataprakriyā (Candrakīrti flourished about A. D. 1550),
- (3) Ṭikā (anonymous).

II — BRAHMANICAL

17. Date of Sārāvalī of Kalyāṇavarman- Between A. D. 550 and 966 †

Mr. V. Subrahmanya Shastri writes in his preface to the edition of Sārāvalī ¹ of Kalyāṇavarman: "In my attempts to make out the ambiguous portion of certain Ślokas in Jātakapārijāta ² I had to refer to Bṛhajjātaka and its commentary by Bhaṭṭotpala to decide upon the right interpretation of the dubious passages. I found that Bhaṭṭotpala who lived in the time of Emperor Jehangir supported his explanations of the passages in Varāhamihira's work by largely quoting from Sārāvalī, because his authority on astrological points was undisputedly acknowledged in his time." "The author Kalyāṇavarman appears to have flourished between the ages of Varāhamihira and Bhaṭṭotpala."

I wonder on what authority Mr. Subrahmanya Shastri makes the statement that Bhaṭṭotpala lived in the time of Emperor Jehangir whose period of reign is A. D. 1605 – 1627. The date of Varāhamihira ³ being A. D. 505 we shall have to conclude on the assumption of the contemporaneity of Bhaṭṭotpala and Emperor Jehangir that Kalyāṇavarman flourished between A. D. 505 and A. D. 1627.

Mr. Shastri's statement, however, appears to be wrong in view of the following facts: —

3. Duff: Chronology of India, p. 38.

Varāhamihira wrote his commentary in A. D. 966.¹ This commentary is called Jagaccandrikā.²

(2) There is no other commentary on the Brhājātaka ascribed to any other Bhaṭṭotpala except the one referred to above, which is expressly dated in A. D. 966.

Our conclusion, therefore, would be that Kalyāṇavarman flourished between A. D. 505, the date of Varāhamihira and A. D. 966, the date of Bhaṭṭotpala who quotes from Sārāvalī as stated by Shastri in the extract from his Preface given above.

In Duff's Chronology of India, however, the following statement is found re. Kalyāṇavarman:—

"A. D. 578—Kalyāṇavarman, the astronomer, probably flourished about this date. He lived after Varāhamihira and was probably a contemporary of Brahmagupta—Gaṇakatarāṅginī, ed. Sudhākara, The Pandit N.S.XIV." ³

We know as a matter of fact that the astronomer Brahmagupta was born in A. D. 598⁴ and wrote his Brahmasphuṭasiddhānta in Śaka 550 (= A. D. 628) that is at the age of thirty. If Kalyāṇavarman flourished about A. D. 578, Brahmagupta's literary activity began about A. D. 628 i.e. about 50 years later. Brahmagupta wrote another work viz. Khaṇḍakhādya in A.D. 665 i.e. 37 years after the date of the Brahmasphuṭasiddhānta. These dates throw some doubt on the theory of contemporaneity of Brahmagupta and Kalyāṇavarman so far as the above facts go.

18. Date of the Grammarian Bhīmasena— Before A. D. 600 ‡

Dr. S. K. Belvalkar in his section on *Dhātupāṭha*¹ refers to the grammarian Bhīmasena in the following extract:—

“We next turn our attention to the Mādhavīyadhātuvṛtti which deals with the same subject and which was written by Mādhava or Sāyaṇa, the great Vedic Bhāṣyakāra (1350 A. D.). Sāyaṇa also mentions numerous workers in the same field whose labours he partly utilised. Among these may be mentioned, as belonging to the Pāṇiniya School, Bhīmasena and Maitreyarakṣita.”

The reference to Bhīmasena by Sāyaṇa about A. D. 1350 enables us to fix A.D. 1300 or so as one terminus to the date of Bhīmasena.

Aufrecht² records numerous MSS of Bhīmasena's Dhātupāṭha

‡ New Indian Antiquary, Vol. II, pp. 108–110.

1. Vide p. 53 of Systems of Sanskrit Grammar, Poona, 1915. On p. 42 Dr. Belvalkar refers to another Bhīmasena, the author of a Commentary on Mammaṭa's Kāvya-prakāśa, composed by him in Samvat 1779 (= A. D. 1722). He is of course different from the grammarian Bhīmasena, the author of Dhātupāṭha. Aufrecht refers to Bhīmasena Dikṣita (CC II, 94) who lived under Ajitasinhha of Yodhapura and wrote Kuvalayānanda Khaṇḍana. One Bhīmasena, minister of a King of Nepal wrote a work called Sarvalakṣaṇapustaka. All these name-sakes of the grammarian Bhīmasena appear to be different from him.—The Ind. Office has a MS of रत्नावलीटिप्पण by भीमसेन (Vide I. O. Cata. Vol. II, Part II, No. 7353. p. 1205) written merely to explain Prākṛta passages (“संस्कृतेऽतिप्रवीणानां प्राकृतीयमजानताम् । उपकाराय रचितं भीमसेनेन टिप्पणं ।” I.O. MS No. 7730 (p. 1398) called the भीमसेन नामधारणी in 35 verses is dated A. D. 1764 and deals with Buddhist mystic formula or धारणी.

and mentions him as the author of Bhaimī grammar¹ quoted by Rāyamukuṭa and Padmanābha. As Rāyamukuṭa wrote his commentary in A.D. 1431 Sāyaṇa's reference to Bhīmasena of about A.D. 1350 is of course the earliest one so far noticed.

M. M. Haraprasad Shastri has described² three MSS of Bhīmasena's Dhātupāṭha in the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal. In his scholarly Preface (P. xxxi) M.M. Shastri observes :—

“Every grammarian had to make his own list of verbal roots from the pre-existing indices. Pāṇini's *Dhātupāṭha*³ consists of 1944 roots, plus 20 Śrauta dhātus which have to be picked up from the Sūtras of Pāṇini. The works on roots of the School of Pāṇini have

D. 1709.—‘There are three MSS of Bhīmasena's Dhātupāṭha in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute viz. No. 220 of 1892-95, No. 94 of A 1883-84 and No. 327 of A 1881-82. (These have been described by Dr. Belvalkar on pp. 163 to 166 of his Descriptive Catalogue of Grammar MSS, Vol. II, Part I (B. O. R. Institute, Poona, 1938). Describing MS No. 220 of 1892-95 (which is dated Samvat 1696 = A. D. 1639) Dr. Belvalkar observes :—

“The list of roots is said to be the work of Pāṇini while भीमसेन is said to have supplied their meaning. This भीमसेन is an elderly writer and is credited with the authorship of a distinct commentary called प्रदीप on this same धातुपाठ.”

“भीमी grammar, by Bhīmasena, Oppert 3334, 4236, II, 2774.”

3. Winternitz in his Geschichte der ind. Litteratur, III (1920) deals with the Dhātupāṭhas of Pāṇini, Kātantra, Candra, Hemacandra, Vopadeva as also Pāli Dhātupāṭha but I find no reference to Bhīmasena in the Index to this volume. He, however, refers to the Dhātupradīpa of Maitreyarākṣita (p. 395). In “Materialien zum Dhātupāṭha,” Bruno Liebich, Heidelberg, 1921, (Carl Winters) I find no mention of Bhīmasena's Dhātupāṭha.

many commentaries..... Numbers 4351 to 53 are by Bhīmasena and 4354 is by Maitreya-rakṣita one of the Buddhist Commentators of Pāṇini. It is later than Bhīmasena. Maitreya flourished according to Śrīśa Babu about 1100 A. D. The greatest work on Sanskrit roots of this school is by the well-known Mādhavācārya. It has been published in the Mysore Sanskrit Series. It is of an encyclopaedic character. Babu Śrīśa Candra has written a commentary on the Dhātupradīpa by Maitreya in his edition published by the Varendra Research Society."

If Bhīmasena is earlier¹ than Maitreya-rakṣita (who flourished about A. D. 1100) the date of our Bhīmasena is pushed back by 250 years from A. D. 1350, the date of Sāyaṇa, who refers to him as stated by Dr. Belvalkar. We have now to see if we can push back the date of Bhīmasena still further backwards from A. D. 1100.

The evidence on the strength of which I propose to push back Bhīmasena's date by at least 500 years from A. D. 1100, the date of Maitreya-rakṣita is as follows :—

The Tattvārthādhigamaśūtra,² a treatise on the fundamental principles of Jainism was composed by Umāśvāti with his self-composed commentary (Svopajñabhāṣya) "between the 1st and the 4th centuries of the Vikrama era" according to Prof. H. R. Kapadia³ or between 1 and 85 A.D. according to Satis Chandra Vidyabhushan.⁴ Siddhasenagaṇi composed a commentary on Umāśvāti's Sūtra and bhāṣya. In this voluminous commentary he refers to many previous *Sūtris*⁵. In his discussion of Siddhasena's date Prof. Kapadia

1. M. M. H. P. Shastri (in his description of MS 4354 dated Śaka 1490 = A. D. 1568) states that Dhātupradīpa of Maitreya "follows Bhīmasena" (p. 73).

4. History of Mediaeval School of Indian Logic, p. 8.

5. Vide pp. 100–101 and 123 of Prof. Kapadia's edition of T. Sūtra. Prof. Kapadia attempts an identification of some of the Sūtris etc. (pp. 54–65 of Introduction) mentioned by Siddhasena. I shall here note for reference their names only as found on p. 123 :—

शाकल्य, बाष्कल, कुथुमि, सत्यसुमि, राणायन, कठ, मध्यन्दिन, मोर, पिप्पलाद, बादरायण, स्वष्टकृद्, अनिकात्यायन, जैमिनि, वसु, मरूचि, कुमार, कपिल, लुक, गार्ग्य, व्याघ्रभूति, बाह्वलि, माठर, मौद्वल्यायन, कोकुल, काण्ठेविद्धि, कौशिक, हरिदमश्रु, मान्धनिक, रोमक, हारित, मुण्ड, आश्वलायन, वसिष्ठ, पराशर, जातूकण, वाल्मीकि, रोमहर्षणि, सत्य-वत्त, इलापुत्र, औपमन्य, चन्द्रदत्त, धमेकीर्ति (p. 397 of Part I) etc.

states that "Siddhasena's date does not go ahead of the 7th century" (p. 64 of Introduction). Satischandra Vidyabhushan assigns Siddhasena to about 600 A. D. (Vide p. 182 of History of Indian Logic). In view of this early date for Siddhasena the following reference to व्याकरण भूमिसेन enables us to fix A. D. 600 or so as one terminus to Bhīmasena's date:—

Pages 254 — Umāsvāti's bhāṣya reads:—

"चिती सञ्ज्ञानविशुद्धयोः धातुः । तस्य चित्तमिति भवति निष्ठान्तमौणादिकं च"
Siddhasena comments :

चिती सञ्ज्ञानविशुद्धयोर्धातुरित्यादि । भूमिसेनात्परतोऽन्यैर्वैयाकरणैरथं द्वये पठितो धातुः सञ्ज्ञाने विशुद्धौ च । इह विशुद्धयर्थस्य सह सञ्ज्ञानेन ग्रहणम् । अथवानेकार्था धातवः इति सञ्ज्ञाने पठितो विशुद्धावपि वर्तते । भाष्यकृता चोपयुज्यमानमेवार्थमभिसन्धाय विशुद्धिरपि पठिता तस्य चित्तमिति रूपं भवति निष्ठान्तमौणादिकं च चेततीति चित्तं विशुद्धयतीत्यर्थः । "

I believe the reference in the above extract to भूमिसेन वैयाकरण and his धातुषाठ contained in the expression "भूमिसेनात्परतोऽन्यैर्वैयाकरणैरथं द्वये पठितो धातुः" is quite explicit and it needs no elaborate proof for establishing the identity of this भूमिसेन with भूमिसेन, the author of the धातुषाठ followed by Maitreyarakṣita in A. D. 1100 and referred to by Sāyana about A. D. 1350 as already pointed out in this paper. I have not searched for other references to Bhīmasena in Siddhasena's voluminous commentary as such search is rendered quite difficult in the absence of any index to proper names accompanying Prof. Kapadia's edition.

We know practically nothing about this grammarian but as he has been now proved to be earlier than A. D. 600 or so on account of Siddhasena's reference to him scholars interested in the history of Sanskrit grammar will do well to gather more information about him than what they have gathered and recorded so far.

19. The Date of Mahākṣapaṇaka's Anekārthadhvanimañjarī †

Vardhamāna¹ in his Gaṇaratnamahodadhi refers to Kṣapaṇaka² in the following quotation, verse 261: tālo dhanuṣi pīyūkṣā; Commentary: pīluvāci³ pīyūkṣanniti Kṣapaṇakah pīyūkṣāyāḥ paīyūkṣam. As Vardhamāna composed his work in A. D. 1140, Kṣapaṇaka must have written his work before that date.

Zachariae⁴ thinks that Kṣapaṇaka and Mahākṣapaṇaka may be identical authors. He observes in this connection: "The time of Mahākṣapaṇaka cannot be determined at present. The older commentators including Rāyamukuta appear not to know his work. Perhaps Mahākṣapaṇaka is identical with Kṣapaṇaka, a commentator of the Uṇādisūtra." If the above presumption about the identity of Kṣapaṇaka and Mahākṣapaṇaka is correct, the date of Mahākṣapaṇaka⁵ who is the author of Anekārthadhvanimañjarī and Ekākṣara-kośa, goes back to a period before A. D. 1140, the date of Gaṇaratnamahodadhi.

I have to record in this note some additional data, which push back the date of Mahākṣapaṇaka by more than 200 years.

Vallabhadeva, the author of the commentaries on the Mahākāvyas, rarely resorts to authority in support of his interpretations. I have, however, found the following quotation from the Anekārthadhvanimañjarī on folio 68 of a Ms of his commentary on the Raghuv-varṇśa, viz. No. 449 of 1887—91 of the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute: narapatiścakame mṛgayāratiṃ samadhumanma-madhumanmathasannibhaḥ. This is the second line of the stanza 59¹ of the text. Vallabha's commentary on this line reads: manmatha-kāmaḥ tatsabhānamadhūmadyaṃ madhūkṣaudramadhupuṣparasastathā | madhurdaityo madhuścaitro madhuko' pi madhurmr̥dūh anekārthamañjarī. The lexicon Anekārthamañjarī from which Vallabha quotes in the foregoing extract appears to be that of Mahākṣapaṇaka, a Kashmirian. It is natural that Vallabha, himself a Kashmirian, should quote from an earlier lexicon composed by another Kashmirian Mahākṣapaṇaka. The above quotation can be identified in a Ms of Anekārthadhvanimañjarī (No. 270 of 1880—81 of the Govt. Mss Library - B. O. R. Institute). This Ms is dated Śaṃvat 1568 (= A. D. 1512). On folio 1 of the Ms the quotation appears as under: madhurdaityo madhuścaitro madhukopi madhurmmataḥ. The lexicon in question is known by two names. Two Mss of the work—one described by Rajendralal Mitra² and another by Dr. Eggeling³ — have the title Anekārthamañjarī similar to that used in Vallabha's quotation given above. The work is also called Anekārthadhvanimañjarī and many Mss are recorded under this title by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum. Eggeling also describes a Ms under this title in his Catalogue of India Office Mss.⁴

Now as regards the date of Vallabhadeva, he is put by scholars in "the first half of the 10th century ;⁵ for, his grandson Kayyāṭa, son of Candrāditya, wrote a commentary on Ānandavardhana's Devīśataka in 977—78 A. D. during the reign of Bhīmagupta of Kashmir (977—82 A. D.). To be more specific about Vallabha's date we are informed that he lived about A. D. 925.⁶

In view of the above chronology about Vallabha we shall have to fix the first half of the 10th century or roughly A. D. 925 as the terminus ad quem for the date of Mahākṣaṇaka, the author of Anekārthadhvanimāñjarī.

As regards the terminus a quo for the date of Anekārthadhvanimāñjarī we have no evidence to fix it except the worthless legend of the Nine Jewels¹ at the court of Vikramāditya. Candragupta II (A. D. 401)² adopted the title of Vikramāditya and according to Keith's suggestion the fame of this Vikramāditya as the patron of the poets may be looked upon as having its attestation in the legend mentioned above. According to this legend the literary distinction of Candragupta's court was mainly due to the Nine Jewels or men of literary eminence, viz. Dhanvantari, Kṣaṇaka, Amarasimha, etc. If one is inclined to give any credence to the suggestion adumbrated above we may have to regard about A. D. 350 as the terminus a quo for the date of the lexicographer Kṣaṇaka (or Mahākṣaṇaka) referred to in the legend. In the present state of Indian chronology, however, we are not inclined to take any precipitous leaps into the domain of the unknown.

20. The Nature and Contents of a Lost Medical Treatise by Kharanāda or Khāraṇādi †

Aufrecht¹ refers to खरनाद as the name of an author referred to by Aruṇadatta in his commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II. The following passage is found in Aruṇadatta's commentary on verse 34 of Chapter 1 of the Cikitsitasthāna of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya.²

‘तथाच खारणादिरपाठीत्—“बहुद्रव्यो घनः स्वच्छमर्षोपधं जलम्” इति’

In foot-note 7 on p. 549 the editor notes the variant ‘खरनादोऽपाठीत्’. These two variants खरणादे and खरनाद found in two MSS of Aruṇadatta's commentary Sarvāṅgasundarā on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya give rise to the question whether the correct name of the author quoted by Aruṇadatta³ (about 1220 A. D.) is खरणादि or खरनाद. This doubt is further aggravated by the use of the variant खरणादे in the following passage from Aruṇadatta's commentary on verse 77 of Chap. I of the Cikitsitasthāna (p. 559) :—

“खरणादेऽप्युक्तम्—‘पटोलं फलं निम्बं कर्कोटककठिलकम् । शाकं पर्पटकं च स्यात्’ इति”

As against these three variants viz. (1) खरणादि ; (2) खरणादि and (3) खरनाद found in the MSS of Aruṇadatta's commentary, we find that Hemādri has quoted extensively from a medical writer called by him as ‘खरणादि’. As Aufrecht does not record any MSS of the

It will be seen from the foregoing extracts that Hemādri (about A. D. 1271) had before him a medical work by a writer of the name खारणादि and even though the work has been now lost, the quotations recorded above will acquaint the reader with the form and nature of its contents. It appears that in Hemādri's time and even earlier the treatise of Khāranādi was looked upon with authority since a writer of Hemādri's learning and literary repute quotes from it extensively as an authoritative work. From the identity of a quotation ascribed by Hemādri to खारणादि, and to खारनाद by Arunadatta we have suggested above that the names खारणादि and खरनाद are identical. Let us now see if the name खारणादि uniformly used by Hemādri in his quotations from this treatise is corroborated by any contemporary usages. Fortunately for us such contemporary testimony has been forthcoming from Vopadeva and his father Keśava. Vopadeva was a protégé of Hemādri and was the author of several works¹. The following verse² found at the end of the Muktāphala shows us the versatile productivity of Vopadeva:—

“यस्य व्याकरणे वरेण्यघटनाः स्फीताः प्रबन्धा दश । प्रख्याता नववैद्यकेऽपि
तिथिनिर्धारार्थमेकोद्भूतः । साहित्ये त्रय एव भागवततत्त्वोक्तौत्रयस्तस्य च भूगीर्वाणशिरो-
मणेरिह गुणाः के के न लोकोत्तराः ॥ ”

Farquhar³ assigns Vopadeva⁴ to ‘c. 1300 A. D.’ or ‘End of the 13th century’. Our Vopadeva should not be confounded with a late writer of the same name⁵ who wrote a commentary on the Rasamañjarī of Bhānudatta in A. D. 1572.

1. Vide Aufrecht, CC I, 616a —Vopadeva was son of Keśava and pupil of Dhaneśa. He was Pandit to Mahādeva, King of Devagiri. He is quoted in the Mādhavīyadhātuvṛtti. He composed the following works:—(1) Kavi-Kalpadruma, (2) Kāvya-Kāmadhenu, (3) Trimśat-śloki Āśaucasaṃgraha, (4) Dhātukośa and Dhātupāṭha, (5) Paramahamsapriyā, (6) Paraśurāmapratāpāṭikā (Śrāddha Kāṇḍa), (7) Bhāgavata-purāṇa-dvādaśaskandhānukrama, (8) Mahimna-stavaṭikā, (9) Mugdhabodha, (10) Rāmavyākaraṇa (perhaps the same as Mugdhabodha), (11) Sataśloki and its comm. Sataśloki-Candra-kalā, (12) Śārngadharasaṃhitā-gūḍhārthadīpikā (med.), (13) Siddha-mantra-prakāśa (med.), sometimes attributed to his father, (14) Harilīlā, (15) Hṛdayadīpanighaṇṭu (med.), (16) some anonymous work on dharma sometimes quoted in Nirṇayasindhu, in Ācāra-mayūkha and once in Srāddhamayūkha, (17) Muktāphala.

5. Vide S. K. De : Sanskrit Poetics, I (1923), p. 251—Gopāla Ācārya alias Vopadeva of the Kaundīnya-gotra, son of Nṛsimha and grandson of Gopāla of Jābālagrāma in the Mahārāṣṭra country. The date of this Commentary is A. D. 1572 and not A. D. 1428 (vide my note in the Annals of the B. O. R. Institute, Vol. XVI (1934–35) pp. 145–147.

In view of the close personal contact of Hemādri and his learned protégé Vopadeva, it is possible to suggest that the treatise of 'खारणादि' used by the one is exactly identical with that used by the other and mentioned as 'खारणादि' as the following quotations in Vopadeva's *Siddhamantraprakāśa*¹ will amply prove:—

Folio 5 —Keśava refers to खारणादि in the following verse:—

“वातलं चरको ब्रूते वातघ्नं वहि पु(सु)श्रुतः ।
खारणादिवदत्यन्यदित्युक्तेरत्र निर्णयः ॥ ५ ॥”

Vopadeva comments :—“चरकसुश्रुतयोश्चरकखारणाद्योः etc. ” ॥ “चरक-सुश्रुतखारणादीनां च परस्परविरुद्धानां द्रव्यशक्तिविषयानामुक्तीनामत्रग्रंथे निर्णयो निर्णीतार्थकथनं.” This comment makes it clear that the treatise of खारणादि had assumed so much importance in the 13th century that Keśava wrote the work Siddhamantra to determine the mutually conflicting texts of Caraka, Suśruta and Khāraṇādi as stated by Keśava in the verse quoted above. It is also clear that Keśava, a contemporary of Aruṇadatta (about 1220 A. D.) uses the name खारणादि and not खरनाद used by the latter as we have seen already. This evidence shows that in the 13th century the names खरनाद and खारणादि were current in Bengal² and Mahārāṣṭra³ respectively and perhaps owing to the love of 'taddhita' formations ascribed to the dākṣiṇātyas by the author of the Mahābhāṣya the form खारणादि became current in the Mahārāṣṭra as proved by the usages of the name in the works of Keśava, his son Vopadeva and Hemādri, the friend and patron of Vopadeva. As the treatise of खारणादि has been lost it is advisable to collect all quotations from it wherever found. I shall, therefore, record here the following quotations in Vopadeva's Siddhamantraprakāśa (B. O. R. I. MS):—

वोपदेव.

Keśava states that he was honoured by सिंहराज (सिंहराजात्सन्मानं लेभे). His son explains:—"सिंहराजात्सन्मानं सम्यक्पूजां लेभे लब्धवान्..... सिंहराजो दंडक महाराजाधिपो राजविशेषः — सिंहराज the patron of Vopadeva's father is identical with सिंघण or सिंहण (II) (of the Later Yādavas of Devagiri) who ruled from 1210 to 1247 A. D. (Vide p. 189 of Padhye's Life of Hemādṛpant and Duff's Chronology, p. 310.) The date of सिद्धमन्त्र of Keśava may be between 1210 and 1247 A. D. It appears that the capital of सिंहराज was वेदपुर as stated by Vopadeva and that केशव was a resident of Vedapura.

Singhaṇa had in his employ an astronomer called Cangadeva the grand-son of the celebrated Bhāskarācārya. Cangadeva was contemporary of Keśava, Vopadeva's father. This Cangadeva founded a maṭha at Pātaṇ (10 miles from Chalisgaon in Khandesh) for the study of the works of his grandfather and others (Vide Epi. Ind. I, 340 ff.). The inscription by Cangadeva at this maṭha appears to have been written some years after Śaka 1128 (= A. D. 1206) and it describes Cangadeo as "सिंघणचक्रवर्तिदैवज्ञवर्यः." In another inscription [of Śaka 1144 (= A. D. 1222)—Epi. Ind., III, p. 112] we find the name of one Ananta-deva, who is called Daivajñāgrāṇī at Singhaṇa's Court (Vide History of Indian Astronomy by S. B. Dikshit, Poona, 1896, p. 248).

From the above quotations from खारणादि I have been able to identify 2 verses in the quotations from खारणादि recorded by Hemādri in Āyurvedarasāyana. This identity, inspite of the slight variations of readings, proves beyond doubt that the treatise of Khāraṇādi known to both the writers viz. Hemādri and Vopadeva, who were not only contemporaries but friends, is identical.

With the data recorded above we are in a position to sum up the results of our discussion as follows:—

- (1) Aruṇadatta (about 1220 A. D.) quotes from a medical writer of the name खरनाद.
- (2) Aruṇadatta appears to have been a contemporary of Keśava, whose patron was King Singhaṇa of Devagiri (A. D. 1210-1247).
- (3) Hemādri in his Āyurvedarasāyana (after 1270 A. D.) quotes extensively from a treatise mentioned as that of खारणादि.

1. Hemādri quotes this verse as from खारणादि. It reads as follows:—

“चंचुर्मसूरिका पाठा वेत्राग्रं सुनिषण्णकम् ।
 शठो शाकं च सम्प्राही दोषत्रयहितं लघु ॥ ”

(P. 104 of N. S. P. edition).

2. Hemādri quotes this verse as from खारणादि :—

“सस्नेहोष्णं लघु स्वादु पाके दोषानुलोमनं ।
 उक्तं तिक्तं त्रिदोषघ्नं शाकं निबपटोलयोः ॥ ”

(P. 102 of N. S. P. edition).

(4) Keśava's medical work Siddhamantra mentions the name of खारणादि and attaches some importance to his views even though they were at variance with those of Caraka and Suśruta.

(5) The identity of a quotation of three lines found in Aruṇadatta's commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya as from Kharaṇāda and in Hemādri's commentary on the same work as from Khāraṇādi makes it highly probable that Kharaṇāda and Khāraṇādi are identical medical writers.

(6) Vopadeva, the son of Keśava and friend of Hemādri quotes from Khāraṇādi's treatise.

(7) The identity of two stanzas of Khāraṇādi quoted by Vopadeva with two stanzas of Khāraṇādi mentioned as such by Hemādri in his Āyurvedarasāyana proves that both these commentators are referring to an identical work of Khāraṇādi.

(8) Khāraṇādi's treatise, judging by the quotations, appears to have been in verse. It must have been composed before say A. D. 1150 as it is quoted largely by Aruṇadatta and Keśava about A. D. 1220 and by Vopadeva and Hemādri about 1275 A. D. It would really be an achievement if this treatise of Khāraṇādi, the subject of this paper is discovered hereafter by any one interested in the history of the Aryan medical science. With a view to helping such discovery I note below a reference to खारणादि in the commentary of Niścalakara' on Cakrapāṇidatta's Dravyaguṇa-Saṁgraha (MS No. 620 of 1895-1902).

1. Aufrecht records the following MSS of the Dravyaguṇa-Saṁgraha and its commentaries :—

CC I, 264—"W. p. 294, L 2931, Ben. 64, Bik. 634"

—Comm. by Niścalakara Bik. 634

—Comm. by Sivadāsa, L 2932."

CC III, 57—"Bd. 889

—Comm. by Niścalakara Bd. 889 (No. 889 of 1887-91).

—Comm. by Sivadāsa, son of Anantasena, Hpr. 1189."

Hence we have 3 MSS of Niścalakara's commentary viz. (1) at Bikaner and (2) and (3) in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, one of which viz. No. 889 of 1887-91 is mentioned by Aufrecht. The other MS viz. No. 620 of 1895-1902 was acquired subsequent to Aufrecht's Catalogue.

Cakrapāṇidatta's father was Nārāyaṇa of the Lodhravati family and was a minister as also the Superintendent of the culinary depart-

Folio 11 b— “यदाह खारनादः— ‘बहुद्रव्यो घनः काथः स्वच्छास्पर्शकं जलम्’ इति”

The above quotation appears to be from the work of खारणादि but I am unable to say if it is taken first-hand from the treatise in question or is a second-hand one taken from Aruṇadatta or Hemādri. This quotation gives us another variation of this author's name viz. ‘खारनाद’. Hence we have the following variations of the name of one and the same medical author :—

(1) खरनाद, (2) खारनाद, (3) खरणादि, (4) खारणादि.

The MSS of Nīścalakara's commentary appear to be rare. The date of Cakrapāṇidatta¹ is about 1060 A.D. The date of Nīścalakara has not been fixed but he is earlier than Śivadāsa who professes that he has based his commentary on the Ratnaprabhā (of Nīścalakara). Mr. N. N. Das Gupta says that Śivadāsa's date is ‘16th Century’ because he was court physician of Bārbek Shāh of Bengal. Mr. Lane Poole² gives A. D. 1459 or A. H. 864 as the date of Bārbek Shāh of Bengal (House of Ilyās) and if this king is identical with the patron of Śivadāsa, the date of Śivadāsa's commentary would be the middle of the 15th century and consequently the Ratnaprabhā commentary of Nīścalakara can be assigned to the period commencing about A. D. 1150 and ending with about 1400 A. D.³. These limits can be further ment of Nayapāla. Cakrapāṇi's elder brother was Bhānu styled as Antaraṅga. The commentator Śivadāsa-sena of Mālañci in Pabna was the court physician of Barbek Shah (16th Century) of Bengal. His commentary was based upon an older commentary called रत्नप्रभा (vide N. N. Das Gupta's article in Indian Culture, III, p. 157.) Śivadāsa's commentary has been edited by Devendra Nath Sen (1st edn.). Evidently the commentary रत्नप्रभा mentioned by Śivadāsa is identical with Nīścalakara's commentary of the same name, two MSS of which are at the B. O. R. Institute as stated above.

The Ratnaprabhā mentions among others the following works and authors :—वैद्यप्रदीपसंग्रह of भव्यदत्त (fol. 3), जातुर्कर्ण (5), भेड (5), चरक (5), जेज्जट (6), सुश्रुत (1), भट्टारः (9), भालुकि (10), चक्र (10), वाग्भट (11), ईशानदेव (11), खारनाद (11), वृन्द (21), हरिश्चन्द्र (22), कलहदास (24), रविगुप्त (25), हारीत (25), आयुर्वेदसार (27), चंद्रट (31), बिंदुसार (35), पुष्कलावर्त (22), क्षारपाणि (168), विवेह (64), वराहमिहिर (70), नागार्जुनपादाः (262), नागभर्तृतंत्र (394), धरणीधर (163), रत्नसार (123), भोज (117), गोवर्द्धन (116), शालक्यतंत्र (159), दृढबल (185), वर्षागणैः (291), शब्दार्णव (237), पृथ्वीसिंह (235), सूदशास्त्र (255), रूपरत्नाकर (449), अमितप्रभ (28).

The colophon on folio 240 reads as follows :— "इत्यंतःपुरवैद्यमहामहोपाध्यायश्रीनिश्चलकरकृतौ चक्रसंग्रहतात्पर्यटीकायां रत्नप्रभायां वातव्याधिविचिकित्सा समाप्ता॥" by Dr. Hoernle.' Nīścalakara tells us that his father was Sadānan-dakara (v.3) and that he wrote this commentary रत्नप्रभा (which he calls पुत्री) to give a polish to the gem viz. the चक्रसंग्रह which was darkened on account of bad commentaries² prevailing on the demise of Vijaya Rakṣita, who is called आयुर्वेदगुरु.

The line 'आयुर्वेदगुरौ स्वर्गं गते विजयरक्षिते' if interpreted to contain a reference to the death of Vijaya Rakṣita as an occurrence within the memory of the commentator Nīścalakara, would enable us to fix the date of the Ratnaprabhā to about 1300 A. D. In this case we have to imagine that the death of Vijaya Rakṣita (about 1240 A. D.) was looked upon in contemporary medical circles as a great loss to the science of Āyurveda. Our commentator being perhaps a junior contemporary of Vijaya Rakṣita and a great admirer of this Āyurveda-guru deplores the demise of this guru and himself undertakes the work of giving proper interpretation of Cakra-pānidatta's work by way of his tribute to the departed guru. He, therefore, asks his daughter रत्नप्रभा to serve the pre-eminent physician (भजस्व भिषजां वरम्).

If the above hypothesis gets corroborated by further internal evidence or by external evidence, the reference to खारणाद by Nīścalakara becomes almost contemporaneous with Hemādri's references to खारणादि reproduced in detail in this paper.

2. Compare the following analogous metaphor used by Indu in his commentary Śaṣīlekḥā on the Aṣṭāṅga-Saṁgraha of Vāgbhaṭa I :—

21. Antiquity of the Lost Medical Treatise by Khāraṇādi in the Light of the Leaf of the Khāraṇāda-Nyāsa Newly Discovered at Gilgit †

In my recent article¹ on the “Nature and Contents of a Lost Medical Treatise by Kharaṇāda or Khāraṇādi” I tried to record some useful data² regarding this lost medical treatise from references to it by Aruṇadatta (about 1220 A.D.), by Hemādri (between A. D. 1270 and 1300), by Keśava (the father of Vopadeva) who was patronized by King Singhaṇa of Devagiri (A. D. 1210-1247) and by Vopadeva himself, the protégé and friend of Hemādri. It was also pointed out that Nīścalakara in his commentary on Cakrapāṇidatta’s *Dravya-guṇa-Saṃgraha*³ refers to this author as “Khāraṇāda.”

2. I have to add the following quotations from Khāraṇādi given by Śrīkaṇṭhadatta in his commentary called Vyākhyākusumāvali or Siddhayoga (Anandashram Series, Poona, 1894):—

Śrīkaṇṭhadatta mentions अरुणदत्त, हेमाद्रि (pp. 111, 165, 17, 4). Dr. Hoernle (Osteology, p. 17) states that on the Pathology (निदान) of Mādhava there exists a commentary called मधुकोश which is a joint-work of विजयरक्षित (C. 1240 A. D.) and his pupil श्रीकण्ठदत्त.

There is a Ms of Vyākhyākusumāvali at the B. O. R. Institute (No. 375 of 1882-83) The Ms used for the Anandashram Edition of this work was dated Śaka 1558 = A. D. 1636.

3. Vide folio 11^b of Ms. No. 620 of 1895-1902 in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute.

There is a possibility of Niścalakara being contemporaneous with Hemādri as suggested by me in my article on Khāranādi referred to above. At any rate he can be assigned to a period between A. D. 1250 and 1400.¹

As regards the limit for the date of Khāranādi I suggested that he must be earlier than A. D. 1150. Since I sent the above paper to the press I received the issue of the Journal of the Mythic Society.² Bangalore, containing the "Report on the Gilgit Excavation in 1938" by Pt. M. S. Kaul, M. A., M. O. L., of Srinagar (Kashmir). This report contains a leaf from the MS of Khāranādanyāsa (Plate 1442 A and its Devanāgarī transliteration on pp. 9-10). Pt. Kaul states that this is a "Commentary on a work of Kharanāda on Medicine giving portion of a chapter relating to pregnancy. Both the text and commenatry are known at present in and through quotations only, though the former seems to have been as old as the Aṣṭāṅghṛdaya of Vāghhaṭa. The text is quoted by Arunadatta in his commentary on the Aṣṭāṅghṛdaya at page 249 and by Vācaspati³ in his commentary on the Mādhavanidāna at page 50."

1. Vide p. 61 of Poona Orientalist, Vol. IV.

2. Vol XXX, No. 1 (July 1939) pp. 1-12. Pt. Kaul took his Excavation Party to Nawapura in Gilgit (228 miles from Srinagar) on 4th August 1938; some mounds excavated at this place brought to light stūpas of clay, birch-bark Mss, ivory rings, brass rings, one ear-pendant, some pieces of gold, red and white pearl beads, birch-bark amulets, coral beads, a gold coin, iron and brass pieces, a gold-plated amulet with the image of the Lion-head on both sides.—The Mss excavated include (1) a work called Saṅghātasūtra in Buddhist Sanskrit (about 80 leaves), containing on the inside of the top-cover paintings of Purīṣa or Lord of Gilgit and his minister. There are two ladies seated in front of them, (2) Mss in fragments not yet deciphered and (3) Torn leaves from the Ms of Khāranādanyāsa, a leaf from a collection of fables, a leaf from the Buddhist Sanskrit Grammar and leaves of a prose composition in Sanskrit recording an incantation to protect the king of Gilgit (whose full name is "Śāhānusāhi Navasurendra Vikramāditya Nandideva") and his queen Anaṅgadevī. According to Pt. Kaul this Manuscript hoard is "not later than the ninth century A. D.", "nor can it be earlier than the seventh century A. D.". One of the Mss records the year of copying in the "Newari Era which starts with 878 A. D."

2. Vide p. 17 of Osteology by Dr. Hoernle, Oxford, 1907. Dr. Hoernle assigns Vācaspati to "about 1260 A. D." Vācaspati states (v. 5 of Intro.) that his father Pramoda was chief physician of the court of Mahamada Hanmira that is of Muhamad Ghorī who reigned in Delhi from 1195 to 1205 A. D.

The reference to Kharanāda by Vacaspati (about 1260 A. D.) pointed out by Pt. Kaul is contemporaneous with that by Hemādri and does not help us in deciding the exact antiquity of this author. Pt. Kaul remarks that the text of Kharanāda is "as old as the Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya of Vāgbhata." As the "Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya" is assigned by scholars¹ to "eighth or ninth century" the limit for Kharanāda's date would not be earlier than say A. D. 700. Let us, however, see the effect of Pt. Kaul's discovery of the leaf of Kharanādanyāsa on the date of Kharanāda's text itself.

Pt. Kaul states that the Manuscript hoard found by him at Gilgit cannot be later than 9th century A. D. and at the same time cannot be earlier than 7th century A. D. If these chronological limits are based on correct data we can represent the relative chronology of the text and commentary on Kharanāda's work as follows :—

Text	As old as Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya (Pt. Kaul's view)	8th or 9th century A. D. i.e. between 700 and 900 A. D.
Ms of Nyāsa commentary	Not later than 9th cen- tury and not earlier than the 7th century	Between 600 and 900 A.D.
Date of composition of Nyāsa	Earlier than the above Ms	Earlier than or con- temporaneous with the period A. D. 600 to 900

I am not aware of the evidence, which leads Pt. Kaul to think that Kharanāda's treatise "seems to have been as old as the Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya" but presuming that his statement is substantiated by reliable evidence it is likely to conflict with the date of the Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya given by Dr. Hoernle if we accept the date of MS of the Kharanāda Nyāsa (represented only by one discovered leaf) as suggested by Pt. Kaul².

1. Ibid, p. 16.

2. Jour. Mythic Soc. (July 1939) p. 8 — Pt. Kaul's arguments regarding the age of the Mss. discovered by him are :—

(1) The script of the Mss has a close affinity with the Śāradā script as used in the Avantivarman's inscription at the Mārtanḍa temple. Hence the Mss are not later than the ninth century A. D.

In the present stage of the data gathered so far I am inclined to fix A. D. 650 as the terminus before which Kharanāda may have composed his work and about 850 A. D. as the terminus before which the Nyāsa was composed.

As regards the exact name of Kharanāda we have already recorded the following forms:—

- | | | |
|-------------|--------------|-----------------------------|
| (1) खरनाद | according to | Aruṇadatta |
| (2) खारनाद | „ „ | Niścalakara |
| (3) खरणादि | „ „ | Aruṇadatta (in one place) |
| (4) खारणादि | „ „ | Hemādri |
| (5) Do | „ „ | Keśava |
| (6) Do | „ „ | Vopadeva |
| (7) Do | „ „ | Śrīkaṇṭhadatta |

This testimony divided between the forms खरनाद and खारणादि has not much determinative force as almost all the above authors belong to the 13th century. The Gilgit fragment of खारणादन्यास furnishes a better and decisive testimony on this point as the text of this commentary uses the form खारणाद in the following 1st line of Plate 1442-A :—

“खारणादन्यासे सुण्डिकागर्भावक्रान्ति शरीरं समाप्तम् ॥”

The form खारणाद used by the commentator is more akin to खरनाद used by Niścalakara and supports the uniform use of the form खारणादि adopted by Keśava, Vopadeva and Hemādri.

It is a happy coincidence that by the time my article on Khāranādi is prepared and published in Poona, Pt. Kaul should bring forth a leaf of a commentary on Khāranādi's work buried for centuries several feet under ground at Gilgit. I look forward to the day when both the text of Khāranādi's treatise which was extant, say between 600 and 1300 A. D. as also the newly discovered Nyāsa commentary represented by a single leaf would see the light of the day. For the convenience of scholars interested in this problem, I am reproducing in the appendix the contents of Plate No. 1442-A containing the portion of the Khāraṇādanyāsa.

(2) The Mss are not earlier than 7th century A. D. during which Strong than-blsam-Sgam-po is said to have been converted through the influence of his two wives, one Nepalese and the other Chinese, to Buddhism and to have sent his minister Thonmi to India who after studying the current Indian alphabet prepared the Tibetan character on the model of the Śāradā alphabet and introduced the same in Tibet, etc.

Works and Authors Mentioned By Candraṭa in his Medical Compendium Yogarātna-Samuccaya (c. A. D. 1000) †

The योगरत्नसमुच्चय by Candraṭa, son of Tisāṭa, is represented by very few MSS in our MSS Libraries. The Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, contains the following MSS :—

(1) No 147 of A. 1882-83 dated Samvat 1815 = A.D. 1759, folios about 229, of which some are unidentified.

(2) No.1072 of 1886-92—folios 26 forming only the 3rd chapter of the work called the चूर्णाधिकार. Both these MSS are described by Dr. H. D. Sharma in his Des. Catalogue of Vaidyaka MSS. (B. O. R. I. Vol. XVI Part I (pp. 213-217), 1939, but he has not recorded the citations found in this work, which are important for the history of Indian works on medicine. I, therefore, note below the works and authors mentioned by Candraṭa according to the MSS noted above.

Notes on works and authors mentioned in the Yogaratra-Sammuccaya (vide list on pp. 135-136) :—

No. 11—See the following papers on this author published by me:—(1) Nature and Contents of a Lost Medical Treatise by Kharaṇāda or Khāraṇādi (Poona Orientalist, Vol. IV, pp. 49—62). (2) The Antiquity of the Lost Medical Treatise by Khāraṇādi in the light of the Khāraṇāda-Nyāsa newly discovered at Gilgit [Annals (B. O. R. I.) XX, 97-102].

The references to खरनाद by चंद्रट (c. A. D. 1000) are about 200 years earlier than those by अरुणदत्त (c. A. D. 1220) and by हेमाद्रि (c. A. D. 1260) and hence important. The date of खरनाद or खारणादि is evidently earlier than the date of the Gilgit leaf of खारणाद-न्यास discovered by Pandit M. S. Kaul in 1938. According to Pandit Kaul the date of the MS lies somewhere between A. D. 600 and 900. खरनाद is also mentioned in the शाङ्गधरसंहिता (“कथितं खरनादेन तैलसर्वविनाशनम्—See Kṣhāṇḍa II, Chap. 9, verse 719, p. 121 of the शा. संहिता with Marathi translation by Y. G. Dikshit, Poona, 1917).

No. 18—इन्दु refers to “निघण्टुज्ञान” (AS, p. 57), “कौटिल्ये” (AS, p. 80).

logy for Candratā the references to earlier medical authors and works found in his Yogarātna-Samuccaya are very important for the history of medical authors prior to A. D. 1000. I, therefore, give below an alphabetical list of the references to these works and authors as found by me in the fragments of the Yogarātna-Samuccaya analysed above:—

(1) अगस्त्य — अगस्त्यरसायन is mentioned in AH. विकसितस्थान, chap. III, 132 and VI, 55 mentions आनलकलेह which is called अगस्त्य-निर्मित । (2) अश्विनेश—Mentioned in AH. अरुणदत्त mentions him (AH, pp, 4, 5); mentioned by हंसान्द्रि (AH, p.5); mentioned by इन्दु (AS, p. 2); mentioned by चरक (CS, p. 7) । (3) अमितप्रभ (Cf. Aufrecht CCI, 28—अमितप्रभ—योगशतभाष्य IO 2357. NP IX, 64) । (4) अमृतमाल(तः) । (5) अश्विनीकुमार । (6) अश्विनीयसंहिता or अधिनसंहिता । (7) आर्यसमुच्चय । (8)

No. 19—I shall examine in a separate paper the possible identity of this work नामनीतिक with नाचनीतिक a medical treatise forming part of the Bower Manuscript.

No. 21—इन्दु quotes अष्टांगहृदय (AS, p. 54—“उपतं च हृदये ‘परस्परपसं-स्तम्भादानुस्तेहपरंपरा’ या. अ. ३-६९”). Possibly इन्दु was a pupil of बाहट or बाहड, the author of the अष्टांगहृदय, as will be seen from the following reference (AS, p. 95) :—

“एतन्वास्पदगुणो यथाप्रकान्तशब्दार्थपरतन्त्रार्तरेवेति च तद्विद्वानि परामृशन्तौ वमनादिषु पूर्व देहस्वाभिमंस्कृतेषु वैद्यविधेयतामभिमन्यमानाश्चरकस्य बोद्धारो व्याख्यान-मभिमन्यन्ते । भग्नारकेण तु ‘तथाविधैर्वा द्रव्यैः पूर्वमभिसंस्कारः शरीरस्य’ इति अस्य वाक्यस्य व्याख्युत्पत्ति-अनेकान्तिक-प्रदर्शनपरत्वमज्ञात्वा तथाविधेरिति च विद्वदसमानि विद्वदरेव पूर्वसंस्कारो व्याख्युत्पत्तिहेतुरिति सात्त्विकप्रमाणतया द्वितीयोऽपि पक्षो य उद्भासितः सोऽस्माभिरेवेति एव ।”

In his Commentary on निदानस्थान (AS—नि. स्थान, 1940) p. 5, इन्दु quotes from अष्टांगहृदय as follows :—“येन हृदये पठति—“तदेव व्यक्ततां याति रूपमित्यभिधीयते” इति” एवं च “स्थिते सपूर्वरूपाः कफपित्तमेहाः” इति ‘यदा हृदयग्रन्थे व्याख्यायते तत्रैव चोदयिष्यामः.’ Pt. Kinjavadekar has already identified the two lines quoted by इन्दु from हृदय with निदानस्थान I, 5 and X, 41 of the अष्टांगहृदय. The statement of इन्दु “हृदयग्रन्थे व्याख्यायते तत्रैव चोदयिष्यामः” leads us to infer that he composed a commentary on the अष्टांगहृदय as well.

I have given the foregoing citations in Candraṭa's Compendium of c. A. D. 1000 as they have a direct bearing on the history of medical literature in India prior to A. D. 1000, which is still shrouded in mystery. Authors and works mentioned by Candraṭa cannot all be traced as some of them are not known even by citation. It is hoped, however, that the above list would enable scholars to trace these authors and works in sources earlier than A. D. 1000. I have added to this list only a few notes which I could pick up during the course of my study of ancient medical texts, which is still not very deep. I trust, however, that expert students of this subject will easily exploit the material laid bare in this paper and oblige me by throwing some new light on the works and authors mentioned by Candraṭa.

22. Jayadeva, a writer on Prosody referred to by Abhinavagupta in his Abhinavabhāratī, Commentary on Bharata's Nāṭyaśāstra †

Aufrecht¹ refers to only one MS of a छंदःशास्त्र by जयदेव in the following entries:—

- (1) “Kh. 87,” commentary “ by हर्षट Kh. 87”.
- (2) “Quoted by Nami, 1, 18”.
- (3) „ by जनार्दन. Oxf. 198 a.

The only MS represented by the entry “Kh. 87” was acquired by Prof. Kielhorn² and is deposited in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, under No. 72 of 1873-74. Nami or Namisādhū wrote his commentary on Rudrātā in 1069 A. D.³ जनार्दन विबुध quotes जयदेव in his commentary called भावार्थदीपिका on the वृत्तरत्नाकर. नारायणभट्ट composed his commentary on the वृत्तरत्नाकर in 1545 A. D.⁴

Abhinavagupta in his Abhinavabhāratī commentary on Bharata's Nāṭyaśāstra refers to जयदेव as follows:—

p. 244—“सर्वेषां वृत्तानामित्यादावर्थः समासेन जयदेवोऽभ्यधात्—“सर्वादि- मध्यान्त ग्लौ त्रिकौ न्नौ न्नौ त्रौ स्तौ” इति (अ. १-२)”

Evidently M. R. Kavi has identified⁵ this quotation as the bracketed reference “ अ १-२ ” shows. I have also identified this reference in the MS of जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र referred to above viz. No. 72 of 1873-74, where it occurs on folio 1 at the commencement of the work. This identification shows that जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र was written much earlier than Abhinava's commentary.

Since writing the above note I received from my friend Mr. V. Raghavan of Madras off-prints of his articles' on "Writers Quoted in Abhinavabhārati". Mr. Raghavan observes with reference to our जयदेव as under :—

p. 222. "जयदेव is quoted on p. 370, Vol. II.²

सर्वेषां वृत्तानाम् द्रष्ट्यादौ अर्थसमासेन जयदेवोऽभ्यधात् ।

Who this Jayadeva is, is not known. He is twice mentioned as a writer on Prosody by Namisādhū in his Tīkā on Rudraṭa. Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa in his commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara quotes Jayadeva and his definition of the Upacitrā metre. Jayadeva is twice quoted in Rāmacandra Buddhendra's commentary, Pañcikā, on the Vṛttaratnākara.³

We have shown above that this जयदेव is the author of छंदःशास्त्र, a manuscript of which, with हर्षट's commentary, viz. No. 72 of 1873-74, is available in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute. Presumably this work on prosody must have attained authoritative character since a polymath like Abhinavagupta quotes this work as authority.

As Abhinavagupta flourished about 1000 A. D.³ and as he refers to the छंदःशास्त्र of जयदेव as authority, जयदेव must have flourished before 910 A. D. which may, therefore, be looked upon as one terminus to जयदेव's date. Our जयदेव, the author of छंदःशास्त्र, is of course distinct from जयदेव, the author of the Gītagovinda who flourished in the 13th century.⁴

1. Journal of Oriental Research, Madras, Vol. VI, Part II, pp. 149-170, and Vol. VI, pp. 199-223.

2. This reference is to the MS of Abhinavabhārati in the Govt. Ori. MSS Library, Madras. Our reference to जयदेव is taken from p. 244 of Vol. II of Nāṭyaśāstra, while Mr. Raghavan refers to the Madras MS of Abhinavabhārati. Both these references to जयदेव are, however, identical.

3. S. K. De. : Sanskrit Poetics, Vol. I, p. 119 — Abhinava flourished "at the end of the 10th and beginning of the 11th century."

4. Ibid, p. 219.

I shall now give a brief description of MS of the छंदःशास्त्र of जयदेव viz. No. 72 of 1873-74 as Kielhorn has not apparently studied this MS. This MS consists of two parts with different numbering of folios as under:—

- (1) Folios 1- 5 — जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र or छंदस्.
- (2) Folios 1- 33 — हर्षट's commentary on the above, called जयदेव-छंदोविद्वत्ति.

जयदेव's छंदस् consists of eight small chapters or sections. The colophons of these chapters appear as under:—

Folio 1—इति जयदेवछंदासि प्रथमोऽध्यायः

„ „—द्वितीयोऽध्यायः

„ „—तृतीयोऽध्यायः

„ 2—इति जयदेवछंदासि चतुर्थोऽध्यायः

„ 3— „ „ पंचमोऽध्यायः

„ 4— „ „ षष्ठोऽध्यायः

„ 5— „ „ सप्तमोऽध्यायः

„ „— „ „ अष्टमोऽध्यायः

“ सं. ११९० मार्ग शुदि १४ सामादने श्री सीसर्वादेवाचार्याय शिष्यश्च देवचंद्रस्यथ श्रीधरेण जयदेवछंदमूलसूत्रमलिखि ”

This MS appears to be a copy made in 1873 for Kielhorn from an old original bearing the date of copying viz. Samvat 1190 (= A. D. 1133). As this is comparatively a very old date I have tried to verify it, as the colophon fortunately furnishes all particulars necessary for verification in the Ephemeris viz.

- (1) सं. ११९० = Vikram Samvat 1190.
- (2) मार्ग = Mārgaśīrṣa month.
- (3) शुदि = Śuklapakṣa.
- (4) १४ = 14th Tithi.
- (5) सामादने = सोमदिने (I take this to be the correct reading).

Looking to the *Ephemeris*¹ I find that the above particulars of the date of copying exactly correspond to Monday, 13th November 1133. The reading 'सामादने' of the MS has been taken by me to be wrongly copied for the correct reading 'सोमदिने' and my guess has been corroborated by the Ephemeris as in Samvat 1190, the 14th tithi of the Suklapakṣa in the month of Mārgaśīrṣa was सोमवार or सोमदिन only. This date of the copy of Jayadeva's Chandaśāstra harmonizes with our conclusion viz. that he must have flourished before about 950 A. D. in view of Abhinava's reference to this work in his Abhinavabhāratī as pointed out above.

1. Indian Ephemeris, Vol. III, p. 269.

The other MS in No. 72 of 1873-74 is a commentary by हर्षट on जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र described above. The colophon of this MS does not record the date of the original MS as in the case of the MS of Jayadeva's work and hence I am unable to say whether the text of Jayadeva and that of the commentary were copied in the same year viz. A. D. 1133. Perhaps these two separate MSS were put together and kept in one bundle when Kielhorn got them copied and stitched together under No. 72 of 1873-74, as they were allied to each other.

The MS of the commentary by हर्षट or हर्षट्, as some of the colophons record, consists of 33 sheets written on one side of the sheet only. It begins as follows:—

॥ श्रीगणेशाय नमः ॥

संकरं सास्वतं सौरिं प्रणम्य विवृणोम्यहं ।

जयदेवानि सूत्राणि स्वरूपविधिना स्फुटं ॥ १ ॥

गायत्रि छंदसां पूर्वार्धं वर्द्धमानाक्षरं परं ।

विद्य(?)ण् नकरं नौमि चित्रवृत्तप्रमिदये ॥ २ ॥”

The colophons of the different chapters appear as under:—

Folio 3—“भट्टमुकुलकात्मजविरचितायां जयदेवछंदोविवृतौ प्रथमो- ध्यायः”

Folio 4—“भट्टमुकुलकात्मजहर्षटविरचितायां जयदेवछंदोविवृतौ
द्वितीयोऽध्यायः”

Folio 10—“भट्टमुकुलकात्मज हर्षटविरचितायां जयदेवछंदोविवृतौ
तृतीयोऽध्यायः”

Folio 16—“भट्टमुकुलकात्मजविरचितायां जयदेवछंदोविवृतौ चतु- र्थोऽध्यायः”

Folio 23—“भट्टमुकुलकात्मजहर्षटविरचितायां जयदेवछंदोविवृतौ
पञ्चमोऽध्यायः”

Folio 50—"सप्तमोऽध्यायः"

Folio 31—"अट्टमुकुलकामजहर्षटविरचिताया जयदेवछंदोविबुधौ अष्टमोऽध्यायः" । समाप्तं जयदेवछंदविवरणं ॥"

In the body of the text of the Commentary, I do not find any references to earlier works or authors with the exception of the following:—

Folio 1—"जयदेवस्य या अचलवृत्त्यनंगक्रीडातिरुचिरास्तायथाक्रम महिपतेः भगवतः पिंगलस्य गीत्यार्याशिखामूलिकामता-प्रस्तारः"

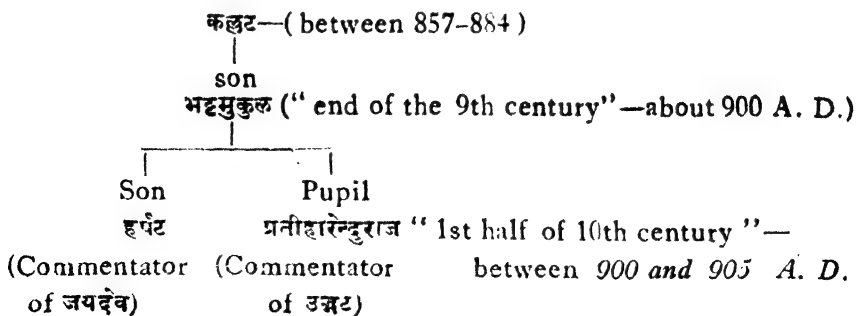

Folio 8—"तथा च उक्तं भगवता पिंगलेन"

Folio 17—"भगवतः पिंगलस्य"

It appears from the colophons quoted above that हर्षट was the son of अट्टमुकुल. If this अट्टमुकुल is identical with the अट्टमुकुल, the guru of Pratihārendurāja, Udbhaṭa's commentator, we can gather some information about him and his age. In this connection we quote from Dr. S. K. De's History of Sanskrit Poetics, Vol. I, p. 77:—

"Pratihārendurāja, Udbhaṭa's Commentator was, as he himself tells us, a native of Koṅkaṇa and a pupil of Mukula. Mukula is known to us, as the author of Abhidhāvrttimātrkā, a work on the grammatico-rhetorical question of abhidhā.....Mukula should be placed towards the end of the 9th century and the beginning of the 10th. His pupil Pratihārendurāja, therefore, belongs approximately to the 1st half of the 10th century."

If the identity of हर्षट's father अट्टमुकुल with मुकुल the guru of Pratihārendurāja as presumed by us is correct the chronological relation of these three persons can be represented as follows on the strength of Dr. De's remarks quoted above:—

It would, therefore, be possible to regard हर्षट as contemporaneous with प्रतापरिन्दुराज, the commentator of उद्भट or we may roughly say that हर्षट flourished about the middle of the 10th century i.e. about 950 A. D. As we have put जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र prior to 950 A. D. our assigning of हर्षट his commentator to about 950 A. D. agrees with any date prior to 950 A. D. that may be assigned to जयदेव's छंदःशास्त्र.

Mukula in the last Kārikā of Abhidhāvyūttimāṭṛkā mentions कल्लट as the name of his father. Mr. Banhatti identifies this कल्लट with कल्लट mentioned by Kalhaṇa in his Rājatarāṅgiṇī as living in the reign of Avantivarman (A.D. 857 to 884) and fixes the beginning of the 10th Century as the date of Mukula.

23. Manuscripts of Commentaries on the Kauṭaliya Arthaśāstra †

In the recently published Catalogue¹ of Mss in the Jain Bhandars at Pattan I find the following entries regarding Mss of the celebrated Kauṭaliya Arthaśāstra :—

“Polity—Kauṭaliya-Arthaśāstra : (on palm-leaf) only a fragment containing the first Adhikaraṇa and the second incomplete with some portion of Yogghama's commentary Nīti-Nirṇaya.”²

The MSS of the text and commentary of the Arthaśāstra are described in the above catalogue as follows:—³

“२९२ (१) कौटलीय अर्थशास्त्र (अधि. १-२ अर्ण) प० ६४; १३''×२१''* damaged (*५५-६३ पत्राणि विनष्टानि) End :—

The merit of the discovery, publication and translation of the Arthaśāstra goes to Dr. Shama Sastri⁴ of Mysore. Dr. Shama Sastri first used a Ms of the text of the Arthaśāstra together with the fragment of a commentary by Bhaṭṭa Svāmin.¹ In the second edition of the Arthaśāstra Dr. Shama Sastri utilised two more commentaries of the work called the Nayacandrikā of Mādhavayajvan² and the other, a translation or rather paraphrase by an unknown author in a mixture of Tāmil and Malayālam languages. Dr. Shama Sastri states that both of these commentaries are incomplete as Bhaṭṭa Svāmi's commentary.³

M. M. T. Ganapati Sastri who has composed and published his own commentary⁴ on the Arthaśāstra deals in his Introduction with the necessity of adding a commentary to the text and also describes the fragments of ancient commentaries secured by him. He obtained Mss of two commentaries from the Madras Government Oriental Library. One of these was a fragmentary copy of a learned Sanskrit commentary called Pratipadapañcikā by Bhaṭṭa-Svāmin. The other contained a portion of a commentary known as Nayacandrikā by Mādhavayajvan. The source of these Mss was apparently a palm-leaf Ms belonging to the Kerala country. These fragments were "full of errors and gaps." Ganapati Sastri also made use of a palm-leaf Ms of an ancient Malayālam version

2. Ibid, Preface to the Second Edition (10th July 1923), p. xxv.

3. Arthaśāstra (Second Edition, 1923), Preface, p. xxv - Dr. Shama Sastri's estimate of the commentaries used by him is as follows :—"The first extends from the seventh chapter of the Seventh Book to the end of the third chapter of the Twelfth Book. It is neither a word-by-word commentary like Bhaṭṭasvāmi's nor a paraphrase like the Tāmil-Malayālam commentary. Mādhava Yajvan, its author, satisfies himself by supplying some connecting links between successive chapters and successive paragraphs in each chapter. The Tāmil-Malayālam paraphrase is, on the other hand, very copious, but omits to notice obscure passages here and there. It extends from the beginning to the end of the seventh Book. Written as it is in a mixture of dialects it is not very easy to understand it. It seems to be quite recent and is not free from misinterpretation of a few words."

of the Arthaśāstra on the line of Bhaṭṭasvāmin's commentary. This version was found in the Palace Library at Trivandrum. A similar copy of this version was found in the Madras Government Oriental Mss Library. But both these copies were defective. "Since no ancient commentary in its publishable shape is available" states M. M. T. Ganapati Sastri, "I thought of writing one of my own."

In the foregoing paragraphs I have tried to record the available commentarial material regarding the Kauṭaliya Arthaśāstra as known to and utilised by the two great scholars viz. Dr. Shama Sastri and M. M. Ganapati Sastri. In view of the fragmentary and unsatisfactory nature of the Mss material of the extant commentaries on the Arthaśāstra every newly discovered fragment of the known commentaries or the discovery of an entirely new commentary on the Arthaśāstra must be looked upon as a gain to this important branch of scholarship viz., the improvement of the text of the Arthaśāstra and its final stabilising in a strictly critical manner. For this purpose the Pattan Ms of Yogghama's commentary as described by Mr. Dalal should be examined by scholars interested in this branch of research. Though the Pattan Bhandars were inaccessible to Dr. Bühler and Peterson when they carried out their search for Mss in Gujarat more than sixty years ago, it is now possible for responsible Jain scholars trained on modern lines to get access to these Bhandars by persuading the authorities in charge of them to allow at least their co-religionists to make proper use of the valuable Mss material locked up for centuries in these rich treasures of ancient learning.

It will thus be seen that the total number of commentaries so far brought to light, are four only, viz.:—

- (1) Bhaṭṭasvāmin: Pratipadapañcikā.
- (2) Mādhavayajvan : Nayacandrikā.
- (3) Yogghama : Nitinirṇīti.
- (4) Anonymous : Tāmil-Ma'ayālam version on the line of Bhaṭṭa Svāmin's commentary.

1. About Ganapati Sastri's self-composed commentary, Dr. Shama Sastri remarks:—"It will be a great boon to the readers of the Arthaśāstra if Mahāmahopādhyāya T. Ganapati Sāstri, Curator of the Oriental Library in Trivandram publishes the long-advertised Sanskrit Commentary which he is said to have been writing with the aid of the three Commentaries." (P. XXV of Preface to the Second Edition, dated 10th July 1923).

We know nothing about the chronology of the above commentaries or the personal history of their authors.

The source of the Mss of the commentaries of Bhaṭṭasvāmin and Mādhavayajvan was the Kerala country as we are informed by M. M. Ganapati Sastri (Preface, 1923). There is a Ms of a commentary on the Setubandha,² a Prākṛta poem ascribed to Pravarasena dealing with the destruction of Rāvaṇa by Rāma. This commentary is ascribed to a commentator called Mādhavayajvamiśra.³ Is it possible to identify this commentator Mādhavayajvan with his namesake, the author of the commentary *Nayacandrikā*⁴ on the Arthaśāstra of Kauṭilya? The Madras Ms of the Setubandha vyākhyā was transcribed in 1918-19 from the original Ms belonging to an owner of Nareri in Malabar District. The Ms of the Nayacandrikā on which Jolly's edition of this commentary was based was transcribed in 1917-18 from the original in the possession of an owner, resident of Chelapuram (Calicut).⁵ There is, therefore, some possibility of the two commentators of the same name "Mādhavayajvan" styled in the colophons of their respective works by identical titles viz.

“इति वैदिकचूडामणिमहोपाध्यायमाधवयज्वमिश्रविरचितायां सेतुनाम्नि सेतुतात्पर्य-टीकायां षोडश आश्वासः.”

The text of the Setubandha in the Kāvyamālā edition has 15 āśvāsas only but in the Madras Ms the 16th āśvāsa is also found though the 12th āśvāsa is missing.

“Vādikavi-Cūdāmaṇi” and “Mahopādhyāya.”¹ Pt. Udayavīraśāstri is of opinion that Mādhavayajvan may have been a dākṣiṇātya (i.e. Southerner).² He also thinks that he is an ancient commentator born in the South about 500 years after the demolition of the Mauryan Empire³ but the grounds put forward in support of this belief are not convincing.⁴ Perhaps a comparison of the Naya-candrikā and the Setubandhavyākhyā referred to above may give us a few more facts bearing on the chronology of Mādhavayajvan. In the Madras Ms of the Setubandhavyākhyā (extract) we find a definition of the figure विभावना⁵ quoted by its author as follows :—

“यथोक्तम्—

प्रसिद्धहेतुव्यावृत्त्या यत्किञ्चित्कारणान्तरम् ।

यत्र स्वाभाविकत्वं वा विभाव्यं सा विभावना”

This definition of विभावना is exactly identical with Daṇḍin's definition as quoted by Prof. Kane.⁶ It is clear, therefore, from this identification that Mādhavayajvan, the author of the Setubandhavyākhyā is later than Daṇḍin, the author of the Kāvyaadarśa. According to Dr. S. K. De⁷ Daṇḍin flourished “probably in the beginning of the first half of the 18th century." According to Prof. Kane the date of Daṇḍin is "6th century." Prof. Keith² regards the date of Daṇḍin as "open to dispute" and states "if... we place the Kāvyaḍarśa definitely before Bhāmaha (c. A. D. 700) there is no reason to assert that he wrote much earlier." His date may be "anterior to the empire of Harṣavardhana and also anterior to the work of Subandhu and Bāṇa." In spite of the disputable character of Daṇḍin's exact date we shall not be wrong if we state that Mādhavayajvan, the author of the Setubandhavyākhyā is later than at least the 6th century and if his identity³ with his namesake, the author of Nayacandrikā on the Arthaśāstra could be proved on valid evidence we would be in a position to put a definite limit to the date of Nayacandrikā. As, however, the Ms of the Setubandhavyākhyā is not before me at present the question must await investigation at some future time.

This argument has no value historically as even a modern commentator can mention and quote from very ancient works.

As regards the commentary of Bhaṭṭasvāmin reference has already been made above to the Mss of this commentary availed of by Dr. Shama Sāstri and T. Ganapati Sastri. The available

3. With a view to deciding the question of this identity I may mention here a Brahmin of the name माधव सोमयाजी, the father of Viddamayya to whom Cālukya Bhīma (II) — A.D. 934-945 — granted a field at the village of Ākulamannaṇḍu (Vide Epi. Indica, Vol. V, 135). Mādhava was devoted to Janārdana (Viṣṇu). Viddamayya was a student of the Kramapāṭha and was eminent in religious learning. His sons and grandsons were youths eloquent at Committee Assemblies and were honoured by people. He engaged himself in holy performances, followed Manu's guidance and was not weary of repeating the Vedas and the syllable om. The father of Mādhava Somayāji was also a student of Kramapāṭha and belonged to Gautama lineage. Viddamayya's sons and grandsons are styled as "वारगोष्ठिषु वाग्मिनः" an expression which reminds us of the title 'वादिक्विच्छादामणि' applied to माधवयज्वन्. I am unable at present to establish any connection of this माधव सोमयाजी with माधवयज्वन् (later than 6th cent.) author of सेतुबन्धव्याख्या or his namesake the author of नयचंद्रिका.

fragments of this commentary have also been published by Dr. K. P. Jayaswal in the Journal of the Bihar and Orissa Research Society.¹

The object of the present paper being to attract the attention of the scholars to the Pattan Bhandar Ms of Gogghama's commentary on the Arthaśāstra, I have tried in the foregoing lines to indicate the importance of this yet unexploited Ms of a rare commentary from North India on the Arthaśāstra. It is hoped that interested scholars will not fail to exploit this material by persuading the authorities of the Sanghavi Pādā Jain Bhandar to make this Ms accessible to them for editing purposes so that we shall have before long in print the available fragments of Commentaries of (1) Bhaṭṭasvāmin, (2) Mādhavayajvan and (3) Gogghama. In the absence of any one commentary on the entire text of the Arthaśāstra the value of these fragments for the exposition of this important text of antiquity must be very great. It is still possible to discover other commentaries on the Arthaśāstra, because their existence is indicated by Mādhavayajvan himself in his occasional references to earlier commentators.²

It remains to be seen if Gogghama refers to any commentators on the Arthaśāstra by name.

Chronological Limits for the Commentary of Indu on the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha of Vāgbhaṭa I —Between A. D. 750 and 1050 †

In the edition of the *Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha*¹ with a commentary of Indu called Saṣilekhā published 31 years ago we are told that "Saṣilekhā is a commentary of Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha by Indu one of the renowned and learned pupils of Vāhaṭa."² Evidently this statement is based on the following verse³ quoted by the editor in his Sanskrit Introduction to the edition:—

“लंबश्मश्रुकलापसंयुजनिभच्छायाशुतिं वैद्यका-
मन्तेवामिन इन्दुज्जटमुखानध्यापयन्तं सदा ।
आगुलफामलकञ्चुकाञ्चितदरालक्ष्योपवीतोऽवलत्
कण्ठस्थागरुसारमञ्जितदृशं ध्यायेद्दृढं वाग्भटम् ॥”

The Editor in making his observation about the versatile intellect of the author of the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha remarks:—

† Annals (B. O. R. Institute), Vol. XXV, pp. 225-238.

1. Ed. by T. Rudrapāraśava, Trichur, 1913. H. H. Sir Rama Varma, G. C. S. I., G. C. I. E. of Cochin in his letter of 20th July 1914 published as a foreword to this edition observes:—

“A copy of the commentary (Saṣilekhā) could not be had in full anywhere. He (Editor) had to go to different places and hunt in several old manuscript libraries, and to collect lists from here and there. Several of such lists were worn out by old age and full of mistakes. It took several years for him to get a clear and complete copy and the labour and the trouble (with which) he had to compare and correct it were not ordinary. Even now it is doubtful whether the copy now prepared is quite free from errors. But I have no hesitation in saying that it is difficult to get a more correct copy of the book anywhere. But for the pains and troubles he has taken in publishing it this important work would have been completely lost.”

2. Ibid.

3. Ibid. Upodghāta, p. IV — The editor calls this verse as “ध्यान-श्लोक” and states that it is “लोकप्रसिद्ध”. He does not say anything about its authorship and chronology.

“ द्वादशसाहस्यपरपण्यः श्रीमदष्टांगसंग्रहः, ततोऽपि सारतरोष्ठांगहृदयाख्य-ग्रन्थः । रसशास्त्रसर्वस्वभूतो रसरत्नसमुच्चयश्च यदीयधिषणाविलासे परं साक्षिणः॥”

Evidently in making the above observation the Editor is attributing common authorship to the three works viz.

(1) the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha of Vāgbhaṭa I

(2) the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II and (3) Rasaratnasamuccaya of Vāgbhaṭa, who according to Sir P. C. Ray was a contemporary of Roger Bacon (died A.D. 1294)—Vide History of Hindu Chemistry, p. lvi of Vol. 1 (Calcutta, 1902).

I have already recorded elsewhere¹ the correct views about the authorship² of the three works, by three different authors of the same name Vāgbhaṭa and hence need not deal with the question in this paper.

Our Editor on the basis of the common authorship of the three works further states:—

“श्रीमदष्टांगसंग्रहार्थस्तु कामपि समीचीनां दीपिकामन्तरा परिज्ञातुं दुःशक्त इति स्थिते अयमिन्द्रोः उदयः परमप्रमोद एव निखिलप्रपञ्चस्य ॥”

We agree that as the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha of Vāgbhaṭa I was difficult to be understood a commentator has come into being in the form of Indu, the author of the Śaṣīlekhā but it is difficult to make Indu, a contemporary of Vāgbhaṭa I as the Editor does in the following remarks on no solid evidence except the proverbial ध्यानश्लोक already quoted by him and reproduced above:—

1. Vide p. 4 of my Introduction to the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya, edited by Vaidya Harishastri Paradkar of Akola (N. S. Press, Bombay, 1938).

2. The identity of authorship for the A. samgraha and A. hrdaya has been taken for granted by many responsible writers on the history of Indian medicine. H. H. the Thakore Saheb of Gondal (pp. 34-35 of his Aryan Medical Science, London, 1896) states :—“In his work called “Ashtāṅgahrdaya” he (Vāgbhaṭa) acknowledges the assistance derived from the writings of Charaka, Sushruta, Agnivesha, Bhela and others who had gone before him. He also wrote another work called “Ashtāṅgasamgraha,” on which Pandit Arunadatta wrote a commentary.”

“इन्दुः अथमाचार्यवाग्भटशिष्येषु प्रधानः तदुक्तम् ध्यानश्लोके । “ इन्दुजज्जट-
मुखानध्यापयन्त” मिति । अनेन अष्टांगसंग्रहस्य हृदयस्य च शशिलेखेति व्याख्यातन्यत इन्दुनाम्नापि सा व्यपदिश्यते ॥”

This is confusion worse confounded as the editor makes Vāgbhaṭa I, Indu and Jajjaṭa' contemporaries without any historical evidence and secondly he states that Śaśilekhā is a commentary on the अष्टांगसंग्रह as also on the (अष्टांग) हृदय,² a statement which is clearly refuted by Indu's own statement at the beginning of his own commentary on the Sūtrasthāna that Śaśilekhā is a commentary on the Samgraha and not on the Hṛdaya.³

1. Aufrecht makes the following entry about जैज्जट :—

CC I, p. 209—“ जैज्जट wrote a commentary on सुश्रुत. Quoted by Hemādri in Āyurvedarasāyana B. P. 373, in Bhāvaprakāśa Oxf. 311^b, in Ātaṅkadarpaṇa Oxf. 314b, by Candrāṭa Oxf. 357b, in Toḍarānanda W. p. 289.”

If Candrāṭa (about A. D. 1000 according to Hoernle) quotes जैज्जट, he is earlier than 1000 A. D. but I have no evidence to prove that इन्दु and जैज्जट were contemporaries.

Vopadeva, contemporary of Hemādri, quotes जैज्जट many times in his commentary प्रकाश on his father's सिद्धमन्त्र (see Ms of सिद्धमन्त्रप्रकाश in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, folios 11, 12, 17 etc.). Vopadeva also quotes खारणादि, हरिश्चन्द्र (fol. 8) and बाष्पचन्द्र (fol. 8 and 34). खारणादि is quoted many times by Hemādri in Āyurvedarasāyana. Possibly खारणादि mentioned and quoted by हेमद्री and वोपदेव may be identical with खारनाद but this possibility needs to be examined separately.

2. Vide p. 188 of Aryan Medical Science, London, 1896 :—

“Some are of opinion that Vāgbhaṭa, the celebrated author of “Ashtanga-hridaya” flourished in the time of the Mahabharata and that he was the family physician of the Pandavas.”

3. Vide verse 2 in the following 6 introductory verses of Indu's commentary on the Sūtrasthāna of the Aṣṭāṅga-samgraha which I reproduce from the Edition of the work by Pandit R. D. Kinjavadekar (Chitrashala Press, Poona, 1933) :—

Pt. Kinjavadekar's edition of the Aṣṭāṅga-samgraha with Indu's commentary is based on the following printed editions and Mss :—

- (1) Text only — Ms procured by me from Rajavaidya Jagtap of Kolhapur through the B. O. R. Institute, Poona.
- (2) Text only — Ms in the possession of Vaidya Gopalshastri Godbole of Bombay.
- (3) Text only — Printed edition of Śaka 1810 = A. D. 1888 by Ganesh Sakharām Tarte of Nasik and Vaidya Krishnashastri Devadhar.
4. Text with Indu's commentary — Edited at Trichur in 1913.

On 6th January 1939 I brought to the notice of Pt. Kinjavadekar a Ms of Indu's commentary in the Adyar Library described in their Catalogue of Sanskrit Manuscripts, Part II (1928) p. 69 as follows :—

“ अष्टांगहृदयव्याख्या (शशिलेखा) इन्दुकृता 39 B 19 दे 657 ”

If this Ms turns out on examination to be Indu's commentary it should prove very useful to Pt. Kinjavadekar as he has failed to

The date of Vāgbhaṭa I is "early seventh century" according to Dr. Hoernle¹ and as Indu commented on the *A. Samgraha*² of Vāgbhaṭa I, his date must be posterior to early seventh century. We may, therefore, safely fix about 625 A. D. as one terminus to the date of Indu. Let us now see if we can push forward this limit on the strength of evidence from Indu's commentary.

In chapter VI of the Sūtrasthāna, Indu makes the following comment:— [‘गुणशब्दश्च भागपर्यायः’ । ‘संख्याया गुणस्य निमाने’ इत्यादिना] (पा. सू. ५-२-४७) The Editor has identified the above quotation in the *Kāśikā*³ commentary of the Sūtras of Pāṇini, which was composed procure any Ms of this important commentary for his edition. The catalogue statement "अष्टांगहृदयव्याख्या" is again misleading because "शशिलेखा is Indu's commentary on अष्टांगसंग्रह and not on अष्टांगहृदय. Indu describes बाहट as "दुर्व्याख्याविपसुप्त" i.e. lying in a state of unconsciousness produced by the effects of the poison of bad commentaries. This statement leads us to suppose that there were some commentaries on the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha preceding the Śaśilekhā of Indu.

The Des. Cat. of Madras Mss Vol. XXI (Medicine) contains the following Mss :— No. 13070—Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha in Canarese characters on palm-leaf, pp. 122, contains 15 stanzas of the 4th adhyāya, some stanzas of the 4th adhyāya, some stanzas of the first adhyāya and from the 4th to the 37th adhyāya, excepting adhyāyas 6 and 7. Breaks off in 38th adhyāya of the Sūtrasthāna. No. 13071—Aṣṭāṅga-Samgrahavyākhyā in Canarese characters on palm-leaf pp. 158. Reference is herein made to Hariścandra's commentary on the Caraka-Samhitā :— " हरिश्चन्द्रकृता व्याख्यां विनाचरकसंमतम् यस्तृणोत्पत्तप्रज्ञः बाहुमीहति सोऽम्बुधिम् ॥ " " सोयं बाहटनामा शास्त्रकारश्च " तस्मादष्टांगसंग्रहे " It is difficult to identify the portion contained in this work."

about 650 A. D. This reference would push forward the limit of Indu's date to about 700 A. D. if the Editor's identification is correct.

Another quotation, which, if identified in the extant late lexicons would enable us to push forward the date of Indu is found in his comment on verse 17 of chapter II of the Sūtrasthāna. It reads as follows;—

[“आमिषं भोग्यवस्तुनि” इति कोषः]

The Medinī lexicon assigned to about the 13th century¹ has a similar quotation which reads as follows:—

“आमिषं पुनपुंसकम् । भोग्यवस्तुनि संभोगे”

It is difficult, however, to say if this quotation has a direct relation with Indu's quotation because it has often been found that some of the late lexicons have drawn freely on the earlier lexicons and at times we find two different lexicons borrowing from a common source.

A better criterion for pushing forward the date of Indu after 700 A. D. is the following quotation from the Aṣṭāṅgaḥṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II, who has been assigned to 8th or 9th century A. D. by Prof. Jolly (vide p. 16 of Osteology).

Sūtrasthāna comm. on verse 108 of chap. VII (p. 54 of Kinjavadekar's edition) —

“उक्तं च हृदये—‘परस्परपसंस्तम्भाधातुस्नेहपरा’” (शा. अ. ३-१५)

As Pandit Kinjavadekar has identified the above quotation in the A. ḥṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II we have no doubt that Indu was acquainted with the A. ḥṛdaya and it is possible to find more references¹

1. Vide Kalpadrakoṣa, Baroda, 1928, Introduction. p. xl, “Padmanābhādatta who wrote his Prṣodarādivṛtti in A. C. 1375 quotes Medinī in his Bhūriprayoga (CC I, 467a)”. “The Mankhaṭikā in Zacharie's edition contains also a quotation from Medinī, which if genuine would push back Medinī's date to the 12th century for that commentary was most probably written before the last quarter of the 12th century.”

2. In chapter I of Nidānasthāna (p. 5 of Kinjavadekar's Edition) we find the following reference:— to the A. hṛadya in his commentary. This reference, therefore, would justify us in concluding that Indu flourished after Vāgbhaṭa II, say after about 900 A. D. and consequently it is absurd to make him a pupil of Vāgbhaṭa I as the ध्यानश्लोक does according to the statement of the Editor of the Trichur Edition of Indu's commentary.

In dealing with the properties of the different vegetables (p. 61 of Sūtrasthāna) Indu observes:—

“अग्रशाकानां हरितकानां च येषां नामानि नोक्तानि तेषां देशभाषादिविद्भ्योऽधिगम्यापभ्रंशसंस्कारादुपयोगविशेषाच्च ज्ञातव्यानि ”

“येन हृदये पठति — “तदेव व्यक्तां यातं रूपमित्यभिधीयते” इति । एवं च ‘स्थिते सै पूर्वरूपाः कफपित्तमेहाः’ इति यदा हृदयग्रन्थे व्याख्यायते तत्रैव चोदयिष्यामः”

On p. 25 (chap. V of Sūtrasthāna) Indu observes :—

“क्रमश्च ‘पादेनापथ्यमभ्यस्तम्’ इत्यादिना वक्ष्यते ” The Editor points out that the line “क्रमश्च.....अभ्यस्तम् ” is only a part of the following whole stanza of the अष्टांगहृदय (Sūtrasthāna, VII, 48)—

“पादेनापथ्यमभ्यस्तं पादपादेन वा त्यजेत् ।
निषेवेत हितं तद्वदेकद्वित्र्यन्तरीकृतम् ॥ ”

These references leave no doubt that Indu was conversant with the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता of Vāgbhaṭa II and perhaps he wrote a commentary on it (“यदा हृदयग्रन्थे व्याख्यायते तत्रैव चोदयिष्यामः”). We shall have to investigate if any Mss of Indu's commentary on the हृदयग्रन्थ can be traced anywhere in India. The Triennial Catalogue of Madras Mss, Vol. IV, Part I, Sanskrit B, describes a Ms of अष्टांगहृदयव्याख्या called शशिलेखा. It is No. R 3447 (p. 5142) and consists of folios 176 in Malayalam characters. It was transcribed in 1920-21 from a Ms in the possession of Mr. M. N. Nambiar, Kaimur village, Trichur, Cochin State. The Ms begins in 141st stanza of the Sūtrasthāna and contains the Śārīrasthāna and the Nidānasthāna complete. Judging by the colophons the Ms appears to be Indu's commentary on the Aṣṭāṅghṛdaya. These colophons as recorded in the catalogue read as follows :—

“इति इन्दुविरचितायामष्टांगहृदयव्याख्यायां शशिलेखायां त्रिशोध्यायः ॥ इति सूत्रस्थानं समाप्तम् ॥ ”

“इतीन्द्रुविरचितायामष्टांगहृदयव्याख्यायां (शशिलेखायाम्) निदानस्थाने षोडशोऽध्यायः”

In accordance with this statement we find him recording terms current in Kashmir for particular plants:—

p. 56 — “काश्मीरेषु महोदयकः”

p. 57 — “काश्मीरेषु केषुकमन्यग्र कनाधिकम्”

— “काश्मीरेषु शिलः”

— “काश्मीरेषु लोनारा”

— “पर्यायाः निघण्टु^१ ज्ञानात् देशभाषासंस्करणाच्च किञ्चित् ज्ञायन्ते”

p. 58 — “काश्मीरेषु कोणीकः”

p. 60 — “काश्मीरेषु तुम्बुरुः”

p. 63 — “काश्मीरेषु वृक्षबदरी”

p. 66 — “अत्रापि फलानामप्रसिद्धानां च येषां नामानि नोक्तानि तानि नामा- देशकुलेभ्योऽपभ्रंशसंस्कारादिनाधिगन्तव्यानि”

As Indu has taken the trouble of noting the terms current in Kashmir for particular plants etc., I am inclined to believe that he either hailed from Kashmir² or was acquainted with a physician in Kashmir through whom he may have obtained the terminology recorded above.

Indu in chapter VIII (Śārīrasthāna, p. 61) gives the following definition of gāmbhīrya guṇa:—

“यस्य प्रसादादाकारात् क्रोधशोकभयादयः ।

भावस्था नोपलक्ष्यन्ते तद् गाम्भीर्यमिति स्मृतम् ॥”

1. Vide Introduction, p. xlix of Kalpādrū-Kośa, Vol. I (Baroda, 1928). The oldest of medical and botanical glossaries or Nighaṇṭus is Dhanvantarinighaṇṭu, which according to Kṣīrasvāmin is earlier than Amara. Other nighaṇṭus are:— Paryāyaratnamālā or Ratnamālā of Mādhavakara, author of Rugviniścaya – 8th or 9th cent. A. C. (Winternitz III, 550). Paryāya-Muktāvalī or Muktāvalī is based on the above work.—Nighaṇṭuśeṣa of Hemacandra, Abhidhānaratnamālā, Madanavinoda (1374 A. D.). Rājanighaṇṭu, Śivakośa of Śivadatta (A. D. 1677), Śabdacandrikā of Cakrapāṇidatta, Dakṣiṇāmūrti-nighaṇṭu, Dravyamuktāvalī and Paryāyārṇava.

2. In the शारीरस्थान (chap. XIII, p. 87) under evil dreams reference is made to “द्राविडान्ध्रौचण्डालादयः.” Indu explains:— “आन्ध्र-द्रविडौ दाक्षिणात्यजनपदनामनी” i. e. the terms ‘आन्ध्र’ and ‘द्रविड’ are the names of Southern people or kingdoms. Can this explanation confirm our suggestion that Indu was a Northerner ?

I have not been able to trace this definition in this form though the definitions of the gāmbhīrya guṇa are found in the *Nāṭyaśāstra*¹ of Bharata, the *Daśarūpa*², the *Agnipurāṇa*³ and other works. Indu gives the definition of the word स्थूललक्ष⁴ as follows:— (p. 61)

“योल्यं दातुं न शक्नोति स्थूललक्षः स उच्यते”

These definitions show the critical nature of his commentary and justify to a certain extent the boastful statement of verse 6 in the beginning of the Sūtrasthāna viz. “अस्मदुक्तयः सदागमपरिष्कृताः दुर्व्याख्या-विषसुप्तस्य बाहटस्य सेवित्तिदायिभ्यः सन्तु”

We have pointed out above that in commenting on the contents of the शकवर्ग of the Sūtrasthāna (p. 57) Indu states that paryāyas or synonyms of the names of different plants may be found in the Nighaṇṭu (पर्यायाः निघण्टुज्ञानात्...जायन्ते). This statement shows that he was conversant with some medical glossaries containing the names of the different plants and their synonyms. The question now arises whether Indu compiled any Nighaṇṭu himself. We try to record the following evidence for the consideration of scholars according to which it seems possible that Indu, the author of the Śaśilekhā commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgasamᠠgraha and Indu, the author of a medical Nighaṇṭu frequently quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin⁵ in his commentary on the Amarakośa may be identical:—

(1) Both the authors have the same name Indu.

(2) While Indu quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin is the author of a Medical Nighaṇṭu, our Indu is the author of the commentary on a medical work viz the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha and appears to be conversant with medical Nighaṇṭus, which he says contain the paryāyas or synonyms of the names of plants.

(3) Indu quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin is evidently earlier than about 1050 A. D. as Kṣīrasvāmin is assigned to the 2nd half of the 11th century. Our Indu is also likely to be earlier than A. D. 1050 as we propose to indicate below.

In chapter II of Nidānasthāna (p. 9 of Kinjavadekar's edition Indu refers to Bhaṭṭāra Haricandra as follows:—

Kṣīrasvāmin belongs to the 2nd half of the 11th century (Between 1050 and 1100 A. D.) as he quotes Bhoja and is quoted by Vardhamāna in the Gaṇaratna-mahodadhi. Medical authorities quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin are (1) Suśruta and Sauśrutāḥ, (2) Vaidyāḥ (chiefly Caraka), (3) Dhanvantari and his Nighaṇṭu (medical), (4) Vāhaṭa or Vāghhaṭa, (5) Candra, (6) Indu, (7) Candranandana, (8) Dhātu-vidāḥ, (9) Nimiḥ, (10) Haramekhalam. Indu and Candranandana are very frequently quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin especially in his comments on the वनौषधिवर्ग. Indu is quoted on pp. 56, 57, 58, 59, 61, 63, 65, 67, 68, 69, 71, 75, 76, 77, 79, 80, 81 etc. (Pages 53 to 84 contain 170 verses of the वनौषधिवर्ग of the Amarakośa). The following quotations will show the nature and contents of Indu's Nighaṇṭu :—

P. 56 — “आहेन्दु :—उदुम्बरस्तु यज्ञाङ्गः सुचक्षुः श्वेतवल्कलः ।
हेमदुग्धः कृमिफलः क्षीरवृक्षः स काञ्चनः ॥ ”

“एतदेव हृदि कृत्वा भट्टारहरिचन्द्रेण वा शब्दस्य निर्दिष्टस्याप्राधान्यं लङ्घनस्याप्राधान्यं व्याख्यातम् तच्च भिषक्शास्त्रनिष्णाता नाङ्गीकुर्वन्ति...भट्टारकेण तु पूर्वेषु सकलदोषसाधारणत्वाल्लघ्वशनस्य प्राधान्यमुक्तम्”

(p. 95) — भट्टारकेण तु ‘ तथाविधैर्द्रव्यैः पूर्वमभिसंस्कारः शरीरस्य ’ इत्यस्य वाक्यस्य” etc.

भट्टार हरिचन्द्र (or हरिश्चन्द्र)¹ referred to in the above extract by Indu is the author of चरकसंहिताभाष्य. He is quoted by महेश्वर in his lexicon विश्वप्रकाश composed in A. D. 1111, by चन्द्रट (about 1000 A. D.) and by हेमाद्रि in his commentary on the अष्टांगहृदय of Vāgbhata II. He is also quoted by अरुणदत्त in his commentary on the अष्टांगहृदय² composed about 1220 A. D.³. It appears, therefore, that भट्टार हरिचन्द्र is earlier than A.D. 1000 and hence Indu’s reference to him does not conflict with our suggestion that Indu, the author of Śaśilekhā may be earlier than 1050 A. D. like his namesake, the author of a medical Nighaṇṭu⁴ quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin about 1050 A. D.

The references to Bhaṭṭāraka Haricandra made by Indu show that he had not much respect for the views of Haricandra. This inference is warranted as Indu observes (p. 95 – Sūtrasthāna.) — “ भट्टारकेण.....द्वितीयोऽपि पक्षो य उच्चासितः सोऽस्माभिरुपेक्षित एव ” and “ भट्टारहरिचन्द्रेण.....व्याख्यातं.....भिषक्शास्त्रनिष्णाता नाङ्गीकुर्वन्ति.” This criticism of Haricandra by Indu is likely to lead one to suppose that Indu and Haricandra might have been contemporaries, but we have at present no evidence either to prove or disprove this suggestion.

In the Madras MSS Library Ms No. 13071 is a commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha but the description of this MS given in the catalogue⁵ this commentary has not been identified. Judging by the verse⁶ which appears in the extract from this commentary given in the catalogue and which contains a contemptuous criticism of Haricandra' (vide Indu's criticism of Haricandra noted above) it appears that this unidentified commentary may be Indu's Śaśilekhā itself. As, however, the Madras Ms is not before me I am unable to say anything definitely about this identity, for the question needs to be settled by a comparison of the Madras Ms with the published text of the Śaśilekhā commentary.

In the following passage Indu appears to refer to his Guru ("अस्मद्गुरवः") :—

“ एतच्चास्मद्गुरवो यथा प्रकान्तशब्दार्थपरतन्त्रास्तैरेवेति च तद्विरुद्धानि परामृशन्तौ वमनादिवत् पूर्वं देहस्याभिसंस्कृतेरपि वैद्यविधेयतामभिमन्यमानाश्चरकस्य बोद्धारो व्याख्यानभिमन्यन्ते । भट्टारकेण तु 'तथाविधैर्वा द्रव्यैः पूर्वमभिसंस्कारः शरीरस्य' हृद्यस्य वाक्यस्य व्याध्युत्पत्त्यनैकान्तिकप्रदर्शनपरत्वमङ्गीकृत्य तथाविधैरिति च विरुद्धसमानि परामृश्य विरुद्धैरेव पूर्वसंस्कारो व्याध्यनुत्पत्तिहेतुरिति साध्याहारप्रायतया द्वितीयोऽपि पक्षो य उज्जासितः सोऽस्माभिरुपेक्षित एव ”

The expression “अस्मद्गुरवः” contains possibly a reference to Vāgbhaṭa II, the author of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya but we must await more decisive evidence on this possibility.²

1. There is a Ms No. 13092 of Carakasamhitāvyākhyā by Hariścandra in the Govt. Ori. Mss Library, Madras, (Vide Catalogue Vol. XXIII, 1918, p. 8801). It consists of 151 pages and contains the 3rd adhyāya of the Sūtrasthāna. It begins :—

“ स्वयम्भुवे प्राणमृदन्तरात्मने जगत्पदीपाय महद्भित्तिषिणे ।

विवस्वते दीप्तसहस्ररश्मये सुरोत्तमायामिततेजसे नमः ॥ ”

Colophon of Chap. I —

“ इति आचार्यहरिश्चन्द्रकृतो प(प्र)शिष्योपाध्यायकीयन्यासे भेषजचतुष्टके दीर्घजीवित्रीयः प्रथमोऽध्यायः ”

2. Pt. Kinjavadekar has drawn my attention to the following passage in Indu's comment on Sārīrasthāna, Chapter III, (p. 24a) of his Edition :—

“तथा च आचार्य एव हृदये केवलं महत्याः प्रतिषेधं करोति ।

यतः साहोरात्रेण जीर्यते । न तु मात्रान्तरस्य विधानम् ।

‘सूतिका क्षुद्रता तैलाद् घृताद्वा महतां पिबेत्’
इति स्नेहे कायं वा पीति यमकाभ्यक्तदेहाया वस्त्रेणोदरं षेष्टयेत्”

This passage connects आचार्य and अष्टांगहृदय because the line “सूतिका क्षुद्रता.....पिबेत्” quoted by Indu is found in the following verse of the अष्टांगहृदय of Vāgbhaṭa II (शरीरस्थान, chapter I) (p. 100 of Kinjavdekar's Edition, where the text of शरीरस्थान of the अ. हृदय is reproduced for reference) :—

“सूतिका क्षुद्रता तैलाद्घृताद्वा महतां पिबेत् ।
पञ्चकालिकिना मात्रां मनु चोष्णं गुडोदकम् ॥ ९४ ॥”

This identification appears to indicate that Indu claimed Vāgbhaṭa II, the author of अष्टांगहृदय, as his “आचार्य” and hence by the expression “अस्मद्गुरुवः” mentioned above he refers possibly to Vāgbhaṭa II.

If our interpretation of the above passages is correct Indu becomes a direct pupil of Vāgbhaṭa II and hence a junior contemporary of his आचार्य or “गुरुवः” as he respectfully refers to him.

In addition to the references made by Indu to Vāgbhaṭa II in the words आचार्य and गुरुवः the following reference to वाहटग्रन्थ appears to refer to अष्टांगहृदय of Vāgbhaṭa II (P. 1023 of Sūtrasthāna, chap. IX) :—

Vāgbhaṭa I — A. Saṁgraha —

“द्यहाद्वसन्ते तस्यान्ते पश्चात्तद्वदनोदये ।
सेवेत कामतः कामं हेमन्ते शिशिरे बली ॥ ९७ ॥”

Indu's comment :— “वसन्ते द्यहास्त्रारा व्रजेत् । तस्य वसन्तस्यान्ते प्रांशे पश्चात्तद्वत् घनोदये वर्षासु हेमन्ते शिशिरे च, बली बलवान्, कामतो यथेच्छं, सेवेत । शरदि त्वनुक्तावपि वसन्तसदृशबलादिमत्वाद्द्यहादेव नारी व्रजेत् । तथा च श्रीवाहटग्रन्थ एव ‘द्यहा’द्वसन्तशरदोः इति ”

Vāgbhaṭa I has omitted शरद् or autumn in his list of seasons mentioned in verse 97 quoted above. Indu suggests that the omission is not intentional and quotes in his support the line “व्यहाद्वसन्तशरदो” from वाहटग्रन्थ which appears to be identical with हृदयग्रन्थ or अष्टांगहृदय of Vāgbhaṭa II who has included the शरद् in his list of seasons congenial for sexual intercourse. By वाहट in the above comment Indu possibly means Vāgbhaṭa II and not Vāgbhaṭa I. The two वाहट's are here distinguished as one is quoted in support of another.

yet been recorded and consequently it is difficult to fix the lower limit for Indu's date in a definite manner. That Indu flourished after Vāgbhaṭa II (8th or 9th century) is amply proved by his references to हृदयप्रथ in the Śaṣilekhā. If, however, his identity with Indu, the author of the medical Nighaṇṭu quoted by Kṣīrasvāmin (1050 A. D.) as suggested tentatively by me' in the present paper is proved conclusively we may be able to assign him to a period say between A. D. 750 and 1050.

1. I am happy to find that my friend Mr. Nalininath Das Gupta (Indian Culture, Vol. III, p. 434) has already suggested this identity :—“An author of a medical Nighaṇṭu or glossary, Indu by name is quoted not a few times by Kṣīrasvāmi attributed to the 2nd half of the 11th century in his reputed commentary on the Amara-kośa. The Nighaṇṭu appears to have been lost but the name Indu is found to have been borne by a commentator of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II. A Ms of Indu's commentary entitled Śaṣilekhā, and perhaps the only one preserved, is in the Madras Government Collection (Triennial Catalogue, Madras, Vol. IV, Part I, Sanskrit B, p. 5142). That both the books are medical and that Indu is not a common-place name amongst the Vaidyaka writers of ancient and early mediæval India tend to suggest that Indu, the author of the Nighaṇṭu is the same as the Commentator of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya. But Indu is after all, a familiar name to us as being that of the father of Mādhavakara, the celebrated author of the Nidāna-saṁgraha and it may not improbably be that the writer of the above two works was but Indu, the father of Mādhava-Kara”. As Mr. Das Gupta assigns Mādhava-Kara to the “Seventh Century” his father

Prof. Keith¹ regards the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya Samhitā of Vāgbhaṭa II as probably the work of a Buddhist. We have suggested earlier in this paper that Indu was most probably the disciple of Vāgbhaṭa II as he refers to him as “आचार्य” and “गुरुवः.” If this position is accepted it is easy to understand the following passage in Indu’s commentary:—

Vāgbhaṭa I in the Sūtrasthāna (chap. IV, p. 20) gives the following salutary advice:—

“संवाद्यवस्था विविधाश्च तास्ताः
सम्यक् समीक्ष्यात्महितं विदध्यात् ।
अन्योऽपि यः कश्चिदिहास्ति मार्गः
हितोपदेशेषु भजेत तं च ॥”

Indu explains the above verse as follows:—

“संस्वरजस्तमसां नानाविधानवस्थाविशेषान् परीक्ष्यात्महितं करणीयम् । दुस्तरा हि धर्मप्रतिबन्धका रजस्तमोविकाराः । तथा मनुबुद्धादिप्रणीतेषु हितोपदेशशास्त्रेषु यो मार्गोऽस्ति तमपि सेवेत”

It will be seen from the above text and its explanation by Indu that though in the text there is no suggestion of Buddhist philosophy or religion Indu specifies the text reference to अन्य मार्ग by explaining it to refer to मनुप्रणीतशास्त्र or बुद्धप्रणीतशास्त्र. This specification can be properly explained if we regard Indu as the pupil of a Buddhist, though himself embracing the Hindu faith. This tolerance to Buddhism engendered by his reverence towards a Buddhist guru looks quite natural. Vāgbhaṭa I, however, includes धर्मशास्त्राणि among 108 auspicious things² which have nothing to do with Buddhist religion.

Indu, (as suggested by Mr. Das Gupta above) will have to be assigned to the 7th Century. As against 8th or 9th Century for Vāgbhaṭa II suggested by Dr. Hoernle Mr. Das Gupta suggests 7th Century at the latest for Vāgbhaṭa II [Vide Vol. III (1929) p. 795 of History of Indian Medicine by Girindranath Mukharjee]. This line of argument will make Indu, his son Mādhava-Kara and Vāgbhaṭa II as contemporary writers of the 7th Century. Further as Indu criticizes Bhaṭṭāraka Haricandra in his Śaṣilekhā Haricandra also may be a contemporary of Indu or some-what earlier than Indu. All these are, however, probabilities, which need to be verified by specialists in the field.

25. Date of Kedārabhaṭṭa's Vṛttaratnākara— Before A. D. 1297 †

Dr. Keith states in his History of Sanskrit Literature that Kedārabhaṭṭa's Vṛttaratnākara which describes 136 metres was written before the 15th century¹ and that Mallinātha uses this work.² Aufrecht states³ that a commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara by Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa was composed in A. D. 1545.

The date of Mallinātha, according to Prof. Handiqui is "the 15th century or the latter portion of the 14th as he wrote a commentary on Vidyādhara's Ekāvali in the first quarter of the 14th century."⁴

As Mallinātha uses the Vṛttaratnākara we shall have to put the date of Vṛttaratnākara earlier than the "latter portion of the 14th century" i. e. earlier than A. D. 1375.

It is proposed in the present note to push the date of the Vṛttaratnākara as far back as the 1st half of the 13th century i.e. by about 125 years or so on the basis of the following evidence:—

Caṇḍūpaṇḍita, one of the earliest commentators on the Naiṣadha-carita mentions Vṛttaratnākara in commenting on verse 76 of Canto X. His comment reads —

“वृत्तरत्नाकरे च द्वितीयाध्यायोक्त्या जात्या तृतीयचतुर्थपञ्चमोक्तेन वृत्तेन भिद्यमानं द्विधाऽभवत् ।”⁵

Caṇḍūpaṇḍita gives his own date viz. Saṃvat 1353 or A. D. 1297.¹ This reference enables us to push back the date of Vṛttaratnākara as far back as A. D. 1250 or roughly the 1st half of the 13th century. The popularity of this work will be apparent from the fact that not less than 20 commentaries have been written on it² and that numerous copies of the work are extant in a manuscript form in different Manuscript libraries of the world.

1. See my note in the Journal of the Mythic Society (April 1928) where I have corrected Bühler's error as he gave A. D. 1456-7 as the date of composition of Caṇḍū's commentary.

26. Date of Kedārabhaṭṭa's Vṛttaratnākara — Before A. D. 1000 †

In my note on the Date of Kedārabhaṭṭa's Vṛttaratnākara,¹ a popular work on Sanskrit prosody, I tried to prove that the work was composed before A. D. 1250 in view of its being mentioned in Caṇḍūpaṇḍita's commentary on the Naiṣadhacarita (A. D. 1297). Subsequent to the publication of my note I have come across the following quotation from the work in Aruṇadatta's commentary called *Sarvāṅgasundarā*² on the Aṣṭāṅgahr̥daya of Vāgbhaṭa II :—

Page 235 — “ मात्रासमकं नवमोलगान्तम् (मो लगोन्यः) ”³ (वृत्तरत्नाकरे अ. २।३२) ।

Page 236 — “ द्रुति विलम्बितमाह नभौ भरौ ” (वृत्तरत्नाकरे⁴ अ. ३।४९).

If the identification of these references as given by the learned Shastri is correct, we can push back the date of Kedārabhaṭṭa's Vṛttaratnākara to 1200 A. D., if not earlier.

According to Dr. Hoernle⁵ Aruṇadatta flourished about 1220 A. D. and if we presume his reference to the Vṛttaratnākara as identified by the editor of the Sarvāṅgasundarā commentary as

3. The bracketed variant is found in the Calcutta edition (1915) of the Vṛttaratnākara, p. 8.

4. Ibid, p. 14 — line 6 is exactly identical with the line quoted by Aruṇadatta.

5. Hoernle : Osteology, p. 17 of Introduction—The dates of Aruṇadatta and two of his successors as fixed by Dr. Hoernle are :—

(1) Aruṇadatta — about 1220 A. D.

(2) Vijayarakṣita — „ 1240 A. D.

(3) Vācaspati — „ 1260 A. D.

correct we may safely conclude that this work on prosody was composed earlier than 1150 A. D. Prof. Keith¹ states that the Vṛttaratnākara of Kedārabhaṭṭa was composed before 15th century, while according to the evidence recorded in the present and earlier notes of mine it appears that the work must have been composed before 12th century, if not earlier. This work deals with 136 metres and is commented on by not less than 20 commentators as pointed out by me in my previous note on the subject.

Further evidence on the date of the Vṛttaratnākara is furnished by the commentary of Somacandra, which was composed in Samvat 1329 (= A. D. 1273)² as recorded by the author in a verse at the close of his commentary. The Govt. Mss Library at B. O. R. Institute, Poona, possesses a Ms of this commentary (No. 349 of 1884-86) but it does not contain the date of composition found recorded in the Ulwar Ms described by Peterson. Somacandra mentions Hemacandra on folio 17 of the B. O. R. I. Ms referred to above:—

“श्रुतिसुखकृदियमपि जगति
निजशिरउपगतवतिसति भवति खजा ।

शिखालक्षणे व्यथयचित्ते खजा नाम छंदो भवतीति समासार्थः ॥

श्री हेमसूरयस्त्रिवंदं छंदोद्वयं पादचतुष्ककलितं वदति । यथा प्रसृमरमरितरपतिवल्-
तिमिर निकरमतनुमपिगुरुणि किरणततयद्द्व विदधति चिरतरमघनिपति-
तिलकतववरविशिखाः ॥ १ ॥ etc.”

It appears from the above extract that Hemasūri or Hemacandra has in one of his works dealt with the two lines of the Vṛttaratnākara viz. “श्रुतिसुख etc.” and “निजशिर etc.” as stated by

1. History of Sanskrit Literature (1928), p. 417.

2. Vide Extract 245 in Peterson's Catalogue of Ulwar Mss, p. 89. Somacandra records the date of his work in the following verse:—

“श्रीविक्रमनृपकाले नन्दकरकृपाटयोनिभूसंख्ये संवत् १३२९ समजनैरजोत्सवदिने
वृत्तिरियंमुग्धबोधकरी ॥ ५ ॥ ”

The above date of Somacandra's commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara has been included in the Chronology of Indian Authors by Nilamani Chakravarti published in the Journal of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, Vol. III (1907), pp. 204-220. This is a supplement to M. Duff's Chronology of India and will be found very useful to students interested in Indian Chronology.

Somacandra. If this statement proves true on identification we may be in a position to push back the date of the Vṛttaratnākara before 1000 A. D., for the reason that Hemacandra¹ flourished between 1088 and 1172 A. D.

Later references to the Vṛttaratnākara especially in works, the chronology of which has been settled, will be found useful as they will show the authoritative character of the work. Hemādri, the author of a commentary on the Raghuvamśa, who is different from his namesake the author of Āyurvedarasāyana and Caturva-rgacintāmaṇi, quotes the *Vṛttaratnākara*² while commenting upon Raghuvamśa VI, 6. I have proved elsewhere³ that Hemādri, the author of the Raghuvamśadarpaṇa, flourished in the 1st half of the 15th century. Mr. Nilamani Chakravarti in this *Chronology of Indian Authors*⁴ records the following information about Rāmacandra Bhāratī's commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara composed in A. D. 1455 :—

“A. D. 1455 — One thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine years after the Nirvāṇa of Buddha (according to Ceylonese calculation) Rāmacandra Bhāratī composed a commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara. The author, who was a Bengal Brāhmaṇa, went to Ceylon ; converted by Parākrama Vāhu VI (A. D. 1410-1462) and was surnamed Bauddhāgama Cakravartin. He was an adept to the Mahāyāna School, a form of Buddhism, says Prof. Bendal, almost unknown in Ceylon, B. M. C. No. 429.”

27. Vāgbhāṭa, the author of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya and his Commentators ‡

In response to the request of the learned editor (Vaidya Hari Shastri Paradkar Bhiṣagācārya of Akola) of the present edition of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya Saṁhitā I have collected in this short introduction some information about Vāgbhāṭa the author of this popular work on medicine. Incidentally I have recorded all possible information in a brief manner about the commentators of this work to enable the reader to understand the work of this author in its proper historical perspective. In the preparation of this introduction my outlook has been mainly historical rather than technical as I don't claim any knowledge of the practical side of Indian Medicine as represented in the present work. Further, my introduction is intended to indicate the present stage of research connected with the authorship, history and chronology of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya and its commentators and consequently I have consistently refused to be dogmatic on these matters, some of which are still in an unsettled state. With these preliminary remarks about the method adopted by me in the following study I proceed with the subject proper.

I — AṢṬĀṆGAHṚDAYA AND ITS AUTHOR VĀGBHĀṬA

The name वामभट is very commonly met with in the history of of Sanskrit literature.' We are here concerned with वामभट the

(4) वाग्भट, son of नेमिकुमार, the Jain author of works अलंकारतिलक, छंदोनुशासन and its commentary, वाग्भटालंकार, शृंगारतिलककाव्य;

(5) वाग्भट, son of सिंहगुप्त, grandson of वाग्भट, author of अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता, वसनकल्प, वाग्भटीय (on medicine).

(6) The following works are ascribed to वाग्भट but they may not be by the same author:— पदार्थचंद्रिका, भावप्रकाश, रसरत्नसमुच्चय (Ed. by Bapat, Anandashram Press, Poona, 1890 — 2nd edition, 1905) and शास्त्रदर्पण.

वृद्धवाग्भट is quoted in टोडरानंद and भावप्रकाश. A lexicon called वाग्भटकोश is quoted in मेदिनीकर.

(7) वाग्भट, author of वाग्भटालंकार.

There is also a work called वाग्भटमंडन (on न्याय) by नरहरिभट, son of सहदेवभट.

Part II, p. 132 — a work called वाग्भटस्मृतिसंग्रह is quoted by अपरांक on याज्ञवल्क्य.

Duff's Chronology of India (p. 136) has the following remarks about a वाग्भट who flourished in A. D. 1160:— "The author वाग्भट, जयसंगल, author of the कविशिक्षा and श्रीपाल author of वैरोचनपराजय flourished under Jayasimha Siddharāja, श्रीपाल being poet-laureate to him and his successor कुमारपाल"—Peterson Report, i, 68; Bhandarkar's Report 1883-84, 155-6; Epigraphia Indica, i, 295.

Further on page 201 Vāgbhaṭa is mentioned in the following entry:—

"1260 A. D. — The आयुर्वेदरसायन, a commentary on a medical work by वाग्भट and a commentary on बोपदेव's मुक्ताफल, a work on Vaishnava doctrines are also ascribed to him" i.e. हेमाद्रि, the author of the चतुर्वर्गचिन्तामणि, who was श्रीकरणाधिप (chief secretary) to महोदेव, the Yādava king of Devagiri.

author of which is another वाग्भट, sometimes called by the Indian commentators as “वृद्धवाग्भट” or वाग्भट, the elder. Dr. Hoernle names वृद्धवाग्भट as वाग्भट I, while the author of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता is styled by him as वाग्भट II. The अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता is based on the अष्टांगसंग्रह¹ and reproduces it copiously.

In the latter work वाग्भट I has tried to gather and amalgamate the more or less conflicting medical systems current in his time, especially those of चरक and सुश्रुत.²

2. Dr. P. C. Ray : History of Hindu Chemistry, Vol. I, Calcutta (1902), Introduction p. XIII.—“Vāgbhāṭa, the epitomiser of Charaka and Suśruta mentions the works of Harita and Bhela, which were probably extant in his days.” Burnell’s Tanjore Catalogue, pt. I, pp. 63-65, contains a full analysis of Bhelasamhitā. Dr. Burnell remarks : “The most superficial comparison shows how much Vāgbhāṭa was indebted to this ancient work.” Page xvi — “The Charaka, the Suśruta and the Bower MS and even the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya of Vāgbhāṭa have more or less a common basis or substratum.”

Page xviii —“ Vāgbhāṭa in his Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya makes copious extracts both from the Charaka and the Suśruta. The latter must, therefore, have existed prior to the 9th century A. D.The Vāgbhāṭa and the Nidāna (of Mādhavakara) are simply summaries of Charaka and Suśruta and were written at a time when the latter had become very old and were, therefore, studied by few experts and their abstracts were likely to be prized by the general practitioners.”

In the Z. D. M. G., Vol. 49, p. 184, Roth observes—“ Uday Chand Dutt in his Mate. Medica describes the work as a methodical and orderly compilation from Charaka and Suśruta. I believe he is unjust to him ; Vāgbhāṭa, who, of course, draws upon Suśruta more is not so dependent ” (trans. from German by my friend Dr. Hara Datta Sharma, M. A. ph. D.).

Though वाग्भट II is known to all the medical men of India and his compendium of medicine and surgery (the अष्टांगहृदय) is widely studied by well-known medical practitioners, yet, not much information is available about his time, place and personality.

Some say that he is धन्वंतरि himself. He is identified by some with one of the fourteen gems obtained when the ocean was churned. In the अत्रियसंहिता he is described as the great sage of the Kaliyuga.¹ Others regard him as the incarnation of गौतमबुद्ध. There is also a story current which describes him as a voluptuous Brahmin given to all sorts of revelries and lost in love with a low-caste woman. The medical writers like माधव, शार्ङ्गधर, चक्रदत्त and भावमिश्र look upon वाग्भट II as a great authority.²

Mr. Kunte records the following evidence to prove that वाग्भट II was not a Buddhist:—

(1). Though some of the opening salutations to the divisions of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता are addressed either to Buddha or some Buddhistic emblem we need not infer therefrom that वाग्भट II was of Buddhistic persuasion because three-fourths of these opening salutations are addressed to गजानन.

(2). In one place वाग्भट II shows his aversion to Buddhas and says—“न चैत्यं गच्छेत्”, where the meaning of चैत्य is explained by the commentators as “Buddha temple” or the “place of worship of the Buddhas.”

(3). In his precepts for the preservation of health वाग्भट II is a thorough Vedic Āryan and the मन्त्राः he recites are also Vedic.

For all the foregoing reasons Mr. Kunte thinks that वाग्भट II lived more under the Vedic than under Buddhistic or Brahmanical polity.

“Though a Vedic Ārya, Vāgbhaṭa was influenced considerably by the teachings of Gautama Buddha. He seems to have flourished when Buddhism had asserted its power while that of the Vedas had not totally declined.”

कलौ वाग्भटनामा च etc.”

2. Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya with Arunadatta's Comm., Ed. by A. M. Kunte, Bombay, 1830, Intro. pp. 5-6.

Mr. Ganesh Sharma in the उपोद्घात to his edition of the अष्टांग-संग्रह of बृद्धवाग्भट (p. 1) observes:—

“ बुद्धाय तस्मै नमः' इत्याद्युक्तवाग्भटो बौद्धमतानुयाय्यासीदिति केषां- चिन्मतम् तत्तु न सम्यक् यतः “ अर्चयेद्देवगोविप्रबृद्धवैद्यनृपातिर्यान् ॥ अथर्वविहिता

अर्थपरत्वाच्च वाग्भटो वैदिकधर्मानुयायी ब्राह्मण आसीन्न बौद्धमतानुयायीत्यधिगम्यते ॥ ”

As regards the parentage of वाग्भट II Mr. Kunte says it will be found in the last chapter of the उत्तरमंत्र of the अष्टांगसंग्रहसंहिता. The pertinent verse reads as under:—

“ भिषग्वरो वाग्भट इत्यभून्मे
पितामहो नामधरोऽस्मि यस्य ।
सुतोऽभवत्तस्य च सिंहगुप्त-
स्तस्याप्यहं सिंधुषु जातजन्मा ॥ ” २

“My grand-father's name was वाग्भट, I was given his name, my father was सिंहगुप्त, I was born in this country of the Sindhus.”

Evidently in assigning the above parentage to the author of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता Mr. Kunte has presumed the identity of the author of the अष्टांगसंग्रह viz. वाग्भट I, and the author of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता viz. वाग्भट II. This identity may be wrong in view of the fact pointed out by Dr. Hoernle that वाग्भट II has based his work (अष्टांगहृदय-संहिता) on that of वाग्भट I or बृद्धवाग्भट (अष्टांगसंग्रह). Then again on p. 8 of his Introduction which contains Marathi translation of his remarks in English about वाग्भट's parentage he has wrongly substituted the words “अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता” instead of “अष्टांगसंग्रहसंहिता” the last chapter of which contains the verse “भिषग्वरो वाग्भट इत्यभून्..... सिंधुषु जातजन्मा” as verified by us in the reference given by us in the foot-note from the edition of the अष्टांगसंग्रह of 1888. No edition of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता contains the verse in question.

1. Is this in अष्टांगसंग्रह or अष्टांगहृदय ? Mr. Kunte says it is in the अष्टांगहृदय. Perhaps Mr. Ganesh Sharma (1888) has based his remarks on Kunte's remarks of 1880.

2. Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha, Ed. by Ganesh Sharma, Bombay, 1888, p. 420.

Mr. Kunte also quotes the popular couplet describing Vāgbhaṭa's power and proficiency:—

“ निदाने माधवः श्रेष्ठः सूत्रस्थाने तु वाग्भटः ।
शारीरे सुश्रुतः प्रोक्तः चरकस्तुचिकित्सिते ॥ ”

As Mr. Kunte has presumed the identity of the two वाग्भटs he apparently makes the above verse applicable to वाग्भट, the author of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता. The couplet, however, is not clear on this point and it is doubtful whether by “वाग्भट” the couplet means वाग्भट I (or वृद्धवाग्भट) or वाग्भट II, who has based his treatise on that of वाग्भट I. This question can be solved if we can prove the antiquity of the couplet quoted by Mr. Kunte.

The colophons to the different chapters of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता of वाग्भट II are also misleading as regards the parentage of the author. For instance the colophon to the निदानस्थान on p. 850 of Vol. I of Kunte's edition of 1880 reads as under:—

“ इति श्रीसिंहगुप्तसूनुवाग्भटविरचितायां अष्टांगहृदयसंहितायां तृतीयं निदान-स्थानं समाप्तम् ”

The “ सिंहगुप्तसूनुवाग्भट ” is evidently identical with वृद्धवाग्भट, the author of the अष्टांगसंग्रह and not of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता and the copyists in copying the MSS of the two works by authors of the name वाग्भट may have indiscriminately added the expression ‘सिंहगुप्तसूनु’ to the name of वाग्भट II, while in fact there is no verse in the body of the अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता supporting this parentage¹ for वाग्भट II.

1 This parentage (सिंहगुप्तसूनु) is also found in the case of the author of the रसरत्नसमुच्चय which is also ascribed to वाग्भट in the Colophons of MSS of this work (cf. India Office MS. No. 2175 — Des. Cata. Part V, p. 967). In the introductory verses of this work verse 9 clearly states that the author of the रसरत्नसमुच्चय is the son of Simhagupta (सिंहगुप्तसूनु) :—

“ रसानामायप्रानां चिकित्सार्थोपयोगिनां ।
सूनुना सिंहगुप्तस्य रसरत्नसमुच्चयः ॥ ९ ॥ ”

(Vide p. 967 of Part V Ind. Office Cata.).

If the above verse is a genuine part of the text we get three वाग्भटs with the same parentage (सिंहगुप्तसूनु) — a circumstance which

Prof. Keith,¹ however, makes the following remarks about these two वाग्भट्स :—

(1) "Both claim the same parentage in their works."

(2) "बृद्धवाग्भट is the son of सिंहगुप्त and grand-son of वाग्भट and his teacher was the Buddhist Avalokita."

(3) The work of बृद्धवाग्भट was clearly used by the younger writer (author of अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता) whose Metrical form as contrasted with the prose mixed with verses of his predecessor (बृद्धवाग्भट) confirms his later date.

(4) बृद्धवाग्भट was clearly a Buddhist and he may reasonably be identified with a man referred to by I-tsing as the author of a compendium of the eight topics of medicine.

(5) बाहट is the Prākṛta form of वाग्भट and संघगुप्त is the Prākṛta form for सिंहगुप्त.

(6) The younger वाग्भट was very possibly a descendant of the older (बृद्धवाग्भट) though we have no proof for such a conjecture beyond the fact that it might explain their confusion.

(7) The अष्टांगहृदयसंहिता was probably the work of a Buddhist. It was translated into Tibetan and it could not be put more than a century after the अष्टांगसंग्रह.

(8) Both the वाग्भट्स agree in citing चरक and सुश्रुत.

in itself is highly suspicious and raises doubts about the authenticity of this parentage ascribed to no less than three authors of the same name. According to Sir P. C. Ray the रसरत्नसमुच्चय is contemporaneous with Roger Bacon who died in A. D. 1294 (Vide p. lvi of History of Hindu Chemistry, Vol. I, Calcutta, 1902). If this view is correct the author of the रसरत्नसमुच्चय cannot be identical with the author of the अष्टांगहृदय in spite of the alleged identity of name and parentage.

Mr. Durgashankar Kevalaram Shastri expresses the same view as above against the traditionally accepted view about the identity of the three Vāgbhaṭas (Vide foot-note 31 on p. 258 of Prabandha Chintāmani, Gujarati Trans. Bombay, 1934).

1. History of Sanskrit Literature, p. 510.

Dr. P. C. Ray¹ regards Vāgbhaṭa, the author of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya as the highest medical authority next to Caraka and Suśruta. "In many parts of the Deccan the very names of Caraka and Suśruta were forgotten and Vāgbhaṭa is looked upon as a revealed author and this is one of the reasons which led Haas to conclude that the former succeeded and owed their inspiration to the latter."²

The Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya contains little or nothing that is original. It is merely an epitome of the Caraka and the Suśruta with some gleanings from the works of Bhela and Hārīta. In surgery alone the author introduces certain modifications and additions. Mineral and natural salts chiefly figure in the prescriptions along with vegetable drugs; mercury is incidentally mentioned but in such a perfunctory manner that it would not be safe to conclude that any compounds thereof are referred to. There are, however, a few metallic preparations recommended in it which would presuppose an advanced knowledge of chemical processes."

Regarding the religious faith of Vāgbhaṭa Dr. Ray observes :— "There is a tradition current among the learned Pandits of Southern India that Vāgbhaṭa, formerly a Brahmin, was persuaded by a Buddha priest to adopt his religion which he embraced in the latter part of his life."³

The internal evidence also fully supports our author's proclivities towards Buddhism."

Date of Vāgbhaṭa II

The Chinese pilgrim I'tsing speaks of a compiler of the eight divisions of the Āyurveda :—"These eight parts formerly existed in eight books, but lately a man epitomised them and made them into one bundle."⁴

This reference may give us some idea about the date of Vāgbhaṭa, the author of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya, presuming that I'tsing alludes to Vāgbhaṭa II in the foregoing lines.

Dr. P. Cordier thinks that Vāgbhaṭa lived at the time of king Jayasimha (1196-1218 A. D.) on the authority of the Rājatarāṅgiṇī but this view is untenable as observed by Dr. Ray because Kalhaṇa's dates are not always reliable.

"Cosma de kōros was the first to announce that the Thibetan Tanjur contains among others, translations of the Charaka, the Suśruta and the Vāgbhaṭa." ¹

"George Huth who has critically examined the contents of the Tanjur concludes that the most recent date at which this Tanjur can be placed is 8th century A. D.² This is in agreement with the fact that the Vāgbhaṭa was one of the medical works translated by order of the Caliphs. But no positive information as regards the most distant date is yet available.³ Kunte from internal evidence is inclined to place him at least as early as the second century before Christ."

According to Dr. Hoernle⁴ Vāgbhaṭa II or the author of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya belongs to 8th or 9th century A. D. At any rate he is not later than 1060 A. D., the date of Cakrapāṇidatta.

The grounds on which Dr. Hoernle bases his chronology for Vāgbhaṭa II may be briefly stated as under:—

(1) Vāgbhaṭa I, according to Dr. Hoernle may be assigned to early seventh century or about 625 A. D.⁵

(2) Mādhava, Drḍhabala and Vāgbhaṭa II are all of them posterior to Vāgbhaṭa I.

5. Ibid, Intro. p. 11.

(3) Mādhava cites Vāgbhaṭa by name¹ and also quotes from him anonymously. Drḍhabala, though he does not name Vāgbhaṭa I as his authority, quotes from him very frequently.²

(4) Mādhava, Drḍhabala and Vāgbhaṭa II are anterior to Cakrapāṇidatta whose date is about 1060 A. D.

Cakrapāṇidatta names Drḍhabala and³ quotes him as the author of the last section (सिद्धिस्थान) of Caraka's compendium⁴. Vāgbhaṭa II is quoted many times by name in Cakrapāṇidatta's commentary on Caraka's compendium.⁵

Mādhava is anterior to Cakrapāṇidatta as he precedes⁶ both Drḍhabala and Vāgbhaṭa II. These three authors, according to Dr. Hoernle, must be placed somewhere between the 7th and 11th centuries A. D.

(5) According to evidence collected by Prof. Jolly⁷ the Arabic sources point to 7th or 8th century for Mādhava and the Tibetan and other sources point to 8th or 9th century for Vāgbhaṭa II.⁸ Drḍhabala takes his place between Mādhava and Vāgbhaṭa II. In any case none of these authors (Mādhava, Drḍhabala and Vāgbhaṭa II) can be later than c. 1060 A. D., the date of Cakrapāṇidatta.

II — COMMENTARIES ON THE AṢṬĀNGAHRDAYA OF VĀGBHĀṬA

The popularity of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya as a work of highest medical authority next to Caraka and Suśruta found for it many commentators of repute. Many MSS of their commentaries are now available in several public libraries in India and outside. It would, however, be useful to record here a complete list of these commentaries and the MS material available with regard to each of them in the different libraries :—

- (1) Aruṇadatta's Sarvāṅgasundarī ¹
- (2) Hemādri's Ayurvedarasāyana.²
- (3) Commentary by Āśādhara.³

1. Aufrecht records the following MSS in his Catalogus Catalogorum :—

Part I, 35-36 — Comm. on Sūtrasthāna I. O. 985; on Śārīrasthāna B. 4, 218 ; on Nidānasthāna B. 4, 218 ; on Cikitsāsthāna B. 4. 218 ; on Kalpasthāna—B. 4. 218 and I. O. 2445; W. p. 280, 281 ; Oxf. , 303^b; K. 222 ; Bik 629 ; Rādh 32 ; Burnell 65^a; P. 15.; Taylor 1. 254 ; Oppert I, 2730, 8328, II, 6493 ; Peters 3, 399 ; I. O. 985.

Part III p. 8 — BC. 12 ; Tb. 150 (Uttarasthāna).

Aufrecht records the name of the commentary as Sarvāṅgasundarī while in the present edition Pt. Paradkar Shastri adopts the name Sundarā. Presumably this reading must have some MS basis.

2. Aufrecht in his Cata. Catalogorum records the following MSS :—

Part I, p. 36 — W. p. 280 ; K. 210 ; Bik 632 ; Rādh. 32 ; and p. 773 NP. I, 14 ; Bhr*366 ; Oppert 2758 ; Peters 2, 196 ; BP. 86, 274, 373 ; Oppert 4092.

Part I, p. 36 — Peters. 2, 86 — Peterson does not record any MS but only mentions that Āśādhara wrote a commentary called Uddyota on Vāgbhaṭa's Aṣṭāṅgaḥṛdaya. This commentary is one of the eleven works of Āśādhara recorded by Peterson. Ā. was a Jain teacher who lived in A. D. 1240 (= Samvat 1296). His native country was Sapādalakshaya. Owing to this country being overrun by Mleccha King, Ā. ran for safety to Mālavā and took refuge in Dhārā, where he was received with enthusiasm by (the lord of poets) Bilhaṇa, the chief minister of Vijayavarma, the king of Mālavā. The foregoing information is recorded in a valuable praśasti to the Dharmāmṛta of Āśādhara, 2 MSS of which are available in the Govt. MSS library at the B. O. R. Institute. Peterson calls Āśādhara as "Jain admirable Crichton."

As Āśādhara was a very learned commentator and was apparently a senior contemporary of Hemādri (about 1260 A. D.) his commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgaḥṛdaya must have been a valuable one. Aufrecht, however, records no MSS of this commentary. If any MSS are found they will prove a valuable addition to the commentarial literature on the Aṣṭāṅgaḥṛdaya.

I See Aufrecht : Cata Catalo. Part III, p. 9. The correct name of this commentator is चंद्रनंदन (see Cordier in Journ. Asia. 1901, p. 185).

Aufrecht records the following MSS. in his Cata. Catalogorum :—

Part I, p. 36—K. 214; Peters. 1. 113.

(8) A Commentary called Hṛdayaprabodhikā.¹

(9) A Commentary by *Bhaṭṭa Narahari*² or Nṛsiṃhakavi.

(10) Samketamañjarī by Dāmodara.³

Of the ten commentaries mentioned above we are concerned at present with those of Aruṇadatta and Hemādri which have been printed in this edition along with the text of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya. Several editions⁴ of the text have been published but the commentaries on the same with the exception of that of Aruṇadatta have not been published so far. In the present edition Pt. Paradkar Shastri of Akola has included the unpublished commentary of Hemādri with different readings of the text and both the commentaries from 20/25 MSS procured from different places. The readings of the text (Aṣṭāṅgahṛdayasamhitā) have been carefully checked and verified by him with reference to the text of the Carakasamhitā, Suśrutasamhitā and Aṣṭāṅgasamgraha. The text of Hemādri's commentary on the Nidānasthāna and the Cikitsāsthāna of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya has been based only on a single rare MS procured with great difficulty by Pt. Paradkar Shastri. A close student of the present edition will also find in the elaborate footnotes, extracts from the MSS of the unpublished commentaries of the Aṣṭāṅga-hṛdaya like the Padārthacandrikā of Candranandana and the commentary by Toḍarmalla etc.

Pt. Paradkar Shatri has tried his best to make the present edition as much scholarly as possible. All students of the history of Indian Medicine should, therefore, be grateful to him and the N. S. press for bringing out the present edition involving much scholarly labour and expense.

Arunadatta

Arunadatta was the son of Mrgāṅkadatta.¹ Mr. Nalini Nath Das Gupta² includes this commentary on the Aṣṭāṅga-hṛdaya among the Vaidyaka works of Bengal in the Early Mediaeval period and observes :— “ Probably to the early part of the thirteenth century belonged Arunadatta, son of Mrgāṅkadatta and the author of a learned commentary on the Aṣṭāṅga-hṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II. A commentary on the Suśruta Saṁhitā is also ascribed to him (Cata. of Sans. MSS in the Private Libraries of the N. W. Prov. part I, Benares, 1874, 586). An Arunadatta is found quoted, as a lexicographer and grammarian in Bṛhaspati Rāyamukuṭa's commentary on the Amarakośa (1431 A. D.) (R. G. Bhandarkar's Report on Search of Sanskrit MSS, 1883–84, p. 467) as also in the Ṭikāsarvasva commentary on the same by Sarvānanda-Vandyaghaṭīya (1159 A.D.), but whether he is not different from the physician Arunadatta is very difficult to divine at present. One of the theories of the latter, however, regarding the structure of the eye is controverted by Vijaya-Rakṣita (c. 1240 A.D.) whence Dr. Hoernle assigns him to about 1220 A. D. (Hoernle: Studies in the Medicine of Ancient India, Part I (Osteology), p. 17). ”

Aufrecht³ records the following namesakes of Arunadatta:—

1. The colophons of the different chapters of the commentary record the name मृगाङ्कदत्त (cf. श्रीमृगाङ्कदत्तपुत्रश्रीमदरुणदत्तविरचितायां अष्टांगहृदयटीकायां) while in verse 3 of chapter I of his commentary he gives his father's name as मृगाङ्क :—

“ श्रीमन्मृगाङ्कतनयटीकामष्टाङ्गहृदयस्य ।

श्रीमानरुणः कुरुते सम्यग्द्रष्टुः पदार्थबोधाय ॥ ३ ॥ ”

2. See his article on “ The Vaidyaka Works of Bengal in the early Medieval Period ” (Indian Culture, Vol. II, No. 1, page 159).

3. Cata. Catalogorum, Part I, p. 30.

“अरुणदत्त — lexicographer and grammarian. Quoted by Ujjvaladatta and Rāyamukuṭa. See Gaṇaratnamahodadhi, p. 119.

अरुणदत्त — Manuṣyālaya Candrikā, archi. Oppert 2658, 2942, 6108.”

As Ujjvaladatta's Vṛtti on the Uṇādisūtras of Pāṇini has been assigned by Aufrecht¹ to circa 1250, Aruṇadatta, the lexicographer and grammarian must have flourished before A. D. 1250.

The question of the identity of the namesakes of Aruṇadatta is still a matter for investigation and the only fact about which we are certain is that three persons of the same name viz. Aruṇadatta, wrote on four different subjects viz. Medicine, Lexicography, grammar and architecture.

The relative chronology of Aruṇadatta and two of his successors who were not far removed from him in point of time has been given by Dr. Hoernle² on evidence which is as follows:—

(1) Vācaspati wrote a commentary called Ātaṅka Darpaṇa (i.e. Mirror of Diseases) on the Nidāna (Pathology) of Mādhava.

(2) Vijayarakṣita and his pupil Śrīkaṇṭhadatta jointly wrote a commentary called Madhukoṣa (Receptacle of Honey) on the Nidāna of Mādhava.

(3) Vācaspati states in verse 4 of his Introduction to the Ātaṅkadarpaṇa that he consulted the Madhukoṣa for the purpose of writing his own commentary.

(4) Vijayarakṣita controverts a certain doctrine of Aruṇadatta regarding the structure of the eye (see Ātaṅkadarpaṇa, Uttarasthāna, chapter xii, verse 1 of 1st Ed. Vol. ii, p. 516).

(5) Vācaspati states in verse 5 of his Introduction that his father Pramoda was chief physician at the court of Muhammad Hammīra, who is identical with the celebrated Muhamad Ghori who reigned in Delhi from 1193 to 1205 A. D.

(6) Vijayarakṣita quotes Guṇākara³ who wrote the Yogaratanmālā in 1239 A. D. (See verse 7 on page 68 of Jivānanda's Ed.).

2. Osteology, Intro. p. 17.

3. Peterson's Report 1886-92, p. xxvi.

On the basis of the above evidence Dr. Hoernle concludes that—

- (i) Aruṇadatta flourished about 1220 A. D.
- (ii) Vijayarakṣita „ „ 1240 A. D.
- (iii) Vācaspati „ „ 1260 A. D.

Hemādri

Hemādri's name is familiar to us on account of his magnum opus viz. the Caturvargacintāmaṇi which Prof. Keith¹ describes as "written between 1260 and 1309 for Yādava princes." In this book Hemādri "sets out in enormous detail rules of vows and offerings, pilgrimages, the attainment of release, and offerings to the dead. This text is exceptionally rich in Smṛiti citations in extenso..."

Aufrecht² makes the following entries about Hemādri and his works in his Catalogue:—

“हमाद्रि - Son of Kāmadeva, son of Vāsudeva, son of Vāmana, lived under king Mahādeva (1260-71) of Devagīri, son of Caitrapāla and under his successor Rāmacandra (1271-1309). See Parīṣeṣakhaṇḍa, 1, p. 4. He is quoted for the first time by Vopadeva, then in the Kālamādhava and Madana-pārijāta.”

2 Mr. K. A. Padhye gives the following works as Hemādri's :—

(1) Caturvargacintāmaṇi.

(2) Kālanirṇaya.

(3) Kālanirṇaya Saṅkṣepa.

This Hemādri is different from भट्टहेमाद्रि, son of ईश्वरसूरि, author of Raghuvamśadarpaṇa (commentary on the Raghuvamśa).¹

A work called त्रिस्थलीविधि on dharma by Hemādri (AK. 437) has also been recorded by Aufrecht.

In the commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya viz. the Āyurvedasāyana, Hemādri gives in the first nine verses some information² about himself. He calls himself Hemādri, the author of the Caturvargacintāmaṇi (v. 2). For the proper performance of the vows etc. mentioned in the Caturvargacintāmaṇi good health is necessary and the commentary Āyurvedasāyana has been written with a view to facilitate the attainment of such good health. This commentary

1. See my note XV on the Date of Hemādri's commentary on the Raghuvamśa in the Annals of the Bhandarkar Institute, Vol. XIV, pp. 126-28. Bhaṭṭa Hemādri in his commentary on Canto XIII, 52 and Canto VII, 37, 51 of the Raghuvamśa, mentions the चतुर्वर्गचिन्तामणि. As Bhaṭṭa Hemādri quotes from the Prakriyākaumudī of Rāmacandra (between 1350 and 1400) his commentary has been assigned by me to the first half of the 15th century.

2. See also Early History of India by V. A. Smith (1924), p. 452 — " The celebrated Sanskrit writer Hemādri popularly known as Hemāḍapant flourished during the reigns of Rāmacandra and his predecessor Mahādeva. He devoted himself chiefly to the systematic redaction of Hindu religious practices and observances and with this object compiled important works upon Hindu sacred law. He is alleged although erroneously to have introduced a form of current script, the Moḍī, from Ceylon and has given a valuable historical sketch of his patron's dynasty in the introduction to one of his books."

follows the views of earlier medical writers viz. चरक, हारीत, सुश्रुत and others (v. 3). It does not repeat what has already been said by commentators like हरिचन्द्र and others on Caraka and जेजुट and others on Suśruta (v 4). Hemādri also mentions his relation with his patron king Rāmacandra of Devagiri (verses 5 and 6).

It appears from the above account that Hemādri's Ayurveda-rasāyana is later than his work Caturvargacintāmaṇi as the latter is referred to in the former. This reference gives us the relative chronology of the two works. Prof. P. V. Kane¹ assigns the composition of the Caturvargacintāmaṇi to a period of ten years (1260 to 1270 A. D.) because in the Caturvargacintāmaṇi Hemādri is said to be the keeper of the state records of Mahādeva, who reigned from 1260-1271 A. D. Prof. Kane further observes:—"There are contemporary records available showing that Hemādri was in high favour not only with Mahādeva but also with his successor Rāmacandra."

These remarks receive additional corroboration from the following two verses in the beginning of the Ayurvedarasāyana:—

“ देशभ्रंशभयाद्विचाल्य लयिनः स्नेहैः प्रतापैः परं
प्रदाव्य प्रसृतान् प्रवेक्ष्य परितो दुर्गोदरं द्राक्ततः ।
ऊर्ध्वाधोगति निर्गमय्य मदनैर्दन्त्यादिभिर्विद्विषो
दोषानद्रदि रामराज्यमगदङ्कारेण हेमाद्रिणा ॥ ५ ॥
हेमाद्रिनामं रामस्य राज्ञः श्रीकरणेष्वधि ।
ननुभौ भगवन्निष्ठषाड्गुण्यकरणेष्वधि ॥ ६ ॥ ”

The above verses clearly refer to the eminent position Hemādri held under King Rāmacandra of Devagiri (1271-1309 A.D.). Evidently the Ayurvedarasāyana must have been composed between 1271-1309 A. D. when as a minister of Rāmacandra he strived for the solidarity of the kingdom. The exact date of composition of the Ayurvedarasāyana must, however, await further investigation, because no MSS of the complete commentary of Hemādri on all

1. History of Dharmaśāstra Literature, Vol. I, 1930, p. 357 —
“The Thana plate of Rāmacandra (dated Śaka 1194 i.e. 1272 A. D.) ...describes Hemādri as one who had attained a pre-eminent position in the government through the favour of Rāmacandra and as one who was in charge of all state records and was the foremost minister” (समस्तकरणाधिपत्यमन्त्रीकुर्वाणे च निर्जितझाडिमण्डले मन्त्रिचूडामणौ गुणरत्नरोहणाद्रौ हेमाद्रौ etc.”) the sthānas of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya have yet been made available to the editor of the present edition of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya.

For more information about Hemādri and the Yādavas of Devagiri we have to invite the attention of our readers to section 87 of Prof. Kane's History of Dharmasāstra, Vol. I (pp. 354-59) from which the following lines are noteworthy :—

“Hemādri also wrote a commentary called Āyurvedarasāyana. ... Altogether Hemādri was a towering personality. His name is associated throughout the Maratha country with the construction of numerous temples having a peculiar style of architecture. He is also credited with having invented the Moḍī script.”

Mr. K. A. Padhye has also published a Life of Hemādri (in Marathi) which is replete with information about Hemādri and his times and can, therefore, be read with profit. In particular chapter II, which deals with Hemādri's literary productions will be found interesting. In his remarks about Āyurvedarasāyana (1) Mr. Padhye refers to Mr. Kunte's statement that Hemādri wrote a commentary on the Sūtrasthāna and Kalpasthāna and then (2) throws out a suggestion that some contemporary learned physician patronized by Hemādri may have written the Āyurvedarasāyana. (3) Mr. Padhye also states that Aruṇadatta in his commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya does not refer to Hemādri. With regard to these remarks of Mr. Padhye we have to observe as follows:—

(1) The present edition of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya contains Hemādri's commentary not only on the Sūtrasthāna and Kalpasthāna but on some portion of the Cikitsāsthāna and Nidānasthāna also, though it is difficult to find MSS of the commentary for other sthānas. Perhaps a thorough search for these MSS will have to be made before concluding that Hemādri did not complete his commentary on all the parts of the Aṣṭāṅgahrdaya. Mr. Kunte's statement was obviously made in 1880 on a partial survey of MSS material for this commentary, when Aufrecht's Catalogus Catalogorum (1891-1903) was not available to him.

(2) As Aruṇadatta has been assigned to about 1220 A. D. and as Hemādri flourished between 1260 and 1309 A. D. the absence of any reference to Hemādri in Aruṇadatta's commentary pointed out by Mr. Padhye is easily explained. On the contrary Hemādri mentions Arupadatta (vide p. 136 — “ मधु-श्रीदम् ‘माद्रीकम्’ इति अरुणदत्तः ” and “ मैरेयो... ‘खर्जुरासवः’ इति अरुणदत्तः.”).

(3) The hypothesis of a learned physician writing the Ayurvedarasāyana for his patron Hemādri is contradicted by Hemādri's own statement in the introductory verses of Ayurvedarasāyana published in the present edition (verses 2 and 8) wherein he clearly states that Hemādri, the author* of* the Caturvargacintāmaṇi composed this commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya and if Mr. Padhye does not doubt Hemādri's authorship of his work on Dharmaśāstra he cannot in fairness to the versatile intellect of Hemādri doubt his authorship of a work on Vaidyaka. In addition to the statement regarding authorship made in the introductory verses we find the following verse at the end of his commentary on verse 105 of chapter 6 of the Sūtrasthāna wherein two readings in the text are discussed quite in the style of a modern textual critic (page 108) :—

“ बहुभिः पठ्यमानस्य पाठस्थेयं समर्थना ।
हेमाद्रिणा कृता किन्तु तुण्डालुरिति पठ्यताम् ॥ ”

Then again at the end of his commentary on different chapters of the text we find the following statement repeated:—

“ इति हेमाद्रिटीकायामयुर्वेदरसायने etc.”

Since this Introduction was written two publications pertaining to the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya have been published. One of these is a German Translation of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya Samhitā by Luise Hilgenburg and Wilibald Kirfel, which is being published in fascicules by the firm of E. J. Brill of Leiden (Holland). Up to now four fascicules (pp. 1 to 256) have been published. The Translators have given at times some Text-Critical notes which may be useful for a subsequent Critical edition of the Samhitā.—The other work is The Ashtanga Hridaya Kosha by K. M. Vaidya of Valapad (South Malbar) 1936. This is a Dictionary of technical terms used in the text of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya Samhitā. 28. The Chronology of Brahmadeva's Commentary on the Siddhayoga of Vṛnda- Between c. A. D. 900 and 1100 †

Aufrecht makes the following entries about a dharmasāstra author of the name Brahmadeva:—

CC I, 83 — ‘कर्मविपाक dh by ब्रह्मदेव B. 3. 74.’

He also mentions a work on medicine called the कर्मविपाक in the following entry:—

CC I, 83 — ‘कर्मविपाक med B. 4. 220. Radh 31.’

In the above entry the author of the कर्मविपाक is not indicated but it is possible that it may be the work of a medical author of the name ब्रह्मदेव about whom I want to record the following information:—

Śrīkaṇṭhadatta (c. A. D. 1275-1300) pupil of विजयरक्षित (c. 1240 A. D.)¹ refers to an author ब्रह्मदेव in his व्याख्याकुसुमावली² on वृन्दमाधव or सिद्धयोग in the following quotations:—

P. 9 — “अथ श्रीब्रह्मदेवव्याख्या — लङ्घनशब्द उपवासपर्यायो नतु वमनचिरेचनानुवासनादिपर्यायः । ”

I shall prove in a special paper that नारायण मिश्र flourished between c. A. D. 1350 and 1400. It is difficult to say whether the references to ब्रह्मदेव in the व्याख्याकुसुमावली are made by श्रीकण्ठदत्त or by नारायण मिश्र.

P. 599 — “तर्जन्यङ्गुष्ठाग्रमात्रं ग्राह्यं चूर्णं मुच्युदीमात्रमिति ब्रह्मदेवः ”

It appears from the foregoing quotations that a commentary on the सिद्धयोग by a writer of the name ब्रह्मदेव was in existence, say, between A. D. 1250 and 1350 as it is mentioned and quoted from by either Śrīkaṇṭhadatta or Nārāyaṇabhiṣaj in the कुसुमावलीव्याख्या on सिद्धयोग. This commentary has not been mentioned by Aufrecht and hence it would be worth while tracing quotations from it in sources prior to Śrīkaṇṭhadatta's time.

Hemādri, the minister of King Rāmacandra of Devagiri (A. D. 1271-1309), composed a commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II called the Āyurvedarasāyana,¹ in which we find the following reference² to ब्रह्मदेवः—

“आसवस्य सुरायाश्च द्वयोरप्येकभाजने ।
सन्धानं तद्विजानीयान्मैरेयमुभयारमकम् ॥

इति जेजुटो ब्रह्मदेवश्च । ”

Possibly the author of the name ब्रह्मदेव quoted from and mentioned by Hemādri is identical with his namesake, the author of a commentary on the सिद्धयोग mentioned by the authors of the Kusumāvalī-vyākhyā. If this suggestion is accepted we are warranted in concluding that ब्रह्मदेव³ is earlier than A. D. 1200 or so.

Dallaṇa in his commentary on the Suśrutasaṃhitā refers to ब्रह्मदेव in the following extracts⁴:—

1. Edited by Hari Shastri Paradkar in his edition of Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya, N. S. Press, Bombay, 1939.

2. Ibid., p. 136.

3. An author of the name ब्रह्मदेव composed a work on astronomy called करणप्रकाश c. A. D. 1092 (Śaka 1014) (vide p. 240 of History of Indian Astronomy by S. B. Dikshit, Poona, 1896). I cannot say if he is identical with the medical author ब्रह्मदेव, the subject of the present paper. Another author ब्रह्मदेव wrote a commentary on the द्रव्यसंग्रह of नेमिचन्द्र, tenth century (A. D.). Vide H. D. Velankar's Jīnaratnakosa (B. O. R. I.) under “द्रव्यसंग्रह.”

4. Vide p. 1 of Suśrutasaṃhitā with Dallaṇa's commentary ed. by A. C. Kabiratna and C. C. Gopta, Calcutta, 1885.

Page 617 — “ गर्भपातनादिभेदेन संख्यातिरेकात् श्रीब्रह्मदेवस्तु । ”

Page 549 — “ श्रीब्रह्मदेवस्तु चतुर्वलमाह ”

The foregoing references make it clear that Brahmadeva is prior to Dallāṇa. Hoernle¹ assigns Dallāṇa to 'twelfth century', i. e. to a period between 1100 and 1200 A. D. We may, therefore, assign Brahmadeva to a period prior to A. D. 1100. As Brahmadeva commented the Siddhayoga of Vṛnda he is later than Vṛnda, whom Sir P. C. Ray² assigns to circa 900 A. D. We may, therefore, assign Brahmadeva to a period between c. A. D. 900 and 1100.

29. Date of Rākṣasa Kāvya or Kāvya-rākṣasa — Before A. D. 1000 †

Prof. A. B. Keith¹, speaking of the poems Nalodaya and *Rākṣasa Kāvya*², observes as follows:—

“ Still more ludicrous is the suggestion that Nalodaya is his (Kālidāsa's); that rimed poem of intolerable affectation is perhaps not the production of Ravideva author of the Rākṣasa Kāvya of equal demerit, before the 17th century but the work of Vāsudeva, protégé of Kuṣaśekhara and Rāma.”

I am concerned in the present paper with the chronology of the Rākṣasa Kāvya, irrespective of the question of its authorship and hence propose to record some data bearing on its chronology. As Prof. Keith observes that this work is “before 17th century” we must try to take back this limit as far back as we can take it on the strength of documentary evidence.

According to Mr. Krishnamachariar¹ “Rākṣasa-Kāvya is a short piece of 20 verses in an enigmatic and alliterative style, containing a description of sylvan scenery around, by a person roaming about the forest with his spouse. There are commentaries on it by Premadhara, by Śambhubhāskara, by Kavirāja, by Kṛṣṇa Candra, by Udayākaramiśra, and by Bālakṛṣṇa² Pāyagunḍa.” A study of the commentaries on the Rākṣasa-Kāvya and their chronology would have given us some limits for the chronology of this Kāvya but unfortunately the Mss³ of these commentaries are not available to me. Some Mss of these commentaries available at the B. O. R. Institute⁴ have been examined by me but they have not given me any useful data on strength of which any definite limits for the date of the Rākṣasa-Kāvya could be determined with confidence. We are, however, fortunate to have in the Jain Bhandars at Jesalmere a unique dated Ms of a commentary on the Rākṣasa-Kāvya copied in Samvat 1215 = A. D. 1159. This Ms has been described by Mr. C. D. Dalal in his Catalogue of Jesalmere Mss. The scribe who wrote the Ms was a pupil of Jinacandra Sūri of the name “Jīnamata (pati?)”. Mr. Dalal says that there is possibility of this scribe himself being the author of this commentary on the Rākṣasa-Kāvya.¹ Be that as it may, the fact that we have a copy made in A. D. 1159 of a commentry on this Rākṣasa-Kāvya argues in favour of an early date for this Kāvya and it would be worth while examining the Jesalmere Ms from the point of view of textual criticism. The Praśasti which contains the date² of the Ms reads as follows:—

2. According to Dr. S. K. De (Sans. Poetics I, 199) Bālakṛṣṇa Pāyagunḍa is “later than the end of the 16th Century”, i.e., after A. D. 1600.

The Ms of the राक्षसकाव्यटीका described by Mr. Dalal is a Palm-leaf¹ Ms in the Big Bhandar at Jesalmere. We have no access to this Ms and hence must rest content with the extract and the description of it given by Mr. Dalal. Mr. Dalal describes the Ms as राक्षसकाव्यटीका and if we have a commentary on the राक्षसकाव्य copied in A. D. 1159, the date of composition of this commentary is earlier than A. D. 1159. In the same manner the date of the राक्षसकाव्य is earlier still and we may presume that it may be earlier than say A.D. 1000. In view of this limit it would be useful to record references to the राक्षसकाव्य earlier than say A. D. 1100 or so.

The Government Oriental Mss Library, Madras, contains some Mss² of a poem having the designation कविराक्षसीय. A description of these Mss has been given in Vol. XX (Kāvya) of the Descriptive Catalogue of that Library (1918). It appears from this description that the कविराक्षसीय is a poem of 100 stanzas, while the राक्षसकाव्य consists of 20 stanzas only. I am unable to determine if there is any connection between the राक्षसकाव्य and the कविराक्षसीय both of which are represented by some Mss in the several Mss catalogues. It appears, however, that the राक्षसकाव्यटीका represented by a Ms of A. D. 1159 in the Jesalmere Bhandar deals with the राक्षसकाव्य of 20 stanzas only and not with कविराक्षसीय of 100 stanzas. If this view is correct we can definitely say that this poem of 20 stanzas was composed before A. D. 1000 or so in view of a Ms of a commentary on it copied in A. D. 1159 actually existing at Jesalmere.

1. Vide p. 43 of Dalal's Catalogue — No. 345 contains 5 works :— (1) चंद्रदूतकाव्य, (2) मेघाभ्युदयकाव्यवृत्ति, (3) वृन्दावनयमक, (4) राक्षस-काव्यटीका (contains also a praśasti of 4 verses) संवत् १२१५, and (5) घटखर्परटीका.

2. These Mss are as follows :— Vol. XX, p. 8024.

No. 12000 — Complete in 100 stanzas of Anuṣṭup metre.

“ A note by Burnell (fol. 1) runs :— “This seems to be the same poem as Hoffer published and which according to the Ms (v. B. 4, No. 580) is by Ravideva. The original of this Ms (at Tanjore, No. 4780) attributes it to Kālidāsa but it cannot have been written more than fifty years ago. So this authority for the statement leaves room for doubt.” “The Commentary differs from all of those given by Mitra, Notices, ii 186, vii, 153 ; viii, 264 ; ix, 234. Madras Catal. XX, 7959, 7960. interest of responsible scholars in this petty poem of 20 stanzas, with some anonymous commentaries. In the *Catalogue of Mithila Mss*¹ there are three undated Mss of this poem and its anonymous commentaries recorded from private sources. One of these Mss ascribes the authorship of the poem to Vararuci. The Ms of the work at Ulwar² contains a commentary on it by Vihārimiśra. There are two Mss of the poem in the recently opened Oriental Mss Library at Ujjain³. Both of these Mss appear to ascribe the work to Kālidāsa. One of these Mss contains a commentary. In view of the data recorded above and in view of the existence of a Ms of the Rākṣasa Kāvya commentary copied in A. D. 1159 it is necessary to search for quotations from the extant text of this poem in works composed earlier than A. D. 1159. It is also necessary to investigate the question of authorship of the poem, attributed to Kālidāsa, Vararuci and other writers indiscriminately. My object in the present paper is to take back the later limit for the date of the poem from "before the 17th Century" given by Prof. Keith to "before A. D. 1159" definitely and "before A. D. 1000" tentatively. The following chronology about the Mss of the Rākṣasa Kāvya (= RK) may prove useful for further investigation of the exact date of composition and the authorship of the work :—

A.D.	Ms of RK .
1159	Date of the Jesalmere Ms of the RK Commentary.
1205	Date of Śrīdharadāsa's Sūktimuktāvalī which quotes a stanza as "राक्षसस्य"

30. The Date of the Kālikāpurāṇa — Before A. D. 1000 †

Mr. Payne in his work on the *Śāktas*¹ makes the following references to the date of the *Kālikāpurāṇa*²:—

Page 46 — “ seems to have been written about the 14th century.”

Whatever be the evidence on which Mr. Payne has based his date—“14th century” for the Kālikāpurāṇa, it does not affect my evidence for an earlier date for this work, which I intend to record in this note. Śivānanda Sarasvatī in his work, called the Yogacinīā- maṇi,¹ which is a compilation of texts on yoga, quotes many times from the Kālikāpurāṇa, but as he is a late author² this evidence is not of much value in the present inquiry. The late character of the *Yogacintāmaṇi*³ is proved by its reference to Vidyāraṇya, which only proves that Śivānanda flourished after 1400 A. D. or so.

Better evidence for pushing back Mr. Payne's date for the Kālikāpurāṇa by at least 200 years, if not more, is furnished by the Caturvargacintāmaṇi, a work on Dharmaśāstra compiled by Hemādri, the minister of the Yādava Kings of Devagiri,⁴ viz., (1) Mahādeva (1260-1270) and his successor (2) Rāmacandra (1271-1309). Hemādri includes in this work many extracts from the Kālikāpurāṇa in the Vratakhanda.⁵ These extracts are ushered in as from the Kālikāpurāṇa as follows:—

Page 151 — “ इति कालिकापुराणोक्तं चतुर्दशीजागरणव्रतम् ”

Hall states that Haṭhasaṅketacandrikā is a work by Sundaradeva, son of Viśvanāthadeva. They were of the Kāśyapagotra and were Marahattas of Benares. Sundaradeva's spiritual guide was one Pūrṇānanda, if this be a human designation.

new, to make up his Vratakhanda of the Caturvargacintāmaṇi and we have nothing in the nature of these extracts to challenge their genuine character. Hemādri's references to and quotations from the *Kālikāpurāṇa*¹ in the 2nd half of the 13th century dis-establish Mr. Payne's date "14th century" for it and establish at the same time an earlier limit for it, viz. the 12th century. At any rate the work is older than A. D. 1200.

Other evidence in support of the above limit fixed by me for the date of the Kālikāpurāṇa is furnished by a work on Dharmaśāstra. The Ācārādarśa of Śrīdatta Upādhyāya, a manual of daily religious duties of the followers of the White Yajurveda (Vājasaneyins), names among other works the Kālikāpurāṇa.² According to Prof. Kane³, Śrīdatta "composed his works between 1275 and 1310 A. D." It is clear, therefore, that he was a contemporary of

A very useful list of Purāṇa works (printed editions) will be found in the Union List of Indic Texts etc. in American Libraries (Ame. Ori. Society) 1935, pp. 76-86 (Nos. 749-875).

1. See Kane : Hist. of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I, pp. 163 ff. — Prof. Kane states that the eighteen principal purāṇas are rich in dharmaśāstra material, so also the Kālikāpurāṇa and the Saurapurāṇa. Kālikāpurāṇa (88) contains material pertaining to ācāra. " Some of the extant purāṇas, if not all, are much earlier than the 6th century A.D."

2. Kane : History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I, p. 363.

3. Ibid, p. 365.

Hemādri and hence we have two references to the Kālikāpurāṇa, one in the Caturvargacintāmaṇi and the other in the Ācārādarśa, both the works being treatises on Dharmaśāstra, composed by two different authors who were contemporaries.

A third writer on Dharmaśāstra viz. Anantadeva (1675-1700),¹ refers to some verses in the *Kālikāpurāṇa*² and the Vyavahāramayūkha of Nilakaṇṭha (1610-1645 A.D.)³ contains some remarks on them. Kamalākarabhaṭṭa⁴ (1612 A. D.) regards these verses as genuine.⁵ These references collected by Prof. Kane show clearly how the Kālikāpurāṇa came to be looked upon as an authority on certain points of Dharmaśāstra in centuries subsequent to the date of its composition, though primarily it was looked upon as a tantra work by the Śāktas.

Alberuni (11th century) gives us a list⁶ of the 18 purāṇas which of course does not contain the Kālikāpurāṇa. A writer of Alberuni's historical sense and regard for accuracy of detail would not have failed to note the Kālikāpurāṇa had it been very popular in his time in India. This view is also consistent with the view expressed by Farquhar⁷ that the Śākta philosophy attained recognition about the 10th century. Mr. Farquhar, however,

He had only “seen portions of the Matsya-, Āditya- and Vāyu-Purāṇas.”

7. Outlines of the Religious Literature of India, pp. 266-7. The Śākta systems began to appear from about the 6th cent. A. D. (pp. 167 ff.). The Śāktā Upaniṣads began to appear not much earlier than the 10th century A. D.

makes the following remarks about the date of the *Kālikāpurāṇa*¹:-

"The Kālikāpurāṇa or Tantra, which has long been well known, is clearly a manual of the Śāktism of Bengal² and probably comes from a date near the beginning of the period." The period to which the Kālikāpurāṇa has been assigned by Mr. Farquhar is the period of "Muslim Influence, A. D. 1350-1800" and the beginning of this period means the 14th century (2nd half). Consequently the date of the Kālikāpurāṇa would, according to Mr. Farquhar, be roughly the 14th century. Our evidence as recorded above proves, however, that the work was composed before A. D. 1200, if not earlier.

Since the foregoing evidence regarding the limits for the date of the Kālikāpurāṇa was recorded by me, my friend Dr. V. Raghavan of Madras has favoured me with an earlier reference to this purāṇa occurring in the Bharatabhāṣya of King Nānyadeva. The Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute possesses a rare MS of this work, viz. No. 111 of 1869-70. The reference to the Kālikāpurāṇa appears as under on folio 132a of this MS.....
 "इति गो(रो)विंदकं समाप्तं ॥ छ ॥ कालिकाख्यपुराणे । यत्पुराणे पुरुषेरितं ॥ रोविंदकाभिधं गीतं नान्यमहीभुजा । इति रोविंदकं प्रोक्तं स्यादुत्तरमतः परम् ॥ "

King Nānyadeva, the author of the Bharatabhāṣya, has been identified by Mr. M. R. Kavi³ with King Nānyadeva of Mithilā who flourished between A. D. 1097 and 1133. Prof. R. C. Mujumdar⁴ who has utilised Mr. Kavi's findings regarding Nānyadeva's Bharatabhāṣya states that "M. Sylvain Levi was the first to establish on a satisfactory basis that the accession of the king falls in 1097 A. D. "' Prof. Mujumdar also states that the question of Nānyadeva's date may be regarded as finally settled.

In view of Nānyadeva's reference to the Kālikāpurāṇa towards the close of the 11th century we can safely fix 1000 A. D. as the limit before which this purāṇa must have been composed and await earlier references to this work from scholars interested in the chronology of the purāṇas.

31. The Saṃgītacūḍāmaṇi And Its Probable Date — Before A. D. 1200 †

Aufrecht does not record any Mss of the work on music called the Saṃgītacūḍāmaṇi in his Catalogus Catalogorum. There are, however, to be found references to and quotations from this work in literature on music as also in allied literature as will be shown below.

In a work called the Bharataśāstragrantha, a Ms of which is available at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, (No. 40 of 1916-18) the following quotations have been ascribed to the Saṃgītacūḍāmaṇi :—

Folio 3 — “ तदुक्तं संगीतचूडामणौ

प्रबन्धेषु ध्रुवत्वेन ध्रुव इत्यभिधीयते

I have shown elsewhere¹ that the Bharataśāstragrantha which contains the above quotations from the Saṃgītacūḍāmaṇi was written in the 3rd quarter of the 16th century.

† Annals (B. O. R. Institute), Vol. XVI, pp. 149-151.

1. Annals, Vol. XV, pp. 240-242.

A reference to the Samgītacūḍāmaṇi from a 15th century work is furnished by Dr. Raghavan,¹ of the University of Madras, who states that a work called Cūḍāmaṇi is quoted and criticized in the Tālapadikā of Gopendra Tippha Bhūpāla, who was Governor under Devarāya II (1423-1446 A. D.) of the Vijayanagar Dynasty and that most likely it is King Pratāpa's Samgītacūḍāmaṇi. If this assumption is correct we can take this as a 15th century reference to the work.

Dr. Raghavan also gives us a still earlier reference² viz. that made by Pārśvadeva in his Samgītasamayasāra.³ This reference is not made to the title of the work but to its author "Pratāpabhūbhuj" or King Pratāpa in the following verse :—

“ पञ्चतालेश्वरो यद्वा ह्यं गद्यमथापि वा ।
आलिङ्गमोयमेवोक्तः प्रतापपृथिवीभुजा ॥ ”

That King Pratāpa or "Pratāpaprthivībhūbhuj" mentioned by Pārśvadeva in the above verse was the author of the work Samgītacūḍāmaṇi is proved by the first verse in the extract from the Bharataśāstragrantha (folio 3) given above. The 2nd line of this extract, explicitly stated by the author of the Bharataśāstragrantha to be from the Samgītacūḍāmaṇi, contains the name of King Pratāpa in the following line which reads—

“ तस्मात्प्रबन्धः कथितः प्रतापः पृथिवीभुजाम् ”

The reading “प्रतापः पृथिवीभुजाम्” makes no meaning and is obviously wrong, being a substitute made by the copyist for the original reading, which must have been “प्रतापपृथिवीभुजा.” Pārśvadeva's verse quoted above, in which the expression “प्रतापपृथिवीभुजा” occurs, appears to have been modelled on the verse from the Samgītacūḍāmaṇi as quoted in the Bharataśāstragrantha. The expression “प्रतापपृथिवीभुजा” is identical in both the verses and Dr. Raghavan appears to be right in his inference that Pārśvadeva is referring in his verse to King Pratāpa, the author of the Samgītacūdāmaṇi. As Dr. Raghavan assigns Pārśvadeva to a period between A. D. 1165 and A. D. 1330 we may take this reference to be, say a 13th century reference to the Samgītacūdāmaṇi.

A still earlier reference to the Samgītacūdāmaṇi is furnished by Prof. Handiqui¹ from the commentary on the Naiṣadha by Vidyādhara which is assigned by him to about 1250 A. D. This commentator quotes two works on music viz. (1) Samgītacūdāmaṇi and (2) Samgītasāgara in his gloss on canto XXI, verses 126-128. This reference in a work of about 1250 A. D. proves that the work Samgītacūdāmaṇi must have been composed before A. D. 1200. The popularity of the work is shown not only by the above references but also by the fact that it is referred to in a work on music published in 1842 A. D.² I am not aware if any Mss of the Samgītacūdāmaṇi have been traced. Recently I inquired about this work of the Travancore Durbar but the Private Secretary to the Maharaja of Travancore informed me that the Palace Library contains a Ms of the Samgītacintāmaṇi only and not of the Samgītacūdāmaṇi.

My reference is found on folio 28 of Ms No. 980 of 1887-91 in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute and not to the printed edition.

32. Vyavahāramañjarī, an unknown work of Bhojarāja on Dharmaśāstra †

Prof. P. V. Kane¹ makes the following remarks about the composition of works on Dharmaśāstra by Dhāreśvara Bhojadeva :—

“That he (Bhojadeva) composed an extensive work on the principal subjects of Dharmaśāstra follows from numerous references to him contained in the Mitākṣarā, the Dāyabhāga, the Hāralatā and other works,..... Whether Bhoja composed on Dharmaśāstra one work or two (as he composed two on poetics) and whether his work was a commentary or an independent digest it is difficult to say.”

Aufrecht² ascribes two works on Dharmaśāstra to Bhoja viz. (1) Cārucaryā and (2) Vyavahāra-Samuccaya. Regarding the Vyavahāra-Samuccaya he makes the following entry³:—

“Quoted by Raghunandana, Oxf. 292a, by Kamalākara, Oxf. 279b.”

Prof. Kane mentions a work called Vyavahāra-Samuccaya in the following entry in his list⁴ of works on Dharmaśāstra :—

“व्यवहारसमुच्चय m. in देवप्रतिष्ठातृ by रघुनंदन and in निर्णयसिन्धु”

In his list⁵ of authors on Dharmaśāstra we have the following entry re. Bhojadeva:—

“भोजदेव Sec. 64 ; a. of भूपालपद्धति, भूपालसमुच्चय, or भूपालकृत्यसमुच्चय, भुजबलभीम, चारुचर्या, युक्तिकल्पतरु, राजनीति, राजमार्तण्ड, शिवतत्व-प्रकाशिका.”

2. Catalogus Catalogorum, Part I, p. 418.

3. Ibid, p. 617.

4. History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I, p. 631.

5. Ibid, p. 719.

In none of the references recorded above we find any mention of a work called व्यवहारमंजरी ascribed to भोजराज and referred to by a commentator of the Mahābhārata viz. Vimalabodha,¹ whose commentary variously known as Durghaṭāṛthaparakāśinī or Viṣama Ślokī or Durbodhapadabhañjinī has been preserved in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. This Ms is No. 84 of 1869-70. As this commentary is yet unpublished I reproduce the reference to व्यवहारमंजरी from this Ms from Folio 63 b :—

“एवं नानारूपे व्यवहारपुरुष इति अयं च सार्धश्लोको भोजराजेन व्यवहार-मंजर्यामन्यथा व्याख्यानः । उभयोः सत्यानृतप्रवृत्तयोर्वादिप्रतिवादिनोर्विरुद्धो व्यवहारः । स चोभयधर्मग्राहितरत्वात् । उभयात्मा पुरुषः कोऽपि नीलोत्पलद्वय्यामः शिताशितात्मा सत्यानृतप्रवृत्तत्वात् । उभयोश्चतस्रो दंष्ट्रा यस्मिन् स तथा । एवमुभयोश्चत्वारः पादाः । भापोत्तरक्रियाप्रस्थाकलितपादचतुष्टयसहिता अष्टौ पादाः यस्मिन् स तथा । नैकानि बहूनि उभयोर्नयनानि यस्मिन् स तथा । चतुरक्षरत्वात् । व्यवहारस्य । ”

The above reference to भोजराज as the author of a work on Dharmaśāstra called व्यवहारमंजरी in a Ms² of Vimalabodha's commentary appears to be very important as no Mss of this work have been recorded so far in the Mss catalogues. The other work of Bhojarāja on व्यवहार mentioned by Aufrecht and Prof. Kane viz.

1. Annals of the Bhandarkar Institute (Sukthankar : Epic Studies) Vol. XVII, p. 194, — Arjunamiśra mentions Vimalabodha, who cites Devabodha, hence we get the Series देवबोध-विमलबोध-अर्जुनमिश्र. Vimalabodha mentions Vaiṣampāyana's ṭikā and cites Devabodha (once as Svāmin).

2. The colophon of the B. O. R. I. Ms reads as under :—

“इति श्रीविषमश्लोकी टीका समाप्ता ॥ “ इदं पुस्तकं शुद्धां दुर्गिलां प्रति ज्ञात्वा अत्यन्ता-शुद्धप्रत्यनुसारणैव शिवणेकरोपनाम्ना शिवरामपंतर्गनुना कृष्णभट्टेन पुण्याख्यपुरभेदेन स्थितेन स्वार्थं परार्थं च लिखितं । लेखनकाले विचाराशक्यत्वात् प्रतेरत्यन्ताशुद्धत्वान्न । श्रीमद्भारत-व्याख्यानप्रीतिमतः पत्यंतरसंपादनाशक्तस्य पुरुषस्य चित्तकाग्येण दृढमननशीलस्य कचिकचि-दंशेऽथापि भविष्यत्युपकारकमिति ॥ ॥ शके १७२४ दुर्दुर्भिसंवत्सरे माघ कृष्णाष्टम्यां सह नवम्यां भौमवासरे रजन्याः प्रथमयामावसाने जगद्बकृपया सिद्धिं गतमिदं पुस्तकं शुभं भूयात् ॥ ”

This copy was written at Poona in A. D. 1802 by a scribe Kṛṣṇam-bhaṭ Śivarām Śivanekar who complains in the the above colophon that he had to rely for his copying work on an incorrect original perhaps owing to the rarity of good Mss of this work.

the व्यवहारसमुच्चय is known only by references to it in other works on Dharmaśāstra and hence it is difficult to decide whether these two works by Bhojarāja on व्यवहार viz. (1) व्यवहारमंजरी mentioned by Vimalabodha and (2) व्यवहारसमुच्चय mentioned by Raghunandana are identical or otherwise. For the present we have no other course left open but to treat them as two separate works of Bhojarāja and await further research on the question from the students of the history of Dharmaśāstra literature.

33. Rare Manuscripts of Subhūticandra's Commentary on the Amarakośa †

In an article contributed by me to the Kuppuswami Shastri Commemoration Volume I have tried to prove that Subhūticandra wrote his commentary on the Amarakośa between A. D. 1062 and A. D. 1172. My conclusion was based on the analysis of a fragment of this commentary [Govt. Ori. Mss Library No. R. 2933 (1-35-44)] as given by Dr. T. R. Chintamani in the Journal of Oriental Research, Madras' and the reference to Subhūti in the grammatical work Durghaṭavṛtti of Śaraṇadeva composed in A. D. 1172. I have not been able to identify the quotation from Subhūti occurring in the Durghaṭavṛtti as no Ms of Subhūti's work has yet been available to me. Even the Madras fragment analysed by Dr. Chintamani was stated by him to be the only Ms newly brought to light. I was, therefore, curious to know if more Manuscripts of this valuable commentary were brought to light by the efforts of research scholars in recent years.

Thanks to the labours of Tripiṭakācārya Rāhula Sāmrkṛtyāyana we have been fortunate enough to know that three more Mss of Subhūticandra's commentary on the Amarakośa have been brought to light. In his recent list of "Sanskrit Palm-leaf Mss in Tibet" he refers to three manuscripts of this work viz.—

(1) Copy in the Lalchand Library of the D. A. V. College, Lahore.

(2) Two copies available in Tibet, these are:—

(i) Page 40 of the list.—IV-Nagor Monastery (one day's journey from Si-gar-tse). Vol. No. XXVII, 150 अमरकोशटीका (कविकाम-धेनु) author सुभूतिचन्द्र; Script मागधी; size 12 × 2½ inches, leaves 192-389; lines in each page 7, 8, incomplete. (footnote No. 1— "In the colophon "संवत् ३१३ (313 N.E = 1191 A.D.) फाल्गुन कृष्ण तृतीय बृहस्पति").

† Annals (B. O. R. Institute), Vol. XVI, pp. 313-314.

1. J. O. R. Madras, Vol. VIII, pp. 372-380 (1934).

(ii) Page 43 of the list.—V-Gu-rim-lha-Khang Library Sa-skyā. Vol.II - 1- 180—अमरकोशटीका (कामधेनु); Author सुभूतिचन्द्र ; Script मागधी ; Size $22\frac{1}{2} \times 2\frac{1}{2}$ inches ; leaves 9, lines 1-8-10 pages.¹

Unfortunately these manuscripts of the commentary available in Tibetan monasteries are incomplete. Rāhula Sāmkṛtyāyana does not furnish any details about the D. A. V. College Ms of the commentary referred to by him.

It will thus be seen that there are now 4 Mss of the commentary brought to light though they are hardly sufficient for a critical edition of the whole work.

The Ms in the Nagor Monastery is very important as it corroborates my conclusion about the date of Subhūticandra (between A. D. 1062 and 1172). This copy on palm-leaf is dated 313 Nepali Era = A. D. 1191 and this date of the copy harmonizes with Śaraṇadeva's reference to Subhūti in his Durghaṭavṛtti in A. D. 1172. We may, therefore, safely conclude that Subhūti wrote his commentary on the Amarakośa about the first half of the 12th century say between A. D. 1100 and 1140. The date A. D. 1121 for a palm-leaf Ms of this commentary need not be looked upon with suspicion as the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute possesses dated palm-leaf Mss some of which have even earlier dates.

34. Date of Subhūticandra's Commentary on the Amarakośa —

Between A. D. 1062 and 1172 †

We are thankful to Dr. T. R. Chintamani of the University of Madras for having acquainted us with the rich historical contents of the fragment of a manuscript of Subhūticandra's commentary on the Amarakośa,¹ which has been acquired by the Govt. Oriental Mss Library, Madras and is numbered R - 2933 (1-35-44). The varied references numbering about 129 made by Subhūticandra to several ancient works and authors in his commentary as recorded by Dr. Chintamani amply reveal the literary strata of the period of Sanskrit literature when the present commentary was written, as also those of a period much earlier than Subhūticandra's date. Many of the works referred to by Subhūticandra are still unknown or known only by their titles.

As Dr. Chintamani has not said anything about the date of this commentary in his article under reference, I propose in this note to fix its chronological limits on the basis of the data available at present.

Aufrecht² has the following remarks in his Catalogue of Manuscripts about Subhūticandra :—

“ सुभूतिचन्द्र — or abridged सुभूति, a commentator on अमरकोश quoted in माधवीयघातुवृत्ति, by उज्ज्वलदत्त, Rāyamukūṭa in धातुरत्नाकर, by Bhānuji. Oxf. 183 a”

We know that Bhānuji's father Bhaṭṭoji Dīkṣita flourished about 1630 A. D.³ and Rāyamukūṭa wrote in 1431 A. D. Ujjvaladatta is assigned to circa 1250.⁴

† Kuppuswami Shastri Commemoration Volume, pp. 47-51.

1. Journal of Oriental Research, Vol. VIII, Part IV, (October-December 1934, pp. 372-380).

2. Catalogus Catalogorum, Part I, p. 728a.

3. Belvalkar : Systems of Sanskrit Grammar, p. 47.

4. Ibid, p. 54.

Dr. Chintamani in his article refers only to Rāyamukūṭa and Bhānuji Dīkṣita and to the translation of Subhūticandra's commentary preserved in Tibetan. According to him A. D. 1431 would be one of the limits to Subhūticandra's date, while, as we have noted above, Aufrecht's list of references pushes this limit back to about A. D. 1250, the date of Ujjvaladatta.

Looking to the numerous references made by Subhūti in his commentary we find that he refers to Bhojarāja (No. 18 of Chintamani's list) as also to his two works, viz., Sarasvatikanṭhābharaṇa (No. 102) and Śṛṅgāraprakāśa (No. 104). Bhojarāja flourished between A. D. 1010 and A. D. 1055¹ and died after A. D. 1062.² It would thus appear that Subhūti wrote his commentary between A. D. 1062 and 1250.

The above limits, viz., A. D. 1062 and 1250 can still be narrowed down on the strength of a further reference pointed out by the learned editor of the *Kalpद्रुकोषा*³ in the following remarks :—

“ Another old commentator (on the Amarakośa) often quoted by Bengal commentators is Subhūti or Subhūticandra, a Buddhist, whose commentary called Kāmadhenu exists in a Tibetan version (Ind. Wört. p. 21). Subhūti is mentioned in Durghaṭavṛtti of Śaraṇadeva (1173). ”

The Durghaṭavṛtti of Śaraṇadeva, who is a Buddhist himself, records its own date of composition, viz., A. D. 1172 and the only reference to Subhūti⁴ in the same appears as under :—

“ संज्ञापूर्वविधेरनित्यत्वाद् वृद्धयभाव इति सुभूतिः ”

The above reference makes it clear that Subhūti wrote between A. D. 1062 and 1172.

1. S. K. De : Sanskrit Poetics, Vol. I, p. 147.

2. Pathik Comm. Volume (B. O. R. I.), Poona 1934, p. 376 where Keith's view is cited.

3. Kalpद्रु-Kośa, Vol. II (Gaikwar Ori. Series), 1928, Intro. p. 32.

4. Durghaṭavṛtti (Trivandrum Sans. Series) p. 82.

Further data which might enable us to narrow down even these limits may also be discussed. In his article under reference Dr. Chintamani remarks about 'Vopālita' referred to by Subhūti in his commentary : " Vopālita is older than 1100 A. D. " Though this conclusion by itself does not enable us to say that Subhūti wrote after 1100 A. D. it may suggest in combination with Subhūti's references to Bhojarāja and his works that the commentary may have been composed after 1100 A. D. Then again the lexicon Viśvaprakāśa of Maheśvara composed in A. D. 1111, which is quoted by another commentator of Amara viz. Sarvānanda in his commentary composed in A. D. 1159, is not found in the list of 129 references made by Subhūti to earlier authors and works as noted by Dr. Chintamani. This omission, if justified in the light of a further analysis of the whole of Subhūti's commentary (Madras MS being only a fragment) may indicate that Subhūti wrote before A. D. 1111 (date of Viśvaprakāśa) or that he being a contemporary of the author of Viśvaprakāśa did not regard the latter's work as worth quoting in case he had access to it. At any rate the omission of such a popular work as the Viśvaprakāśa Kośa which held its sway over all commentators beginning with Sarvānanda (A. D. 1159), has its own significance pertinent to Subhūti's date.

The commentator, Sarvānanda mentions in verse 3 of his beginning of the Amarakośaṭīkā that he used 10 previous commentaries on Amara. Sarvānanda, himself a Buddhist, may have known the commentary of Subhūticandra though he nowhere mentions either his name or the name of the commentary. If Subhūticandra could be mentioned by Śaraṇadeva in A. D. 1172 it is possible that his commentary must have been used by Sarvānanda in A. D. 1159. Out of the 129 references of Subhūti about half the number is found in Sarvānanda's commentary on the Amarakośa. The references common to both the commentaries are the following :—

काश्य, नारद, पालकाप्य, भरत, भागुरि, शाश्वत, आगम, नाममाला, रामायण (Sarvānanda has बालरामायण), भारत, कामन्दक (Subhūti mentions कामन्दकीय), कालिदास, गोवर्धन, चन्द्रगोमी, जयादित्य, तारपाल, दण्डि (Subhūti mentions दण्ड्यलंकार, दण्डियमक), धनंजय, न्यासकार, भट्टि, भारवि, माघ, माधव, (Subhūti mentions Mādhava's पर्यायरत्नमाला), मुरारि, रक्षित, रामदास, रुद्र, वररुचि, वल्लभ, वामन, विभाकरवर्मा, विशाखदत्त (Subhūti has विशाखदेव), वीपालित, व्याडि, शालिहोत्र, हलायुध, उणादिवृत्ति, कप्फिणाभ्युदय (Subhūti has कप्फणाभ्युदय), कातन्त्रटीका (Subhūti has कातन्त्रविशेष and कातन्त्रव्याकरण), कादम्बरी, कीचकवध, कुमारसंभव, गोवर्द्धनीय, उणादिवृत्ति, जातकमाला, त्रिकाण्डशेष, दण्डियमक, दुर्घट (Subhūti has पुरुषोत्तम-दुर्घट), धरणि, धातुपारायण, (Subhūti mentions पाणिनीय धातुपारायण), धातुप्रदीप (Subhūti mentions धातुप्रदीप-टीका), रघुवंश (Subhūti mentions रत्नकोश), रत्नकोश (Subhūti mentions रत्नकोश), लिङ्गानुशासन (Subhūti mentions वामनलिङ्गानुशासन), वर्णदेशना, दायु-पुराण, वासवदत्ता, विदग्धमुखमण्डन, वृत्ति (Subhūti has वृत्तिकृत्), शब्दार्णव, शाकटायनसूत्र, शृङ्गारप्रकाश, हर्षचरित. It is still possible to show that many more references from Sarvānanda's commentary could be found in the commentary of Subhūti because Dr. Chintamani's list of references is based only on a partial survey of the commentary, the Madras MS containing commentary extending from almost the beginning to the end of the 1st Varga in the 2nd Kāṇḍa only as reported by Dr. Chintamani. The foregoing references though common to Sarvānanda and Subhūti are not, however, sufficient to establish the exact obligations of the former to the latter in the composition of his commentary. Another commentator on the Amarakośa who is definitely indebted both to Sarvānanda and Subhūti is Liṅgābhaṭṭa. Mr. Sheshagiri Sastri¹ refers to him as "the latest of the commentators" on the lexicon of Amara. He has made full use of Sarvānanda's Amaratīkā and refers to him as the 'दशटीकासर्वस्वकार.' Mr. Sheshagiri Sastri gives a big schedule of references to earlier works and authors found in Liṅgābhaṭṭa's commentary. From this list I find that Subhūticandra has been mentioned by Liṅgābhaṭṭa not less than 43 times. This number of citations shows clearly the influence of Subhūticandra on subsequent commentators of Amara and it would really be a great gain if the whole of his commentary is recovered. Even the fragment that is now recovered should be published and made available for a closer study by Sanskritists.

From Dr. Chintamani's list of references we come to know that Subhūti refers in his commentary to Dhanañjaya (No. 29) and possibly to his Nāmamālā (No. 71). There has been raging a controversy about his date.² According to Dr. K. B. Pathaka Dhanañjaya flourished about A. D. 1123. This date has apparently been accepted and echoed by Winternitz and Keith in their Histories of Literature. If it is correct we shall have to fix A. D. 1123 and A. D. 1172 as the limits for Subhūticandra's date. This date has, however, been challenged by Vīra Rāghavāchārya, Dr. A. Venkatasubbiah and other scholars, who are more in favour of an early date for Dhanañjaya in view of Bhoja's reference to his poem

1. Madras Mss Report (1893-94). Published in 1899, p. 40.

Dvisandhāna which would put the date of the poem between A. D. 960 and 1000. We cannot, therefore, rely upon this date in the present stage of the controversy raging round it. From the list of references common to Subhūti and Sarvānanda given above we know that Sarvānanda refers to Dhanañjaya as also to his Nāma-mālā in A. D. 1159, a fact which is useless for our purpose because we find Vardhamāna quoting from Rāghavapāṇḍavīya of Dhanañjaya in A. D. 1140. Prof. Macdonell opines¹ that Dhanañjaya's Rāghavapāṇḍavīya quoted by Vardhamāna is an imitation of Kavirāja's work. According to Mr. Vīra Rāghavāchārya, Kavirāja was a contemporary of Muñja, Bhoja's uncle (A.D. 975—95) and that the Telugu poet Pālkuriki Somana (1190—1260 A. D.) refers to Kavirāja in his Paṇḍitārādhyacarita. These facts so far as they go are in favour of an early date for Dhanañjaya as given by Mr. Vīra Rāghavāchārya, viz., A. D. 960—1000, which contradicts Dr. Pathak's date for Dhanañjaya viz., A. D. 1123. For the present we may regard A. D. 1062 and 1172 as the limits for Subhūticandra's date as pointed out above or in general we may say that he flourished in the first quarter of the 12th century.²

2. Since this article was written, my note in the Annals of the Bhandarkar Institute, Vol. XVI (1935), pp. 313-4 on "Rare Mss of Subhūticandra's Commentary on the Amarakośa" has been published. We have in all four Mss of Subhūti's Amarakośaṭīkā, viz. one in the Madras Library, one in the D. A. V. College Lalchanda Library and two in Tibetan monasteries. Of the two MSS available in Tibet one is dated Samvat 313 of the Nepali Era = A. D. 1191. This date of the copy harmonizes with Śaraṇadeva's reference to Subhūti in A.D.1172. 35. Date of Ānandabodha Yati, the author of Nyāyamakaranda and other works on Vedānta — Between A. D. 1200 and 1297 or the middle of the 13th Century †

Dr. Das Gupta remarks in his *History of Indian Philosophy*¹ about Ānandabodha :—

“ Ānandabodha is a great name in the school of Śaṅkara Vedānta. He lived probably in the 11th or 12th century.....He wrote at least three works on Śaṅkara Vedānta viz. Nyāyamakaranda, Nyāyadīpāvali, and Pramāṇamālā.” Aufrecht² records the following works as the works of Ānandabodha Paramahansa :—

- (1) Nyāyadīpāvali and its comm. Pramāṇaratnamālā.
- (2) Nyāyamakaranda.
- (3) Nyāyāpadeśamakaranda.

In the Chowkhamba Sanskrit Series³ the following works of Ānandabodha have been published :—

- (1) Nyāyamakaranda ; (2) Pramāṇamālā ; and (3) Nyāyadīpāvali.

If the Pramāṇaratnamālā mentioned by Aufrecht is identical with the Pramāṇamālā published in the Chowkhamba Series it does not seem to be a commentary on the Nyāyadīpāvali, as stated by Aufrecht.

Mr. M. R. Kavi,⁴ however, informs us that Ānandabodha, wrote another work called “Nyāyadīpikā.” He observes :—“ Ānandabodha, † Calcutta Oriental Journal, Vol. II, pp. 137–138.

1. Vol. II, p. 116.

2. Catalogus Catalogorum, Part I, p. 48.

3. Chowkhamba Sanskrit Series, (1907).

4. Journal of the Andhra Historical Research Society, Vol. V, Part 3, p. 188 (foot-note).

a pupil of Ātmavāsa wrote a commentary on the Śābdanirṇayadīpikā of Prakāśātman. The commentary is known by the name of Nyāyadīpikā. Citsukha, a contemporary of Ānandagiri commented on the works of Ānandabodha."

Mr. Kavi informs me that the above information about Ānandabodha's authorship of Nyāyadīpikā is based on the following verse which appears at the end of a Ms of the work described on p. 4812 of Triennial Catalogue of Mss, Vol. IV Part I (B) of the Govt. Ori. Mss Library, Madras :—

“ नमो निखिलवेदान्तकमलाकरभानवे ।
 . आत्मवासाभिधानाय गुरवे गुणवेश्मने ॥
 दुस्तर्कध्वान्तपटलप्रपाटनपटीयसी ।
 ह्यमानन्दबोधेन रचिता न्यायदीपिका ॥ ”

In the beginning of the Ms the line “ शब्दनिर्णयमर्थभासिका दीपिकेय-ममला विधीयते ” clearly states that the work is a commentary on शब्दनिर्णय and not “ on शब्दनिर्णयदीपिका ” as stated by Mr. Kavi in the extract quoted above.

I have now to record the following reference to a “ Nyāyadīpikā ” made by Ānandabodha himself in his Nyāyamakaranda. This reference appears as under in the Chowkhamba Edition of the Nyāyamakaranda referred to above :—

P. 170 — “ दिङ्मात्रमत्र सूचितं विस्तरस्तु न्यायदीपिकायामवगन्तव्यः ”

Evidently the “ Nyāyadīpikā ” in the above reference is identical with the Nyāyadīpikā referred to by Mr. Kavi as the commentary of that name on the Śābdanirṇaya of Prakāśātman. It would appear that Ānandabodha is referring in the above line to an earlier work written by him.

Nyāyadīpikā is thus the title of a commentary on the Śābdanirṇaya of Prakāśātman. This latter work appears to be identical with that published by T. Ganapati Sastri¹ and ascribed to Prakāśātman.

Mr. Kavi further observes that Ānandagiri (also called Ānanda-

1. Śābdanirṇaya (Kārikās and Vṛtti), Trivandrum Sanskrit Series, No. LIII, 1917.

jñāna and Janārdana) was a contemporary of Citsukha and that he is generally assigned to A. D. 1200. Ānandabodha, whose "Nyāya-makaranda" was commented on by Citsukha, lived at least half a century prior to Ānandagiri. The chronological order of the three authors would, therefore, be as follows :—

(1) Prakāśātman, author of the Śābdanirṇaya.

(2) Ānandabodha, author of Nyāyadīpikā, a commentary on the Śābdanirṇaya of Prakāśātman.

A. D. 1200 — Contemporaries	{	(3) Citsukha (commented on Ānandabodha's Nyāyamakaranda) (4) Ānandagiri (commented on Ānandabodha's Nyāyadīpāvali)
--------------------------------	---	--

According to Mr. Kavi, therefore, Ānandabodha's date would be about 1150 A. D.

As against this date viz., A. D. 1150 for Ānandabodha Dr. Das Gupta¹ assigns Prakāśātman, who stands first in the above list of four writers, to A. D. 1200 and remarks that he wrote a work called Śābdanirṇaya in which he tried to prove the claims of scriptural testimony as valid cognition. I have not examined the grounds on which this date of Prakāśātman viz. A. D. 1200 is based but as Dr. Das Gupta mentions it several times² in his book, I presume that it is based on reliable evidence. I had requested Dr. Das Gupta to let me know his grounds for the date of Prakāśātman. Though he is unable to do so at present owing to illness he has promised to consider my request as soon as he feels well.

It is proposed now to fix the limits for the date of Ānandabodha and for this purpose the date A. D. 1200 assigned to Prakāśātman is useful as it gives us one terminus to the date of Ānandabodha who commented on the work of Prakāśātman in his Nyāyadīpikā as mentioned above by Mr. Kavi. The other terminus is furnished by the commentary of Caṇḍūpaṇḍita on the Naṣadha-Carita of Śrī Harṣa. This commentary was composed in

1. History of Indian Philosophy, Vol. II, p. 103.

2. Ibid., pp. 17, 30, 82, 103.

Samvat 1353 (A. D. 1297)¹ and it quotes from the Nyāyama-karanda of Ānandabodha in commenting on v. 108 of Canto XXI of the Naiṣadhacarita.²

It will be seen from the foregoing data that Ānandabodha lived after Prakāśātman (A. D. 1200) and before Caṇḍūpaṇḍita (A. D. 1297). We are, therefore, inclined to assign him to about A. D. 1250 or the middle of the 13th century and not 11th or 12th century as Dr. Das Gupta has done in his History of Indian Philosophy.

36. Ānandabodha's Authorship of Nyāya-dīpikā and Limits for his Date †

In his illuminating article on the date of Iṣṭasiddhi of Vimuktātman, Mr. C. Hayavadana Rao¹ makes the following cautious statement about the authorship of the Nyāyadīpikā, a commentary on the Sābdanirṇaya of Prakāśātman :—

“ If this Ānandabodha is the same person as the one of that name who was the author of Pramāṇaratnamālā, a treatise on the Advaita system and the Sābdanirṇayavyākhyā (or Dīpikā or Nyāyadīpikā), etc.” The above remarks appear to contain a doubt about Ānandabodha's authorship of Nyāyamakaranda and Nyāyadīpikā.

I have pointed out in my note on the date of Ānandabodha² that the author of the Nyāyamakaranda and Nyāyadīpikā appears to be identical for the following reasons :—

(1) Ānandabodha in his Nyāyamakaranda refers to the Nyāyadīpikā, which was presumably composed by him earlier as the following lines will show :—

“ दिङ्मात्रमत्र सूचितं विस्तरस्तु न्यायदीपिकायामवगन्तव्यः ”

(2) The manner in which the above reference is made by Ānandabodha shows that to save much labour in exposition he is pointing his finger to a detailed exposition of the topic under discussion in the Nyāyamakaranda.

(3) In the Madras MS of Nyāyadīpikā, the following statement proves that the author of the treatise was Ānandabodha :—

“ दुस्तर्कधातपटलप्रपाटनपटीयसी इयमानंदबोधेन रचिता न्यायदीपिका ”

Prima facie, therefore, the above facts appear to clear up the doubt of Mr. Hayavadana Rao about Ānandabodha's authorship of both the (1) Nyāyamaṅgalā and (2) Nyāyadīpikā, though I have not verified the reference to Nyāyadīpikā found in his Nyāyamaṅgalā in the text of the Madras MS of the Nyāyadīpikā.

Another point which I want to bring to the notice of Mr. Hayavadana Rao is the reference by Caṇḍūpaṇḍita in his commentary on the Naiṣadha composed in A. D. 1297. He quotes a long passage from the *Nyāyamaṅgalā*¹ of Ānandabodha as follows :—

“ भसति प्रत्यक्षविषयत्वे भेदस्य अनुमानस्यापि व्याप्यव्यापकभेदज्ञानाधीनस्य भेदावभासे प्रामाण्यं निरस्तम् इत्थं निरस्तनिखिलप्रतिकूलतर्कात् वेदान्त-वाक्यनिकरान्निखिलोऽपि भेदः । शक्यो निषेद्धमिति सिद्धमनाद्यविद्या, तद्वासना- विरचितभ्रमसाग्रसिद्धिः ” इति श्रीमदानन्दबोधोपाचार्यैरपि न्यायमकरंदे भेदं निराकुर्वन्निरुक्तम् । ”

A. D. 1297 is, therefore, one sure terminus to Ānandabodha's date and it is in harmony with the inscriptional evidence brought forth by Mr. Hayavadana Rao for the date of Citsukha, who commented Ānandabodha's Nyāyamaṅgalā. According to this inscriptional evidence, Citsukha's literary activity may fall between A. D. 1220 and 1284, the dates of the two inscriptions in which Citsukha is styled as Citsukha Somayājīn and Citsukha Bhaṭṭāraka alias Narasimhamuni. If the Citsukha mentioned in the inscriptions is identical with the commentator of Ānandabodha's Nyāyamaṅgalā, it would appear that Caṇḍūpaṇḍita, the author of the Naiṣadhaṭīkā and Citsukhācārya were almost contemporaries, Caṇḍū being possibly a younger contemporary.

Mr. Hayavadana Rao rightly looks upon the date of Prakāśātman as the other terminus to the date of Ānandabodha. If this date of Prakāśātman is finally fixed, we shall be in a position to clinch the issue with some certainty. At present, two dates for Prakāśātman are put forward. They are :—

(1) A.D. 1200 – According to Dr. Das Gupta,² this date is given

1. Naiṣadha Carita, edited by Handiqui, 1934 (Punjab Ori. Series), p. 480.

2. History of Indian Philosophy, Vol. II, p. 17, foot-note 2 and at other places in the volume.

In the present state of the above chronology, for want of a more definite date for Prakāśātman I am inclined to agree in general with Mr. Hayavadana Rao in his remarks about Ānandabodha's date, viz. " Ānandabodha should be assigned to a date somewhat later than A. D. 1000 say circa A. D. 1050 " but may go a step further and conclude that he may have flourished between 1050 and A. D. 1100.

37. Who was the Guru of Ānandabodha? — Vimuktātman or Ātmavāsa? †

Prof. M. Hiriyanṇa, the learned editor of the Baroda edition of the *Iṣṭasiddhi*¹ makes a very cautious inference on the strength of a half stanza which is found in the Iṣṭasiddhi of Vimuktātman as also in the Pramāṇamālā of Ānandabodha. Ānandabodha introduces this stanza with the words “एतदेवोक्तं गुरुभिः.” Our attention is also directed by Prof. Hiriyanṇa to another stanza in the Nyāyama-karanda of Ānandabodha which contains the words “इत्याचार्या व्यचीचरन्” analogous to the words “एतदेवोक्तं गुरुभिः.”

I propose in the present note to show that Vimuktātman was not the guru of Ānandabodha and that the references made by Ānandabodha in the words “गुरुभिः” or “आचार्याः” to an earlier writer show only his respect for the author, whose opinions he is citing in his works with esteem and regard in view of the fact pointed out by Prof. Hiriyanṇa himself that Ānandabodha held views in regard to many a detail of Advaitic doctrine which are identical with those maintained by Vimuktātman. These references may still be taken to allude to Vimuktātman, the author of the Iṣṭasiddhi on account of the kinship of views between the two authors as pointed out by Prof. M. Hiriyanṇa.

But before I state my evidence which runs counter to Prof. Hiriyanṇa's cautious suggestion based on a half-stanza common to the works of Vimuktātman and Ānandabodha and which he owes to Mahāmahopādhyāya Prof. Kuppaswamy Shāstri as he gratefully informs us in a footnote, I must quote the pertinent extract from Prof. Hiriyanṇa's Introduction to the Iṣṭasiddhi to acquaint the reader fully with his argument on the point at issue and the possibilities, hinted though very cautiously about the chronological position of the two authors viz. Vimuktātman and Ānandabodha.

Prof. Hiriyanṇa observes (p. xiii)—“There is a book with the title of Pramāṇamālā by Ānandabodha, a well-known exponent of † Calcutta Oriental Journal, Vol. II, pp. 229-232.

the Advaita and in it he quotes the following half-stanza which he found in Iṣṭasiddhi (i, 36) prefacing it with the words एतदेवोक्तं गुरुभिः

— ‘नान्यत्र कारणाकार्यं न चेत्तत्र क तज्ज्ञवेत्’

We may deduce from this, though we cannot be at all sure about it, that, Ānandabodha was a disciple of Vimuktātman. There is nothing improbable in this for Ānandabodha was an early writer on the Advaita and, has shown by his references to the Iṣṭasiddhi in another of his works Nyāyamakaranda, he held views in regard to many a detail of Advaitic doctrine which are identical with those maintained by Vimuktātman. But as Ānandabodha's date is not definitely known, this conclusion even if correct throws no light on the chronological position of the present work. "

The above passage raises two questions :—

(1) Was Vimuktātman, the author of the Iṣṭasiddhi, the guru of Ānandabodha ?

(2) What is the chronological position of the Iṣṭasiddhi with reference to Ānandabodha's Nyāyamakaranda, which contains references to the Iṣṭasiddhi of Vimuktātman ?

Our answer to the first question must be in the negative on the strength of Ānandabodha's own testimony contained in the following verse appearing at the end of a Manuscript^a of a work called Nyāyadīpikā by Ānandabodha :—

“ नमः सकलसंसारसागरोत्तारसेतवे
संश्रिताखिलसंकल्पकल्पवृक्षाय शम्भवे ।
नमो निखिलवेदान्तकमलाकरभानवे
आत्मवासाभिधानाय गुरवे गुणवेष्मने ॥ ”

The expression “ आत्मवासाभिधानाय गुरवे ” stating in unmistakable terms that आत्मवास was the guru of Ānandabodha directly contradicts Prof. Hiriyantha's cautious deduction that Ānandabodha was the disciple of Vimuktātman, the author of the Iṣṭasiddhi and that the former alludes to the latter as his guru in the words

1. Iṣṭasiddhi (Gaikwar Ori. Series), Baroda, 1933, Introduction, pp. xiii-xiv.

2. Triennial Catalogue of Mss, Vol. VI, Part I (B) of the Govt. Ori. Mss. Library, Madras, p. 4812.

“ एतदेवोक्तं गुरुभिः ” introducing a half-stanza, which is common to the Iṣṭasiddhi of Vimuktātman and the Pramāṇamālā of Ānandabodha. We must understand by the word “ गुरुभिः ” only a respectful reference to a predecessor’s opinion instead of direct relation of the guru with his disciple.

The work Nyāyadīpikā referred to above is a commentary by Ānandabodha on the Sābdanirṇaya of Prakāśātman (शाब्दनिर्णयसदर्थ-भाषिका दीपिकेयमगला विधीयते). Ānandabodha’s authorship of this work is vouched by him in the following verse which appears at the end of the Madras Ms of Nyāyadīpikā referred to above :—

“ वुस्तर्कध्वान्तपटलप्रपाटनपटीयसी ।
इयमानन्दबोधेन रचिता न्यायदीपिका ॥ ”

Prof. Hiriyaṇṇa remarks further :—“ It is strange that the colophons in none of the three works of Ānandabodha included in the volume (Chowkhamba Series) mention his guru. ”

I have made it clear in the foregoing paragraph that the colophon of the fourth work of Ānandabodha viz. Nyāyadīpikā contains a direct reference by Ānandabodha to his guru. So far as the chronological order of the Nyāyadīpikā and Nyāyamakaranda is concerned I can say that the Nyāyadīpikā was composed earlier than Nyāyamakaranda because Ānandabodha refers to the former in the latter as under :—

“ दिङ्मात्रमत्र सूचितम् विस्तरस्तु न्यायदीपिकायामवगन्तव्यः ” १

I cannot say anything about the chronological order of the other works of Ānandabodha with reference to Nyāyadīpikā but if it is proved that they are later than the Nyāyadīpikā like Nyāyamakaranda, we may easily explain why no reference is included in them by Ānandabodha to his guru. Having once made such a detailed reference in the earlier work, viz. Nyāyadīpikā perhaps he thought it superfluous to do so in every single work written by him subsequently. The second question stated above viz. What is the chronological position of the Iṣṭasiddhi with reference to the Nyāyamakaranda?, will require a detailed examination of the references to Iṣṭasiddhi in the Nyāyamakaranda and other works of Ānandabodha and hence cannot be dealt with in this note.

As regards Ānandabodha’s date, which as Prof. Hiriyaṇṇa states is not definitely known, I am inclined to assign him between Prakāśātman (on whose Śābdanirṇaya he wrote the Nyāyadīpikā) and Caṇḍūpaṇḍita (A. D. 1297), the author of a commentary on the Naiṣadha, who directly quotes in his commentary from Ānandabodha's Nyāyamakaranda.¹

The date of Prakāśātman as given by Dr. Das Gupta is A. D. 1200.² Presuming this date to be correct I had placed Ānandabodha between A. D. 1200 and 1297. My friend Dr. T. R. Chintamani of the Madras University writes to me, however, in a private letter dated 22-3-35 :— "The date of Prakāśātman adopted by you from Dr. Das Gupta is not correct for it is very well and widely known that Rāmānuja who lived between 1015 and 1137 has criticized in his bhāṣya the syllogism of Prakāśātman. In view of this fact, it is impossible to bring down Prakāśātman to any period later than 1000 A. D. The date 1200 for Prakāśātman is definitely wrong. The date of Citsukha is fairly correct (1200 A. D.) and Ānandabodha who preceded him cannot be later than at least 1150 A. D. He was probably slightly older."

Between these two dates for Prakāśātman viz. A. D. 1200 of Dr. Das Gupta and about A. D. 1000 according to Dr. Chintamani I am unable to make a choice at present as I have not examined their grounds. The date of Ānandabodha as given by me on the strength of Dr. Das Gupta's date for Prakāśātman is about A. D. 1250, while Dr. Chintamani regards Ānandabodha to be "not later than at least 1150." If this date of Ānandabodha is definitely decided it will throw more light on the chronological position of the Iṣṭasiddhi of Vimuktātman to which references are made in the Nyāyamakaranda as pointed out by Prof. Hiriyanna. In the present state of our inquiry the two dates for Ānandabodha referred to above viz. A. D. 1250 and A. D. 1150 do not affect Prof. Hiriyanna's view³ that Iṣṭasiddhi may have been composed between A. D. 850 and 1050. Dr. Das Gupta,⁴ however, assigns Vimuktātman to the "early years of the 13th century" i.e. A. D. 1200, a conclusion which conflicts with Dr. Chintamani's date for Ānandabodha viz., about 1150 A. D. but is in harmony with my date for Ānandabodha viz. about 1250 A. D. presuming the priority of Vimuktātman to Ānandabodha to be correct.

The oldest Dated manuscript of the Kāvyaṣṛakāṣa — Dated Wednesday,
18th October, 1158 †

Dr. S. K. De¹ in his chapter on “Mammaṭa and Allaṭa” has recorded the MSS of the Kāvyaṣṛakāṣa available in different MSS libraries in India and Europe. Further in fixing the lower limit of Mammaṭa’s date he has made use of the date 1160 A. D. (Samvat 1216) when Māṇikyacandra composed his commentary on the Kāvyaṣṛakāṣa. As Dr. De’s History of Sanskrit Poetics was published in 1923 and as the *Catalogue of the MSS in the Jain Bhandars at Jaisalmer*² was also published in the same year, he could not make use of the following important dated MS of the Kāvyaṣṛakāṣa which provides a definite lower limit to Mammaṭa’s date earlier by about 2 years. Mr. C. D. Dalal gives the following description of this MS :—

“163. काव्यप्रकाश. 178 leaves 18 X 2 (सु)

Col. कृती राजानकमम्मटालकयोः सं. १२१५ अ(आ)श्विनसुदि १४ बुधे अद्येह श्रीमदन(ण)हिलपाटके समस्तराजावलीविराजितमहाराजाधिराजपरमेश्वरपरमभट्टारक - उमापतिवरलब्धप्रसादप्रौढप्रतापनिजभुजविक्रमरणाङ्गणनिर्जितशाकम्भरीभूपाल-श्रीकुमारपालदेवकल्याणविजयराज्ये पण्डितलक्ष्मीधरेण पुस्तके लिखापितम् । ”

The above colophon furnishes us with the exact date of the copy viz. Samvat 1215, Aśvina Sudi 14, Budhe which is equal to Wednesday, 8th October, 1158.³ The copyist is one Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara, who copied the MS at Anahilapāṭaka⁴ while king Kumārapāla was ruling. This Anahilapāṭaka is identical with Anahilapaṭṭaṇa called also Anihilwār in northern Baroda in Gujarat founded in A. D. 746 after the destruction of Valabhi by Banarāja or Vamśarāja. Hemacandra flourished at the court of Kumārapāla, king of Anahilapaṭṭaṇa (A. D. 1142-1173) and was his spiritual guide. According to Dr. Bhau Daji (Brief Notes on Hemacandra)¹ Kumārapāla became a convert to Jainism in A. D. 1172, in which year Hemacandra died at the age of 84 but according to other authorities, the conversion took place in A. D. 1159 (Twaney's Intro. Prabandhacintāmaṇi p. iii). After the overthrow of Valabhi in the 8th century Anahilapaṭṭaṇa (also called Anahilapura) became the chief city of Gujarat or Western India till the 15th century.²

The colophon of the Kāvyaprakāśa MS dated 1158 A. D. quoted above states that this work viz., the Kāvyaprakāśa is the work of Rājānaka Mammaṭa and Alaka (" कृती राजानकमम्मटालकयोः "). Many papers³ have been written on the question of the joint authorship of the Kāvyaprakāśa. The traditional verse about this joint authorship is quoted by Rājānaka Ānanda in this commentary called the Kāvyaprakāśa-nidarśanā.⁴ It informs us that Mammaṭa composed the work as far as parikara and the rest was completed by Alaka. As Rājānaka Ānanda is a late commentator,⁵ his statements need independent and early corroboration on the question of the dual-authorship of the Kāvyaprakāśa. Such early corroboration is found in the 1st quarter of the 13th century, when Arjunavarman in his commentary on the Amaruśataka

1. According to Prabandhacintāmaṇi Kumārapāla reigned for 31 years (V. S. 1199 to 1230). The Therāvali gives the reign period : 1199 to 1229 V. S. Published records of the time of Kumārapāla are dated A. D. 1145, 1149, 1150, 1151, 1153, 1154, 1156, 1159, 1161, 1163, 1165, 1166, 1169, 1171, (Vide Dynastic History II, pp. 977-985).

quotes from the Kāvya prakāśa (VII A. D. 14).¹ Ruyyaka (2nd and 3rd quarters of the 12th century) alludes to the dual authorship of the Kāvya prakāśa but does not mention the name of Allaṭa as the continuator.² In view of the absence of Alaka's name in Ruyyaka's allusion of the 12th century and in view of the other references being removed from Mammaṭa's³ date by about a century, Pandita Lakṣmīdhara's colophon of the Kāvya prakāśa MS of 1158 A.D. is a better and more explicit corroboration of the Kashmirian traditions⁴ about the double authorship of the Kāvya prakāśa than that furnished by Rājānaka Ānanda in the 17th century or Arjunavarman in the 13th century.

1. Ibid., p. 163—Arjunavarman observes :—

“ यथोदाहृतं दोषनिर्णये मम्मटालकाभ्याम् ” and “ काव्यप्रकाशकारौ अकुरुताम् ”

2. Ibid., p. 164 — Dr. De rightly observes that the combination of names in the colophon of a MS of the Kāvya prakāśa (“ श्रीमद्राजान-काहट-मम्मट-रुचक-विरचिते etc. ”) should not lead us to think that the Kāvya prakāśa is a joint compilation of Allaṭa, Mammaṭa and Rucaka. Dr. De (p. 163) states that of the three forms of the name, अलक, अलट and अल्ट, the last appears to be the most authentic. The colophon of the Jesalmere MS of 1158 A. D. uses the form अलक.

3. Vide History of Sanskrit Poetics, I, by Dr. S. K. De, p. 160 — “ Mammaṭa probably belongs to the period between the middle of the 11th and the first quarter of the 12th century. Allowing two generations to intervene between him and Ruyyaka, we may assign Mammaṭa's literary activity roughly to the last quarter of the 11th century.”

4. Dr. De: Sanskrit Poetics, I, 162 — This tradition is supported by the colophons of some MSS of the Kāvya prakāśa. Dr. De states that a Bodlien MS (Hultsch collection 172) mentions Mammaṭa and Alaka as authors of the K. P. as follows :—

“ कृतिः श्रीराजानकमम्मटालकयोः ”

This MS is a Kashmirian MS in Śāradā characters, and its statement about the dual authorship exactly tallies with that of the Paṭṭaṇa copy of the Kāvya prakāśa (A. D. 1158) deposited in Jesalmere Bhandar. Evidently the 1158 A.D. copy must have been prepared from a Kashmiri original in Kumārapāla's time when the contact between Gujarat and Kashmir was frequent and continuous. According to the Prabhā-

In the list of published records given by Dr. H.C. Ray in his Dynastic History of Northern India, Vol. II (pp. 977 ff.) I could not find any record for the years 1157 and 1158 A.D. Our present colophon, therefore, is useful in this respect also as it is dated 1158 A.D. and hence provides us some record for that year at least.

The importance of this colophon is further enhanced by the identity of a portion of it with the opening sentence of another inscription dated V. S. 1213 (= A.D. 1156) the beginning of which reads as follows :—

“ ॥ ॐ ॥ संवत् १२१३ वर्षे माघे वदि शुक्ले ॥ श्रीमदणहिलपाटके समस्तराजा-

पजीविनि महामात्यश्रीचाहडदेवे श्रीश्रीकरणादौ सकलमुद्राव्यापारान् परिपन्थयति... ”

Dr. Bühler¹ has quoted this inscription while discussing the question of the date of Kumārapāla's conversion to Jainism. This inscription deals with the presentation of land by the Mahāmaṇḍalika Pratāpa-simha and it is preserved in the Temple of Pārśvanātha in Nāḍḍola.

vakacaritra (C. 1250 A. D.) which is the oldest source for the life of Hemacandra, Hemacandra compiled his grammar after looking through the MSS from Kashmir, fetched by the officials of Jayasimha, the predecessor of Kumārapāla. These MSS included eight older grammars which were to be found in their entirety only in the library of the Temple of Sarasvatī in Kashmir (Vide p. 15 of Bühler's Life of Hemacandra — Eng. Trans. by Manilal Patel — Singhi Jain Series ed. by Muni Jina Vijaya, 1936).

1. Vide p. 35 of Life of Hemacandra (Patel's Trans.). “ Kumārapāla received the title परमश्रावक i.e., “ the most eager hearer (of the Jaina-doctrine) as stated in the colophon of an old MS which was written.....in V. S. 1221 (= A. D. 1165) while his conversion is not mentioned in a Jain inscription of V. S. 1213.” (p. 90) — “ As the inscription contains a presentation to the Jainas one might surely expect a mention of Kumārapāla's conversion in case the same had already taken place. The exact date of this is, according to Dr. Schram's calculation, January 20th 1156, a Friday.”

This inscription has been edited by Dr. D. R. Bhandarkar.¹ It will thus be seen that while the Kāvya prakāśa copy of A. D. 1158 was made by Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara, the Nāḍol grant of A. D. 1156 was written by Paṇḍita Mahīpāla. The sentence common to both these records is the following:—

“ श्रीमदणहिलपाटके समस्तराज।वलीसमलंकृतपरमभट्टारकमहाराजाधिराजपरमेश्वर — उमापतिवरलब्धप्रसादप्रौढप्रतापनिजभुजविक्रमरणाङ्गणविनिर्जितशाकम्भरीभूपाल-श्रीकुमारपालदेवकल्याणविजयराज्ये ”

The colophon of the Kāvya prakāśa MS states: “ पण्डितलक्ष्मीधरेण पुस्तके लिखापितम् ”. If the word “ लिखापितम् ” is taken in its strict sense the statement would mean that Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara got this copy prepared for him. If, however, लिखापितं be interpreted to mean लिखितं, Lakṣmīdhara himself becomes the scribe. Can we suppose that Paṇḍita Mahīpāla's sentence quoted above is reproduced by Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara in the Kāvya prakāśa colophon? If Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara is supposed to be a different person from the copyist of the Kāvya prakāśa MS, it may be possible to suggest that Kāyastha Mahīpāla may have copied the MS of the Kāvya prakāśa for Paṇḍita Lakṣmīdhara and in doing so he only repeated a sentence from his inscription of A. D. 1156 two years later. This suggestion, however, needs more evidence because an alternative inference may be made to the effect that Paṇḍit Lakṣmīdhara had before him in 1158 A. D. the earlier Nāḍol grant of A. D. 1156.

1. Indian Anti. 1912, Vol. XLI, pp. 202-203 — Dr. H. C. Ray has summarised the contents of this Nāḍol grant (vide p. 981 of his Dynastic His. II). “ The grant consists of one rūpaka per day from the custom house (maṇḍapikā) of Badarī to some Jaina temples..... The inscription was written by the गौडान्वय-कायस्थ-पण्डित-महीपाल.”

38. Guṇapatākā, an unknown Sanskrit work and its Date Before — A. D. 1200 †

No work of the name Guṇapatākā has been recorded by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum. In the list of Plays recorded by Prof. D. R. Mankad in his Types of Sanskrit Drama he records a work called “Guṇamālā” mentioned by Abhinavagupta in his commentary on the Nāṭyaśāstra but its connection with गुणपताका remains doubtful at present. I propose, therefore, to record in this paper some references to a work called गुणपताका and indicate as far as possible the chronology of these references which may prove the existence of this work for a period of at least 500 years, if not more.

Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita² in his commentary on the Vāsavadattā of † Indian Historical Quarterly, Vol. XVII, pp. 82-86.

1. Published by Urmi Prakashan Mandir, Karachi, 1936, Appendix, p. 172 — “गुणमाला Abh. 177.” On p. 177 of the G. O. S. Edition of the Nāṭyaśāstra, Vol. I (1926) we find the following quotation from the गुणमाला in the अभिनवभारती commentary :—

गुणमालायां ‘जामि हरार्धातुं गियपुणं चिसमी’ त्यादौ, तत्र सा नृत्यती डोम्बिका etc.” I cannot say if गुणमाला mentioned by Abhinavagupta is identical with गुणपताका or otherwise. Prof. Kane also makes no remark against गुणमाला in his Gleanings from Abhinavabhāratī [K. B. Pathak Comm. Vol. (B. O. R. Institute, Poona, 1934), p. 389]. In the indices to the Sanskrit Drama by Keith no work of the name गुणमाला or गुणपताका is recorded. In the same manner no reference to these works is found in the Index of Titles given by Prof. M. Dillon, on pp. 145-6 of his edition of the Nāṭakalakṣaṇaratnaśoṣa, Oxford, 1937. Krishnamachariar (Classical Sans. Literature, 1937, p. 548) mentions डोम्बिका as an उपनाटक of which गुणमाला and चूडामणि are examples. See also p. 820 where he calls गुणमाला and चूडामणि as “lyrical plays.” Keith and Winternitz record no work of the name गुणमाला or गुणपताका.

2. Vide my paper on Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita and other commentators of the Vāsavadattā (Annals of B. O. R. Institute, Vol. XXI, pp. 128-144).

Subandhu, which is later than about 1250 A. D., mentions and quotes from the गुणपताका as follows :—

Folio 21 of Ms No. 567 of 1891-95 (B. O. R. Institute).

As a result of my inquiry with some of my friends I have succeeded in locating some more references to गुणपताका. They are as follows :—

Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa in his work called the प्राकृतचन्द्रेका mentions गुणपताका and quotes a Prākṛit verse¹ from it as follows :—

Ms.² No. 243 of 1895-98 (B.O.R. Institute, Poona) Folio 4b —

“ गुणपताकायामपि

संसारी कामाओ कामो निव्वहइ युवहरअणाओ
जं तम्मि तेण सारं भणिअं बहुजागुराण फुडं ॥ ”

1. Supplied by Prof. R. D. Laddu of the S. P. College, Poona.

2. There is another MS. of the Prākṛta-Candrikā at the B. O. R. Institute (No. 255 of 1884-86). This MS is a late copy made at Bombay by Ganesh Parashuram Godbole in Śaka 1807 (= A.D. 1885). The third MS of the work is found in the India Office Library (MS. 945, p. 267 of I. O. Cata., II, 1889). Dr. Eggeling describes this MS as “fairly written in Devanāgarī, about A. D. 1550.” If this description is correct the MS appears to be a contemporary copy and hence extremely valuable for a critical edition of this text.

Unlike the Sanskrit quotation from Guṇapatākā recorded above from Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita's commentary on the Vāsavadattā we have in the above extract a Prākṛit verse from गुणपताका.

It remains to be seen if the work गुणपताका was a "lyrical play" of the type of गुणमाला referred to by Abhinavagupta (A. D. 990-1020).¹ If the quotation from the गुणपताका from Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa's Prākṛta-candrikā is genuine, it may enable us to infer that Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa who flourished towards the end of the 16th century² had before him a Ms of the गुणपताका or that he had taken this quotation from some other Sanskrit or Prakrit work as an illustration borrowed second-hand. Even if we suppose that the quotation does not form part of the Prākṛta-candrikā, it must retain its value as we know of no other quotation from गुणपताका in Prākṛit recorded in a Ms. References to the गुणपताका by Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita and by Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa being somewhat of a later date do not give us any idea about the antiquity of this work. It is, therefore, necessary to see if there is any evidence to suggest or warrant an inference that this work, whatever be its exact nature or contents, is earlier than A.D. 1200. Such evidence is fortunately forthcoming³ from a commentator on the Mālatī.

1. P. V. Kane : Sāhityadarpaṇa, 1923 ; Index of authors, p. clx.

2. Aufrecht : CC, I, 117. Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa flourished during the reign of Emperor Akbar.

3. While commenting on "नववधुविश्रम्भणोपायज्ञाता" (Mālatīmādhava, Act VII, p. 192 of Bhandarkar's edition) Harihara says (p. 82) :—

"नववधुविश्रम्भणोपायस्तु । बाला ताम्बूलमाला फलरससुरसाहारसंमानहार्येत्यादि लौकिकः कन्यावर्जोपायः "

Jagaddhara (p. 292 of Bhandarkar's edn.) who has at times borrowed verbatim says ;—

"नववधुविश्रम्भणोपायस्तु ताम्बूलमालादिदानम् । यदाह । बाला ताम्बूलमालाफलरससुरसा- हारसंमानहार्येत्यादिकः सुप्रसिद्ध एव । "

It will be seen from Harihara's quotation given above that he is quoting the stanza "बाला ताम्बूलमाला etc." which Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita quotes as from a work called गुणपताका. How the name गुणपताका came to be applied to the work under reference may perhaps be explained by the following reference to गुणपताका made by Harihara in commenting on the Mālatīmādhava verse असारे संसारे (Act V of Bhand. edn. p. 232). Harihara says :—

"त्वया च मालत्यामसमजसं प्रक्रममाणेन संसार एवासारः कर्तुं प्रकान्तः । संसारे किं सारमिति गुणपताकया पृष्टो मूलदेवः सारं निहितपदेति"—(p. 65 of transcript of Harihara's commentary on Mālatīmādhava). I am indebted to Prof. N. A. Gore for the above references.

mādhava of Bhavabhūti, who is no other than Harihara who composed his commentary during the reign of Arimalladeva, the founder of the Malla dynasty of Nepal. In fact Harihara records the date of composition of his commentary which corresponds to A.D. 1216.¹ Harihara appears to have flourished between A.D. 1150 and 1225.

The suggestion made by me in the foregoing lines to the effect that Guṇapatākā was a definite work of that title gets further strengthened by the mention of the work by Prthvīdhara, the commentator of the Mr̥cchakaṭika,² who quotes from it in his commentary on Act IV while explaining the term “गणिकादारिका:”—

[“ गणिकादारिका: वेद्याविशेषा ” इति गुणपताकायामुक्तम्]

The approximate chronology of the references to Guṇapatākā recorded so far is as follows :

A.D. 1216 — Harihara in his commentary on the Mālatīmādhava quotes a verse which is quoted by Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita as from a work called Guṇapatākā. Harihara also refers to a female character of the name Guṇapatākā at one place in his commentary.

Between 1250 and 1550 } — Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita mentions and quotes from a work called Guṇapatākā in his commentary on the Vāsavadattā.

Between 1300 and 1500 } — Jagaddhara copying Harihara, quotes the verse which is already quoted by Harihara as mentioned above.

c. 1500 — Prthvīdhara, in his commentary on the Mr̥cchakaṭika mentions and quotes from the Guṇapatākā.

1. Vide Descriptive Cata. of Kāvya MSS., Vol. VII (1934), pp. 242-243. The date of composition as recorded in MS No. 5299 is Newari Samvat 336 = A. D. 1216, which I take to be the date of composition. Even if this is the date of the copy the date of Harihara lies between A. D. 1150 and 1225 as he quotes from Mammaṭa's Kāvya-prakāśa (about A. D. 1100).

2. Vide p. 103 of Mr̥cchakaṭika, ed. H. M. Sarma, N. S. Press, Bombay, 1910. Vidūṣaka—“ गणिकादारिका: नर्त्यन्ते...” Prthvīdhara appears to belong to the end of the 15th century A. D. I propose to deal with his date in a separate paper.

- c. 1600 Śeṣa Kṛṣṇa mentions and quotes from the Guṇapatākā
(a Prākṛta verse in his Prākṛta-candrikā).

It will be seen from the above table that a work of the name Guṇapatākā known to Sanskrit writers from say A. D. 1200 to 1600 i.e. a period of 400 years has apparently been lost and consequently not even its name is recorded by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum or by other compilers of Catalogues. I shall feel thankful if any close students of Sanskrit literature throw more light on this work viz, the Guṇapatākā by recording any references to it found by them during the course of their studies.

39. Identification of the Siddharāja-Saras †

In a work called the Sarasvatīpurāṇa,¹ devoted mainly to the description of holy places or tīrthas associated with the river Sarasvatī² in Gujarat falling into the gulf of Kutch, there is a good deal of description of a lake called सिद्धराजसरः.³ This lake, the Sarasvatīpurāṇa tells us, was formed from the river Sarasvatī itself :—
Folio 110a (of Ms No. 429 of Viś. I)—

“ एवं सरस्वती ब्रह्मन् प्राचीभूत्वा सरिद्धरा ।
महता च जलोद्भेन मत्स्यकच्छपवाहिना ॥ २३ ॥
हसमानेन फेनोद्वैरावर्त्तैर्नृत्यतीव सा ।
ताभ्यां सरिद्ध्यां सहिता पूरयामास तत्सरः ॥ २४ ॥

† Indian Historical Quarterly, Vol. XIV, pp. 252-258.

1. MSS of the Sarasvatīpurāṇa mentioned by Aufrecht are :—

Part I, p. 699—“Kh. 64. B. 2, 34; BL. 2; Gu. 3; Bhk. 14; Poona 429” (a Śāradāpurāṇa is frequently quoted by Hemādri). Out of these MSS the MS available to me is “ Poona 429 ” which is the same as No. 429 of Viś I in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona.

2. N. L. Dey's Geographical Dictionary (London, 1927) pp. 180-181, where various identifications of the river Sarasvatī are recorded. We are concerned here with the river Sarasvatī which is an affluent of the river Kuvarkā falling into the gulf of Kutch.

3. Hemacandra, a contemporary of Siddharāja refers to this lake as follows in verse 114 of canto XV of the Dvyāśrayakāvya.

“ अतीत्य मैथिलं शुद्धं राघवो नु कृतक्रतुः ।
प्रापातेतरतिष्ठ्यां स पूर्तं चक्रे महासरः ॥ ११४ ॥ ”

Abhayatilakagaṇi who wrote his commentary on the Dvyāśrayakāvya in Sam. 1312 = A. D. 1256 comments on the above verse as follows :—

“ स राजा सहस्रलिङ्गाख्यं महासरः पूर्तं चक्रे कारयत् ”

(Vide analysis of this Kāvya in IA., IV, p. 269) cf. also verse 117 of canto XV of the Dvyāśrayakāvya :—

“ शंभोः सहस्रमष्टौ च आयतनानि सरस्तटे ॥ ”

तुष्ट्यर्थं सिद्धराजस्य तीर्थं पूतेन वारिणा ।
 संपूर्णं तत्सरश्चक्रे समंतादक्षयेण सा ॥ २५ ॥
 सा तत्सरसमासाद्य पुण्यं पुण्या महानदी ।
 सरस्वती स्थिता देवी लोकानां पापनाशनी ॥ २६ ॥ ”

This lake, thereafter, became the abode of all heavenly beings as Siddharāja established one thousand lingas of god Śiva all round it :—

“ तथा नागा सुपर्णाश्च सिद्धाश्चक्रधराश्च ये ।
 सरितः सागराः सर्वे यक्षविद्याधरास्तथा ॥ ३१ ॥
 सहस्रं यत्र लिङ्गानां सिद्धेशेन प्रतिष्ठितम् ।
 निवासं रोचयामासुः तस्मिन्मृतसागरे ॥ ३२ ॥ ”

The place in course of time attained great celebrity as a centre of religious purification :—

“ एकस्मिन् शिवकुण्डेऽपि....मुक्तिदं नृणाम् ।
 किं पुनर्यत्सहस्रस्य लिङ्गानां पुरतः स्थितम् ॥ ३८ ॥

त्रिषु लोकेषु विख्यातं सिद्धराजसरोवरः ॥ ४० ॥ ”

It became pre-eminent among the holy places owing to the presence of 1000 Śiva lingas :—

“ सर्वेषामेव तीर्थानामिदमेवाधिकं सरः ।
 सहस्रं यत्र लिङ्गानां स्थितं देवगणैः सह ॥ ४६ ॥ ”

Even god Keśava made this place his abode to please king Siddharāja :—

“ प्रीत्यर्थं सिद्धराजस्य पुण्येस्त्वमृतसागरे ।
 जलशायी जगद्योनिः तस्मिन्स्वपिति केशवः ॥ ३८ ॥ ” “ यत्र शेते स भगवान् योगनिद्रां समाश्रितः ।
 तत्स्थानं मुक्तिदं ब्रह्मन् श्वेतद्वीपाद्विशिष्यते ॥ ४६ ॥

1. About the temple in the centre of the Sahasraling Talav Burgess observes :—“ In the centre was an island on which stood the

स्नात्वा तीर्थवरे यत्र पश्यंति जलशायिनम् ।
सर्वपापविनिमुक्ता वैकुण्ठं प्राप्नुवन्ति ते ॥ ५० ॥ ”

In front of god Keśava is situated the दशावतारक तीर्थ in the Siddharāja lake :—

“ तस्य देवस्य पुरतः तस्मिन् सरसि संस्थितम् ।
दशावतारकं नामपप्रणाशनम् ॥ ५८ ॥ ”

The ten images of the ten incarnations of god were established at the दशावतार तीर्थ by Siddharāja himself. These ten images are of the ten avatāras viz :—

(१) मत्स्य, (२) कूर्म, (३) वराह, (४) नरसिंह, (५) वामन,
(६) भार्गवो रामः (७) दाशरथिराम, (८) कृष्ण, (९) बुद्ध and (१०) कल्कि (verses 61 and 62).

Another tīrtha called the दशाश्वमेधिक तीर्थ is situated in front of the image of वामनावतार :—

“ वामनस्याग्रतस्तत्र कुरुक्षेत्रं सदास्थितम् ।
.त्याः सहाया तं कथितं ते महानघ ॥ ७६ ॥
दशाश्वमेधिकं तीर्थं तस्यैक पुरतः स्थितम् ।
.नामश्वमेधानां यत्र ख्यातः फलं लभेत् ॥ ८० ॥ ”

Sumati now asks Mārkaṇḍeya to explain to him the genesis of the 1000 Śiva liṅgas, which is then explained in a mythical style as follows :

“ बाणेन यानि लिङ्गानि विमुक्तानि नदीजले ।
तेषां सहस्रसमुद्भूतस्य सिद्धराजः समानयत् ॥ ८३ ॥
स्थापितं सिद्धराजेन तस्मिन् पुण्यसरोवरे ।
सद्भस्वं बाणलिङ्गानां युगपद्भक्तिमुक्तिदम् ॥ ८४ ॥ ”

temple of Rudreśvara destroyed, of course, by the Muslims, who raised a large octagonal Rauzah on its ruins; but of this only the dilapidated remains now exist.” It appears from verses 48, 49, 50 of the Sarasvatīpurāṇa quoted above that the central temple was of Keśava or Viṣṇu and not of Rudreśvara and this fact is consistent with the दशावतारक तीर्थ in front of the god Keśava in the same lake containing the images of the 10 incarnations of god Viṣṇu as described in detail by the Sarasvatīpurāṇa (verses 61-62 of chap. xvi).

The purificatory powers of a single Śiva līṅga have been mentioned by god Śiva himself in the शिवशास्त्र. What can be the power of 1000 Śiva līṅgas? :—

“ एतत्तु शिवशास्त्रेषु शिवेन कथितं स्वयम् ।
सहस्रं दृश्यते यत्र किं वर्ण्यते मया ॥ ८६ ॥ ”

Siddharāja practised penance on a mountain called the अमरकंटक and then took his bath in the waters of the river Narmadā (v. 90). God Omkāra was pleased at this and granted Siddharāja a boon, promising that he would thenceforward reside permanently on the embankment of the Sahasralīṅga Lake :—

“ त्वया सहस्रलिङ्गानां स्थापितं तत्सरस्तटे ।
तत्र वत्स्यामहं नित्यं भक्त्या ते प्रीतिमानसः ॥ ९२ ॥ ”

Then follows a long फलश्रुति dealing with the effects of religious rites performed at the Sahasralīṅga tīrtha, followed by the praśasti of king Siddharāja and his Lake as follows :—

“ न सिद्धेशसमो राजा न सरस्तादृशं क्वचित् ।
समं सहस्रलिङ्गेन तीर्थमन्यत् (न) दृश्यते ॥ २२० ॥
तत्रागाराणि तेनैव स्थापितानि सरस्तटे ।
ब्राह्मणानां यतीनां च तृप्यर्थं च तपस्विनां ॥ १२१ ॥
सर्वकामसमृद्धानि शोभन्ते तानि सुव्रतः ।
ब्रह्मविष्ण्वीश देवानां लोके स्त्रिय इव स्थितः ॥ १२२ ॥
उन्मता चैव निम्ना च कीर्तिस्तेन प्रकाशिता ।
सिद्धराजेन तत्रैव स्थिता सा व्याप्य रोदसी ॥ १२३ ॥
सिद्धराजसमो राजा न भूतो न भविष्यति ।
सहस्रं येन लिङ्गानां युगपत्स्थापितं स्वयं ॥ १२४ ॥ ”

Chapter XVI from which the above information has been extracted is designated सिद्धराजमाहात्म्यवर्णन and it ends with the following verses :—

Folio 121^b—

“ इदं तु यः सिद्धनुपस्य जन्म
शृणोति भक्त्या पुरुषोत्तमस्य ।
प्राप्नोति कामान्सकलानिहैव
प्रयाति विष्णोः परमं पदं सः ॥ २६८ ॥

 पठन्ति शृण्वन्ति च सुस्तवन्ति ।
 ते सिद्धकामाः सुखिनो मनुष्याः
 प्रभुकृपायाश्च सदा भवन्ति ॥ २६९ ॥ ”

I shall now record the description' of the Sahasraliṅga Talāv, the construction of which has been ascribed to king Jayasimha Siddharāja² of Gujarat (A. D. 1093-1143). Various artificial lakes or reservoirs in Gujarat are ascribed to Siddharāja. “ One of the largest of these was the Sahasraliṅga talāv, or tank of the thousand Śaiva shrines at Pattan the remains of which are still pointed out to the north-west of the town. It must have been a reservoir of of immense size, and derived its name from the numerous little temples containing liṅgas, placed on the steps around it. In the centre was an island on which stood the temple of Rudreśvara, destroyed of course by the Muslims, who raised a large octagonal Rauzah on its ruins; but of this only the dilapidated remains now exist.” “ The basin of the lake is now converted into little-fields. The great embankment surrounding it appears to be composed throughout of solid brick-work and this was once faced with solid masonry forming flights of steps to the water's edge. On and above these steps stood the thousand shrines of which fragmentary remains are still found buried in the debris of the embankment.” “ This tank is said to have been begun by Jayasimha Siddharāja

1. Burgess and Cousens : ‘ Architectural Antiquities of Northern Gujarat ’ (Arch. Survey of Western India, Vol. IX), London, 1903, pp. 38-39.

2. Vide pp. 973-977 of Dynastic History of Northern India by Dr. Hem Chandra Ray, Vol. II (1936) — Jayasimha was a great builder. Besides the Sahasraliṅga Talāv the temple of Rudramahākāla at Siddhapur is also ascribed to him. (The Sarasvatīpurāṇa contains a description of this temple and some genealogy of Siddharāja but I shall deal with this material in a separate paper). Jayasimha appears to have been a devotee of the Śaiva faith. The era known as the Simha era was already in use in Jayasimha's reign (Vide Atru Stone Inscription dated in the year 14 of this era as also Mangrol inscription of Kumārapāla dated in the 32 year of this era). One sorrow viz. the want of a son gnawed at his heart. Dr. Ray (p. 975) gives a table showing the relationship of Kumārapāla with his predecessor Jayasimha.

shortly before he set out against Yaśovarman, the sovereign of Mālava and is the theme of legend and song.”

A historical incident associated with this tank is the stabbing of Bairām Khān, the famous minister of Humayun, when alighting from a boat after a sail on the tank on Friday, the 31st January 1561. Bairām Khān rebelled against Akbar and was sent to Mecca. He came to Patan and was hospitably received by Musā Khan Fūladi the Governor, but was stabbed by Mubarik as described above. Burgess further remarks that during the 14th century all the rich shrines of the Hindus (Brahmanical or Jain) were desecrated, plundered and demolished at the will or caprice of the Moguls. If this statement is applicable to the Sahasraliṅga Talāv we may presume that the shrines on the embankment of this talāv may have been destroyed in the 14th century. I am of opinion that the Sarasvatipurāṇa was composed at a time when the tīrthas associated with the river Sarasvatī had attained so sacrosanct a character as to necessitate the creation of a special purāṇa like the Sarasvatipurāṇa.¹ It would also be reasonable to suppose that when this purāṇa was composed all the tīrthas on the banks of the river Sarasvatī were quite in a flourishing condition, free from the ravaging hands of the Moguls.

The *Bombay Gazetteer*² records the following information about the Sahasraliṅga Talāv :—

“ The Sehesling or Sahasraling Talāv, the tank with the thousand shrines, was dedicated to Shiv by Sidh Raj just before he set out on his expedition against Yaśovarman, king of Mālava. A merchant left nine lakhs of Balotras with a certain banker and died. The heirs of the latter knew nothing of the sum and refused to take it. Jai Sing Sidh Raj decided that the money should be spent in building a reservoir, and it was done, “the finest in the world, hitherto unsurpassed by all that the cleverest and wisest have executed or imagined, and it remains to this day (A.D. 1200-1230).”

1. Hemacandra, a contemporary of Siddharāja Jayasimha informs us (in chapter xv, verse 118 of the Dvayāśraya Mahākāvya) that Siddharāja Jayasimha caused to be made the Sahasraliṅga tank and established also schools for learning Jyotiṣaśāstras, Nyāya-śāstras, and the Purāṇas. Perhaps the Sarasvatipurāṇa may have been the outcome of the study of Purāṇas instituted by Jayasimha.

2. Bombay Gaz. Vol. VII (Baroda), p. 600.

I believe the foregoing description of the Sahasraliṅga tank if compared with that given in the Sarasvatīpurāṇa leaves no doubt that the Siddharāja-Saras described in the latter work is exactly identical with that now known to history and archaeology. It appears, however, that though the tank was called a Sahasraliṅga-saras the actual number of Śaiva shrines on the bank of this lake was one thousand and eight as stated by Hemacandra शंभोःसहस्रमष्टौ-चायतनानि सरस्तटे ।¹

The testimony of Hemacandra being contemporary must be taken as conclusive on the question of the exact number of the Śaiva shrines on the bank of the Siddharāja lake.²

2. I take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Ambalal B. Jani (Assistant Secretary, Forbes Gujarati Sabha, Bombay) at whose request I began my study of the historical material in the Sarasvatīpurāṇa in April 1937. Mr. Jani was also kind enough to keep the contents of this paper in May 1937 at the disposal of the scholar entrusted with the work of editing the Sarasvatīpurāṇa. I am not aware to what extent these contents have been useful to the above editor in the preparation of his proposed edition of the work. I await with eagerness this edition of the Sarasvatīpurāṇa for which I have supplied to the Forbes Gujarati Sabha a copy of the B. O. R. Institute MS No. 429 of Viś. I (from the Vishrambag Collection of the Peshwas in the Govt. MSS Library).

40. Bühler's mistaken Identity of Vidyādhara, the author of the Sāhityavidyādhārī, Commentary on the Naiṣadhiya - Carita and of Cāritravardhana, the author of Commentaries on Raghuvamśa, Kumārasambhava etc. †

In one¹ of my Notes on Indian Chronology on the date of Cāritravardhana, I tried to fix the limits of his date. Incidentally I stated in this note that Cāritravardhana was also called Vidyādhara or Sāhityavidyādhara, son of Rāmacandrabhiṣak. My statement of identity of Cāritravardhana and Vidyādhara was based on the following entry in *Aufrecht's Catalogue*² :—

“ चारित्रवर्द्धन called also विद्याधर or साहित्यविद्याधर, son of Rāmacandrabhiṣak.

कुमारसंभवटीका, नैषधटीका, रघुवंशटीका, राघवपाण्डवीयटीका, शिशुपाल-वधटीका ”

Though Aufrecht does not record the source of his identity of Cāritravardhana and Vidyādhara, it appears to have its origin in the following statement³ of Dr. Bühler :—

“ He (Caṇḍupāṇḍita) asserts that before his time only one commentary on the Naiṣadha existed, composed by Vidyādhara (alias Sāhityavidyādhara alias Cāritravardhana muni). ”

It is not clear on what evidence Dr. Bühler bases this identity of Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana. Perhaps it may have been based on mere hearsay. However, in his article on the Age of † Calcutta Oriental Journal, Vol. III, pp. 37-40.

2. Cata. Catalogorum, Part I, p. 186.

3. Report for 1874-75, p. 8.

*Naiṣadhīya*¹ published in 1875 Dr. Bühler does not refer to this identity, which leaves an impression that he was not aware of its mistaken character, otherwise he would have taken this opportunity to correct his original statement made in the Report under reference. He observes in his article :—

“ He (Caṇḍūpaṇḍita) further states that in his time there existed only one commentary on it (Naiṣadhīya-carita) composed by Vidyādhara, alias Sāhityavidyādhara of which I have found fragments at Jesalmere and Ahmedabad. ”

The pertinent verse² in Caṇḍūpaṇḍita's commentary in which he refers to Vidyādhara reads as follows :—

“ टीकां यद्यपि खोपपत्तिरचनां विद्याधरो निर्ममे
श्रीहर्षस्य तथापि न त्यजति सा गंभीरतां भारती ।
दिक्कूलंकपतां गतेर्जलधरैरुद्गृह्यमाणं मुहुः
पारावारमपाम्बु किमिह स्याज्जानुदन्नं क्वचित् ॥ ”

No clue is furnished by this verse in favour of the identity of Cāritravardhana and Vidyādhara as supposed by Dr. Bühler in his Report for 1874-75 and it appears that Aufrecht as a cataloguer has exceeded his powers to a certain extent in presuming this identity to be correct and modifying his entry accordingly by consolidating under the heading “Cāritravardhana” works of two different authors viz. Cāritravardhana and Vidyādhara.

When I wrote my note on the date of Cāritravardhana I did not doubt the truth of Aufrecht's entry. Subsequently Prof. Handiqui's edition of the Naiṣadhīya came to my hands. Prof. Handiqui devotes about 5 pages in the Introduction of this Edition to Vidyādhara and his commentary on the Naiṣadhīya. Vidyādhara's commentary was based on the text of the Naiṣadhīya preserved in the library of king Viśaladeva of Gujarat, also called Aparārjuna, who reigned till 1264 A. D. Prof. Handiqui, therefore, assigns this commentator to the fifties or sixties of the 13th century.

The above information given by Prof. Handiqui in the light of Bühler's identity of Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana as suggested by him in his Report for 1874-75 led me to the belief that if Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana are not two different authors but are identical, then when the date for one of them viz. Vidyādhara is fixed, the date of the other viz. Cāritravardhana is automatically settled. This belief had another harmonising factor in the fact that the date A. D. 1250 or 1260 for Vidyādhara was well within the limits for Cāritravardhana's date fixed by me on other evidence viz. A. D. 1172 and 1385.

1. Journal, BBRAS, Vol. XI (1875), p. 284.

2. Naiṣadha-Carita by Handiqui (Punjab Ori. Series), Intro p. X.

My belief, however, did not last long when I began to verify the source of Bühler's supposed identity of the two commentators viz. Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana. I began to hunt for Mss of Cāritravardhana's commentary as such on the Naiṣadhīya in Aufrecht's Catalogue.¹ He records the following Mss of this commentary:—

(1) B. 2.90 (p. 90 of Fascicule II of Bühler's Catalogue of Mss from Gujarat etc.—1872)

(2) X. LXIII (= No. 142 of 1875-76 of the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, see extract on p. lxiii of Bühler's Report 1877).

The description of the first of the two Mss revealed that it is not a Ms of Cāritravardhana's commentary but of Vidyādhara's, judging from the description and name of the author viz. Vidyādhara recorded in the same. The second Ms viz. No. 142 of 1875-76 was examined by me and it also turned out to be a Ms of Vidyādhara's commentary and not of Cāritravardhana's. The next question that arose out of the above disillusionment was: Whether Cāritravardhana wrote any commentary on the Naiṣadhīyacarita different and distinct from Vidyādhara's commentary on the same Kāvya? The Govt. Mss Library at the Institute has no Mss of this work. Aufrecht also did not record any other Mss of the work except the two mentioned above as wrongly ascribed to Cāritravardhana.

The answer to the above question is furnished by the statement of Pandit Shivadatta, who in his Sanskrit Introduction to the edition of the *Naiṣadhīya-Carita*² states that Cāritravardhana wrote

1. Cata. Catalogorum, Part I, p. 306b.

2. Naiṣadhīya-Carita with the Commentary of Nārāyaṇa, (N. S. Press, Bombay, 1874), p. 17.

a commentary on the Naiṣadhīya called Tilaka (चारित्रवर्धनेन विरचिता तिलकाख्या) and that Vidyādhara wrote another commentary on the same work called Sāhityavidyādhari (विद्याधरेण विरचिता साहित्यविद्याधर्याख्या). He further gives a list of the Mss of different commentaries on the Naiṣadhīya utilised by him and the persons from whom they were borrowed. This list includes a Ms of Tilaka commentary of Cāritravardhana borrowed from Rājaguru Dādhīca Candreśvara of Jaipur and a Ms of Sāhityavidyādhari from Rājaguru Nārāyaṇabhaṭṭa of the same place. Pandit Shivadatta has utilized both these commentaries in his footnotes to the edition e.g. footnote 1 on page 3 reads :—

“ अत्र श्रीहर्षैर्यमकमुरजसर्वतोभद्रप्रमुखान्बन्धानर्थपुष्टिकराननादृत्यार्थपुष्टिकरोऽनुप्रासाभिधशब्दालंकारः प्रायः प्रयुज्ये ” इति चारित्रवर्धनविरचिततिलकख्याख्या । ”

The above evidence furnished by Pandit Shivadatta's statements proves that both these commentators viz. Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana are two different persons and that they wrote two different commentaries on the same work Naiṣadhīya. These commentaries are known by two different names. Cāritravardhana's commentary is known by the name Tilaka while Vidyādhara's is known by the name Sāhityavidyādhari. Further we find that Mss of both these commentaries are in existence. One Ms of each of these commentaries was utilised by Pandit Shivadatta as far back as 1894.

In my opinion the foregoing data have conclusively proved the mistaken character of Dr. Bühler's supposed identity of Vidyādhara and Cāritravardhana and the consequent copying of this error by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum at two places as pointed out above.

41. Viśvādarśa and its Commentary Vivaraṇa by Kavikānta Sarasvatī †

I propose in this paper to record and describe a new Ms of the dharmaśāstra work, Viśvādarśa and its commentary called the Vivaraṇa by Kavikāntasarasvatī and also to decide the date of this author on the strength of new evidence discovered by me since (1) the description of Mss of this work by Prof. H. D. Velankar in 1928, (2) the notice of this work by Prof. P. V. Kane in his History of Dharmaśāstra in 1930 and (3) the publication of a critical edition of the Text of this work by Mr. Tenkshe in 1938.

In the Introduction to the text of the *Viśvādarśa*¹ of Kavikāntasarasvatī² published by Mr. S. A. Tenkshe in the *Journal of the Bombay University*³ he has made use of seven Mss six of which belong to the University of Bombay and one to the B. B. R. A. Society, Townhall, Bombay. All these Mss⁴ have been described † Annals (Tirupati Ori. Institute), Vol. I, pp. 129-139.

1. Vide p. 229 of H. D. Velankar's Cat. of B. B. R. A. S. Mss, Part II.

2. According to Prof. Velankar Kavikāntasarasvatī flourished towards the close of the 12th or the beginning of the 13th century.

3. Vol. VII (New Series) (Part 2) — Sept. 1938 — pp. 65-98.

4. Aufrecht (CC, I, 586) makes the following entry in his Catalogue re. the Viśvādarśa:—

by Mr. Tenkshe under The Critical Apparatus (pp. 65-70 of Introduction.) The first two of these Mss viz. I-A and II-B belonging to the Bhadrakambkar Collection of the University also contain the Commentary written by the author. Mr. Tenkshe states "This Commentary was of immense use to me in fixing up the readings of the Text. Naturally as a rule, I have followed the readings adopted in the Commentary."

In view of the importance of the commentary as indicated above it is necessary that the commentary should be edited critically and for this purpose efforts should be made to gather Mss of the Viśvādarśa containing this commentary in addition to the two rare Mss.¹ in the Bombay University Collection. I propose, Viśvādarśa Pravaranirṇaya, CS 2, 476.

The Cat. of Oriental Mss, Ujjain (1936) pp. 30-31 records one Ms of the विश्वादर्श (No. 771-1090) dated Śaka 1778 = A. D. 1856.

The Punjab University Mss Cat. Vol. 1 (1932) p. 101 records one Ms of the work viz. No. 577 ("4 कांड").

It may be noted here that the Jammu Ms of the विश्वादर्श (Stein 102) is dated Samvat 1641 = A. D. 1585. It contains 19 leaves (leaves 1 and 2 missing). It is older by 140 years than the best Ms used by Mr. Tenkshe which is dated A. D. 1720 (MS - IA).

1. A brief description of these Mss as given by Mr. Tenkshe may be noted here :—

I. A—72 folios. Size :— $11\frac{1}{2}'' \times 5\frac{1}{2}''$, 12 to 13 lines to a page and about 38 letters to a line. Contains first three Kāṇḍas with the commentary. As the Ms contains the commentary it has the St. जयति etc., in the beginning. The 1st Kāṇḍa contains 41 stanzas and though it contains the 42nd St. as in the prepared edition it is therefore, to bring to the notice of Mr. Tenkshe the following Ms of the commentary which was acquired by the Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute in 1938 :—

This Ms belongs to the Limaye Collection¹ of the Institute. According to the folio numbers the Ms consists of leaves one to ninety-one serially numbered but these numbers are entered apparently by a later hand as the commentary for the first thirty-not marked. The 2nd Kāṇḍa contains all the stanzas in the edition printed. It makes only first 40 stanzas and the 44th St. followed by an index of the 1st and 3rd chapters. This Ms is one of the best Mss used by the editor. It was copied by the scribe R. B. Devasthali in Śaka 1642 = A. D. 1720.

II. B. — 101 folios. size:—12" × 4." Each page has 9 lines and each line contains about 44 letters, carefully written. The Ms has 3 Kāṇḍas of the Text and Commentary and ends with a short summary of the Ācāra-kāṇḍa.

The extent of the Text in the edition may be indicated here :—

1. Sadācāra-kāṇḍa	42 stanzas.
2. Vyavahāra-kāṇḍa	45 „
3. Prāyaścitta-kāṇḍa	49 „
4. Jñāna-kāṇḍa	53 „

189 stanzas.

1. This collection consists of about 450 Mss which were mainly collected by Sakhopant Anant Limaye Phadnis of Aṣṭe (Satara District) between A. D. 1800 and 1840 (vide : Annals of the B. O. R. Institute, Vol. XX, p. 39, footnotes 1 and 2). Sakho Anant was the patron of Vāñcheśvarayajvan alias Kuṭṭikavi, the author of the Bhāṭṭacintāmaṇi. His family hailed originally from the village Someśvara in the Ratnagiri District of the Bombay Presidency. The Limayes are Chitpāvan Brahmins of Kapī gotra and belong to the Hiraṇyakeśi-śākhā. Kuṭṭikavi composed his commentary on the Hiraṇyakeśisūtra (between A. D. 1816 and 1828) by the order of Sakho Anant Limaye who was in the employ of Sardar Mahādevabhāṭṭa Paṭvardhan, the son of the celebrated Paraśurāmbhāu, Paṭvardhan, the ancestor of the present Raja of Sangli (S. M. C.). Paraśurāmbhāu was killed in A. D. 1799 in a battle with the then Mahārāja of Kolhapur.

two verses of Kāṇḍa I appears to have been lost. Folio No. 1 begins :—

“ नैपालकम्बलस्य तु सारिष्टफलैः ॥ असतीतन्तुमयस्य गौरसर्षपसहितैः शुद्धिः
गौमूत्रोदकैः इति सर्वथानुवर्तते etc. Text :— रेतो विष्णुमूत्रमजास्थिभिरिह यदक्तं वासितं तैजसं तद्...क्षेपणेन ३४ अस्यार्थः etc. ”

Folio 9 contains verse 42 of Kāṇḍa I and also its commentary which ends on folio 11 as follows :—

“ इति श्रीगीतार्थप्रवीणश्रीभट्टाचार्यादित्यसुतकविकान्तसरस्वतीरितविश्वादर्शा- ख्यधर्मशास्त्रविवरणे सदाचारकाण्डः प्रथमः समाप्तः ”

Folio 36 — Colophon of Kāṇḍa II— “ इति श्री गीतार्थप्रवीण ...
विवरणे व्यवहारकाण्डे द्वितीयोऽध्यायः समाप्तः ”

Folio 64 contains a quotation from स्मृत्यर्थसार as follows :—

“ स्मृत्यर्थसारः ॥ ’

प्रारम्भादूर्ध्वमाशौचे विवाहः कार्य एव तु ।

प्रारम्भो वरणं यज्ञे संकल्पो व्रतसत्रयोः ॥

नान्दीश्राद्धौ विवाहादौ श्राद्धे पालपरिक्रिया ।

निमन्त्रणं वा श्राद्धेषु प्रारम्भः स्यादिति स्मृतेः ॥ ”

Folio 70 — Colophon of Kāṇḍa III—

“ इति गीतार्थप्रवीण...विवरणे प्रायश्चित्तकाण्डं तृतीयम् ”

1. The स्मृत्यर्थसार mentioned and quoted by our author in his विवरण is not included in the list of smṛtis on which he has based his work. This list as recorded by Prof. Velankar (p. 230 of the Catalogue of the B. B. R. A. S. Mss, Vol. II) is as follows :—

“ अङ्गिराः, आपस्तम्ब, आश्वलायन, उशनाः, ऋष्यशृङ्ग, कात्यायन, कौशिक, गोभिल, गौतम, जातूकर्ण्य, दक्ष, देवल, नारद, पैठीनसि, पैङ्गय, प्रचेतस्, बृहस्पति, बौधायन, मनु, मरीचि, मार्कण्डेय, यम, याज्ञवल्क्य, योगयाज्ञवल्क्य, लौगाक्षि, वत्स, वसिष्ठ, विष्णु, वृद्ध-वसिष्ठ, व्याघ्रपाद, व्यास, शङ्ख, शातातप, षट्त्रिंशन्मत and हारीत. ”

The Purāṇas and Nibandhakāras referred to in the Viśvādarśa are :—

भविष्य, मार्कण्डेय, वायु, विष्णु and स्कन्द, धारेश्वर, भट्टाचार्य, मेधातिथि, विशानेश्वर, विश्वरूप and शारीरकभाष्य.

The Fourth Kāṇḍa — Commentary begins at the end of folio 70-b and ends on folio 91-b covering twenty-one leaves. The beginning of this commentary for the fourth Kāṇḍa is as follows :—

“ श्रीगणेशाय नमः । श्रीकालिकायै नमः । श्रीपाण्डुरङ्गाय नमः ॥

उक्तं तृतीयकाण्डे प्रायश्चित्तं हि चित्तशुद्ध्यर्थं...ब्रह्मचर्यं वसेत् । अस्यार्थः ”

Folio 91 — The commentary ends as follows :—

“ इति श्रीगीतार्थप्रवीण.....विवरणे ज्ञानकाण्डश्चतुर्थः समाप्तः । संवत् १८९२ ”
(letters indistinct).

From the description of the Manuscript recorded above it is clear that the Manuscript contains the commentary Vivaraṇa (by the author) for all the four Kāṇḍas, except the commentary on the first thirty-two verses of Kāṇḍa I. In particular the commentary on the fourth Kāṇḍa is complete¹ in the Baroda Oriental Research Institute Manuscript while it is absent in the only two Manuscripts of the commentary at the Bombay University which contain commentary for the first three Kāṇḍas only. The best Manuscript of the Text with the commentary used by Mr. Tenkshe viz. I-A is dated A.D. 1720 while the Baroda Oriental Research Institute Manuscript containing the fourth Kāṇḍa also is dated Samvat 1812 = A.D. 1756 i.e., later by about thirty-six years than the Manuscript I-A of Mr. Tenkshe's edition of the Viśvādarśa. We have, therefore, to record the following dated Manuscripts of the Viśvādarśa and its commentary :—

Source	Text = T	Com- mentary = C	Date of Ms	Portion
1. Bombay University Library (Bhad. Collection.)	T	C	A. D. 1720.	Kāṇḍas I, II, III.

1. Speaking of the incomplete Mss of the Viśvādarśa, Prof. Velankar observes :— “ Two of these Mss contain all the four Kāṇḍas while the third contains only three like the Mss noticed at CC I, p. 586. The fourth Kāṇḍa was not usually copied out as it treats of Philosophy rather than Dharma. ” (Vide p. 229 of Catalogue of B. B. R. A. S. Mss, 1928).

Source.	Text = T	Com- mentary = C	Date of Ms	Portion
2. B. O. R. Institute (Limaye Collec- tion.)	T	C	A. D. 1756	Kāṇḍas I (frag.), II, III, IV.
3. Jammu Mss (Stein 10-2.)	T	...	A. D. 1555

Any scholar interested in the editing of the Viśvādarśavivarāṇa would find his work facilitated if he makes use of the three Manuscripts of this commentary now available. He may also profit by the use of the Jammu Manuscript of the Text of the Viśvādarśa, not utilized by Mr. Tenkshe in his edition.

I now turn to the question of the exact date of the Viśvādarśa and its commentary and record below the earlier views of scholars on this question :—

(1) According to Prof. H. D. Velankar¹ “ Our author alludes to Vijñāneśvara, author of the Mitākṣarā.” “ The earliest author who quotes our author is Hemādri in Caturvargacintāmaṇi, Parīṣeṣakhaṇḍa, pt. 2, p. 112 ” ... “ Viśvādarśa was also used in the composition of his Kālādarśa by Ādityabhaṭṭa. Kālādarśa again is quoted in Kālamādhava (See I. O. No. 1655). The manner in which our author refers to Vijñāneśvara shows that he was separated from him at least by a hundred years.

Our author, therefore, must have flourished towards the close of the twelfth or the beginning of the thirteenth century. ”

(2) According to Prof. P. V. Kane,² our author is “ later than 1100 A. D. and earlier than 1200. ”

1. Cat. of B. B. R. A. S. Mss, 1928, p. 229. Kavikānta was “ a follower of the Advaita School of Vedānta and a pious devotee of Rāma and Viśveśvara of Benares.” He was patronized by a prince called Dhanyarāja, son of Nāgārjuna. Prof. Velankar thinks that “ Dhanyarāja was very probably a ruling prince of Benares.”

2. History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I (1930, B. O.R.I.), pp. 624-5.

I shall now record my evidence on the question of Kavikānta's date. In my description of the Baroda Oriental Research Institute Manuscripts of the Viśvādarśa with Vivaraṇa I have reproduced an extract from the Vivaraṇa (fol. 64) which consists of two verses from a work स्मृत्यर्थसार as mentioned by the author. Prof. Kane mentions three different works¹ of the name स्मृत्यर्थसार. I have succeeded in identifying the two verses from the स्मृत्यर्थसार mentioned as such and quoted by Kavikānta. They are identical with the following verses in अधिर's स्मृत्यर्थसार² :—

“ प्रारम्भादूर्ध्वमाक्षौचे विवाहः कार्यं (v. 1. काय) एव तु ।
 प्रारम्भो वरणं यज्ञे संकल्पो घृतसत्रयोः (v. 1. यो) ॥
 नान्दीश्राद्धं (द्वौ v. 1.) विवाहादौ श्राद्धे पाकपरिक्रिया ।
 निमन्त्रणं वा श्राद्धे तु (पु v. 1.) प्रारम्भः स्यादिति स्मृतिः
 (तेः v. 1.) ॥ ”

It is, therefore, certain that Kavikānta used Śrīdhara's Smṛtyarthasāra and no other work of the same name. Now as regards the date of Śrīdhara, Prof. Kane³ observes as follows :—

“ the Smṛtyarthasāra must have been composed between 1150 and 1200 A. D. ”

Prof. Kane states that the विश्वादर्श is referred to in his स्मृतिचन्द्रिका by देवणभट्ट (Mysore ed. p. 164). देवणभट्ट flourished after A. D. 1150 and before A. D. 1225 (Kane, ibid, p. 346).

1. Ibid, p. 674, — (1) स्मृत्यर्थसार by नालकण्ठाचार्य (C. P. Cat. No. 6733), (2) स्मृत्यर्थसार by मुकुन्दलाल and (3) स्मृत्यर्थसार by श्रीधर. (Section 81 of Prof. Kane's History of Dharmaśāstra.)

2. Vide p. 17 of Smṛtyarthasāra of Śrīdhara-cārya, Ed. by Vaidya Raṅganātha Śāstri (Anandāśrama Sans. Series, No. 70), Poona, 1912. The variants in the brackets pointed out by me are more or less scribal errors in the B. O. R. I. Ms.

3. History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol I, p. 337 — “ The date of the Smṛtyarthasāra can be fixed within approximate limits. As it names the Mitākṣarā, the Kāmadhenu, the Kalpataru and Govindarāja it is later than 1150 A. D. The Smṛticandrikā and Hemādri both quote it as an authority.”

In view of the above date assigned by Prof. Kane to the Smṛtyarthasāra of Śrīdhara and in view of the fact that Kavikānta-sarasvatī quotes from and mentions this work in his commentary of the self-composed Viśvādarśa, I am inclined to hold the view that he flourished between A. D. 1200 and 1230. This view agrees with one of the alternatives suggested by Prof. Velankar that our author belongs to "the beginning of the 13th Century." If an author quotes a work composed between A. D. 1150 and 1200 and is quoted by a subsequent author in his work (Caturvargacintāmaṇi) "composed between 1260 and 1270 A. D." according to Prof. Kane, the period — 1200 to 1230 A. D. assigned for him by me would be considered reasonable. This view also harmonizes with Devaṇabhaṭṭa's reference to the Viśvādarśa as pointed out by Prof. Kane. If Devaṇabhaṭṭa flourished between 1150 and 1225 A. D. according to Prof. Kane his reference to the Viśvādarśa (1200 to 1230 A. D.) may warrant an inference that the author of the Viśvādarśa was a senior contemporary of the author of the Smṛticandrikā.

The three views regarding the date of the Viśvādarśa and its Vivaraṇa may now be tabulated as follows :—

Prof. Velankar' sview	Prof. Kane's view	My view
"Close of the 12th or the beginning of the 13th century."	"Later than 1100 and earlier than 1200."	"Between 1200 and 1230 A. D."

P.S.— Since the above paper was sent to the press I noticed the following entry about a manuscript of the Viśvādarśa with the Vivaraṇa on p. 141 of the Census of Indic Manuscripts in the United States of America and Canada by H. I. Poleman, New Haven, Conn. 1938 :—

"2833. Viśvādarśa with the Commentary. 95 f. 11. 25. × 5.25. 8—12 lines, UP 1632."

This manuscript is available in the University of Pennsylvania Library (Philadelphia, U. S. A.). It is difficult to say on the basis of the above catalogue entry if the commentary covers up all the four Kāṇḍas of the Text of the Viśvādarśa of Kavikānta Sarasvatī. Scholars interested in a critical edition of this commentary may inquire of the Librarian of the above Library and elicit the required information.

42. The Dates of Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita and other Commentators of the Vāsavadattā of Subandhu †

Aufrecht ¹ records the following information about a commentary on the Vāsavadattā by Nārāyaṇa or Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita :—

“ वासवदत्ता, a romance by Subandhu. Commentary by Nārāyaṇa, B. 2. 106. Radh 22.”

“ वासवदत्ता by Subandhu, comm. by Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita, A. K. 567.”

I propose to analyse the only available Ms ² in the above list of Aufrecht viz. A. K. 567, which is identical with No. 567 of 1891-95 in the B. O. R. Institute - Govt. Mss Library. The Ms belonged once to a man of the name वंशधर चक्रवर्ति as stated in an endorsement³ on a leaf at the beginning of the Ms. The Ms begins as follows :—

Folio 1 — “ ॥ श्रीगणेशाय नमः ॥

पायाद्योगो सहस्रेण क्रीडन् गोपालको हरिः ।

प्रकाशदंतघातेन भिद्वानो ध्वांतकुंजरं ॥ १ ॥ ”

† Annals (B. O. R. Institute), Vol. XXI, pp. 128-144.

1. CC I, 566 and CC III, 120. Out of the three Mss recorded by Aufrecht two belonged to private individuals ; only the 3rd Ms (AK 567) is deposited in the Govt. Mss Library (B. O. R. Institute under No. 567 of 1891-96. No description of this Ms has been recorded by Prof. A. B. Kathawate in his report which includes this Ms among Mss acquired for Govt.

2. The fourth Ms of Nārāyaṇa's commentary is also recorded by Aufrecht (CC II, 224) as “ Ulwar 967.” This Ms is not accessible to me. Peterson in his Catalogue of Ulwar Mss (1892), p. 42, describes this Ms as follows :—“ 967, A commentary on the Vāsavadattā, called Sarvaṅkaṣā by Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita.”

3. This endorsement reads :— “ पुस्तकमिदं वासवदत्ताटिप्पनस्य मुरलीधरात्मजवंशधरचक्रवर्तिनः ”.

Folio 2 — “ सीदसीन (?) गुणवारिधिरिदसौम्यः

नारायण दीक्षित, the author of नारायणी टीका on सुबन्धु's वासवदत्ता.

Nārāyaṇa states that he used no less than 20 lexicons and numerous works on rhetorics and poetics in the composition of his present commentary. It is natural, therefore, that this commentary is rich in citations from these and other works as will be seen from the following list ² of works and authors mentioned by him :—

1. The expression “ म्लेच्छभिया विमोहितधिया ” applied by our commentator to himself suggests that he lived at a place and time full of insecurity to life and property and the consequent disturbed condition of mind. The fear of Mlecchas or Mohammedans referred to in the above expression did not, however, deter our author from completing the learned commentary before us, with the help of no less than 20 lexicons (कोशदसद्वयौ) and numerous works on poetics (रसमयान् ग्रंथान् etc.) as he informs us in the beginning of his commentary. It was such zest for study that was responsible for the unbroken continuity of learned pursuits, glimpses of which we met occasionally in the casual references of mediaeval writers.

2. I have included in this list some specimens of vernacular equivalents for Sanskrit words explained by Nārāyaṇa Dīkṣita. These equivalents are generally introduced by the expressions : “ इति लोके ”, “ इति प्रसिद्धिः ”, “ इति ख्यातः ” etc.

1. Viśvanātha (14th Century A. D.) in his Sāhityadarpaṇa (VI, 122) refers to Vṛttis : Kaiśikī and Bhāratī as follows :—

“ अथ वृत्तयः —

शृंगारे कैशिकी, वीरे सात्वत्यारभटी पुनः ।

रसे रौद्रे च बीभत्से, वृत्तिः सर्वत्र भारती ॥ १२ ॥ ”

I wonder if कुमारभट्ट mentioned by Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita is identical with कुमारस्वामिन्, the author of रत्नापण commentary on the Pratāparudrayaśobhūṣaṇa (about A. D. 1300-1325). Kumārasvāmin was the son of Kolācala-Mallinātha. The new date for Mallinātha is A. D. 1430 (see New Indian Antiquary, Vol. II, p. 442 — Dr. Raghavan's article) and hence his son Kumārasvāmin should be assigned to A. D. 1450.

2. No work of the title “ गुणपताका ” has been recorded by Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum or by Profs. S. K. De and P. V. Kane in their Histories of Poetics. The work appears to have been older than A. D. 1200 as I propose to show on evidence in a special paper later. Prof. Kane informs me under date 23rd February 1940 :— “ I do not remember to have heard the name of a book called गुणपताका. ” Dr. S. K. Belvalkar also informs me to the same effect.

1. Vide Aufrecht CC I, 63 —“ उत्तरतंत्र probably part of a dictionary. ” As some of the commentators of the Vāsavadattā quote from this vocabulary and as it appears to have been lost, it is worth while collecting and putting on record all quotations from it wherever found. The list of Sanskrit lexical works given by Prof. Rāmāvatāra Śarmā at the end of his Introduction to the Kalpadrakoṣa I, 1928 (Baroda), pp. LV-LXII mentions no work of the name “ उत्तरतंत्र.”

In the above list of references the mention of रुचक¹ and his अलंकारसर्वस्व of about 1150 A. D. enables us to fix A. D. 1200 as the earlier limit to Nārāyaṇa's commentary. The references to हेममाला² on folios 6 and 64 of our Ms further enable us to push this limit forward up to A.D. 1250 or so, as we know that Hemacandra was born in A. D. 1089 and died at the ripe old age of 84 years in A. D. 1173.³

The later limit for Nārāyaṇa's date cannot be definitely fixed at present but judging by the condition and script of the Ms before me I am inclined to believe that the Ms was written about A. D. 1600 or 1650. Secondly our commentator, who boasts that he has used no less than 20 lexicons in the preparation of his commentary, does not refer to late lexicons. If the reference to कुमारभट्ट is proved to be made by our author to कुमारस्वामी the son of Mallinātha (A. D. 1430) we may be in a position to assert that Nārāyaṇa is later than A.D. 1500 or so, but as no other work of कुमारस्वामिन् is so far known except the commentary on the Pratāparudrayaśobhūṣaṇa and as the verse ascribed to कुमारभट्ट is not found by me in this commentary no conclusion of a definite nature can be arrived at on the strength of this reference to कुमारभट्ट. Perhaps a study of other commentaries⁴

2. Vide p. xxxvi of preface to Kalpadrukośa, Vol. I (Baroda, 1928)— Hemacandra composed देशनाममाला, अभिधानचिन्तामणि (also called अभिधानचिन्तामणिनाममाला) and other lexicons.

on the Vāsavadattā may give us a definite later limit for Nārāyaṇa in case his commentary is referred to in these commentaries. For the present we may tentatively fix Nārāyaṇa's date between A. D. 1250 and 1550.¹

1. The Govt. Mss Library (B. O. R. Institute) contains a Ms of a comm. on the Vāsavadattā called विदग्धवल्लभा (No. 464 of 1887-91). I have gone through this Ms cursorily. This commentary refers to the following works and authors :— विश्व, अमर, धरणि, एकाक्षरकोष, भरत, सरस्वतीकंठाभरण, पुराणवार्ता, पुराणाचार्याः, मेदिनी (fol. 16) हारावली, मेदिनी (11) स्वप्राध्याये (13), मेदिनीकर (18), शाश्वत, भारतकथा, उत्पलिनी, “ डाउक इति प्रसिद्धः ” (23), मेदिनी (23), वराहमिहिर, मल्लनागः (24), वामनः (26), मेदिनीकर (27 and 30), कात्यायन (31), उत्तरतंत्र (31, 32, 33, 39), रत्नकोश (33, 40) जैमिनी (32), कालिदास (34), गीतगोविंद (39), जयदेव (43), नृनार्थः (46 and 50), शब्दप्रकाश (50), विंध्यवासी (55). Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita's commentary is one of the 17 commentaries on the Vāsavadattā. I have had occasion to peruse cursorily only a few of them. Some indication of their chronological limits may be given below :—

- (1) Nārāyaṇa Dikṣita — after about 1250 A. D.
- (2) Vidagdhavallabhā — after about 1350 A. D.
- (3) Siddhicandraṇi — Contemporary of Emperor Akbar (A. D. 1542—1605).

mentioned by नारायण are found in the above list. The references to मेदिनी or मेदिनीकर found in this commentary are absent in Nārāyaṇa's commentary. The poet जयदेव and his गीतगोविंद mentioned by this commentary furnish us the earlier limits to its date which should be about 1300 A. D. as जयदेव is assigned by scholars to the 13th century (Dr. De : Poetics, I, 219).

1. Vide IHQ, IX (1933), p. 138 — Siddhicandra, the disciple of Bhānucandra was a teacher of Akbar. The title Khusfaham was conferred on Siddhicandra by Jahangir. Siddhicandra refers to Akbar in the following verse of the Vāsavadattāvivarāṇa (Ms No. 781 of 1886-92) :—

Folio 1 — “अकबराह्वान महीमहेन्द्र—
योऽपि पठत्पाठकसार्वभौमः ।
सहस्रनामानि सहस्ररश्मेः
सौवर्णसिंहासनसंस्थितः सन् ॥ ७ ॥”

Siddhicandra also refers to Jahangir in verse 10 at the beginning of this commentary as “जिरांगीरनरेन्द्रचन्द्र.” In the colophon Bhānucandra is called the teacher of Akbar in reading सूर्यसहस्रनाम (“अकब्बर-सूर्यसहस्रनामाभ्यापक ”). For further details of Akbar's interest in Sun-worship see Dr. Hiranand Sastri's article in the IHQ referred to above. Siddhicandra refers to the following authors and works in his वासवदत्ताविवरण :— मालतीमाधव, काव्यप्रकाश, विश्व, निर्घण्टु, अमर, पुराण, शाश्वत, मीमांसक, अभिधान, हलायुध, हारावली, शृंगारतिलक (fol. 15), धरणि, हैममाला, अनेकार्थ, वैजयंती, वराहमिहिर, दंडी, कामशास्त्र, जैमिनि, भरत, कोष, नीतिशास्त्र, जयंत (43). Prof. H. D. Velankar notes two other Mss of Siddhicandra's commentary on the Vāsavadattā besides the one I have used above. These Mss are indicated by him as—“JG. p. 332 ” and “VA 15 (38).”

(4) Jagaddhara — Between A.D. 1300 and 1400¹

(5) *Śivarāma Tripāṭhin*² — Between 1700 and 1725 A. D.

(6) *Raṅganātha*³ — later than Prabhākara, the author of the Cūrṇikā on the Vāsavadattā. Prabhākara is earlier than A. D. 1685.

(7) *Prabhākara*⁴ — Before 1685 A. D. (His Cūrṇikā is mentioned by Raṅganātha).

(8) *Sarvarakṣita*⁵ — Earlier than Sarvacandra.

1. Vide my article on the Date of Jagaddhara (JUB, IX Pt. 2, pp. 116–125). There are 2 Mss of Jagaddhara's comm. in Govt. Ori. Mss. Library, Madras (Cata. XXI, 1918 — Nos. 12421 and 12422).

2. Aufrecht CC I, 652 — Śivarāma quotes परिभाषेन्दुशेखर in the Lakṣmīvilāsa, “which suffices to place him in the beginning of the 18th Century.” Vide also S. K. De : Sans. Poetics, I, p. 318 ; and J.A.O.S., XXIV, 57–63. The Bib. Indica Edn. of the Vāsavadattā (1859) includes Śivarāma's commentary. The editor Fitzedward Hall used three Mss of this comm. for this edition (vide p. 44 of this Preface). Hall fixes the earlier limits for Śivarāma's date as A. D. 1373, the date of the lexicographer Mahīpa but observes that Śivarāma must be “more modern.”

3. Vide CC III, 120 — “AK 566 = No. 566 of 1891–95 (B. O. R. Institute). This Ms is called वासवदत्ताटिप्पनसार. It ends :—

“यत्संदिग्धमतिश्लिष्टं क्लिष्टं चामूलभाषितं । तद्वोधार्थमसौयत्नस्तेन
प्रीणातु मे हरिः ॥ इति रंगनाथोद्धृतोवासवदत्ताटिप्पनससारः ॥ ६९ ॥”

Raṅganātha refers to the following works and authors :—घरणि, विश्व भरत, चूर्णिकाव्याख्या (fol. 11), उत्पलिनी. Possibly चूर्णिकाव्याख्या mentioned by Raṅganātha is the चूर्णिका by Prabhākara on Vāsavadattā (CC I, 566). Kielhorn records a Ms of चूर्णिका dated Samvat 1741 = A. D. 1685. C. P. Mss. Cata. 1874, p. 76).

4. Vide p. 48 of Cata. of Sans. Mss (Private Libraries in the Bombay Presidency, 1893), Ms No. 100 described here by R. G. Bhandarkar is Prabhākara's comm. on वासवदत्ताद्वैतसंवाद. This Ms is dated Samvat 1903 = A. D. 1847. In the colophon the author is called “मोमांसकवर्यभट्टप्रभाकर.”

5. Vide CC II, 134 — “Stein 81” — No. 301. Sarvacandra in his वासवदत्ताटिप्पनी (I. O. Cata. VII, 1904, p. 1557) mentions “रक्षित-व्याख्या” (fol. 61^b). I presume that this is a reference to the commentary of Sarvarakṣita.

(9) Sarvacandra — After A. D. 1300 and later than Sarvarakṣita.

In the I. O. Ms No. 996 of Sarvacandra's commentary on the Vāsavadattā there is a reference to Vopadeva (fol. 52^a) who is, I think, identical with the grammarian Vopadeva, the protégé of minister Hemādri (A. D. 1260). We may, therefore, fix A. D. 1300 or so as the earlier limit to Sarvacandra's date.¹

(10) *Rāmadeva*² — Before A. D. 1470.

A grammarian of the name रामदेवमिश्र is quoted in Mādhaviya Dhātuvṛtti (c. A. D. 1350) according to Aufrecht (CC I, 515). Aufrecht also states that this grammarian is "Later than Haradatta." If this Haradatta is identical with Haradatta³ the author of the Padamañjarī (c. A. D. 1100) the date of Rāmadevamīśra mentioned in the Mādhaviya-Dhātuvṛtti must lie between A. D. 1100 and 1350. I am, however, unable to identify this latter रामदेवमिश्र with his namesake, the author of the तत्त्वकौमुदी commentary on the Vāsavadattā, the only Ms of which is dated A. D. 1470. Perhaps it may be possible to identify these two authors at a later date.

1. Sarvacandra quotes the following works and authors:— उत्तरतंत्र, उत्पलनी, धातुप्रदीप, नागरसर्वस्व, नीतिशास्त्र, भट्टशुभाङ्ग, भागुरि, रक्षितव्याख्या, रत्नाकर (? वृत्तरत्नाकर), रन्तिदेव, रसभ (? रभस), रुद्र, वामन, विध्यवासिन्, वोपदेव, शब्दप्रकाश, शब्दार्णव, सरस्वतीकण्ठाभरण, सुभूति. Many popular and vernacular terms are also met with in the commentary of Sarvacandra (Vide p. 1557 of I. O. Cata. VII, 1904).

2. Vide CC I, 566 — तत्त्वकौमुदी comm. on Vāsavadattā by Rāmadeva L. 2434. This is the only Ms of the work which has been described by Rajendralal Mitra (p. 195 of Notices, VII, 1884). This Ms was in the possession of one Babulal Pathak of Mujonā (Zilla Darbhanga). It consisted of 48 folios and had an extent of 1584 Ślokas. Mitra points out that this commentary is not named by Hall in his Edition of the Vāsavadattā. This Ms begins:— "सजलजलदश्यामं पीतवाससमन्वृतं । नन्दसुतं नमस्कृत्य तन्यते तत्त्वकौमुदी ॥". Colophon:— "इति श्रीरामदेवमिश्रविरचिता वासवदत्ताटीका तत्त्वकौमुदी समाप्ता । लसं ३५२ ॥". The date of the Ms is Lakṣmaṇa Samvat Era 352 = A. D. 1470 (352 + 1118). If this date is correct Rāmadavamiśra is earlier than A. D. 1470.

3. Belvalkar: Systems of Sanskrit Grammar, p. 40.

(11) *Timmayasūri*¹ — This commentator hails from South India. I have no means of determining any limits for his date at present.

(12) *Narasimhasena*² — between A. D. 1450 and 1500, if he is identical with his namesake, whose son Viśvanāthasena was at the court of Gajapati Pratāparudra of Orissa (A. D. 1497–1539). If this identity is corroborated by further evidence it will make this author of the Vasavadattā commentary a contemporary of Puruṣottamadeva (A. D. 1470–1497).

1. Aufrecht (CC II, 133) notes one Ms of Timmayasūri's commentary viz. "Govt. Ori. Ms. Library, Madras 84." The Catalogue of Madras Mss, XXI (1918), p. 8330 describes a Ms of Timmaya's comm. called दर्पण. In the colophon the author is styled as "कविकुल-लोकबन्धु." The Ms is written in Telugu characters. Aufrecht (CC I, 231) mentions one तिममय as the author of a commentary on Agastya's Bālabhārata (Burnell, 159b and Oppert II. 5745.) The date of this तिममय is "beginning of the 16th Century." A third namesake of our commentator is mentioned as the author of a work called कृष्णभ्युदय. He is called तिममययज्वन् (Vide p. 303 of Krishnamachariar: Classical Sans. Literature, 1937). The identity of these three commentators of the same name तिममय need to be studied with a view to fixing their chronology.

2. Aufrecht (CC I, 566 and 278) records only one Ms of Vaidya Narasimhasena's commentary on Vāsavadattā viz. "Oxf. 156 b" This Ms begins,— “ श्रीगुरुचरणाम्भोजं प्रणम्य पित्रोः पदं वैद्यः ।

वासवदत्ताटीकां विलसत् श्रीकां करोति नरसिंहः ॥ ”

Aufrecht also mentions (I, 278) an author of the name नरसिंहेसन, son of तपन, son of उमापति, father of विश्वनाथसेन, who composed पथ्यापथ्य-विनिश्चय (L 2939). The following points of identity between the two नरसिंहेसेन may be recorded here :—

I. नरसिंहेसेन a. of वासवदत्ताटीका — (1) calls himself वैद्य. In the margin of the Oxford Ms he is called वैद्य नरसिंहेसेन.

2. The Ms of his comm. is in Bengali Script.

II. नरसिंहेसेन, father of विश्वनाथसेन — (1) He is called नरसिंहेसेन by his son विश्वनाथसेन :—

(13) *Trivikrama*¹ — After about 1100 A. D.

(14) *Śṛṅgāragupta*² —

“ श्रीगौरीनरसिंहसेनतनयो निःशेषतन्त्रोद्भवं ।

पथ्यापथ्यविनिश्चयं व्यतनुत श्रीविश्वनाथः सुधीः । ”

(2) The Ms of पथ्यापथ्यविनिश्चय is also in Bengali script.

(3) विश्वनाथ was at the court of Gajapati Pratāparudra of Orissa as stated in the colophon of पथ्यापथ्यविनिश्चय which reads as follows:—

“ इति श्रीसूर्यवंशावर्तसेन गजपतिप्रतापरुद्रेण प्रतिपादितः तपनमहापात्रेति द्विजपिता- महनाम पदवीकस्य विश्वनाथसेनस्य कृतौ पथ्यापथ्यविनिश्चयः समाप्तः ” (Vide p. 49 of Mitra's Notices, Vol. IX, 1888). The solar dynasty (सूर्यवंश) to which Gajapati Pratāparudra belonged ruled Orissa between
A. D. 1435 and 1540 (Vide p. 213 of Orissa in the Making by B. C. Mazumdar, Calcutta, 1925. Gajapati Pratāparudra ruled from A. D. 1497 to A. D. 1539 (Vide p. 413 of Kane : Hist. of Dharma. I).
His predecessor Puruṣottama-deva ruled from A. D. 1470 to 1497. If विश्वनाथसेन was at the court of Gajapati Pratāparudra between A. D.
1497 and 1539 we may safely presume that his father नरसिंहसेन was a contemporary of Puruṣottamadeva between A. D. 1470 and 1497. I am inclined to believe that the two persons of the same name नरसिंहसेन, both of whom were Vaidyas of Orissa or Bengal, are identical.

1. Aufrecht (CC I, 566) records a Ms of a commentary on the Vāsavadattā called “ Vyākhyāyikā by Vikramarddhi Kavi, Burnell 162a. ” This Ms has been described in the Des. Cata. of Tanjore
Mss, Vol. VII (1939), pp. 3018-20 (Ms No. 4020). The correct name of the author is not Vikramarddhi Kavi but त्रिविक्रम as stated in a verse at the beginning (त्रिविक्रमेण क्रियते मेधाविकुलजन्मना). In the extract quoted in the Tanjore Catalogue (p. 3019) there are some quotations from the lexicon हल्लयुध (c. 950 A. D.). We may, therefore, presume that this commentary is later than about 1100 A. D. Perhaps an analysis of the only Ms of the work in the Tanjore library may furnish better chronological limits for this author than what I can do at present, relying mainly on the particulars gathered from the Catalogues. Madras Cata. XXI (1918) p. 8329 describes a Ms of Trivi-
mentions a Ms of this commentary (29 G 5 प्र 105—त्रिविक्रमकृतः).

The Ms ends :—

" इति वासवदत्ताविवृतिः समाप्ता ।

नागगुप्ताज्जातो हरिगुप्ताद्धर्मगुप्ततनयाद्यः ।

वासवदत्ताविवृतिं चकार शृंगारगुप्त इमामिति शिवम् ॥ "

The Cata. of Mithilā Mss, Vol. II (1933, Patna), p. 141, records another Ms of लघुपञ्चिका (No. 137) of शृंगारगुप्त in Devanāgarī characters.

1. Aufrecht (CC I, 268) mentions one धर्मगुप्त (Son of रामदास) who wrote रामाङ्कनाटिका in A. D. 1360. (Bendall Cata. p. 87). This धर्मगुप्त appears to be different from his namesake mentioned by शृंगारगुप्त as his father or ancestor. An author of the name धर्मगुप्तमिश्र is mentioned in संक्षेपशंकरजय (Oxf. 258b.). The name धर्मगुप्त appears to be an old one. धर्मगुप्त, a Śramaṇa of Southern India, translated several Buddhist works into Chinese between A. D. 590 and 616 (Vide p. 44 of Duff's Chronology of India). In an inscription of about the 6th Century A. D. from Gaya District, Bihar and Orissa, a Śākya mendicant of the name धर्मगुप्त is mentioned (Vide p. 246 – No. 1738 of Inscriptions of Northern India (Epi. Ind. XX) by D. R. Bhandarkar.

2. Aufrecht (CC I, 134) records this commentary by the entry : " Comm. by सुक्ष्मदर्शिन् Govt. Ori. Library, Madras, 84. " See, however, p. 8331 of Madras Catalogue, Vol. XXI, (1918) where this Ms is described. The author prefers to remain anonymous while the (16) *Kāfirāma*¹ — Before A. D. 1800.

(17) *Vāsavadattā-Sthūlatātparyārtha*² — No information available.

In the foregoing brief record of commentaries on the Vāsavadattā I have not included some more commentaries found in Catalogues as they were anonymous. Scholars interested in the study of the Vāsavadattā may do well to study many of these commentaries, which though of later times are likely to throw unexpected light on some of the obscure words in the text of the Vāsavadattā which is full of words with double meanings and hence has taxed the heads of many commentators as would be seen from the numerous commentaries mentioned in this paper.

Hall in his edition of the Vāsavadattā (Bib. Ind. 1859) refers to the following commentaries on the Vāsavadattā :—

(1) By Jagaddhara — Hall had 7 Mss of this commentary called तत्त्वदीपिनी, one of which was in Tailaṅga characters. He gives the name of the commentary is given as “ सूक्ष्मदर्शना ” in two verses in the colophon one of which reads as follows :—

“ व्याख्या वासवदत्ताया रचिता येन केनचित् ।
कविचित्तप्रमाथिव्याः समाप्ता सूक्ष्मदर्शना ॥ ”

1. Aufrecht (CC III, 120) records only one Ms of this commentary viz. “ I. O. 543. ” The description of this Ms as recorded on p. 1556 of India Office Catalogue, VII, 1904, states that the Ms contains detached annotations on the text hardly deserving the name of a commentary. The Ms ends :—“ इति श्री काशीरामभाष्यपतिकृता वासवदत्ताटीका समाप्ता. ” The paper on which the Ms is written is European (bearing “ water-mark 1805 ”). The Ms is written in Bengali characters. One काशीराम, son of Nyāyālamkāra wrote a commentary on the आत्मप्रकाशक of नन्दरामतर्कवागीश (Vide p. 768-9 of I. O. Cata. IV, 1894). I am not sure if this काशीराम is identical with the commentator of the Vāsavadattā.

2. Aufrecht (CC III, 120) records only one Ms of this commentary. It is described in I. O. Mss Catalogue VII, 1904, p. 1558 (No. 4080). The Ms is written on European paper by one Bholānātha Śarman of Viranagaragrāma. No details about the work or author are recorded in the Catalogue.

following estimate of Jagaddhara's commentary on comparing it with that of Śivarāma, published by him :—

(Preface, p. 45) — “ Jagaddhara, as compared with Śivarāma, though he oftener takes note of various readings is more diffuse, is equally fanciful, and resorts less frequently to authority in justification of his comments. His errors are freely exposed by his successor and not invariably with unexceptionable courtesy. As I understand from his introduction he was not the first annotator of Subandhu — None older, however, seems to be now known.”¹

(2) By Narasimha — Hall had only one Ms of this commentary. Particulars about this author and his work as given by Hall may be briefly noted here :—

(i) N (= Narasimha) was a physician.

(ii) N was presumably a native of Bengal.

(iii) The Ms of N's commentary with Hall was in Bengali characters.

(iv) N's commentary is of small value as it deals more with figures of rhetoric than with anything else.

(v) Nothing positive can be said about N's age.²

1. Hall states that the date of Jagaddhara can be determined from the following quotations in his work :— (1) गीतगोविन्द, (2) धातुसंग्रह, (3) शब्दभेद, (4) शब्दप्रकाश, (5) रत्नावली, (6) उत्तरतन्त्र, (7) बल, (8) विन्ध्यवासिन्, and (9) मत्तनाग. Speaking of शब्दप्रकाश Hall observes :— “ I have seen an imperfect copy of a शब्दप्रकाश which was digested by some Muhammadan of note, vaguely spoken of as “ खान नृपति.” The copy was transcribed in Samvat 1575 ” (= A. D. 1519). Preface, p. 46. शब्दभेद is a part of शब्दभेदप्रकाश which is a supplement to विश्वप्रकाश of महेश्वर (A. D. 1111). Vide p. xxvii of Intro. to Kalpadrakoṣa, I (1928, Baroda). Gita-govinda of Jayadeva is assigned to the 13th century (Vide p. 219 of S. K. De's Poetics, Vol. I). I have tried to prove in my article on Jagaddhara's date that he flourished after A. D. 1300. This earlier limit harmonises with Jagaddhara's reference to गीतगोविन्द pointed out by Hall and also with the fact that Jagaddhara wrote a commentary on the Gītagovinda of which there are several Ms (See Mithilā Mss. Cata. II, 1933, Patna and Des. Cata. of Madras Mss, XX, p. 7997).

2. Vide my remarks about Narasimhasena made on pp. 274-275 (foot-note) of this volume.

(vi) One of his few authorities is उत्तरतन्त्र.¹

(vii) "He may have succeeded² Jagaddhara and Śivarāma and he probably did but he does not allude to them while he speaks of one विद्यासागर in a manner to induce the conjecture that he may once have laboured as an interpreter of our story."

(3) By Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa Arde — Hall states that a rumour had reached him of a third commentary on the Vāsavadattā by Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa Arde.³ In the list of this author's numerous works recorded by Aufrecht⁴ no mention of his commentary on the Vāsava-

1. This work उत्तरतन्त्र which appears to have been a vocabulary now lost has been mentioned by many commentators of the Vāsavadattā like नारायण दीक्षित, जगद्धर, author of विदग्धवल्लभा, सर्वचन्द्र, etc.

2. My evidence tends to support the following chronology for these commentators :—

जगद्धर	नरसिंहसेन	शिवराम
(A. D. 1300-1400)	(A. D. 1450-1500)	(A. D. 1700-1725)

3. In the foot-note on p. 47 of Preface Hall describes this author as "A Marāṭha of Benares : Son of Raṅganātha and pupil of one Hari. Among his works are huge commentaries on the निणयसिन्धु, गदाधरी and जगदीशी. The second is called काशिका or गदाधरीविवृति ; and the third मञ्जूषा or जगदीशतोषिणी. The गदाधरी is by गदाधरभट्टाचार्य. The जगदीशी by जगदीशतर्कालंकारभट्टाचार्य. They annotated respectively the whole and a part of the दीधिति of रघुनाथशिरोमणिभट्टाचार्य, which consists of notes on the first two sections of गंगेश उपाध्याय's तत्त्वचिन्तामणि, a celebrated treatise of Nyāya philosophy."

4. CC I, pp. 118-119 — Aufrecht states that कृष्णभट्ट आरडे was the son of रघुनाथ, brother of नारायण, pupil of हरि, of Benares. About 74 works of this author are recorded by Aufrecht. In CC II, 23 and CC III, 26 he is called son of रंगनाथ. In CC II, 114 we are told that one रङ्गनाथ आरडे son of महादेव wrote दशकुमारचरितपूर्वपीठिकासार (Stein 81). If this रंगनाथ is the father of कृष्णभट्ट आरडे the genealogy of this author would be :—

महादेव → Son रंगनाथ → Son कृष्णभट्ट (आरडे)

If Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa died 150 years ago i.e. about A. D. 1771 according to S. Vidyabhushan the date of रंगनाथ would be about A. D. 1745 while महादेव would have the date A. D. 1720 or so. This probable chronology as also the genealogy recorded above needs further verification from the works of Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa and other sources. Perhaps "आरडे" is a Deśastha Brāhmin surname.

dattā is found. Satischandra Vidyabhushan in his History of Indian Logic (1921), p. 486, states that " Kṛṣṇabhaṭṭa Ārde was a Maratha who wrote a gloss on Gadādhari called गदाधरीकषिका and one on Śiromaṇi's तत्त्वचिंतामणि while residing at Benares where he died about 150 years ago. The gloss has been printed in Telugu characters."

It would be seen from the above remarks of Hall on the commentators of the Vāsavadattā that their number as known to Hall was three only while in our present paper we have indicated the existence in Ms form of about 20 commentaries. It is now almost 90 years since Hall edited the Vāsavadattā but no serious study of the commentaries on this important text has been undertaken by scholars. I trust, therefore, that my present survey of the probable chronology of some of these commentaries and indication of the Ms material with regard to each commentary would direct the attention of scholars to this problem at no distant date so that some of these commentaries may be published by them gradually.¹

43. Some new Evidence for the Date of the Lexicon Medini — Between A.D. 1200 and 1275 †

Prof. Rāmāvatāra Śarmā in his scholarly Introduction to the *Kalpadrakoṣa*¹ has recorded the following facts bearing on the date of the lexicon Medini :—

(1) Rāyamukuṭa (A. D. 1431) quotes Medini.

(2) Padmanābhadaṭṭa, who wrote his Prṣodarādivṛtti in A. D. 1375, quotes Medini in his Bhūriprayoga as follows :—

“ विश्वप्रकाशामरकोषटीकात्रिकांडशेषोऽज्जलदत्तवृत्तिः ।

हारावलीमेदिनिकोषमन्यच्चा लोक्य लक्षं लिखितं मयैतत् ॥ ”

(Vide p. 192a of Aufrecht's Cata. of Oxford MSS, 1864, where a MS of Bhūriprayoga is described).

(3) Mallinātha (c. A. D. 1430)² quotes Medini on Māgha II, 65 as follows :—

“ इनः पत्यौ नृपार्कयोरिति मेदिनी ”

(4) The Maṅkhaṭikā contains a quotation from Medini (कमिति प्रकृत्यमस्तके च सुखेऽपिचेति अव्ययप्रकरणे मेदिनिः) which, if genuine, would push back Medini's date to the 12th century for the Maṅkhaṭikā was written before the last quarter of the 12th century.

Leaving aside the quotation from Medini in the Maṅkhaṭikā composed before c. A. D. 1175 (last quarter of the 12th century) we may put Medini definitely between A. D. 1111, the date of Viśvakoṣa mentioned as बहुदोष by Medini and A. D. 1375, the date of Padmanābhadaṭṭa, who quotes from Medini in his Bhūriprayoga.

† New Indian Antiquary, Vol. VII, pp. 171-175.

1. Ed. in G. O. Series, Baroda, Vol. I, (1928), p. XL.

2. According to Dr. V. Raghavan Mallinātha composed a work called Vaiśyavamsāsudhākara for Devarāya II of Vijayanagar (A. D. 1422-1466) — Vide pp. 111-117 of New Indian Antiquary, Vol. II.

Let us now see if we can go backwards from the definite later limit of A. D. 1375 for the date of the Medini lexicon.

In my article¹ on the date of Cāritravardhana I have assigned him to the period A. D. 1172 and 1385. Prof. N. A. Gore of the S. P. College has drawn my attention to several quotations from Medini found in the commentary of Cāritravardhana on the *Meghadūta*² of Kālidāsa. These quotations suggest the possibility of a date for Medini earlier than A. D. 1350 or so. Dr. A. B. Keith³ assigns Medinikara "to the fourteenth century."

In view of the foregoing references to the date of Medinikara made by responsible scholars we must try to fix this date within exact limits so that the chronology of many works which quote Medinikara would be definitely determined and I propose to record below some new evidence from a non-Sanskrit source which, if accepted, definitely pushes back the date of Medini lexicon before A.D. 1300.

Dr. S. K. Chatterji published his very learned paper on "The Varṇa-ratnākara of Jyotirīśvara Kaviśekharācārya" in the Proceedings of the Fourth Oriental Conference (Allahabad, 1928), Vol. II, 553-620. This paper is based on a MS of the Varṇa-ratnākara on palm-leaf written in "ल. सं. ३८८" i.e. in the year 388 of the Lakṣmaṇa Saṃvat = A.D. 1507. This MS is preserved in the Library of the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal (Govt. Collection — No. 48/34). The work Varṇa-ratnākara is the oldest work in the Maithili language of North Bihar so far known. Speaking of the date of the author Dr. Chatterji makes the following observations :—

- (1) The author of the V. R. (Varṇa-ratnākara) is a well-known figure in medieval or late Sanskrit Literature.

1. Vide pp. 109-111 of Annals (B. O. R. I.) 1934, Vol. XV. It appears from Prof. Velankar's Jinaratnakośa that Cāritravardhana composed a work (सिन्दूरप्रकरटीका) in A. D. 1449 (Saṃvat 1505).

2. Vide Meghadūta (Kashi Sanskrit Series).

3. Vide p. 414 of Sanskrit Literature, 1928. Mr. Y. R. Date (Vide p. 27 of महाराष्ट्रभाषाभ्यास-कोशरचनाशास्त्र व कोशवाङ्मय) in his remarks on Medini refers to Sir R. G. Bhandarkar's view about the date of Medini recorded on p. 13 of the Intro. to मालतीमाधव (B. S. Series, 1876). According to this view Medini belongs to the end of the 14th Century.

- (2) He wrote a prahasana or farce called the Dhūrtasamāgama and a work on erotics called the Pañcasāyaka. According to Mr. Manomohan Chakravarti our author wrote a work called Raṅgaśekhara (J. A. S. B., 1915, p. 414 footnote).
- (3) According to Mr. Manomohan Chakravarti (J. A. S. B., 1915, pp. 407-433) our author was patronized by a King of the Kārṇāṭa dynasty of the name Harasiṃhadeva, who ruled " during the first quarter of the 14th century " i. e. between A.D. 1300 and 1325.
- (4) Our author was a " Cousin of the grandfather of Vidyāpati (c. A. D. 1400)."
- (5) The period during which our author flourished was the golden age of Sanskrit studies in Mithila of post-Mohammadan times.

Dr. Chatterji has recorded illustrative passages from the Varṇaratnākara, which appears to be an encyclopaedic work like the Mānasollāsa in Sanskrit by Someśvara III, the Cālukya King of Mahārāṣṭra (A. D. 1127-1138). In the extract called भाट वर्णना (p. 583) which records the qualifications of a भाट, or official bard of the court, who was often a sort of ambassador to his king, well-trained in all kinds of learning we are informed that he should be proficient in the knowledge of 18 lexicons' viz. (1) धरणि, (2) विश्व, (3) व्यालि, (4) अमर नामलिङ्ग, (5) अजय, (6) पल्लव, (7) शाश्वत, (8) रुद्रट, (9) उत्पलिनी, (10) मेदिनीकर, (11) हारावली and others.

As the author of the Varṇaratnākara, who flourished between A.D. 1300 and 1325, mentions मेदिनीकर lexicon as a standard lexicon among the 18 kośas popular at the court of Mithila, we have reason to believe that Medinikara had attained some literary status and standing say by A.D. 1300. If this view is accepted we can safely push back the date of Medinikara before A. D. 1275 or so. As Medinikara mentions the Viśvakōśa composed in A.D. 1111 and condemns it as " बहुदोष " we are warranted in supposing that Medinikara is removed from A.D. 1111 by about 100 years so that the date of Medinikara gets fixed up say between A.D. 1200 and 1275. In this way the reference to Medinikara in a Maithili work of c. 1320 A.D. enables us to take back the date of Medinikara from A.D. 1375 to 1275, a period of 100 years. This is no small achievement in the field of Indian chronology, especially when scholars have failed to fix up the date of this much-cited lexicon during the last 75 years. Sir R. G. Bhandarkar discussed the date of Medinī in his celebrated edition of the Mālatīmādhava as early as 1876. He pointed out that Jagaddhara, the commentator of this drama, himself a Maithili author quotes Medinī several times and if the date of Medinī is fixed up it would help us to fix up the date of Jagaddhara. Unfortunately no Sanskrit source has yielded any definite evidence to determine the date of Medinī since 1876 and it was by mere chance that I happened to read Dr. S. K. Chatterji's scholarly paper on the Varṇaratnākara published in 1928 and noticed the reference to Medinīkara or Medinī in this early Maithili work of c. A. D. 1320 represented by a rare MS of A.D. 1507. I struggled in vain during the last 10 years to find any definite evidence for the date of Medinī as many dates of Sanskrit works are dependent on the date of Medinī. At long last, I believe, I have brought Medinī within very narrow limits viz. A.D. 1200-1275 or so. These limits harmonize with the following data bearing on the date of Medinīkara :—

- (1) Vardhamāna, a writer on dharmaśāstra, who flourished between A.D. 1450 and 1500 according to M. M. P. V. Kane¹, quotes मेदिनिकर [Vide folios 12 and 13b of a MS of Vardhamāna's गङ्गाकृत्यविवेक in the British Museum described by Bendall—Cata. of British Mus. Mss, 1902, pp. 75-76]]. This British Museum MS of गङ्गाकृत्यविवेक by वर्धमान is dated Lakṣmaṇa Samvat 378 = 1496.

- (6) Rāghavabhaṭṭa (A.D. 1475-1500) quotes मेदिनीकर in his commentary on the शाकुन्तल (Vide p. 2 of M. R. Kale's Edn. 1913).

The number of works quoting Medinī is very large. I note below some of them to enable other scholars to note similar quotations from Medinī from Sanskrit and other sources :—

- (1) Rāmacandra's commentary on the Anandalaharī (B. O. R. I. Ms No. 667 of 1882-83) called पदार्थचन्द्रिका quotes मेदिनी many times.
- (2) Lokanātha in his commentary मनोहरा on the Bengal recension of the Rāmāyaṇa mentions मेदिनी, विश्वकोश, भूरिप्रयोग, विमलबोध (Mbh commentator) and (नारायण) सर्वज्ञ (Mbh Comm.) — Vide p. 1181 of I. O. Cata. Pt. VI, 1899).
- (3) *Śivadāsasena*³ in his Comm. तत्त्वचन्द्रिका on चक्रदत्तसंग्रह (c. 1060 A.D.) quotes मेदिनीकर (Vide p. 939 of I. O. Cata. Pt. V, 1896).
- (4) Harirāma in his कातन्त्रव्याख्यासार quotes मेदिनीकर (Vide p. 200 of I. O. Cata. Pt. II, 1889).
- (5) Rāmanātha Vidyāvācaspati in his त्रिकाण्डविवेक refers to मेदिनीकरकृतकोष (Vide p. 273 of I. O. Cata. Pt. II, 1889).
- (6) Haragaaurīstotra-ṭikā quotes मेदिनी (Vide p. 1142 of I. O. Cata. Vol. II by Keith).
- (7) Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa in his commentary on the Naiṣadhīya-carita quotes मेदिनी (Vide MS No. 716 of 1886-92, folio 10). Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa's date has been fixed by me between A.D. 1431-1730 (Vide Calcutta Ori. Journal, II, 309-312).
- (8) Kāyastha Gopāla in his comm. on the कुमारसंभव quotes मेदिनीकर (Vide folio 29 of MS No. 678 of 1886-92). He also quotes प्रक्रियाकौमुदी of Rāmacandra (c. A.D. 1350-1400). Vide my paper on this author [in the Annals (B.O.R. Institute) XV, 114-116].

1. Śivadāsa Sen was Court-physician of Barbek Shah of Bengal. Lane-poole gives A. D. 1459 as the date of Bārbek Shah of Bengal (Vide p. 307 of Muhammedan Dynasties, London, 1925). Vide my paper on Khārāṇādī in Poona Orientalist (Vol. IV, 1939, pp. 49-62).

- (9) Sujana in his शब्दलिङ्गार्थचन्द्रिका mentions मेदिनी twice (Vide p. 43 of Adyar Library Bulletin, Manuscripts Notes (February 1943 — Note by H. G. Narahari). According to Mr. Narahari this lexicon is not later than A.D. 1750.
- (10) Vidagdhavallabhā, Comm. on the वासवदत्ता of Subandhu (B. O. R. I. Ms No. 464 of 1887-91) quotes मेदिनी or मेदिनीकर (folios 16, 11, 18, 23, 27, 30) and गीतगोविंद of जयदेव (folios 39, 43) (Vide p. 135 of Annals B.O.R.I., XXI, 1940 — my article on the commentators of the वासवदत्ता). I may note here that a MS¹ of the मेदिनीकोष in Maithili Characters in the Nepal Darbar Library is dated " ल. सं. ३७७ पौषवदि " i. e. Lakṣmaṇa Sāṁvat 377 = A.D 1495. This is perhaps the earliest dated MS of this lexicon.

Some of the commentators of the Mahābhārata quote Medinī lexicon, but as the date of Medinī was left undetermined so far I could not make use of these quotations for chronological purposes. I take this opportunity of noting these commentators as follows :—

- (1) *Nārāyaṇa*² in his निगूढपदबोधिनी quotes मेदिनी (Vide p. 7248 of Madras Catalogue for 1925-26 to 1927-28—1935). He mentions other commentators of the Mahābhārata viz. वैशंपायन, देवस्वामि or देवबोध, विमलबोध, अर्जुनमिश्र, नारायणसर्वज्ञ, शाण्डिल्य, माधव etc.

- (2) *Caturbhujamiśra*¹ in his commentary on the विराटपर्वन् of the Mbh. quotes मेदिनीकर (Vide p. 188 of Mbh. Virāṭaparvan, ed. Bakre, Gujarati Press, 1915). This quotation reads :— “वृषभः श्रेष्ठवृषयोः” इति मेदिनीकरः. This quotation has been identified by me and found correct [Vide p. 144 of Medinīkośa (Jivananda, 1872)].
- (3) Arjunamiśra the Bengali commentator of the Mbh quotes Medinī or Medinīkara several times in his comm. on the विराटपर्वन् (Vide pp. 66, 69, 72, 74, 89, 95, 105, 116, 119, 142, 143, 146, 190 of Gujarati Press Edition, 1920, Bombay).

I note here some views about the date of अर्जुनमिश्र noted by me :—

- (1) Holtzmann assigns A (= Arjunamiśra) to the 13th or 14th century (Vide p. 404 of Vol. I of Sukthankar Memo. Edition, 1944).
- (2) Dr. Sukthankar notes a Ms of A's Comm. on the मोक्षधर्म dated A.D. 1534. He says that A's date must be “long prior to A.D. 1534. A mentions देवबोध, विमलबोध, शोडित्य, माधव, नारायणसर्वज्ञ (Vide p. 266 of Suk. Memo. Edn. Vol. 1).
- (3) Jogendra Chandra Ghosh assigns A to about A.D. 1297 (Vide pp. 706 ff. of Indian Culture, Vol. I).
- (4) In my article on A (Indian Culture, Vol II. 141 ff), I assigned A to about 1474 A. D. This date harmonises with the date A.D. 1534 of a MS of A's Comm. recorded by Dr. Sukthankar.

In view of Medinī's date (c. A.D. 1200-1275) now fixed by me, I think we may safely put Arjunamiśra between c. A.D. 1350 and 1500.

The foregoing data will amply illustrate the importance of the date of Medinī or Medinī lexicon in the field of the chronology of Sanskrit literature. I need not, therefore, record any more references to Medinī made by authors who definitely flourished

1. गदानन्द in his comm. on the Virāṭaparvan mentions चतुर्भुजमिश्र, वसन्तराय (author of भारतभूषण), विमलबोध, and अर्जुन (मिश्र). See Cata. of Sanskrit MSS (Vol. xvii) of Baṅgiya Sāhitya Parishad, Calcutta).

after A. D. 1600 or so. Before closing up this paper I have to note the following views about the date of Medinī which are upset by the date of Medinī now fixed up by me :—

- (1) Winternitz and Keith in describing a MS of Medinī in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, assign Medinikara to "circa 1400", (Vide p. 122 of Cata. of Bodleian Library, Vol. II, Oxford, 1905).
- (2) Zacharie (Indi. Wort. § 25) cites authorities for the assignment of Medinī to the end of the 14th Cent. A. D. (Vide p. 169 of Bendall's Cata. of British Museum MSS, 1902).
- (3) Mr. Nalini Nath Das Gupta in his article on the Bengali commentators of the Amarakośa (Indian Culture, October 1935, p. 264) makes the following remarks about the date of Medinī :—

" Since Medinī, as we know, cites in his lexicon (Medinī-kośa), Mādhava, the author of the Dhātuvṛtti grammar and brother of Sāyaṇa (1360 A. D.) and is cited by Padmanābhadaṭṭa in his Bhūripṛayoga lexicon we may without any great risk of error place him about 1375 A. D. "

As we have pushed back the date of Medinī by about 100 years from A. D. 1375, where Mr. Das Gupta has fixed it, we must explain the reference to Mādhava by Medinī. Possibly this Mādhava is not the brother of Sāyaṇa but he is identical with Mādhavakara the author of Paryāyaratnamālā (Vide p. xi of Intro. to Kalpadrukośa, Vol. I — G. O. Series, Baroda).

If my view regarding the date of Medinī recorded in this paper is accepted by scholars, they will have to reject the views of KEITH, WINTERNITZ, ZACHARIE and DASGUPTA according to which Medinī belongs to the 14th century. I am inclined to hold the view that Medinī belongs to the 13th century.² I shall, therefore,

1. In 1936 I published a paper on the date of Viśvalocanakośa of Sṛidharasena in the Karnatak Historical Review, Vol. III, pp. 15-20. In this paper I observed as follows :—

" As Medinī refers to and criticizes Viśvapraṇāśa (A. D. 1111) welcome any evidence from other scholars which either confirms this view or contradicts it, provided their evidence is of a contemporary character and hence not open to doubt or argument.

In the light of the evidence brought forth by me in this paper we have to reject the following statements of Sir R. G. Bhandarkar regarding the date of Medinī made by him in his Preface to the Mālatīmādhava :—

- (1) “ Medinikara, therefore, lived after about 1375 A. D. ” (Vide p. xxi). I have proved in this paper that Medinikara is earlier than A. D. 1275.
- (2) “ Probably Medinikara lived about the same time as Mallinātha ” (Ibid).

This is not correct as Mallinātha flourished about A. D. 1430 while Medinī is earlier than Mallinātha by more than 150 years. Mallinātha composed a work for Devarāya II of Vijayanagar (A. D. 1422-1466).

- (3) “ Medinī, therefore, very probably lived after Mallinātha ” (Ibid, p. XX). This statement has also been disproved by my evidence as Medinī is earlier than Mallinātha by more than 150 years.

At one place Sir R. G. Bhandarkar states that Medinī “ lived about the same time as Mallinātha ” while at another place he observes that Medinī “ lived after Mallinātha. ” These contradictory statements only show the divided state of Bhandarkar’s mind which then found no fulcrum of fact on the strength of which he could lift up the problem of Medinī’s date from the slippery ground of relative chronology, made more slippery by the grease of groundless guesswork and absence of reliable evidence. I have dealt with Bhandarkar’s view about the date of Medinī with a view to directing the attention of scholars to new evidence on the old problem and not out of any want of deference to the grandfather of Oriental learning on whose shoulders we stand and carry on our research with a wider vision and new tools not available to his generation.

and as he is quoted in the Prṣṇadarādivṛtti of Padmanābhādatta (A. D. 1375) we may not be far wrong if we assign him to the thirteenth century. ”

This surmise about the date of Medinī stands substantiated by the evidence recorded in this paper.

44. Some new Evidence from the Rasaratna- pradīpa of Rāmarāja on the Genealogy of the Ṭākā Kings of Kāṣṭhā — Between A. D. 1200 and 1500 †

Prof. P. V. Kane in his section on Madanapāla and Viśveśvara-bhaṭṭa (History of Dharmasāstra Vol. I, 1930) deals with the genealogy of Madanapāla. He observes :—

“ Madanapāla belonged to the family of Ṭākā Kings that ruled in Kāṣṭhā (modern Kath) on the Jumna to the north of Delhi.’
The printed Madanapārijāta makes the family name to be ‘ Kāṣṭhā ’, but this is most probably a wrong reading as in the Mahārṇava and other works of Madanapāla the family name is distinctly stated to be Ṭākā. The pedigree of the family as gathered from the Madanapārijāta and the other works is given below.
Some works such as the Mahārṇava omit the mention of Sahajapāla. About Sādhāraṇa it is said that he brought about the remission of all taxes at the three tīrthas (Prayāga, Kāśī and Gayā).”²

The pedigree as recorded by Prof. Kane is as follows :—

† New Indian Antiquary, Vol. VII, pp. 176-180.

the मदनविनोदनिघण्टु we read “ टाकान्वये मद्दतिभूमिभुजां विशुद्धे काष्ठेति नाम नगरं

According to the evidence recorded by Prof. Kane the literary activity¹ of Madanapāla "must be placed between 1360—1390 A. D." Such a patron of learning enjoyed the reputation² of the Bhoja Paramāra of Dhara even in lifetime, being called अभिनवभोज. Numerous MSS³ of the works composed under Madana's patronage

The following works were written in his reign but attributed to himself :— आनन्दसंज्ञावन, तिथिनिर्णयसार, मदनपारिजात, मदनपालविनोद, यन्त्रप्रकाश, शुद्धधर्म-बोधिनी, सिद्धान्तगर्भ (?), स्मृतिकौमुदी, " "मदनपालविनोदनिघण्टु shorter मदन-विनोद a vocabulary of materia medica, composed in 1375, and attributed to Madanapāla, IO 42. sors' or descendants but for this purpose it is necessary for us to know as complete a genealogy of the Tākā dynasty of Kāsthā as can be revealed by documentary evidence. The documentary evidence for extending the genealogy of the Tākā race further than the time of पृथ्वीमल्ल mentioned last in Prof. Kane's statement of this genealogy recorded above is fortunately forthcoming from a MS of a medical work called the रसरत्नप्रदीप (by रामराज) of which three MSS only are recorded by Aufrecht.² The fourth MS of this work is mentioned by Peterson³ in his Catalogue of Ulwar MSS. The MS in Aufrecht's entry "Peters 4.40 (incl.)" = No. 1079 of 1886-92 in the Government MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. It has been described by Dr. Har Dutt Sharma on pp. 247-249 of his Descriptive Cata. of Vaidyaka MSS (B. O. R. I.—Vol. XVI, Part I, 1939). Dr. Sharma makes the following remarks about the author of the work :—

"The author seems to belong to a royal family. He calls his

1. The predecessors of Madanapāla according to the genealogy reconstructed by Prof. Kane are रत्नपाल, भरहपाल, हरिश्चन्द्र and साधारण. Aufrecht records no MSS of works ascribed to these predecessors. There is a work called धर्मसंग्रह composed by उपाध्याय हरिश्चन्द्र (CC I, II, p. 58) about A. D. 1850 under रामसिंह of the Jaipur dynasty (Vide my article in Poona Orientalist, Vol. II, p. 178), but this work has nothing to do with the Tākā race. Aufrecht (CC I, 707) mentions साधारणदेव as the author of मुक्तावली on Hāla's गाथासप्तशती; but this King is the son of मल्लदेव and grandson of वामनदेव and hence different from Madanapāla's father साधारण. Aufrecht does not ascribe any works to सहजपाल the brother of Madanapāla.

2. CC II, p. 116a — { रसरत्नप्रदीप med. by रामराज son of रत्नदेव }
{ Peters 4.40 (incl.) ; Stein 187. }

CC I, p. 496 — " रसरत्नप्रदीप by रामराज — 216 " Aufrecht makes the following entry regarding an anonymous work on medicine called रसरत्नप्रदीप as follows :—

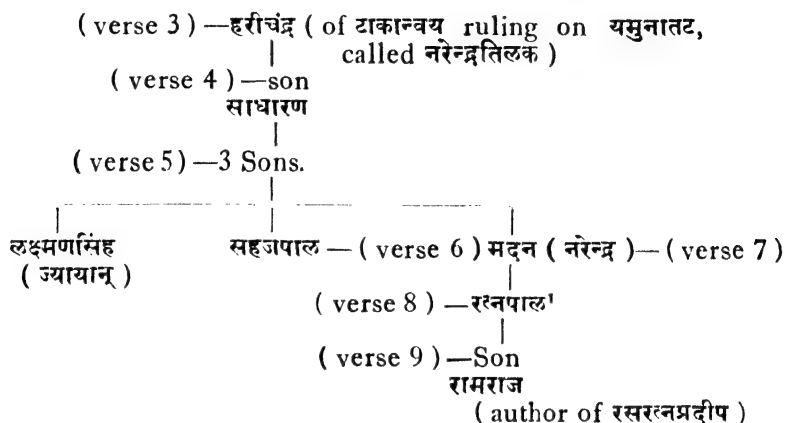

CC I, p. 496 — " रसरत्नप्रदीप — med. W. p. 300 (fr.) ; Katm. 13 ; Radh 32, quoted by त्रिमल्ल in यागतरङ्गिणी, in भावप्रकाश, in टोडरानन्द W. p. 289."

Under " रामराज " Aufrecht makes the following entries :—

CC I, 518 — " रामराज — नाडीप्रकाश, रसदीपिका. Both quoted by वैद्य-चिन्तामणि — रसरत्नप्रदीप. "

3. Vide p. 71 and Extract 425 of Cata. (1892).

Verses 1 to 9 at the beginning of the MS record the genealogy of the author which may be represented as follows:—

- (1) लक्ष्मणसिंह, the eldest brother of मदनपाल not mentioned by Prof. Kane.
- (2) रत्नपाल, a descendant of मदनपाल.
- (3) रामराज, the son of रत्नपाल and author of the रसरत्नप्रदीप.

1. Though Dr. Sharma makes रामराज the grandson of साधारण it is not possible to accept this statement. In the first place Dr. Sharma has ignored मदननरेन्द्र mentioned in verse 7. The name of रत्नपाल in verse 8 is introduced as follows after the mention of मदन in verse 7 :- “ वंशेऽथ विश्वविदिते नृपरत्नपाल । प्रादुर्बभूव etc. ” i.e. in the line of मदन and his predecessors was born रत्नपाल etc. The expression “ वंशेऽथ ” raises a doubt about the exact relation of मदन with रत्नपाल. I have, therefore, indicated this relation by a dotted line, leaving the question of this relationship open for further investigation. It is, however, certain that our रामराज remembered a fragment of his genealogy from हरीचन्द्र to मदन and from रत्नपाल to himself.

(1) According to Aufrecht (CC I, 496) an anonymous Medical work रसरत्नप्रदीप has been quoted in the following works :—

(i) Yogataranṅiṇī of Trimalla.

(ii) Bhāvaprakāśa of Bhāvamiśra (c. A.D. 1550).

(iii) Ṭoḍarānanda (between A.D. 1565 and 1589 — See Kane's History of Dh., Vol. I, p. 423)

The only other medical work of the name रसरत्नप्रदीप of known authorship is that by रामराज. I am, therefore, inclined to presume that the रसरत्नप्रदीप mentioned and quoted in the three works viz. the Yogataranṅiṇī, Bhāvaprakāśa and the Ṭoḍarānanda is identical with the रसरत्नप्रदीप of रामराज belonging to the Tākā line of Kings. If this suggestion is accepted, I have to state that the chronology of Rāmarāja and his work becomes earlier than A.D. 1550 or so, when it is quoted by Bhāvamiśra in his medical compendium called the Bhāvaprakāśa. We have now to go backwards from A.D. 1550. For this purpose the date of the Yogataranṅiṇī of Trimalla which mentions the रसरत्नप्रदीप is important. About this date the following evidence is available :—

Prof H. D. Velankar¹ while describing a MS of Trimalla's Dravyagūṇaśataśloki observes as follows :—

(“ Trimalla quotes Vīrasimhāvaloka (1383 A.D.) in his Yogataranṅiṇī and a MS of his Dravyagūṇaśataśloki (Mitra, Notices, Vol. I, p. 109, No. 203) is dated Samvat 1555, i.e. A.D. 1499. Trimalla's date, therefore, falls between 1383 and 1499 A.D.”

Prof. Velankar further states :—“ Rasaratnapradīpa, a work of Trimalla's son is quoted in the famous Ṭoḍarānanda, Cf. Bendall, Brit. Mus. Sk. MSS, p. 212.”

Bendall's statement “ Rasaratnapradīpa, a work of Trimalla's son ” is wrong. Bendall has evidently confused Rasapradīpa (by Trimalla's son Śaṅkarabhaṭṭa) with the Rasaratnapradīpa quoted by Ṭoḍarānanda. Aufrecht does not mention any रसरत्नप्रदीप by Trimalla's son शंकरभट्ट but he mentions रसप्रदीप by Trimalla's son which is not a medical work but an anthology² in three chapters. I have already suggested that the रसरत्नप्रदीप quoted by Ṭoḍarānanda,

1. Vide p. 59 of Cata. of BBRAS MSS, Vol. I (1925).

2. CC I, 495 — “ रसप्रदीप an anthology in 3 Chapters by Śaṅkarabhaṭṭa, son of Trimallabhaṭṭa, L. 1710.”

Yogatarangiṇī and Bhāvaprakāśa is most probably the work of Rāmarāja of the Tākā line of Kings.

The reference to the रत्नप्रदीप in Trimalla's work composed between A.D. 1383 and 1499 enables us to push back the date of the रत्नप्रदीप of Rāmarāja up to about A.D. 1475, which may be regarded as the later limit for Rāmarāja, the earlier limit being A.D. 1375, the date of मदनपाल in whose line Rāmarāja's father रत्नपाल was born ("वंशोऽथ विश्वविदिते नृपरत्नपालः । प्रादुर्बभूव etc. ") as stated in the MS of the रत्नप्रदीप (No. 1079 of 1886-92).

The genealogy of the Tākā Kings of Kāṣṭhā may now be consolidated as follows :—

It will be seen from the above consolidated genealogy that the name रत्नपाल which is the first name in the genealogy is again repeated after about 200 years. This genealogy, also shows how we have been able to extend the known genealogy of Madanapāla by about 100 years. The rule of the Tākā Kings of Kāṣṭhā for a continuous period of 300 years is thus proved on documentary evidence. We must now investigate the history of this Tākā line of Kings before Ratnapāla (c. A. D. 1250) and after Rāmarāja (c. A. D. 1450), the author of the Rasaratnapradīpa.

45. Studies in the History of Indian Cosmetics and Perfumery — A critical Analysis of a rare Manuscript of Gandhavāda and its Marāṭhī Commentary — Between c. A. D. 1350 and 1550 †

In a paper contributed by me to the Journal of the Bombay University,¹ I have given a critical analysis of a rare treatise on the science of cosmetics and perfumery represented by a single MS in the Raḍḍi Collection of the Bhandarkar O. R. Institute, Poona. This work is called the Gandhasāra by Gaṅgādhara. In the same bundle in which I discovered the Gandhasāra there is another work written in the same hand called the Gandhavāda with a Marathi commentary. Folios 1 to 27a comprise the Gandhasāra, while folios 27b to 49 comprise the Gandhavāda with commentary. After the colophon of the Gandhasāra the MS of the Gandhavāda begins as follows :—

Folio 27b — “ वरनलिनवदनमिलिता, जलजदनलदसहिता,

The MS containing these two treatises viz. (1) the Gandhasāra and the Gandhavāda with Bhāṣā commentary appears to be about 200 years old, judging by the condition of the paper on which it is written and also its script. The questions about the authorship and chronology of these two treatises may now be discussed as follows :—

(1) Is it possible to suppose that the treatise Gandhavāda is also the work of Gaṅgādhara, the author of the Gandhasāra ?

There is no definite evidence to answer this question in the positive or negative.

(2) Who is the author of the Bhāṣā or Marathi commentary on the Gandhavāda in Sanskrit?

This question also cannot be answered definitely though it is possible to suppose that the author of the Gandhavāda himself composed the Marathi commentary on his own work.

(3) What is the chronology of both these works and the Bhāṣā commentary?

All these three texts are certainly more than 200 years old. This inference based on the condition of the manuscript and its script finds corroboration from the old Marathi language of the commentary. At any rate the form of the Marathi language of the commentary will provide us some criterion to fix its chronology approximately. I note below some words and expressions from the commentary to enable scholars to fix its chronology :—

— येला (27)	— होए, होये (28)
— तूंपें तलौनि (27)	— जाए (30)
— घालजे, कीजे (33)	— भिजों दीजे (33)
— वासु दीजे (27), भावना दीजे, (fol. 28), किजे (29), वालविजे (32)	— रमें वाटिजे (33)
— राजें ठाकुरु (34)	— गंधराजु (43)
— उतरलिया मेलविजे (34)	— तिलेल (45)
— दारचिनी (35), दारुचिनी (36)	— तेणें भिजौनु कढें घालुनु (46)
— चोखट (35)	— चोखटु (46)
— खोवरें जुनें (38)	— वातिया होति (47)
— हातें मदींनि पाणि सांडिजे (40)	— चूर्ण करुनु खलिजे (47)
— खदिराचा डीकु (42)	— सिलारसु मधु पाण्यें कालविजे (47)
— ऊद मेलवणि (48)

Judging by the above forms of the Marathi language of the commentary I may tentatively assign this commentary to the latter half of the 15th century or the middle of the 16th century A.D.

The Marathi commentary is useful linguistically because it gives us the vernacular equivalents for some of the Sanskrit terms in the text of the Gandhavāda. In the MS of the Gandhasāra some tables of aromatic materials are recorded on some folios. I cannot say if these tables form part of the text of the Gandhasāra of Gaṅgādhara. I reproduce these tables below as they contain both Sanskrit and vernacular terms :—

The foregoing tables with the exception of the last one are perhaps intended to help the actual manufacture of perfumes. They give at a glance the several aromatic ingredients and their suggested combinations. The elaborate table on folio 20b specifies the proportions of these ingredients. It is for the Indian manufacturers of perfumes to understand their exact significance and compare these proportions with those now in practice.

I now close this paper by noting below the names of materials mentioned in the Marathi commentary on the Gandhavāda :—

Folio 27 — श्रीखंड, अगर, नख, जायपत्री, मांसी, सैलज, तालीसपत्र, बाल, भोल, पाचि, अंबर, तज, येला, लवंग, कोष्ट, तूप, फुलांचा बासु, बुका, श्रीगंध.

1. “ This Bukā powder owes its origin to सिंघण, ” who is possibly the Yādava king Singhaṇa (A. D. 1210-1247). The reference to सिंघण is also found in the text of Gandhavāda which reads — “ यो बुका सिंघणे निपायो राजवस्य करु मे हुगवायो. ” Evidently both the text of the Gandhavāda and its Marathi Commentary are later than A. D. 1300 or so.

In the Rasasamketakalikā of Kāyastha Cāmūṇḍa (A.D. 1475-1509) a physician called भैरवानन्द is said to have administered कन्यादरस to King सिंघण :—

The foregoing analysis of the Marathi commentary reveals in detail the variety of aromatic and other materials that were used in Medieval India for the manufacture of cosmetics and perfumery. Additional points furnished by this analysis are the following :—

- (1) Sanskrit and other terms and their equivalents are recorded as follows :—

“हेम म्हणता अगरु,” “क्रिमिजंतु म्हणता लाख.”

- (2) Bhojarāja mentioned on folio 38 in the expression भोजराजकृतवादि ” is evidently King Bhoja of Dhara (c. A.D. 1050).
- (3) Singhana referred to on folio 30 as the originator of a पुका powder is possibly identical with the Yādava King सिंहण (A.D. 1210—1247).

- (4) It appears that glass-vessels were used in connection with the manufacture of perfumery. काचकुपि or glass-bottle is mentioned on folio 34. काचपात्र or a glass-vessel is referred to on folios 39 and 40.
- (5) A piece of woollen blanket was used as a strainer (“ कांब-लेंनि गालुनि घेइजे- ” Folio 38).
- (6) As regards the पानालयंत्र (Folios 40 and 45) and the नालका-यंत्र (Folio 45) referred to in the commentary please see Plate IV (21 and 22) in the Short History of Aryan Medical Science, by Thakore Saheb of Gondal, London, 1896.
- (7) There are references to Cinnamon as दारुचिनी (Folio 35) and दारुचिनी (Folio 36). Hobson-Jobson (by Yule and Burnell, 1903) states that Darcheenae is a Persian word meaning China-stick. It records usages of dar-chini, dated A.D. 1563 and 1621.
- (8) There are references to the word “ खोबरे ” in the commentary (Vide Folio 38 — “ खोबरे जुन ”) meaning “ the dried kernel of the cocoanut ” which is called in English Coprah [vide Hobson-Jobson, pp. 253-254 where we get dated usages of the word like — Copra (A.D. 1563, 1578); Chopra (A.D. 1584), etc.].

In view of the data recorded above I am inclined to fix the date of the Gandhavāda and its Marathi commentary between A.D. 1350 and 1550 tentatively. This date is consistent with the reference to King Siṅghaṇa (A.D. 1210-1247) and the old forms of the Marathi language, not to say the present condition of the MS and its script. I hope that the students of historical linguistics and the students of the history of Perfumery industry of medieval India will fully exploit the rich contents of these new sources for their study viz. the (1) Gandhasāra of Gaṅgādhara and the (2) Gandhavāda with Marathi commentary.

46. An Adyar Manuscript of Janārdana's Commentary on the Raghuvamśa Intermingled with Meanings of the Text — words in the old Gujarāṭi Language †

In my note on Janārdana's commentary on the Raghuvamśa published in the Calcutta Oriental Journal I tried to fix the limits for his date, viz. A. D. 1192 and 1385 and also examined a MS of this commentary in the Library of the B. B. R. A. Society (No. B. D. 131) which is fragmentary and which was not known to Aufrecht. I also referred in my note to a MS of Janārdana's commentary on the Meghadūta deposited in a temple at Cambay and described by Peterson in his Third Report (p. 324). It was also pointed out that only one MS of Janārdana's commentary on the Raghuvamśa has been recorded by Aufrecht,² viz. " B. 2. 100 " but this is not available for study.

No complete MS of Janārdana's commentary on the Raghuvamśa has yet been available to me, and hence I am eager to avail myself of any MSS of Janārdana's works that could be noticed in different MSS catalogues or would be reported by scholars hereafter. Since writing the note about Janārdana above referred to I obtained on loan through the courtesy of the Director of the Adyar MSS library another fragmentary MS of Janārdana's commentary on the Raghuvamśa (Eastern Section, No. 36- F. 42). This MS contains Janārdana's Bhāṣya on the Raghuvamśa for Sargas XII to XVIII and to a certain extent supplements the B. B. R. A. Society MS No. B. D. 131 referred to above. One great peculiarity about the Adyar MS is that it contains explanations in Gujarāṭi of certain words and expressions of the text.

2. Cata. Catalogorum, Part I, p. 487^a.

Mr. T. M. Tripathi in his learned Introduction to the Tarkasamgraha ' of Ānandajñāna (= Anandagiri = Janārdana) surmises that Ānandagiri or Janārdana was probably a native of Gujarat. He further states that he is ' tempted to identify ' him (Janārdana or Ānandagiri) with Paṇḍita Janārdana, the author of a commentary on the Meghadūta called जनानन्दनं and a commentary on the Raghuvamśa.² Janārdana consulted previous commentaries of Āsaḍa (A. D. 1192), Vallabha (A. D. 1163) and Sthiradeva. The peculiarity of these commentaries is that besides giving explanations and occasionally figures of speech and parallel passages they are intermingled with meanings of the text-words in the (old) Gujarāṭi language also. These appear to be early attempts of Ānandagiri.

Though I cannot subscribe in toto to the contents of the foregoing paragraph from Mr. Tripathi's valuable introduction to the Tarkasamgraha I can vouch them in certain respects only on the strength of the Adyar MS of the commentary of Janārdana on the Raghuvamśa. For example the Adyar MS contains Gujarāṭi explanations intermingled with Sanskrit commentary throughout the MS as will be clear from the following extract of the colophon of this MS :—

“ प्रतिकृतरचनाभ्योदूतसंदर्शिताभ्यः ।
समधिकतररूपाः शुद्धसंतानकामैः ॥
अधिविविदुरमात्यैराहतास्तस्य यूनः ।
प्रथमपरिगृहीते श्रीभुवौ राजकन्याः ॥ ”

1. Gaikwar Oriental Series, No. III, Baroda, 1917, page viii.

2. Mr. Tripathi states that he has fragments of this commentary in his possession. ' There is of a later origin another similar commentary on the Raghuvamśa giving also explanations in Gujarāṭi by Śāmalā, son of Luṇiga, a Nāgara Brahman by caste श्रीमन्नागरपाटवोऽतिनिपुणः श्रीलुणिगस्याभवत्.....MS dated A. D. 1612. '

नन्दनार्थं बुधानां तदष्टादशे भाष्ये सेतुं बन्धः ॥ श्रीः ॥ शिवमस्तु ॥ ”

The above extract containing vernacular explanations side by side with Sanskrit commentary is typical of the entire Adyar MS and hence there is reason to believe that the author of the vernacular explanations and of the Sanskrit commentary is one and the same person viz. Janārdana. This inference is supported by the MS of Meghadūtabhāṣya of Janārdana described by Peterson in his Third Report, p. 325, where, as pointed out by Mr. Tripathi the following Sanskrit and vernacular explanations of some text-words have been recorded :—

“ विगलितशुचौ विगलितो गतः शोको ययोः तौ विगलित गिड शुच् शोच
छद्मं जेह्वरहिं अत एव हृष्टचित्तौ सानन्दमानसौ etc. ”

Without subscribing to Mr. Tripathi's proposed identification of Janārdana or Ānandajñāna or Ānandagiri with Janārdana, the commentator of the Raghuvamśa and the Meghadūta, we may agree with him in his surmise that our commentator was a resident of Gujarat and wrote a mixed Sanskrit-Gujarāṭī commentary on the Raghuvamśa and the Meghadūta.

Not being a student of old or modern Gujarāṭī myself, I am unable to assess fully the value of the vernacular portion of the Adyar MS. Its importance to a student of Gujarāṭī philology is obvious from the fact that Janārdana wrote his commentary between A. D. 1191 and 1385. This was a period when the vernaculars were looked down upon. Ānandabodha (about A. D. 1150) ¹, a great writer on Advaita philosophy, incidentally refers to the two vernaculars viz. the Canarese and the Gujarāṭī as “अप्रसिद्ध” in his celebrated work the Nyāyamakaranda. ² As Janārdana wrote his commentaries after A. D. 1191 and before A. D. 1385 and as he adopts a bilingual method of explanation, the vernaculars, and in particular the Gujarāṭī language, must have attained a better status than that apparent in Ānandabodha's reference to the Canarese and the Gujarāṭī language referred to above.

According to Rao Bahadur C. V. Vaidya ³ 'modern Gujarāṭī like Marāṭhī begins about 1500 A. D. ' and if this statement is correct the Gujarāṭī used by Janārdana in his present commentary represented by the Adyar MS will have to be considered as old Gujarāṭī, because Janārdana's date falls between 1191 and 1385 A. D. Perhaps a glossary of Sanskrit words with their old Gujarāṭī explanations as found in the Adyar MS fragment (about 173 pages) will reveal the nature of the language current in Gujarat in Janārdana's time. But such a study is outside the scope of this paper.

We now proceed with our analysis of the Adyar MS. The MS begins with folio 242. It is, therefore, clear that the first 241 folios of this valuable MS have been lost. The portion of the commentary which begins on folio 242 pertains to Canto XII as we find the following verse concluding this canto on folio 250 :—

“ कालिदासकृतावर्कवंशकीर्त्ती कृतिप्रियां
व्याकृतिं द्वादशस्येमां विततार जनार्दनः ॥ ”

Folio 268 is missing. Canto XIV begins on folio 269. The concluding verse of Canto XIV reads as under on folio 289 :—

“ यत्रारभ्य दिलीपभूपतिपतिं तिग्मांशुवंशोद्भवं
राजन्यं रघुराजरत्नविलसत् श्रीरामनामाद्भुतम् ।
व्याचक्ष्ये किल कालिदाससुकविः काव्ये कलौ कार्तिके
व्याचक्षेऽत्र चतुर्दशं मतिवशं सर्गं जनार्दनः ॥ ”

Canto XV begins on folio 290 — with the following verse :—

“ भक्त्या यत्पदनुग्रहं बलमलं विष्टभ्य विश्रंभते
निव्यासं स्वधिया मया तनुधियाधारभ्यते यद्रसात् ।
स्मृत्या सर्वमनीषितार्थवरदो देवो महेशात्मजो
निःप्रत्यूहमिदं सभाप्यमखिलं सिद्धिं नयत्वाशु मे ॥ ”

3. See C. V. Vaidya's article on ' Gujarāṭī in relation to Marāṭhī ' in the Proceedings of the 7th Oriental Conference, Baroda (1935), pp. 1075-1083 — Hemacandra's grammar furnishes written evidence of the form of Gujarāṭī in the 12th century A. D. The words Gujarat and Gujarāṭī had not come into existence in the days of Hemacandra. North Gujarat was called सारस्वतमंडल and the South Gujarat was called लाट both by राजशेखर and by Alberuni. The name गुर्जरभूमि first begins to appear about 1220 A. D. — (page 1077).

Folios 292-302 are missing. Chapter XV continues on folio 303 and ends as under on folio 319 —

“ श्रीमद्राघवराजस्य चरिते काव्येऽस्य काव्यांबुधे
संससत्कविकालिदासरचिते स्फूर्जद्गुणालंकृतेः ।
प्रख्यातोपकृतौ जनार्दनकृतौ प्रत्यक्षगुर्वीकृतौ
व्याख्यायां शमभजगाम दशमः सर्गोऽत्र पंचाधिकः ॥ ”

Folios 336 to 338 are again missing and Canto XVII begins on folio 339. Folios 346 and 347 are also missing. Folio 353 is missing and some chapter appears to begin on folio 354 with the following verse :—

“ भक्त्या यत्पदनुग्रहं बलमलं विष्टभ्य विश्रंभते
निर्व्यासं स्वधिया तथा तनुधियाथारभ्यते यद्रसात् ।
स्मृत्या सर्वमनीपितार्थवरदो देवो महेशात्मजो
निःप्रत्यूहमिदं सभाष्यमखिलं सिद्धिं नयत्वाशु मे ॥ ”

This verse is identical with the verse introducing Canto XV as quoted above.

The concluding verse of Canto XVIII reads on folio 365 as follows :—

“ महार्थोपमालावरत्नप्रसूतौ
र.....णां महाकाव्यसंपूर्णधौ
गंभीरे जनानंदनानंदनार्थं
बुधानां तद्व्यादशे भाव्ये सेतुं बबंधः ॥ ”

On folio 365^b — the following endorsement shows the name of the owner of this fragment — रघुवंशटीका गोविंददशपुत्रस्य तृ (त्रु) टितैय.” Obviously गोविंद दशपुत्र obtained the present MS in a fragmentary condition. Another endorsement in bold hand and different ink on folio 365^b but written breadthwise records Samvat 1768 as under :—

“ स्वस्ति श्रीमन्नृपविक्रमार्कसमयातीत संवत् १७६८ वर्षे आषाढ वदि २ बुधके ”

It is difficult to say if Samvat 1768 (= A.D. 1712) is the date of the Adyar MS. Perhaps the endorsement might have been added by some one later. At any rate it proves that the Adyar MS is older than A.D. 1712 or roughly we may say that it is about 250 years old.

References made by Janārdana to earlier works and authors in the portion of his commentary represented by the Adyar MS are :—

1. Abhinanda or Gauḍa Abhinanda, son of Bhaṭṭa Jayanta, wrote the कादंबरीकथासार and योगवासिष्ठसार. He was a contemporary of Rājaśekhara Circa A. D. 900 (F. W. Thomas' Introduction to Kaṇḍikāvacanasamuccaya, p. 20). Gauḍa Abhinanda is different from Abhinanda (son of Śātānanda) who wrote the रामचरित. The अभिनंदकाव्य referred to by Janārdana is identical with रामचरित which deals with the history of Rāma. The date of Abhinanda, the author of रामचरित, was hitherto unknown (see Keith's History of Sanskrit Literature, p. 135) but Mr. K. S. Ramaswami Shastri in his learned introduction to the edition of the Rāmācarita (Gaikwar Ori. Series, No. XLVI, 1930, Baroda) has proved that Abhinanda, the author of the रामचरित, was the court-poet of king Devapāla alias Haravarṣa Yuvarāja (between 800 and 900 A. D.) — page xxi. See also Dr. V. Raghavan's note on the Rāmācarita (Annals, Vol. XVI, pp. 141-2).

There are many more anonymous quotations in the present MS than those recorded in the above list of references. On the whole Janārdana is not in the habit of naming the author from whose works he quotes a stanza or two occasionally. Almost all the references noted above are taken from comparatively old works and hence they don't furnish any definite chronological clues for narrowing down our present limits for Janārdana's date viz. A.D. 1191 and 1385. The quotation from अभिनन्दकाव्य i.e. रामचरित by अभिनन्द given by Janārdana and identified by me above is chronologically in harmony with the above limits because the date of अभिनन्दकाव्य falls between 800 and 900 A.D.

Since my note on the Janārdana's commentary was published Dr. V. G. Paranjpe of the Fergusson College has published his critical edition of the *Meghadūta*¹ with the commentary of स्थिरदेव based on a rare MS found in the Mandlik Collection of the Fergusson College, Poona, bearing the date Samvat 1521 (= A.D 1465). Janārdana mentions स्थिरदेव by name in the line “ स्थिरदेवबलभासहकृतानि भाष्याण्यनेकरचनानि ” (Cambay MS) as pointed out by me in my previous note. I shall now point out that he has modelled one of his verses on स्थिरदेव's verse in the beginning of his commentary. In fact he has repeated स्थिरदेव's verse almost verbatim as will be seen from the following comparison :—

1. Meghadūta with Sthiradeva's commentary, edited by Dr. V. G. Paranjpe, M.A., D.Litt., Poona; 1935, Price Rs. 2.

तस्य प्रसन्नगंभीरात् प्रबंधाज्ञौरिवाम्बुधेः ।

About the date of स्थिरदेव Dr. Paranjpe observes :— ' Sthiradeva lived in times when critics were under the influences of the Alankāra school. He has quoted passages from भासह, दण्डी, रुद्रट and उद्धट he must be placed at the end of the 9th century or at the outset of the tenth '. If this date for स्थिरदेव is correct it would make स्थिरदेव a contemporary of अभिनंद, the author of the रामचरित (800 to 900 A.D.) which जनार्दन quotes in his commentary on the Raghuvamśa.

47. Aruṇadatta and Hemādri, the Commentators of the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya †

Mr. K. A. Padhye in his Life of Hemādri (in Marāṭhī) published in 1931, (Bombay) p. 43, while dealing with the works of Hemādri, the minister of Kings, Mahādeva and Rāmacandra of Devagiri, makes the following statement about the relative chronology of Hemādri and Aruṇadatta, who wrote the commentaries on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II called the Āyurvedarasāyana, and Sarvāṅgasundarā, respectively :—

Page 34, lines 21-22— “ In the commentary by Aruṇadatta on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya no mention of Hemādri appears to have been made ” (translation ours).

The above statement presumes among other things that Hemādri was prior in point of date to Aruṇadatta. This presumption of Mr. Padhye is definitely wrong because Aruṇadatta and Hemādri flourished about A. D. 1220¹ and 1260² respectively. Obviously, therefore, Aruṇadatta could not refer to a medical writer of Hemādri's repute even if he had desired to do so, as such a reference would result in an anachronism. Perhaps Mr. Padhye was not aware of this chronology of the two commentators. Dr. Hoernle and Mr. Kane have recorded sufficient evidence for the dates “ about A. D. 1220 ” and “ A. D. 1260 ” for Aruṇadatta and Hemādri respectively. I shall, therefore, record in this note some additional evidence in support of these dates. This evidence is furnished by the following extracts from Hemādri's *Āyurvedarasāyana*³ and the Sarvāṅgasundarā of Aruṇadatta :—

(1) Aruṇadatta — “ तथा, मधु-माद्वीकिं, मैरेयं-खजूरासवं ”

† Journal of the University of Bombay, Vol. III, Pt. III, pp. 26-27.

1. Hoernle : Osteology, Intro. p. 17.

2. P. V. Kane : History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I, p. 354.

3. Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya with commentaries of Aruṇadatta and Hemādri, ed. by Paradkar-shastri, N. S. Press, Bombay, page 136, (forms kindly supplied by the Editor).

- (2) Hemādri — “ मधु-क्षौद्रम् ‘मार्दीकम्’ इत्यरुणदत्तः “ मैरेयो ‘धान्यासवः’ इति चन्द्रनन्दनः ‘खर्जूरासवः’
 इत्यरुणदत्तः ”

From the comparison of the two extracts recorded above it is clear that Hemādri mentions Aruṇadatta by name and quotes from him and further Hemādri's quotation from Aruṇadatta's text stands identified, proving thereby that Hemādri is quoting from the Sarvāṅgasundarā and from no other work ascribed to any other namesake¹ of Aruṇadatta. The difference of about 40 years between the dates of Aruṇadatta and Hemādri explains the possibility of a junior author quoting from a senior contemporary of repute. It also appears from the above extract that by the time Hemādri composed his Āyurvedarasāyana, Aruṇadatta had already attained some reputation as a commentator of the Aṣṭāṅgaśāstra. It is not, however, clear whether Aruṇadatta and Hemādri were contemporaries even for the smallest period of their lives as mere mention of a writer's name cannot prove this point.

1. Vide Aufrecht : Cata. Catalogorum, Part I, p. 30 — Aruṇadatta, a lexicographer and grammarian is quoted by Ujjvaladatta and Rāyamukha (A. D. 1431), see Gaṇaratnamahodadhī, P. 119. A work on architecture called Manuṣyālaya Candrikā is also ascribed to Aruṇadatta (see Oppert's Catalogue, 2658, 2942, 6103). The identity or otherwise of these namesakes of the author of the Sarvāṅgasundarā is still a matter for investigation.

48. Date of Vimalabodha's Commentary on the Mahābhārata called the Viṣamaślokī — after 1150 A. D.†

Dr. V. S. Sukthankar in his recent article¹ on the commentators of the Mahābhārata states that Arjunamiśra mentions Vimalabodha and Vimalabodha cites Devabodha and hence we get the series : Devabodha-Vimalabodha-Arjunamiśra. As the date of Vimalabodha's commentary has not yet been fixed by scholars I propose in this note to analyse a Ms of his commentary called the Viṣamaślokī viz. No. 84 of 1869-70 in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, referred to by Dr. Sukthankar in his article mentioned above. This Ms consists of about 88 folios and bears the date Śaka 1724 (= A. D. 1802). It was copied at Poona by one Kṛṣṇabhaṭ Śivarāma Śivanekar from some original, which he complains (in the colophon) was extremely incorrect. In the above references the colophon on fol. 65 quoted by me does not appear to have formed part of Vimalabodha's commentary and this conclusion is proved by its absence in another Ms of Vimalabodha's commentary viz. No. 167 of 1887-91 of the Govt. Mss Library, where on folio 49 we have the following brief colophon “ एते राजधर्मस्थाविषमाः श्लोकाः. ” Evidently the colophon on folio 65 of Ms No. 84 of 1869-70, which ascribes definitely the authorship of “ महाभारततात्पर्यार्थविवरणटीका ” to one त्रिविक्रम (styled as “ महापौराणिकोपाध्याय ”) is wrongly inserted in the present Ms. Aufrecht in his Catalogus Catalogorum does not mention any commentator of the name त्रिविक्रम as the author of a commentary described in the above-mentioned colophon. In the list of 22 commentators on the Mahābhārata given by Dr. Sukthankar in his *Epic Studies*¹ no commentator of the name त्रिविक्रम has been recorded.²

We now come to the question of the chronological limits for Vimalabodha's commentary. Dr. Sukthankar has already given us the series "Devabodha-Vimalabodha-Arjunamiśra" which states the relative chronological position of the three commentators. In the list of references recorded above, the references to "धरेश्वर" on folio 64, to "भोजराज" and his "व्यवहारमञ्जरी" on folio 63 and to "सरस्वतीकण्ठाभरण" on folio 74 enable us to fix one terminus to the date of Vimalabodha's commentary. As king Bhoja of Dhārā is assigned to a period - 1010 A. D. to 1055 A. D.³ and as A. D. 1060 is considered as a limit for his date⁴ we may not be wrong in fixing about 1150 A. D. as one terminus for the date of Vimalabodha's commentary on the Mahābhārata.

1. Annals, Vol. XVII, p. 185.

2. Whether त्रिविक्रम was another name of Vimalabodha in the grhasthāśrama (householder's life) is a matter for investigation. We may cite as an analogy the name जनादेन, which was the name of Ānandajñāna, the author of the Tarkasaṃgraha (G. O. Series, Baroda) in the grhasthāśrama.

49. References to Persian Oil in Bilhana's Vikramāṅkadeva - Carita and in the Ārya- mañjuśrī - Mūlakaḥpa --- Between c. A. D. 500 and 1100 †

In the Marathi Dictionary Sabdakośa (by Y. R. Date and C. G. Karve, Poona, 1938, p. 2601) we get the following information about Rock oil or Kerosene oil :—

“ राकेल — घासलेट ; मट्टाचें तेल

(Rock = खडक + oil = तेल) ”

Page 1088 — “ घासलेट — केरोसीन तेल ; घासतेल ; राकेल

(Gas = वायु + तेल)

These entries create an impression that Rock-oil or Kerosene oil was unknown to Indians at any stage of their history till the British advent.

In the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary we get the following entries about this oil and allied terms :—

Page 1309 — Naphtha -- (1572) -- Latin and Greek -- perhaps of Oriental origin. A name originally applied to an inflammable volatile liquid (a constituent of asphalt and bitumen) issuing from the earth in certain localities, etc.

Page 1081 — Kerosene — (1854) — A mixture of liquid hydrocarbons obtained by the distillation of patroleum ; also from coal and bituminous shale ; extensively used as a lamp-oil ; the usual name is paraffin oil or paraffin.

Page 1428 — Paraffin oil — Any one of several oils obtained by distillation of coal, patroleum, etc., and used as illuminants and lubricants ; also called simply paráffin, Kerosene or petroleum. *

The above entries furnish no historical information about the Rock oil or Kerosene oil, with which I am concerned in this paper.

In the Marathi Encyclopedia called the Jñāna-Kośa (by Dr. S. V. Ketkar) Vol. 19 (1926) Poona p. (₹) 39 we get some information about the Rock oil as follows :—

† Journal of Kalinga Historical Research Society, Vol. II, No. 1, pp. 15-17.

“ Rock-oil has been in use from very ancient times. In China it was used for lamps and as fuel from ancient times. In Egypt it was used for mummies. In Biblical mythology Noah’s ark is said to have been painted with tar produced from rock-oil.

On our side the rock-oil is found in Burma and Persia. At present we have rock-oil fields in the Panjab.”

In the above remarks we don’t find any information about the knowledge of the Rock-oil, if any, possessed by Indians in ancient or mediæval periods of history.

On 31st August, 1946, my friend Dr. V. S. Agrawala, Superintendent, Central Asian Antiquities Museum, New Delhi, wrote to me as follows :—

“ The Vikramāṅkadeva-Carita of Bilhana was first published by Dr. Bühler in the Bombay Sanskrit Series.....In a new edition of this book from Benares I find in Canto IX, verse 20, a reference to Pārasika oil (पारसीकतेलाभि). I interpret it as clear reference to Kerosene oil obtained from Persian oil-fields which, it appears, was being imported into India in the 11th Century A. D. I have written a short note on this.....I shall feel extremely obliged if out of your extensive reading you could kindly tell me if you have come across any other reference to Persian oil similar to this. The Śloka in the Benares edition reads :—

“ अचिन्तनीयं तुहिनद्रवाणां श्रीग्वंडवापी पयसामसाध्यम् ।

अमृत्यल्पत्रिषु पारसीकतेलाभिमेतस्य कृते मनोभूः ”

This verse is identical with verse 20 of Canto IX of Bühler’s edition (B. S. Series, 1875), p. 74. There is only one variant in its second line, viz., “ परं मनोभूः ” for “ कृते मनोभूः ” but the reference to पारसीकतेलाभि is not affected by this variant.”

I was very much interested in Dr. Agrawala’s scholarly inquiry and promised to note down any other reference to Persian oil in sources early or late during the course of my cultural studies. Recently I carried out a cursory perusal of the Sanskrit Buddhist text called the Āryamañjuśrī-mūlakalpa (Ed. by Ganapati Sastri in Trivandrum Sanskrit Series, 1920). Fortunately on page 83 of this edition I found a reference to तुरुकतेल to be used for lamps as an alternative to गव्यघृत or ghee from cow’s milk as the following extract clearly shows :—

“ ज्येष्ठं पटं तत्रैव देशे तस्मिन्स्थाने पटस्य महतीं पृजां कृत्वा सुवर्णरूप्यमयैः
ताम्रमृत्तिकमयैर्वा प्रदीपकैः तुरुकतेलपूणैः गव्यघृतपूणैर्वा प्रदीपकैः प्रत्यप्रवस्त्र-
खण्डाभिः कृतवर्तिभिः लक्ष्मेकं पटस्य प्रदीपानि निवेदयत् । सर्वाणि समंसमन्तात्
समनन्तरप्रदीपितैः प्रदीपमालाभिः पटस्य रश्मयः निश्चरन्ति । समनन्तर निश्चरितै
रश्मिभिः पटः समन्तज्वालमालाकुलो भवति । उपरिष्ठाच्चान्तराक्षे दुन्दुभयो नदन्ति ।
साधुकारश्च भ्रयते ”

In this extract the worshipper is asked to carry out the worship of paṭa (a sacred piece of cloth). He is then to tear off the paṭa into numerous shreds with a view to making these shreds into wicks for a lac of lamps to be lighted. These lamps may be of gold, silver, copper or earth. They should be filled either with turuṣka oil or cow's ghee.

I am of opinion that the turuṣka taila mentioned in the above extract is possibly identical with pārasīka taila mentioned by Kashmirian poet Bilhaṇa in his Vikramāṅkadeva-Carita composed about A. D. 1085. In this connection I may point out that the Kashmirian commentator of Suśruta, viz., Dallāṇa, who flourished about A. D. 1100 has used the word turuṣka deśa in the sense of Persia while explaining the term aśvabalā in Suśruta. According to Dallāṇa aśvabalā is identical with "Hispiṭṭha" known in "turuṣka deśa", i.e., Persia. In my paper¹ on aśvabalā I have pointed out that the word "Hispiṭṭha" is identical with the Persian word "Ispist" or "Aspist." In view of this evidence we can equate the Pārasīka taila of Bilhaṇa (A. D. 1085) with the turuṣka taila of Āryamañjuśrīmūlakalpa which appears to be earlier than A. D. 900 as it was translated into Chinese between A. D. 980 and 1000 and into Tibetan in the 11th century A. D.² According to Marcelle the work belongs to the 2nd century A. D.³ Even if such an early date for this work is not accepted we can safely put this work earlier than A. D. 900 and consequently the reference to turuṣka taila mentioned in it is more than 200 years earlier than that to Pārasīka taila made by Bilhaṇa about A. D. 1085.

In view of the continuous contact of India with Persia from early times it is easy to explain how some Kerosene oil or Rock-oil from Persia got imported into India and was actually used for lamps as vouched by the Sanskrit Buddhist text composed prior to A. D. 900 and by Bilhaṇa's poem of the 11th century A. D. I hope Dr. V. S. Agrawala and other scholars interested in the history of the Rock-oil will examine this question thoroughly and see how far my suggestion about the identity of Turuṣka oil with Pārasīka oil is correct. For the present I am convinced that some rock-oil was imported into North India between say A. D. 500 and 1100 and was possibly used as lamp-oil, being free from objections laid down against the use of fats of animals by some of our texts on Dharmaśāstra.

50. Date of Vaṅgasena, the Author of the Cikitsāsāra - saṁgraha — Before A. D. 1200 †

In a very informative article on the Vaidyaka Literature of Bengal, published in the Indian Culture, Vol. III, No. 1, page 159, Mr. Nalini Nath Das Gupta makes the following remarks about Vaṅgasena, the author of Ākhyātavyākaraṇa and *Cikitsāsāra-Saṁgraha*¹ :—

‘ Although of uncertain date, Vaṅgasena must not be mistaken, as is sometimes done, as a recent writer, for two of the Manuscripts of his Cikitsāsāra-Saṁgraha, found in the Deccan, are dated in 1376 Samvat or 1319-20 A.D.² and he must, therefore, belong to the 13th century at the latest ’ (italics ours).

These remarks open the question of Vaṅgasena’s date and I am sure Mr. Das Gupta will supply us with more data from Vaṅgasena’s works bearing on his chronology during the course of his studies. My object in writing this note is to record the data found by me, in the light of which I am inclined to believe that Vaṅgasena belongs not ‘ to 13th century at the latest ’ but to 12th century at the latest.

Hemādri, the author of the Caturvarga-Cintāmaṇi, who wrote his commentary on the Aṣṭāṅgahṛdaya of Vāgbhaṭa II during the reign of King Rāmacandra³ of Devagiri (1271 to 1309 A.D.) mentions and quotes from Vaṅgasena. Hemādri wrote his Caturvarga-Cintāmaṇi during the reign of King Mahādeva, the predecessor of King Rāmacandra. The period of Mahādeva's reign is put between A.D. 1260 and 1270 and Hemādri was a minister and keeper of records under both these Devagiri Kings.¹

Some of the 49 references to Vaṅgasena by Hemādri and quotations from his work are long extracts which show the nature and extent of Hemādri's indebtedness to Vaṅgasena. No complete commentary of Hemādri has yet been available and in the N. S.

Press Edition referred to in this paper the commentary available is only for (1) the Sūtrasthāna, (2) the first 6 chapters of the Nidānasthāna, and (3) the first 7 chapters of the Cikitsitasthāna. The references recorded by me in this paper are from this portion of the commentary only. If the entire copy of the Āyurvedasāyana is recovered perhaps more references to Vaṅgasena may be traced in it. Out of the 49 references recorded above we have 3 from the Nidānasthāna and 46 from the Cikitsitasthāna and none from the Sūtrasthāna, so far as my cursory perusal of the text goes.

This wholesale borrowing from Vāṅgasena's work proves in the first instance the popularity in the Deccan of Vāṅgasena, a Bengali writer according to Mr. Das Gupta, and secondly, it detracts much of the originality of Hemādri's commentary. This is but natural in the case of Hemādri, who had perhaps developed a habit for the compilation of texts from his predecessors' works after having compiled his magnum opus viz. the Caturvarga-Cintāmaṇi. In spite of his towering intellect the literary works undertaken by him were too enormous in extent and scope for a busy minister of the state for the sustained display of originality and critical acumen in the entire field of his activity. To sum up: From the nature and extent of Hemādri's references to and quotations from Vāṅgasena's work, I am inclined to conclude that Vaṅgasena flourished in the 12th century at the latest. At any rate he is earlier than A. D. 1200 as we must presume a difference of about 75 years between him and Hemādri (1260 A.D.).

51. Date of Vyavahāranirṇaya of Varadarāja — Between 1100 and 1350 A. D. ‡

Rao Bahadur K. V. Rangaswamy Aiyangar in his Preliminary Note¹ to the Edition of the *Vyavahāranirṇaya*² of Varadarāja which is being published by instalments in the Brahma-Vidyā states that this digest of Hindu Law is “usually named third among the four digests (Nibandha) recognized by the Courts as forming the special authorities of the South Indian ‘ school ’ of Hindu Law. ” In view of the importance of this work for administrative purposes it has engaged the attention of South Indian scholars and of historians of the Dharmaśāstra and evidence has been gathered by them with a view to fixing the limits of the date to which the work can be assigned. Rao Bahadur Aiyangar in his elaborate Preliminary Note³ to the Adyar edition of the Varadarājīya records the following dated references to this work :—

- A. D. 1515 — Sarasvatīvilāsa quotes from the Varadarājīya.
- „ „ 1612 — Nirṇayasindhu quotes from the Varadarājīya
- C. „ „ 1600 — Smṛtimuktāphala also quotes from the Varadarājīya.

On the strength of these references Rao Bahadur Aiyangar arrives at the following conclusion with regard to the date of the Vyavahāranirṇaya alias Varadarājīya.⁴

The work is often styled Varadarājīya — Abridged under the title Vyavahāradarpaṇa in Telugu characters by V. Parābrahma Shastri and published at Madras in 1851 — Burnell translated the Section on Dāyabhāga and published it in 1872 (Mangalore).

“ It is not easy to determine the date of the Vyavahāranir-naya. It is cited by the Sarasvatīvilāsa and so far no quotation from it or reference to it in any work of earlier date has been traced.
But it quotes no writer later than Vijñāneśvara, the author of the Mitākṣarā.” Rao Bahadur Aiyangar further mentions Prof. P. V.
Kane’s view about the date of the Varadarājīya as follows :—

“ Mr. P. V. Kane would place Varadarāja, the author of the Vyavahāranirṇaya between A. D. 1450 and 1500.’ His grounds are these. It is not referred to in the Mādhavīyam and the Smṛti-candrikā which are South Indian digests ; and it must, therefore, have been composed after these works.”

Rao Bahadur Aiyangar does not view with favour the argument of silence adopted by Prof. Kane but hopes that “ within the limits furnished by the citation of Vijñāneśvara by Varadarāja and of the Vyavahāranirṇaya by Pratāparudra² in the Sarasvatīvilāsa
(i. e. 1100 to 1500), a close approximation may perhaps be reached from an examination of the opinions and the substance of the work itself and the discovery of its relations to other works.”

The above view-point adopted by Rao Bahadur Aiyangar appears to me to be the correct one especially in matters of chro-nology, which is the back-bone of history.

As however, Rao Bahadur Aiyangar has not given us any closer approximation to Varadarāja’s date within the limits of A. D.
1100 to 1500, I propose to do so in this paper on the strength of evidence not hitherto recorded by any Indian or European scholar,³

Society I) — Rao Bahadur Aiyangar observes (pp. ix — x of Preliminary Note) — “ The old opinions of Ellis and Burnell on which the references to the date and provenance of the Vyavahāranirṇaya in modern books on Hindu Law and in Judicial pronouncements are who has dealt with the problem so far Kāṭayavema,¹ the commentator of the three dramas of Kālidāsa was the minister of Kumāragiri, king of Koṇḍavidu. Though Kāṭayavema often speaks of Kumāragiri as his patron he was in fact the brother-in-law of Kumāragiri, being the husband of Mallāmbikā, daughter of Pota Reddy.² "Kāṭayavema was a powerful personality and Kumāragiri being aware of his power appointed him as minister and gave him Rajahmundry portion for the help rendered by him in establishing peace and order in his kingdom."³

It is natural that a minister and literateur of Kāṭayavema's reputation should study and quote from a work like the Varadarājīya which had attained some reputation as a work on Vyavahāra in his repeated such unverified statement." (J. D. Mayne - Hindu Law and Usage, 1922, p. 28 ; J. Jolly Hindu Law and Custom, 1928, p. 86 ; West and Bühler - Digest of Hindu Law, 1919, p. 51.). The above references have been recorded here from Rao Bahadur Aiyangar's Preliminary Note for the guidance of those who want to go into the question of Varadarāja's date in detail.

1. Vide Madras Triennial Cata. 1910-1913 Vo. I. Part I. pp. 402 ff. Here in describing a Ms of Kāṭayavema's Commentary on the Śākuntala the compilers of the Catalogue observe "Kāṭaya Vema-bhūpati, son of Kāṭayabhūpati by his wife Doddamba, who was the daughter of Vemabhūpati. The commentary was named after the author's wife's brother, Kumāragirirāja, who was the son of Annapota, son of the above-said Vemabhūpati and under whom the author served as a minister. This king is called Vasantarāja and ruled over Kumāragiri. He is said to have conquered a number of hill-forts whose names are given in a stanza in the extracts. The author belongs to the Reddi caste (Śūdra) and appears to have lived about the close of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th century. The stanzas giving the author's genealogy given in the extracts below do not seem to be contained in the MSS described in the India Office Library Catalogue and the Tanjore Palace Library Catalogue."

time. Accordingly we find him in his commentary¹ on the Vikramorvaṣīya mentioning this work and quoting from it as follows :—

“ तथा च उक्तम् वरदराजीये राजधर्मेण —

‘ दिवसस्याष्टमं भागं मुक्त्वा भागत्रयं च यत् ।

स कालो व्यवहाराणां शास्त्रदृष्टः परः स्मृतः

दिवसमष्टभागं कृत्वा प्रथमभागमग्निहोत्रार्थं ब्राह्मणतर्पणार्थं

च मुक्त्वा अनन्तरं भागत्रयं व्यवहारकालः इति ’

If the above passage could be identified in the text of the Vyavahāranirūpa (or Varadarājīya) that is now extant we can definitely say that Kāṭayavema is quoting from the Varadarājīya, the importance of which has been pointed out by Rao Bahadur Ranga-swamy Aiyangar and which he is editing by instalments in the Brahnavidyā journal. Luckily for us the passage quoted by Kāṭayavema can be found on p. 4 of the portion of the text published in the Brahnavidyā Journal (issue for October 1937) and reads as follows :—

(व्यवहारपरिकरकाण्डम्)

“ दिवसस्याष्टमं भागं मुक्त्वा कालत्रयं तु यत्

स कालो व्यवहाराणाम् शास्त्रदृष्टः परः स्मृतः

1. दिवसमष्टधा कृत्वा प्रथममग्निहोत्रार्थं ब्राह्मणतृप्त्यर्थं च मुक्त्वा अनन्तरं भाग-
त्रयं व्यवहारकाल इति ”

1. Vide p. 23 of Vikramorvaṣīya edited with Kāṭayavema's commentary by Prof. Chārudeva Shastri, Lahore, 1929. Besides his commentaries on the three dramas of Kālidāsa Kāṭayavema commented on the Amaruśataka. A Ms of this commentary is available in the D. A. V. College Library, Lahore. On p. 5 of the edition of the commentary of Kāṭayavema on Vikramorvaṣīya we find Kāṭayavema referring to his commentary on the Śākuntala “ उक्तं शाकुन्तलव्याख्याने । ”. Kāṭayavema dedicates his commentary to his patron Kumāragiri by calling it “ Vasantarājīya. ” Vasantarāja was the popular name of Kumāragiri on account of his love for Vasanta festivals. A merchant by name Avachi Tippaya Setti had the monopoly of supplying all the articles necessary for the Vasanta festivals of Kumāragiri (Vide p. 57 of Sources of Vijayanagara History, 1919, by S. K. Aiyangar).

The foregoing extract together with its variants shows the identity of Kāṭayavema's quotation with the passage as found in the extant text of the Varadarājīyam and hence the date of Kāṭayavema gives us a definite limit to the date of the Varadarājīyam, the subject of this paper.

Now the date of Kāṭayavema has already been fixed by scholars because it is dependent on and associated with the date of his patron King Kumāragiri alias Vasantarāja. The Reḍḍi King Ana Pota died in A. D. 1366 and his son Kumāragiri, being a minor, the kingdom passed to Ana Vema, who was also known as Dharma Vema. Anavema reigned till 1383 and was succeeded by Kumāragiri, who reigned for a short period. Kumāragiri was a contemporary of Harihararāya of Vizianagar dynasty. Of the three Harihararāyas, Harihara II, who ruled from 1377-1404 A. D., seems to be the contemporary of Kumāragiri. Pandit Prabhakar Sastri assigns Kumāragiri a period of nearly nine years from 1391-1400 A. D. while the late Rao Bahadur K. Veeresalingam Pantulu states in his Lives of Poets (Vol. I—revised 1917, p. 430) that Kumāragiri reigned from 1383 to 1400. Dr. N. Venkatarao from whose article we have taken the foregoing information states that Kumāragiri lived between 1355 and 1400 and that he reigned for a period of 7 years.

As Kumāragiri's date is confined to the last quarter of the 14th century and as Kāṭayavema was his minister, we can safely say that Kāṭayavema flourished about 1385 A. D. We have also seen that Kāṭayavema has quoted from the Vyavahārānirṇaya and mentioned it by its popular title Varadarājīya. This quotation has further been identified by us in the extant text of the Varadarājīya, thus proving the genuineness of the quotation. It would, therefore, be reasonable to conclude that the Varadarājīya had become an authoritative work in Kāṭayavema's time (i. e. 1385 A. D.). If this position is accepted we can definitely fix A. D. 1350 as a new later limit for the date of Varadarājīya, the earlier limit being A. D. 1100 as fixed by Rao Bahadur Aiyangar on the strength of the reference to Mitākṣarā in the Varadarājīya. It will thus be seen that the present paper pushes back the date of the Varadarājīya from A. D. 1500 to about 1350 A. D. a period of about 150 years. The new limits for this date, would, therefore, be 1100 to 1350 A. D. and not 1100 to 1500 as fixed by Rao Bahadur Aiyangar.

In view of Kāṭayavema's reference to the Varadarājīya the view of Prof. P. V. Kane about the date of the Varadarājīya becomes untenable. According to this view as stated by Rao Bahadur Aiyangar, Prof. P. V. Kane would place Varadarāja between 1450 and 1500 A. D. for the reason that Varadarāja is not referred to in the Mādhavīya and Smṛticandrikā. Rao Bahadur Aiyangar has already expressed his suspicion about the argument of silence on which Prof. Kane has based his view. The present paper not only fully justifies this attitude of Rao Bahadur Aiyangar but also establishes new limits for the date of Varadarāja viz. A. D. 1100-1350.

In the present paper I have relied for the date of Kāṭayavema on the studies of other scholars. It would, however, be useful to conclude this paper by recording some epigraphic references to Kāṭayavema in support of the dates assigned to him already.

The inscriptional references to Kāṭayavema and his family as recorded by Mr. Rangacharya in his *Inscriptions of the Madras Presidency*¹ are as follows :—

(1) A grant² of Kāṭayavema of Rajahmundry dated Śaka 1333 (= A. D. 1411) Khara, Kārttika Purnāmi. This grant was made by Kāṭayavema, the minister of Kumāragiri of Koṇḍavidu who received from his master the eastern country of Rajahmundry for his distinguished services. The genealogies of both Kumāragiri and Kāṭayavema are given and the inscription is thus of great value in connecting the two Redḍi lines. The object of the grant was the village of Mallāvaram (named after his wife Mallāmbikā, who was sister of Kumāragiri). (The genealogies are the same as in Kāṭayavema's commentary on the Śākuntala called Kumāragirirājyam) See Ep. Ind. Vol. IV, pp. 318-27 where Mr. Ramayya Pantulu edits the inscription.

(2) Record³ dated Śaka 1332 (= A. D. 1410) containing the gift of a village by Kāṭama-Redḍi Vema Redḍi.

The names of the wives of Kāṭama Redḍi viz. Tallasānam-mangāru and Mallasānam-mangāru are registered. The record says that Kāṭama had also a son named Kumāragiri, who is called a reincarnation of the earlier Kumāragiri.

(3) A record dated Śaka 1308 (= A. D. 1386) containing a gift of gold by the Redḍi King Kāṭamareḍḍi Vemireḍḍi for providing the temple at Simhāchalam with garlands for the merit of Kāṭama-reḍḍi and his wife Doddāsāni.

(4) A record of the time of Reḍḍi King Virabhadra (of the Rajahmundry branch) by the King who was the son of Allāḍa, son-in-law of Kāṭaya-Vema and husband of Anitalli.

The foregoing epigraphic references to Kāṭayavema ranging from A. D. 1386 to A. D. 1411, covering a period of his life in which he attained some power and celebrity, leave no doubt about his date arrived at by other scholars and referred to by me already in this paper. In view of these epigraphic references the later limit of A. D. 1350 fixed by me for the date of the Varadarājīya, which is quoted by Kāṭayavema, stands amply confirmed.

Aufrecht¹ records a few MSS of a commentary on the Amaruśataka called the Bhāvacintāmaṇi by Caturbhuja Miśra. Two² of these MSS belong to the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. As the chronology of this commentary has not been studied by any scholar I propose to analyse these two MSS available to me and record some data which may enable me to fix some limits for the date of this commentary.

The commentator bows to god Hari at the commencement of the commentary.³ In the concluding verse⁴ he gives us the place of his residence viz., “कांपिल्य” which needs to be identified.

In Chapter VIII of the Nāṭyaśāstra (Kāvyamālā No. 42, 1894), p. 89 we find the subject of दृष्टिलक्षणानि dealt with in detail. Compare lines 1, 8 and 10 in the above extract with the following lines in the Nāṭyaśāstra (p. 89) :—

“सत्त्वमुद्गिरती दत्ता दृष्टिस्ताहसंभवा ॥ ५७ ॥”

“रूक्षा स्थिरोद्गतपुटा निष्ठब्धोद्भवत्तारका ।

कुटिलमृकुटिर्दृष्टिः क्रुद्धा क्रोधेऽभिधीयते ॥ ५६ ॥”

The work on संगीते quoted by CM has evidently drawn its material from the above Section of the Nāṭyaśāstra.

while हलधुध quoted on folio 4 is the author of the lexicon अभिधान-रत्नमाला composed about 950 A. D.¹

I have pointed out elsewhere² that Arjunavarmadeva, whose dates are A. D. 1211 – 1215, quotes the following stanza from the Āryā-Saptasatī in his commentary on the Amaruśataka [Vide Page 12 of Kāvya-mālā No. 18 (Amaruśataka)] :—

“ यदुक्तं गोवर्धनाचार्येण —

अन्यमुखे दुर्वादो यः प्रियवदने स एव परिहासः ।

इतरेन्धनजन्मा यो धूमः सोऽगुरुसमुद्रवो धूपः ॥ ”

As Govardhanācārya was a contemporary of Jayadeva, the author of the Gītagovinda, who was a court-poet at the court of King Lakṣmaṇasena of Bengal (A. D. 1185-1206) Arjunavarmadeva was practically a junior contemporary of Govardhanācārya. Consequently the two contemporaries may be said to belong to the period A. D. 1150-1220. Arjunavarmadeva quotes the above verse of Govardhanācārya in his comment on stanza 8 of the Amaruśataka. This very verse is quoted by CM in his Bhāvacintāmaṇi on this stanza. CM, however, does not mention Govardhanācārya. He merely quotes the verse as follows on folio 5 of MS No. 321 of 1884-87 :—

“ यदुक्तं । अन्यमुखे.....सोऽगुरुमयोधूप इति ”

It appears from the above quotation that CM had before him Arjunavarmadeva's commentary on the Amaruśataka.

The foregoing evidence may warrant an inference that CM composed his commentary Bhāvacintāmaṇi after c. A.D. 1250. The later limit to the date of this commentary is furnished by the date Śaṃvat 1726 (= A. D. 1670)³ of a MS of this commentary at the

B. O. R. Institute viz. No. 365 of 1887-91. This MS also contains the stanza from the Āryāsaptasatī referred to above. It occurs on folio 6 of this MS. We are thus in a position to fix the limits for the date of the commentary of CM between about A. D. 1250 and 1600.

Kāmpilya mentioned by CM as his native place is possibly identical with Kampil 28 miles north-east of Fategad in the Farrakhabad district of the United Provinces. It is situated on the old Ganges' between Budaon and Farrakhabad as stated by Nandalal Dey (p. 88 of Geogr. Dictionary, 1927).

There is a town in the Hospet taluk of the Bellary District called Kāmpli on the bank of Tungabhadra river.² I cannot say if this town has any connection with कांपिल्य, the native place of Caturbhujā Miśra.

The editor of the Amaruśataka mentions five commentators³ of this poem but this number does not contain the name of CM, the author of the Bhāvacintāmaṇi.

It remains to be seen if any commentators of the Amaruśataka, posterior to CM, refer to him in their commentaries.

Begadā was born in A.D. 1445. He was named Fateh Khan. He was Sultan of Gujarat for 53 years (1458-1511). I note below the dates of some incidents of his reign as given by Commissariat :—

A.D. 1467-70 — Junagadh War.

„ 1472 — Invasion of Cutch and Sind.

„ 1473 — Dwarka taken : its temple destroyed.

„ 1479 — Foundation of Mahamudabad on the Vatrak.

— Conquest of Ranpur.

„ 1465 — Mahmud sent his army to the northern Konkan to capture the forts of Bahrot and Parner and the seaport of Daman.

1. As this historical poem has not been published by any scholar interested in the history of Gujarat, Dr. Bühler's note on it written 64 years ago has become almost historical and is well worth reproducing here :—

" No. 18 — The Rājavinoda ' The Amusement of the King ' or jarabakshapātaśāhi — Śrī Mahamuda-Suratrāṇa Caritra " The Life of Sultan Mahmud " (Begaḍhā of Ahmedabad) by Udayarāja is quite a literary curiosity. The author who declares himself to be the son of Prayāgadāsa and the pupil of Rāmadāsa celebrates Mahmud popularly reported to have been the most violent persecutor of Hindus and Hinduism as if he were an orthodox Hindu King. He calls him the crest jewel of the royal race (Rājanya Cūḍāmaṇi) as if he were a Kṣatriya and he asserts that Śrī and Sarasvatī attend on his footsteps, that he surpasses Kaṇva in liberality, and that his ancestor Muzaffar Khan assisted Kṛṣṇa against Kali. The Carita is divided into seven sargas. The first (śloka 29) entitled " Surendra's and Sarasvatī's Colloquy " (Surendra-Sarasvatī-Saṁvāda) is introductory and relates how Brahmā sent Indra to look after Sarasvatī and found her in the halls of Mahmud Shah and how she sang the praises of Mahmud. The second (vaṁśānukīrtana — śloka 31) gives the genealogy of Mahmud beginning with Muzaffar Khan. The statements made appear to be historically correct. The third (sabhāsamāgama — śloka 33) describes Mahmud's entry into the Darbar hall. The fourth (sarvāvasara — śloka 33) relates what princes and people were received in the Darbar. The fifth (saṁgītarāṅga-prasaṅga — śloka 35) describes a Nāch given by the Sultan. The sixth (Vijayayātrotsava — śloka 36) and the Seventh (Vijayalakṣmilābha — śloka 37) are devoted to a rhapsodic description of Mahmud's warlike exploits. The frequent allusions to the Pādishah's liberality make it probable that the author either had received or hoped to receive Dakṣiṇā from him.”

The MS of the Rājāvinoda (No. 18 of 1874-75) consists of 28 folios (each folio being 10 inches × 4½ inches in size and each page containing 8 lines, with about 31 letters to a line). It begins as follows :—

“ ॥ ॐ नमः सरस्वत्यै ॥ श्रीजगत्कर्त्रे नमः ॥

इति श्रीमहाराजाधिराजजरबक्सपातसाहश्रीमहमूदसुरत्राणचरित्रे राजविनोदे
महाकाव्ये सुरेन्द्रसरस्वतीसंवादो नाम प्रथमः सर्गः ॥ श्रीः ॥ ”

The above verse giving the genealogy of the Sultans of Gujarat in four lines is found recorded before the Colophons of each of the 7 sargas of this poem. I shall now compare this genealogy with the genealogy recorded in the Dohad Stone Inscription of Mahamūd (Begaḍā), dated V. S. 1545, Śaka 1410 (= A. D. 1488), recently edited by Dr. H. D. Sankalia.¹

Rājavinoda (Between A. D. 1458-1511 A. D.)	Dohad Inscription A. D. 1488
(1) साहि मुदप्फर (A. D. 1392 - 1410)	(1) शाहि मुदाफर
(2) साहि महंमद, son of No. 1 (तस्मात् समभवत्)	(2) महंमद, son of No. 1 (तत्पुत्रः)
(3) साहि अहंमदः (A. D. 1411 - 1442) after him (ततः)	(3) अहंमद, in his family (तस्यान्वये प्रसूतः)
(4) साहि महंमद, son of No. 3 (अस्य तनुजः जातः) — (A. D. 1442-1451)	(4) साह महम्मद, son of No. 3 (तस्मादभूत्)
(5) महमूदसाहि, son of No. 4 (तदायात्मजः) — (A. D. 1458-1511)	(5) साह महमूद in his family (अन्वये जातः)

It would be seen from the above comparison that the two genealogies agree so far as four generations are concerned. There appears to be some disagreement with regard to महमूद (Begaḍā) who is described as तदायात्मजः with reference to his predecessor महंमद in the Rājavinoda while in the Dohad Inscription we are told that महमूद (Begaḍā) was born in his family (जातः अन्वये), i. e., of साह महम्मद, his predecessor. Students interested in this genealogy may examine both these genealogies more closely and see how far they could be reconciled with the genealogy of these Sultans given by the Muslim historians.¹

In the Dohad inscription (verse 7) the title ग्यास (दीन) appears to have been applied to महमूद (Begaḍā), but this impression cannot be supported by the text of the verse in its proper grammatical sequence according to which the two lines could be read in prose order as follows :—“ श्रीग्यास (दीन) प्रभोः अन्वये साह श्रीमहमूदवीरनृपतिः (विख्यातः उदारचरितः वीर्यवान्) जातः.” Similarly the prose order of the last 2 lines of verse 29 of Canto I of the Rājavinoda would read as follows :—

“ अस्य (= अहंमदस्य) तनुजः साहिमहंजदः जातः, गायसदीनाख्यया ख्यातः, तदीयारमजः श्री महमूदसाहिनृपतिर्जीयात् ”

According to this prose order the epithet गायसदीन² (= The Aid of the Faith) becomes applicable to महमद and not to महमूद (Begaḍā). The following verse of the Rājavinoda further supports my interpretation :—

Folio 6a — “ आनंदनः सुमनसामथ नंदनोऽभू-
 ज्ञाग्यश्रियां निधिरहंमदपातसाहेः ।
 गायसदीन इति साहिमहंमदेन्द्रः
 क्षोणीभुजां मुकुटपृष्ठपदारविदः ॥ १४ ॥ ”

In this verse साहि महमद is called गायसदीन in a clear manner. Again on folio 6, verse 20 clearly states that महमूद (Begaḍā) was the son of महमद :—

“ तस्यात्मजः किल महंमदपातसाहेः । श्रीमानयं विजयते महमूदसाहिः etc.”

I shall now record all references to places and persons mentioned in the Rājavinoda to enable scholars to study the historical अल्पखान of the above verse appears to be the same as Hushang Shāh of Malwa whose confinement and reinstallation is referred to in Bomb. Gazetteer (History of Gujarat), Vol. I, Pt. I, (1896), pp. 234-235. About A.D. 1408 Alp Khan, son of Dilāwar Khan of Malwa poisoned his father and ascended the throne with the title Sultan Hushang Ghori. Muzaffar I invaded Hushang and besieged Dhar. Hushang was captured and given in charge of Shams Khan. Hushang remained one year in confinement. He was released and reinstalled by Muzaffar about A.D. 1409.

I leave it to the experts in the field of the mediaeval history of Gujarat to identify the author of the present poem in contemporary records, Hindu or Muslim. Udayarāja appears to have been a court-poet of Mahamūd Begadā in view of this mahākāvya in praise of his patron in a rather lavish manner. It is remarkable that Sultan Mahamūd Begadā of notorious bigotry³ should patronize Hindu pandits like Udayarāja. The Rājavinoda poem must have been composed when Mahamūd was in the hey-day of his political glory. Two broad limits for the date of this poem are A. D. 1458 and 1511 which cover up the entire period of 53 years of Mahamūd's reign. We must now try to narrow down these chronological limits on the strength of the dates of known conquests and exploits of Mahamūd. The territory of Malwa being on the borders of Gujarat, there are numerous references to it in the present poem. It would be useful for purposes of chronology if these references are examined as they are likely to yield useful chronological data for narrowing down the limits for the date of the Rājavinoda viz. A. D. 1458 and 1511.

The pitiful condition to which the King of Mālava was reduced

1. The title राजविनोद for the present poem is similar to the title रामविनोद composed by राम for Rāmadāsa, a former minister of Emperor Akbar in A.D. 1613-14 (vide p. 159 of Bibliography of Mughal India (1526-1707 A.D.) by Professor Sri Ram Sharma, K. P. House, Bombay, 1939).

2. Ibid. p. 95 — A writer of the name Udairāj is mentioned as a contributor to the collection of letters known as Mujmu 'a-i-Munshiyāt (MS in State Library, Rampur). He appears to be a later writer.

3. Mahamūd forced his tributary and obedient Chief Mandalak of Gīrnār to embrace Islam (vide Humayūn Bādshāh by Dr. S. K. Banerji, 1938, p. 112, and Cambridge History of India, Vol. III, p. 305).

by Mahamūd Begaḍā is described in Sarga VII, versae 29 (folios 26-27) :—

“त्यक्त्वा लुंठितदेशकोशविषयो द्राग्दुर्ग्रमानग्रहं
राजन् जीवितमात्रलाभमधुना कांक्षत्यसौ मालवः ॥ २९ ॥”

Has this verse any reference to the military help given by Mahamūd against Mahamūd Khilji of Malwa in A. D. 1462 and 1463 when the latter attacked Nizam Shah, the King of the Deccan ?

Verses 10 and 11 of Canto IV (folio 13) refer to दक्षिणनृप as also मालवमंडलेश :—

“वेषं विशेषरुचिरं दधतादरेण
हस्तारविंदसमुदंचितचामरेण ।
राजा विराजतितरां परिहृष्यमानो
गोष्ठीषु दक्षिणनृपेन विचक्षणेन ॥ १० ॥

एतस्य चंडभुजदंडपराक्रमेण
निःशेषखंडितरणांगणशौडभावः ।
सर्वस्वमेव निजजीवितरक्षणाय
दंडं समर्पयति मालवमंडलेशः ॥ ११ ॥”

The above verses describe the status of the दक्षिणनृप¹ and मालवमंडलेश at the court of Mahamuda Begaḍā. These verses form part of Canto IV which describes the princes and people received in Mahamud's Darbar.

(“ राज्ञोऽस्य धरदत्तपदावकाशान्देशाधिपान्सदसि पश्य कृतप्रवेशान् ” – IV, 1)

In VII, 28, of the Rājavinoda, the King of Malwa is again

1, Cf. दक्षिणदिक्पति in verse 8 of Dohad Inscription. Dr. Sankalia suggests that this reference to “Lord of the South” refers to the help Mahamūd gave to Nizam Shah of the Deccan against Mahamud Khilji of Malwa in A.D. 1462 and 1463. (Epi. Indica Jan. 1938, p. 216). In verse 10 of Sarga IV of the Rājavinoda दक्षिणनृप is called विचक्षण i. e. far-seeing or circumspect in his conversation with Mahamūd, while in verse 11 of the same Sarga मालवमंडलेश is represented in an attitude of complete surrender after being defeated by Mahamūd's valour. I am inclined to equate दक्षिणनृप of our poem with दक्षिणदिक्पति of Dohad inscription (verse 8). Another reference to दक्षिणनृप in the Rājavinoda is found in VII, 26 :—“ न दक्षिणनृपः भव ?) ति मेदपाठे मुदं । न विदति न माद्यति स्वहृदये स विलीपते : etc.”

referred to with scorn along with the people and Kings of other provinces of India :—

Folio 26 — “ वंगा के क हमे ब्रिलिंगसुभटा केऽमी महाराष्ट्रजाः के वा मालवमेदपाटकुचपाः कर्णाटकीटाश्च के । ”

In II, 5, we have a reference to the exploits of मुदप्फर' with reference to Malwa :—

Folio 5 — “ सुमोच बंदीकृतमल्पपा(खा)नमनल्पवीर्यं बलवत्तरो यः । वंश्यास्ततो मालवराजबंदिमोक्षपदाख्यं बिरुदं वहन्ति ॥ ”

In II, 11, we have the following reference to अहमद's invasion of Malwa :—

Folio 5 — “ हुशंगसाहेरधिवासदुर्गमाक्रमता मंडपमाग्रहेण । येनोच्चकैराचकृषे' करेण पदे पदे मालवमंडलश्रीः ॥ ११ ॥ ”

Hushang Shāh of Malwa invaded Gujarat in A. D. 1411 and 1418 but was repulsed by अहमद. In A. D. 1419 अहमद invaded Malwa and defeated Hushang Shāh who took refuge in the fort of Mandu. अहमद invaded Malwa second time in A. D. 1422 but did not succeed in capturing Mandu.

Sarga IV, verse 12 refers to Rānā Kumbha of Mewar as follows :—

Folio 13 — “ यः पार्थिवः पृथुतरः खलु कुंभकर्णः
कर्णेन वर्णमुचितं सहते तुलायाः ।
सोऽयं करोति महामूदनृपस्य सेवां
दंडे वितीर्णवरभूरिसुवर्णभारः ॥ १२ ॥ ”

1. Muzaffar Shāh established independent Kingdom of Gujarat in A.D. 1396 by severing his allegiance to the Delhi Emperors. Compare Rājavinodā II, 2 (about मुदप्फर) —

“ दिल्लीपुरादूर्जरदेशमेत्य दधार यो मूर्द्धिभ सितातपत्रं ॥ २ ॥ ”

2. Dohad Inscription verses 4 and 5 refer to अहमद and his invasion of Malwa :—

“ प्रतापसंतापितमालवेशः ।

वीरः सदा श्रीमदहम्मदेंद्रौ ” (v. 4) and “ जित्वा महीं मालवकाधिपस्य जग्राह तद्देशधनं च पश्चात् ” (v. 5)

Line 3 of the above stanza clearly tells us that Kumbhakarṇa is serving Mahamūda (Begaḍā) as a vassal. Evidently Rāṇā Kumbha must have been living when the Rājavinoda was composed. Let us, therefore, consider the chronology of Rāṇā Kumbha's reign in Mewar. The then King of Mewar or मेदपाट is styled as कुम्भ by our author in the expression “मालवमेदपाटकुम्भः” (folio 26) and this statement agrees with the reference to King Kumbhakarṇa in verse 12 quoted above.

Rāṇā Kumbha came to the throne in A. D. 1433.¹ He was murdered by his son Udayakarṇa in Vikrama Samvat 1525, i.e., 1469 A. D. As Rāṇā Kumbhakarṇa is introduced into the Darbar of Mahamud, we must treat this mention of Kumbhakarṇa as a contemporary reference to this King prior to his death in A. D. 1469. If this position is accepted, we must fix the date of the Rājavinoda between A. D. 1458, the year when Mahmud came to the throne, and A. D. 1469, the year of Rāṇā Kumbhakarṇa's death.

If my date for Rājavinoda viz. “Between A.D. 1568 and 1469” is accepted, it would be easy to account for the absence of references in this poem to many of the exploits of Mahamūd Begaḍā which are found referred to in the Dohad Inscription of A. D. 1488, written about 2 decades after our present poem and which could be taken to refer to events between A. D. 1458 and 1488, a period of 30 years.

At this stage of the discussion of the date and contents of the Rājavinoda, I am inclined to suggest a hypothesis about the probable identity of authorship for both the Sanskrit historical poem and the Dohad Sanskrit inscription in verse. The points of identity with regard to these two compositions may be noted below for comparison in parallel columns :—

1. See History of Rajputana, Vol. I (by J. S. Gahlot), Jodhpur, 1937, p. 207, where a portrait of Rāṇā Kumbha is reproduced from the original in London Museum. Duff's Indian Chronology, p. 265, states that Rājamalla, the Son of Kumbhakarṇa succeeded his father in A.D. 1474. Mr. Gahlot gives Samvat 1525—1530 as the period of Udayakarṇa's reign, Rajamalla succeeding Udayakarṇa in A.D. 1473 (Samvat 1530).

Rājavinoda of Udayarāja	Dohad Stone Inscription
(1) This composition is in verse .	(1) The inscription is also in verse .
(2) Language is Sanskrit .	(2) Language is Sanskrit .
(3) MS of Rājavinoda was acquired by Dr. Bühler from Gujarat.	(3) The Inscription comes from Dohad, 77 miles north-east of Baroda.
4) MS of the Rājavinoda is not dated but it appears to have been written (with पृष्ठमात्रस) say between A. D. 1500 and 1600.	(4) The Inscription is dated Vikrama Samvat 1545, Śaka 1410 (= A. D. 1488, 24th April).
(5) Rājavinoda is contemporary with Mahamūda Begadā's reign (1458 to 1511 A. D.). According to my view this poem was composed between A. D. 1458 and 1469 .	(5) The Inscription is also contemporary with Begadā's reign, being composed about 30 years after Begadā ascended the throne.
(6) Rājavinoda opens with a salutation to सरस्वती. Sarga I is a dialogue between सुरेन्द्र and सरस्वती. In fact the poem is sung by सरस्वती (IV, 32 — "महमूद् पातसाहेः अभिनववर्णने प्रसक्ता सरस्वती सरसपदानि व्यतानीत्").	(6) The Inscription begins with a salutation to काश्मीर-वासिनी देवी viz. , सरस्वती, (vide Dr. Sankalia's footnote 7 on p. 213, Epi. Indica , Jan. 1938). Dr. Sankalia states that the above goddess seems to be ब्राह्मी alias सरस्वती. In Rājavinoda सरस्वती is addressed as "ब्राह्मि" in verse 11 of Sarga I .
(7) The genealogy of Mahamūd Begadā in the Rājavinoda verse repeated at the end of all the 7 Sargas is :—	(7) The genealogy given in the Inscription is also the same, viz. , — मुदाफर-महमूद-अहमूद-महमूद- महमूद. (I) (II)

Rājavinoda of Udayarāja

मुदप्फर-महंमद-अहंमद- महंमद-
महमूद. (I) (II)

This genealogy differs from that recorded in Muslim sources.

- (8) Rājavinoda deals with the exploits of Mahamūda's four predecessors in Sarga II (30 verses), the rest of the poem being devoted to the description of the exploits of Mahamūd Begadā, say between A. D. 1458 to about 1469.

- (9) In verse 3 of Sarga I the author of the Rājavinoda states that the poem was composed to please Mahamūda (" पूजोपहाराय मयोपनीतः । कवित्वपुष्पांजलिरेष रम्यः "). Perhaps this poem was meant as an introduction with a view to getting into Mahamūda's favour.

- (10) Mahamūda's predecessor अहंमद is styled " अहमदेद " in the Rājavinoda (folios, 5, 6,)

- (11) Rājavinoda II, 18, refers to the invasion of महंमद against Pavagadh :—

Dohad Stone Inscription

This genealogy differs from that given in Muslim sources as pointed out by Dr. Sankalia (Epi. Indica Jan. 1938, p. 214).

- (8) The Inscription consists of 26 verses, out of which the first 6 verses deal with the deeds of Mahamūda's predecessors, while the remaining 20 deal with Mahamūda's reign from A. D. 1458 to A. D. 1488, the date of the Inscription.

- (9) The composition of the Inscription is similar in point of presentation and appears to be the work of the author of the Rājavinoda after he had enjoyed continuous patronage of Mahamūda between the date of composition of Rājavinoda and A. D. 1488. The inscription records places and persons in addition to those in the Rājavinoda indicating that it is a late work of the same author.

- (10) The Inscription also styles अहंमद as " अहमदेद " in verse 4.

- (11) Inscription refers to the success of महमूद Begadā in storming the पावकदुर्ग in

Rājavinoda of Udayarāja

Dohad Stone Inscription

“ यस्य प्रतापभरपावकसंगमेन
दग्धस्य पावकगिरेः शिखरान्तरेषु ।
प्रेक्षंत जज्जरसुधाविधुराणि भस्म-
राशि—

प्रभाभि रिपवो निजमंदिराणि ”

Dr. Sankalia states that the attempt of महंमद to take the Pavagadh fort had failed (p. 321 - Epi. Indica, Jan. 1938).

- (12) Speaking of महंमद, the son of मुदफ्फर, the Rājavinoda, II, 10, refers to नंदपद and पल्लिवन :—

(folio 5) :—

“ अद्याप्यहो नंदपदाधिनाथा- भल्लूकवत्पल्लिवने भ्रमन्ति ॥९॥ ”

The rulers of नंदपद are described by the adjective “ विभिन्नप्राकारसौधस्फुरद (दे) ह मालाः ” i.e., “ with their bodies shining by the white dust from the broken ramparts. ” The expression विभिन्नप्राकार shows that there existed a fort at नंदपद in the midst of पल्लिवन. This is an earlier reference to पल्लिवन in the time of मुदफ्फर's son महंमद.

- (13) The Rājavinoda refers to the title गायसदीन (folios 4, 6, 8, 11, 15, 19, 22, 28) and it is applied to महंमद, the father of Begadā (— “ गायसदीन इति साहि महंमदेन्द्रः ”).

November 1484 :—

“ जित्वा पावक (दुर्ग) पित्रारुद्धं
प्रतापतापुर्वं ॥ १० ॥

महमूदमहीपालप्रतापेनैव पावकम् ।
प्रविश्य ज्वालितं सर्वं वैरिवृद्धं
पतंगवत् ॥ ११ ॥

जीवंतं तत्पतिव्र (द्धवा) दुर्गं नीत्वा
महाबल ।

चकार तत्पुरे राज्यं महमूद
महीश्वरः ॥ १२ ॥ ”

- (12) Dohad Inscription verse 18 refers to पल्लिदेश which is said to be governed by इमादल the chief minister of Begadā —

“ पल्लिदेशाधिकारं च पुण्यं
पुण्यमतिस्तदा ।

दुष्टारिहृदये राज्यं दुर्गमेनं च-
कार वै ॥ १८ ॥ ”

Dr. Sankalia tentatively identifies पल्लिदेश with Pālī in the Godhra tālukā. (This is a later reference to पल्लिदेश in Begadā's time. पल्लिवन and पल्लिदेश appear to be identical).

- (13) Dohad Inscription verse 7 states :—

“ श्री ग्यास (दीन) प्रभोः अन्वये
साहश्रीमहमूदवीर नृपतिः..जातः”
The epithet “ ग्यास (दीन)

Rājavinoda of Udayarāja	Dohad Stone Inscription
	प्रभो: " is an epithet of महमद, the father of Begaḍā, according to my view. My view does not conflict with the title given to Begaḍā in coins and inscriptions, viz., "Nasīr-ud-duniyā Wa-ud-din (= Defender of the Faith and the World). My view also agrees with the epithet "Ghiyās-ud-din" applied to Muhammad II (son of Ahmad I) in his coin legends. (Vide p. 216 of Epī. Indica, Jan. 1938).

The foregoing discussion based on a cursory study of the Rājavinoda and the Dohad Inscription, edited by Dr. Sankalia leads us to arrive at the following conclusions tentatively for the consideration of veteran scholars of the history of Gujarat :—

- (1) Udayarāja, the son of Prayāgadāsa, was a Hindu court — poet of Mahamūda Begaḍā (1488 to 1511 A. D.).
- (2) Udayarāja composed this Sanskrit Mahā-Kāvya in 7 Cantos dealing with the life of Begaḍā and his ancestors to please the great Sultan in the first decade of the Sultan's reign between A. D. 1458 and 1469 according to my evidence.
- (3) This same court-poet Udayarāja continued to receive the patronage from Begaḍā during the next two decades of the Sultan's reign and he took great interest in the genealogy and exploits of Begaḍā during the period of this patronage.
- (4) From the brief comparison of points of identity and contact between Udayarāja's work (the Rājavinoda) and the Dohad Stone Inscription of A. D. 1488, an impression is gathered that the Inscription is a brief but revised and up-to-date abstract in verse of the author's juvenile poem.

I would consider my labour in the preparation of this paper amply repaid if Dr. Sankalia or any other scholars interested in the mediaeval history of Gujarat edit this historical *kāvya*¹ of Udayarāja on the basis of the only MS discovered by Dr. Bühler and fully discuss all the historical implications of this rare contemporary prabandha composed by Sarasvatī as the author puts it.

6. Ibid. p. 357 Dr. V. Raghavan informs me that "Jagaddhara in his commentary on the मुद्राराक्षस quotes the work वसन्तराजशकुन written under चंद्रदेव of Mithila. This may help to fix some date." According to Aufrecht (CC I, 556) वसन्तराजभट्ट, son of विजयराज, younger brother of शिवराज, wrote शकुनार्णव or शाकुन by request of चंद्रदेव of मिथिला. As शकुनार्णव is quoted by Mallinātha (about A. D. 1425) it must have been composed before A. D. 1350 or so. Professor H. D. Velankar states : "Vasantarāja's Śākuna was used in his अद्भुतसागर (begun in 1168 A. D.) by King Ballālasena of Gauda who had also written his Dānasāgara in that same year", — (p. 130 of B. B. R. A. S. MSS Cata. I, 1925). If this statement is correct, we get about 1150 A. D. as one-limit to the date. of वसन्तराज. King "चंद्रदेव"

Variants corresponding to “वंगदेवेन” in the above stanza in the MSS examined by me from the B. O. R. Institute (Govt. MSS Library) may be noted below :—

(1) No. 58 of 1869-70, dated Śaka 1599 (= A. D. 1677), folio 1 reads “वंगदेवेन.”

(2) No. 314 of Viś. I reads “वंगदेयन.”

(3) No. 347 of 1879-80, dated Samvat 1561 (= A. D. 1505), reads “चंगदेवेन.”

These readings throw some doubt on Peterson’s “चंद्रदेव of Mithila.”

" Saṅgītasarvasva, p. 67, No. 1536 ज, in Newari character. The work was known only in quotations (see p. 636^h, CC I). It quotes from the following works :— संगीतवज्रा, संगीतशेखर, नाट्यलाचन, संगीतकल्पवृक्ष, दशरूप, रत्नकाष and भरत. The work is by जगद्धर who quotes it in his commentary on वर्णसंहार. "

† Jagaddhara quotes this very verse in his commentary (p. 53- 1876) on the Mālatīmādhava introducing it as " यदाह. " Dr. Raghavan informs me that संगीतसर्वस्व is quoted by जगद्धर frequently in his सुद्राराक्षस-व्याख्या, Madras MS (pp. 6, 14, 24, 124, 132 and 156). It is also quoted by him in his सरस्वतीकण्ठाभरणव्याख्या.

Sir R. G. Bhandarkar in his edition of the Mālatīmādhava (1875) with Jagaddhara's commentary gives us two sure limits for the date of Jagaddhara, viz., (1) A.D. 1111, the date of Viśva or Viśvaprakāśa lexicon quoted by Jagaddhara and (2) a dated MS of Jagaddhara's commentary on the Mālatīmādhava bearing the date A.D. 1708 and between these two points he tries to fix the following chronological series :—

(A.D. 1111) विश्व—→ मल्लिनाथ—→ मेदिनीकर—→ जगद्धर — MS of मालतीमाधवटीका by जगद्धर (A.D. 1708).

I now find another dated MS¹ of Jagaddhara's commentary on the Mālatīmādhava bearing the date Samvat 1721 = A.D. 1665. We have, therefore, to fix Jagaddhara's date between A.D. 1111 and A.D. 1665.

We have seen above that Rāghavabhaṭṭa (A.D. 1475–1500) quotes from a work called the संगीतसर्वस्व which is presumably identical with the संगीतसर्वस्व of Jagaddhara represented by the Nepal MS.² If this identity is correct, we are in a position to take

S. B., Calcutta, 1934). रुचिपति appears to have been a contemporary of राघवभट्ट who also quotes from जगद्धर's संगीतसर्वस्व. If the work संगीतसर्वस्व quoted by these two contemporaries is identical with that of जगद्धर, we may fix A. D., 1450 or so as one terminus to the date of this commentator of the मालतीमाधव.

back the date of Jagaddhara from A.D. 1665¹ to A.D. 1450 or so. We have now to see if we can push back this date earlier than A.D. 1450.

Jagaddhara appears to have composed a work called रसिकसर्वस्व as in his commentary on the Sarasvatī-Kaṇṭhābharana, he quotes from it as follows :—

“ तदुक्तं मद्रसिकसर्वस्वे—

प्रवासगमने देयाः स्नेहसंस्कारका नखाः ।

रागायतनसंस्मारि यदि न स्यान्नखक्षतम् ।

Dr. S. K. De² mentions a work on poetics called रसिकसर्वस्व (cited by Nārāyaṇa on Gītagovinda, V. 2).

Rāṇa Kumbha of Mewar (A.D. 1428–1459) in his commentary रसिकप्रिया on the Gītagovinda quotes from a work called रसिकसर्वस्व.³ If this रसिकसर्वस्व is identical with the रसिकसर्वस्व mentioned by Jagaddhara as his own work, we may be in a position to take back the date of Jagaddhara from A.D. 1450 to A.D. 1400 or so, if not earlier. Unfortunately, however, no MS of Jagaddhara's रसिकसर्वस्व or of any other work of that name has been so far discovered, and we are unable to verify this point any further.

Fixing A.D. 1400 as one probable limit for Jagaddhara's date, let us see if we can advance forward from the limit “ A.D. 1111 ” for this date fixed by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar. It is proposed to bring this limit forward from A.D. 1111 to about A.D. 1250 so that Jagaddhara's date may be tentatively fixed between A.D. 1250 and 1400.

1. There is a Maithili MS of जगद्धर's commentary on the Vāsavadattā which is dated Lakṣmaṇa Sāmvat 553 = A.D. 1671 (see p. 141 of Cata. of Mithila MSS, Vol. II, 1933). Another Maithili MS of this commentary (ibid. p. 140) is described as dated “ San 1164 Sāl ” which may be equivalent of A.D. 1764 or 1756.

Jagaddhara in his commentary on the Mālatīmādhava (v. 2 at the beginning of the commentary) states that in composing the present commentary he has made use of a previous commentary (" अवलोक्य टीकां "). As the name of the commentator is not mentioned in this statement, it is difficult to say what earlier commentary was used by him in the preparation of his own commentary. Fortunately for us we are now in a position to prove what commentary¹ was used by Jagaddhara. This commentary is no other than Harihara's commentary on the Mālatīmādhava represented by a single MS in the Library of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, which has been described by the late M. M. Hara Prasad Shastri.² The date of the MS is recorded in the catalogue as A.D. 1216 but this appears to be the date of composition. At any rate the date of Harihara must lie between A.D. 1150 and 1216 as Harihara quotes from Mammaṭa (A. D. 1100).³

College, Poona, a transcript of MS of the commentary on the Mālatīmādhava from the original in Newari script, No. 1564 with the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal, Calcutta. Professor Gore is preparing a special paper on the subject of Jagaddhara's verbatim and other borrowing from this commentary.

Dr. Ray notes three dates for this King :— (1) MS of सत्वबाधाप्रशमन, dated A.D. 1201; (2) MS of कर्मक्रियाकाण्ड, dated A.D. 1206, (3) Cambridge MS of साधनसमुच्चय, dated A.D. 1216. As Jagaddhara has borrowed freely and at times verbatim from Harihara's commentary we may safely say that Jagaddhara flourished definitely after A. D. 1250. In view of this new evidence (not known to Sir R. G. Bhandarkar in 1876) our limits would be as follows :—

- (1) Sure limits :— A. D. 1250 and 1650 — 400 years.
- (2) Probable limits :— A. D. 1250 and 1450 — 200 years.
- (3) Tentative limits :— A. D. 1300 and 1400 — 100 years.

These tentative limits may now be discussed in the light of Sir R. G. Bhandarkar's evidence of a tentative nature bearing on the date of Jagaddhara. This evidence consists of two items :—

- (1) Priority of Mallinātha to Jagaddhara.¹

Mammaṭa is not mentioned by name, the following quotation from the Kāvyaaprakāśa given by Harihara is too well known to need any argument re. its authorship :—

“ यदाहुः — काव्यं यशसे सर्वकृते व्यवहारविदे शिवेतरक्षतये ।
सद्यः परनिवृत्तये कान्तासमिततयोपदेश युजे ॥ ”

1. Vide p. xix of Preface to Mālatīmādhava (B. S. S. Edition) : “ At the beginning of the Seventh Act (p. 236) after explaining that the root प्रच्छ with आ signifies “ to take one's leave finally ” or “ to bid adieu ”, he (Jagaddhara) tells us that the same root occurs in the Maghadūta and is explained by the commentator in the same way ” (“ आपृच्छिः संवादाथ इति शाब्दिकाः । अत एवापृच्छस्व प्रियसखममुमिति मेघदूतादौ टीकाकृता तथैव विवृतमिति अवधेयम् । ”) And since Jagaddhara speaks of one commentator only without giving his name he must be understood to have been aware of one commentary only so well-known to render a mention of the author's name superfluous. I, therefore, take it that he alludes to Mallinātha, who in his scholia on the poem does explain the root in the same way as Jagaddhara. Mallinātha, therefore, lived before our scholiast ” ... “ Another circumstance which indicates Mallinātha's priority to Jagaddhara is that while the latter quotes from Medinī every now and then, the lexicon is never referred to by Mallinātha. If the Medinī were composed before Mallinātha, we might certainly expect quotations from it somewhere in his vast commentaries. Medinīkara, therefore, very probably lived after Mallinātha and certainly before Jagaddhara. ”

- (2) Date of the lexicon of Medinikara, mentioned and quoted by Jagaddhara in his comentaries.

The agrument advanced by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar in support of his supposed priority of Mallinātha to Jagaddhara is not at all convincing. He argues that the root अपृच्छ् is explained in the sense of "bidding adieu" (संवादार्थे) by Jagaddhara, and in doing so he refers to a commentator on the Meghadūta as explaining this root in this sense while explaining the verse "अपृच्छस्व प्रियसखममुं," and as Mallinātha's comment on this verse explains this root in the sense alluded to by Jagaddhara, Sir R. G. Bhandarkar establishes the identity of this commentator with Mallinātha, though Jagaddhara nowhere mentions Mallinātha in his commentary. This line of argument can be refuted if we are able to find the explanation of the root अपृच्छ् in the sense under reference (संवादार्थे) in any other commentary on the Meghadūta preferably prior in date to Jagaddhara. Though I have not looked into all the commentaries on the Meghadūta, I have to point out that in the commentary of Cāritravardhana who flourished between A. D. 1191 and A. D. 1385¹ the root अपृच्छ् is explained in the way referred to by Jagaddhara, (i. e., संवादार्थे), as will be seen from the following extract from folio 10 of MS No. 345 of 1895-98 in the Govt. MSS Library (B. O. R. Institute) :—

“ अपृच्छस्व निजप्रस्थानाय संवादाय पृच्छतीप्सायामे- तस्माल्लोटुमध्यमैकवचनम् ”

In pointing out this संवादार्थे of the root अपृच्छ् I have no desire to press the conclusion on the attention of the reader that Jagaddhara refers to Cāritravardhana and not to Mallinātha in his commentary on the Mālatīmādhava. This संवादार्थे of the root अपृच्छ् may be found in some of the other commentaries on the Meghadūta, but we need not pursue the point any further. It is, therefore, clear that Mallinātha's priority to Jagaddhara cannot be proved at least on the basis of unstable evidence recorded by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar.

1. Annals (B. O. R. Institute) XV, 109-111: my paper on the date of Cāritravardhana. According to Bendall (British Museum Cata. 1902, p. 91), "चारित्रमुनि (author of नैषधटीका), whose full name was चारित्रवर्धनमुनि, was a Jain writer, pupil of Kalyāṇarāja, himself a pupil of Jinahitasūri of the Kharataragaccha, (A.D. 1368)" According to this statement Cāritravardhana's date would be "about A.D. 1400," while the date of Mallinātha is A.D 1430.

If we accept A. D. 1400 as one limit to Jagaddhara, the supposed priority of Mallinātha to Jagaddhara would conflict with this limit. My friend Dr. V. Raghavan of Madras has recently published a paper¹ on the work, Vaiśyavamśa-Sudhākara, of Mallinātha which was written for Devarāya II of Vijayanagar, (A. D. 1422-1466). If Jagaddhara flourished before A. D. 1400, he cannot naturally mention or quote from Mallinātha of later date, i. e. A. D. 1430 or so. As matters stand, however, it would appear that Jagaddhara is prior to Mallinātha if our limit of A. D. 1400 for Jagaddhara as suggested earlier in this paper is accepted and corroborated on independent evidence in addition to my evidence that the work रसिकसर्वस्व mentioned by Jagaddhara as his own work in one of his commentaries is possibly identical with the रसिकसर्वस्व mentioned by Rāṇā Kumbha, (A. D. 1428-1459) in his commentary on Jayadeva's Gītagovinda.

As regards the second item of Sir R. G. Bhandarkar's evidence, viz., the date of Medinī lexicon frequently quoted by Jagaddhara in his commentaries, we may state here the views of Prof. Rāmāvatāra Śarmā :—

- (1) Rāyamukuṭa (A. D. 1431) quotes Medinī.
- (2) Padamanābhādatta, who wrote his *Prṣṭadarādivṛtti*² in A. D. 1375, quotes Medinī in his Bhūriprayoga.³
- (3) There is no reason to doubt⁴ the authenticity of Mallinātha's quotation on Māgha II, 65 (“ इनः पत्या नृपार्क्येरिति मेदिनी ”).

1. New Indian Antiquary, Vol. II, pp. 111-117.

2. H. P. Śastri : Notices of Sanskrit MSS (second series), pt. I, p. 224. See Kalpadrukṣa, Vol. I (Baroda, 1928). Intro p. XL.

3. Aufrecht describes a MS of Bhūriprayoga (Catalogue of Oxford MSS, 1864, p. 192a) in which the following verse is found :—

“ विश्वप्रकाशमरकोषटीकान्निकांडशेषोऽज्जलदत्तवृत्तिः ।

हारावलीमेदिनिकोपमन्यन्चालोक्य लक्षं लिखितं मयैतत् ॥ ”

4. Sir R. G. Bhandarkar (Mālatī-Mādhava, Preface XX, fn. §) states that this quotation containing a reference to Medinī is a later interpolation and thus supports his theory that Medinīkara lived after Mallinātha. My evidence tends to support a contrary view that Mallinātha (A. D. 1430) lived after Jagaddhara (before A. D.

- (4) The Maṅkhaṭikā contains a quotation from Medinī ("कमिति प्रकृत्यमस्तके च सुखेऽपिचेति अव्ययप्रकरणे मेदिनीः") which if genuine would push back Medinī's date to the 12th century for the Maṅkhaṭikā was written before the last quarter of the 12th century.

As Prof. Rāmāvatāra Śarmā suggests the possibility of Medinī's date going back to the 12th century, our tentative limits, viz., A. D. 1300 and 1400 for Jagaddhara's date do not conflict with this possibility. If we are able to locate Jagaddhara before A. D. 1375, before which year Medinī was composed as explained already, we may be able to push back the later limit for Medinī's date before A. D. 1375. We must, therefore, await further efforts of scholars who will be in a better position to give us the exact date of Jagaddhara with the data laid at their disposal in the present paper.

1400) and also after Medinikara, who lived before A. D. 1375. These two views may be represented as follows :—

My view :—Medinīkara—→ Jagaddhara—→ Mallinātha

55. Some new Evidence regarding the Date of Jagaddhara — Between A. D. 1275 and 1450 †

In my paper¹ on the Date of Jagaddhara, the commentator of the Mālatīmādhava and other works I discussed some new evidence and tried to narrow down the sure limits for his date given by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar viz. A. D. 1111 and 1708. My sure limits for this date as recorded in the above paper were A.D. 1250 and 1650, while the probable limits were A. D. 1250 and 1450. With a view to clarifying the chronological back-ground of the problem of Jagaddhara's date I record below in brief the evidence discussed in detail in my earlier paper.

A.D.	J = Jagaddhara. R. G. B. = R. G. Bhandarkar.
1111	Date of Viśvaprakāśa lexicon quoted by J (R.G.B.)
1150—1175	Date of Nāṭyadarpaṇa (of Rāmacandra) mentioned by J in his संगीतसर्वस्व (Nepal MS)— Vide my paper on Nāṭyadarpaṇa in Jain Vidyā (Lahore, 1941) Vol. I, pp. 21-26.
1150—1216	Date of Hariharamiśra's Comm. on माहतीसाधव. J has borrowed verbatim from this Comm. in his own Comm. on मा. साधव.
1375	Date of Padmanābhadata who quotes “ मेदिनिकोष ” in his Bhūriprayoga . J quotes मेदिनि every now and then in his Comm. on मा. साधव (R. G. B.)
1420	Date of Mallinātha from whom J has borrowed some material (vide remarks below) — (M. R. Kavi)
1431	Date of Rāyamukūṭa who quotes मेदिनि, quoted by J.

† Journal of S. V. Oriental Institute (Tirupati), 1943, Vol. IV, pp. 71-73.

1. Vide pp. 116 — 125 of Journal of the University of Bombay, Vol. IX, Part 2 (Sept. 1940).

A. D.	J = Jagaddhara. R. G. B. = R. G. Bhandarkar.
c. 1430	Date of Mallinātha, who quotes मेदिनि (on Māgha II, 65 - “ इनः पत्न्यौ नृपार्कयोरिति मेदिनि ”).
1428—1459	Rānā Kumbha mentions रसिकसर्वस्व in his Comm. on गीतगोविंद. This work is possibly the रसिकसर्वस्व mentioned by J as his own work in his Comm. on सरस्वतीकण्ठाभरण (“ तदुक्तं मद्रसिकसर्वस्वे ”).
1475—1500	Rāghavabhaṭṭa quotes from संगीतसर्वस्व, which is possibly identical with संगीतसर्वस्व of J (Nepal MS) mentioned by him as his own work in his Comm. on स. कण्ठाभरण (“ तदुक्तं मत्संगीतसर्वस्वे ”).
c. 1475—1500	Rucipati in his Comm. on अनर्घराघवटीका, quotes profusely from संगीतसर्वस्व, which is possibly identical with the संगीतसर्वस्व of J.
1473	Date of Nepal MS of वासवदत्ताटीका by J (vide remarks below).
c. 1500	Date Śubhāṁkara, who mentions संगीतसर्वस्व of J. Śubhāṁkara is the author of संगीतदामोदर (M. R. Kavi).
1665	Date of Calcutta MS (R. A. S. B.) No 5300 of the मालतीमाधवटीका of J.
1670	Date of a MS of मालतीमाधवटीका of J at Bikaner. ¹
1708	Date of a MS of मा. मा. टीका of J used by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar.

The chronological conspectus given above shows at a glance the whole problem of Jagaddhara's date. I have included in it some new items which may now be discussed here :—

1. My friend Prof. N. A. Gore of the S. P. College, Poona, has given me the following particulars of this MS :— MS No. 3208 in the Anupsing Library at Bikaner (मालतीमाधवटीका by जगद्धर) ends as follows :— “ संवत् १७२६ समय श्रावण कृष्णाष्टम्यां लिखितं रूपमिच्छेन ॥ श्री कृष्णाय नमः । ”

This information was supplied to Prof. Gore by Mr. R. N. Harit the Librarian in a communication dated 18-8-1942.

(1) My probable limits for Jagaddhara's date viz. A. D. 1250 and 1450 are now confirmed by the date of a Nepal MS¹ of the वासवदत्ताटीका of Jagaddhara. This MS is dated Lakṣmaṇa Saṁvat 355 (+ 1118) = A. D. 1473.

(2) Mr. M. R. Kavi² makes the following remarks about Subhāṁkara, the author of the संगीतदामोदर :—

“ शुभंकर himself mentions संगीतसर्वस्व of जगद्धर, who draws some material from the commentary of कलिनाथ (1420 A. D.) and also धूर्तसमागम a prahasana written to amuse the king of Nepal Harasingadeva of about 1420 A. D. Thus शुभंकर has to be assigned to about 1500 A. D.”

If Mr. Kavi's statement about Jagaddhara's drawing some material from the commentary of कलिनाथ (1420 A. D.) is based on reliable evidence, the date of Jagaddhara may be said to lie between कलिनाथ (A. D. 1420) and A. D. 1473, the date of Nepal MS of Jagaddhara's वासवदत्ताटीका referred to above.

Even if the priority of Kallinātha to Jagaddhara is not proved on definite evidence we can safely state that Jagaddhara flourished between about A. D. 1275 and 1473 on the strength of evidence gathered by me and recorded in the tabular statement given above.

P. S. — According to Dr. S. Vidyabhusana, Jagaddhara belongs to the Kāmeśvara dynasty of Mithila (1350 — 1515 A. D.). This view of Jagaddhara's date harmonizes with my evidence recorded in this paper. (Vide pp. 521 — 522 of History of Indian Logic, Calcutta, 1921).

Date of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā of Svātmārāma Muni †

Dr. J. N. Farquhar has dealt with "Muslim Influence" on Hindu religion in his Outlines of the Religious Literature of India and assigned it to a period between A. D. 1350 and 1800 (Chap. VII). This chapter on "Muslim Influence" includes a note on the *Gorakhnāthis*² and their literature. The *Haṭhayogapradīpikā*³ a standard manual dealing with the theory and practice of the Haṭhayoga forms part of this literature as the Gorakhnāthis are great adepts in the practice of Haṭhayoga. Evidently, therefore, the date of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā (= HP) according to Farquhar must lie between 1350 and 1800 A. D. though he regards the HP as the earliest of the three modern Haṭhayoga texts viz. the HP,⁴ the *Gheraṇḍa Samhitā*⁵ and the Śiva Samhitā.⁶

3. Ibid., p. 348 — Dr. Farquhar observes :— "On the Haṭha-yoga and the Gorakṣa-śataka which are mentioned above as works attributed to Gorakhnāth, three more modern works depend, the Haṭhayogapradīpikā by Svātmārāma Yogindra, the disciple of Śrīnāth, the Gheraṇḍa Samhitā and the Śivasamhitā. The first is the earliest of the three. The Pradīpikā and the Gheraṇḍa Samhitā deal with the same subjects but only part of Śivasamhitā is devoted to Haṭhayoga; the rest of it is more like a treatise on Śāktayoga."

is further supported by the remarks of Dr. P. C. Bāgchi¹ on the list of the Mahāsiddhas² mentioned in the HP. These remarks read as follows :—

“ Svātmārāma Yogīndra in his Haṭhayogapradīpikā (I, 4 ff.) extols him, (i.e. Matsyendranātha) along with Gorakṣanātha as the first connoisseur of the science of Haṭha. In the same book is also given a list of the Mahāsiddhas who are believed to have controlled the influence of time by their spiritual attainments. The name of Matsyendra stands in that list, second only to Śrī Ādinātha i.e. Śiva. This list does not seem to be very old as like all the late traditions it considers Mīnanātha as different from Matsyendra. It contains the names of some Siddhas whom we know from the Buddhist tradition of the 84 Siddhas. Some of these names occur in this list in very corrupt forms : e.g. Nāradeva for Nāḍapaṇḍita, Ṭiṇṭiṇi for Dheṇḍhaṇa, Virūpākṣa for Virūpā etc. This shows that the list of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā belongs to a period when the memories of the great Siddhas had already become old.”³

Though both Dr. Farquhar and Dr. Bagchi regard the HP, as comparatively a modern work, no attempt has been made by them to fix the chronological limits for the HP. I shall, therefore, try to indicate these limits on the strength of data available to me.

The HP is represented by numerous Mss¹ in the different Mss libraries in the world and has been printed with Bengali and Hindi translations together with Sanskrit commentaries from Calcutta and Ahmedabad² besides the English translations from Adyar and Allahabad already referred to in this paper. These facts are sufficient to establish the popularity enjoyed by the work. The HP propounds a combination of the Haṭhayoga and the Rājayoga.³

Its author calls himself as *Svātmārāma*¹ and Svātmārāma Yogīndra styled as “Śrī-Sahajānanda-Santāna-Cintāmaṇi.”² No further information about the author or his guru is furnished by the HP.³ We must, therefore, search for references to Svātmārāma and his HP, elsewhere.

In a work called the *Haṭharatnāvalī*⁴ the author appears to refer to Svātmārāma, the author of the HP, in the following verse :—

हठविद्यां हि मत्स्येन्द्रगोरक्षाद्या विजानते ।

आत्मारामोऽपि जानीते श्रीनिवासस्तथा स्वयम् ॥ ३ ॥

Ātmārāma mentioned in this verse appears to be identical

1. Ibid., p. 7.

2. Ibid., p. 45.

3. In my article on the ‘Uddiyāna Bandha of Haṭhayoga’ (Journal of the Orissa Academy, Vol. II, 1938, No. 1, p. 56) I have reproduced the following entry from the unpublished work of the late Vora Jatashankar Haraḷivan called the कविकाव्यकालकरणा (p. 648):—

“स्वात्माराम योगि — संन्यासी, सहजानंदशिष्य, गृहस्थाश्रममा नाम माननाथ, उमाशंकरपुत्रः (१) हठप्रदीपिका (हठयोगप्रदीपिका), श्लोक ५००, अध्याय ४, वि० सं० १६८७ मां करोते, (२) वर्णदीपिका ॥ ”

I have no means of knowing the evidence on which the above entry is based. It appears, however, that according to the above unverified statement the HP was composed in Vikrama Samvat 1687 = A. D. 1631. We shall have to see if this unverified date of the HP is contradicted by any known references to the HP in works of prior dates.

4. Aufrecht Cata. Catalo. I, 753 — “हठरत्नावली — NP. V, 118. Quoted by Sundaradeva, Hall, p. 17.— By Śrīniyāsa, Burnell 112b. SB., 349. The remarks on Ms. No. 6715 of हठरत्नावली (Tanjore Cata., XI, 1931 p. 4923), in the Tanjore Mss Library read as follows :— “In the Introduction to the work he (the author) mentions himself as one of the four great advocates of Yoga along with Matsyendra, Gorakṣa, and Ātmārāma, as well-versed in all branches of knowledge, as an author of commentaries on Śaṣadhariya, Maṇikanṭhiya, and one Vedānta Paribhāṣā (other than the work of Dharmarājādharin) and as the son of a great astrologer Timmajyautiṣika and Somāmbā. He styles himself as the conqueror of great logicians like Mahādeva Miśra. It may be inferred that he was an Āndhra Brahmin. ” with Svātmārāma, the author of the HP. As the date of the Haṭharatnāvalī of Śrīnivāsa¹ has not been fixed, so far as I am aware, the above reference to Svātmārāma does not help us to fix any limit to the date of the HP.

A work called the Śivatattvaratnākara composed in A. D. 1709 (= Śaka 1631) appears to have made use of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā.² We may, therefore, fix A.D. 1709³ as one terminus to the date of the HP. Let us now see if we can push back this limit of A.D. 1709 on the strength of reliable documentary evidence, especially the evidence of the dated Mss of the HP. The Bhandarkar Institute, Poona (Govt. Mss Library) contains about 10 Mss of the HP. One of these Mss. viz. No. 399 of 1895-1902 is dated Saṃvat 1751 = A.D. 1695. This date, therefore, may enable us to push back the date of the HP say before A.D. 1650 or so. This chronological limit does not so far conflict with the unverified statement of Vora Jatashankar that the HP was composed in A. D. 1631.

The other terminus for the date of the HP according to Farquhar would be about A.D. 1350⁴ as he includes the HP in the literature

1. Śrīnivāsa describes himself as follows in verse 2 at the beginning of his Haṭharatnāvalī :—

“ वेदे वेदान्तशास्त्रे फणिपतिरचिते शब्दशास्त्रे स्वशास्त्रे
तन्त्रे प्राभाकराये शशधररचिते न्यायरत्नार्णवेन्दुः ।
सांख्ये सारस्वतीये कणभुगभिहिते तत्त्वचिन्तामणिज्ञो
श्रीमज्ज्योतिर्विद्वत्प्रेसरनरतनुजो राजते श्रीनिवासः ॥ २ ॥ ”

The logician Śaśadhara flourished about 1125 A. D. according to S. Vidyābhūṣaṇa (History of Indian Logic, Calcutta, 1921, p. 396).

2. Des. Cata. of Madras Mss., Vol. X, p. 3908. “ शिवयोगं शिवालोकं हठयोगप्रदापिकाम्. ” The Śivatattvaratnākara, an encyclopædic Sanskrit poem was composed by the Keladi chief, Basava Rāja, whose ancestors were subordinates of the emperors of Vijayanagara. 3. The India Office Ms No. 1836 of the HP was copied at Ahmedabad in Saṃvat 1759 (= A. D. 1703) — Vide I. O. Cata., Part IV, 1894, p. 600.

4. This terminus of A. D. 1350 for the date of the HP is not quite improbable. The HP mentions मत्स्येन्द्र, चौरङ्गी, मीन, and गोरक्ष produced during the period of Muslim influence on Hindu religion (1300 and 1800 A.D.). If Farquhar's view is correct the date of the HP must lie between A.D. 1350 and A.D. 1650, a period of 300 years. The Yogacintāmaṇi of Śivānanda Sarasvatī contains numerous quotations from the HP.¹ According to my data Śivānanda's work stands midway between about 1500 and 1850 A.D.² The HP is also quoted by Sundaradeva in his *Haṭha-Saṅketa-Candrikā*³ but who appear to be identical with Nāthapanthi Yogis of the same name. According to Mr. T. C. Das Gupta (Aspects of Bengali Society, Cal. Uni. 1935, p. 155) Nāthism was borrowed from Mahāyāna Buddhists and was current in Bengal about the 11th century A. D. In the songs of Raja Govindacandra composed in the 1st half of the 11th century (say between A. D. 1000 and 1050) Mayanāmati, the mother of Raja Govindacandra, is stated to have been "initiated into mahājñāna by Gorakṣanātha" and that she visited the pāṭhaśālā of Gorakṣanātha containing 1600 disciples (Ibid., p. 188). If these references have any historical value they appear to make Gorakṣanātha a contemporary of Raja Govindacandra about 1050 A. D. and hence the date of the HP must be sought for after A. D. 1100 or so.

the date of this work being unsettled this reference has no immediate chronological value for our present inquiry. The dates of the commentators of the HP viz. Umāpati, Maḥādeva, Rāmānandatīrtha being also unsettled we are unable to make use of their commentaries for fixing the limits for the date of the HP. Brahmānanda, author of the commentary Jyotsnā on the HP, is a late commentator as he was the disciple of one Meruśāstrin, who was alive in A.D. 1859.¹

There is a treatise on Haṭhayaga in Hindi called *Jogapradīpikā*² by one Jaiyatarāma or Jayatarāma. It appears to have been composed in Samvat 1784 (= A.D. 1729). To what extent Jaiyatarāma's Jogapradīpyakā is indebted to Svātmārāma's Haṭhayogapradīpikā I am unable to say at present as I have not studied this Hindi treatise. Even if it is modelled on the HP, its date of composition viz. A.D. 1727 does not conflict with the date of the HP, as recorded by Vora Jatashankar viz. A.D. 1631.³

In the list of teachers recorded in the HP, one Nityanātha is mentioned as Mahāsiddha. If he is identical with Nityanātha

Siddha the author of tāntrika and vaidyaka works¹ and in particular of the work Rasaratnasamuccaya which "agrees with the work attributed to Vāgbhata"² we can support the earlier terminus of A.D. 1350 for the HP presumed by Dr. Forquhar in his Outlines etc. The Rasaratnasamuccaya, be it of Vāgbhata or Nityanātha Siddha, belongs to about A.D. 1300 according to Dr. P. C. Ray³ and it mentions the names of कपालि, सुरानन्द, खण्ड, कापालिक, भैरव, मन्थानभैरव, (or मन्थान and भैरव) काकचण्डीश्वर, which are also found in the HP. All these teachers were probably experts in the रसविद्या or alchemy and हठयोग. According to Dr. Mukherji⁴ Nityanātha Siddha is posterior to Dallaṇācārya who is assigned by scholars to the 12th century.⁵ If this Nityanātha Siddha, the writer on alchemy to whom is attributed the authorship of the work Rasaratnasamuccaya, is identical with his name-sake mentioned as a teacher of हठयोग in the HP, the date of the HP must be assigned to a period after the 13th century i.e. after A.D. 1300 or so and hence in the present state of our data we may fix A.D. 1350 as the tentative earlier

1. Viṣṇūnabhikṣu (c. A. D. 1550-1600) in his Yogasārasaṃgraha (Adyar Edn. 1933) refers to works on the Haṭhayoga on p. 39 as follows :— “ आसननाडीशुद्ध्यादयस्तु हठयोगादि ग्रन्थेष्वशेषतो द्रष्टव्याः.” I wonder if this reference has anything to do with the HP.

Nārāyaṇatīrtha the commentator of the Upaniṣads (between 1500 and 1700 A. D.) quotes from the HP at least four times (Vide p. 3 of my article in the Bombay University Journal, Vol. VII, part 2, Sept., 1938).

In the Bodleian Library Cata. by Winternitz and Keith, Vol. II (1905), p. 1306 there is a Ms (No. 1306) of the HP, the date of which is stated as “about the middle of the 18th century. We are here informed of the following translations and editions of the HP :—(1) Text with Jyotsnā Comm. Burdwan, 1890. (2) German trans. by H. Walter, Munich, 1893. (3) English trans. by Śrīnivāsa Aiyangar, Bombay 1893. Rudrayāmalatantra (Oxford Mss, 1869, p. 89) refers to हठयोग as follows :— हठयोगं प्रकथितमिदानीं शृणु तत्कमम्. The anthology Śārṅgadharapaddhati (A. D. 1363) contains two chapters on हठयोग (Nos. 157 and 158) — See Peterson's Edn. I, 1888, p. 662. A work called “राज्ञां प्रतिबोधकं प्रकरणम्” (Ms No. 67 of 1871-72—B.O.R. Institute) quotes from the HP :— folio 20 — “गोप्रश्ननाह हठप्रदीपिकायां etc.” This work mentions तमाखोश्चर्यं on folio 14 and is therefore later than A. D. 1600. HP is again mentioned on fol. 26.

In the above verses the author of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā makes an effort to explain the terms उड्डीयान by connecting it with the Sanskrit root उड् (4-A) to fly up, soar. The H. P. is not a very old work² like the Yogiyājñavalkyasamhitā, which deals with

2. I have tried to explain the late character of the H. P. in an article on the Date of Haṭhayogapradīpikā contributed to the Yoga Number to be published by the Yoga Mandal, Benares. Subsequent to my sending this article to the Editors of this Journal I came a cross the following reference in a printed but unpublished volume called कविकाव्यदालकवर्णन by Vora Jata Shankar Harajivan (pp. 689). For the compilation of this volume the author used not less than 5600 works. The information given in this volume is very valuable. Unfortunately the author has not documented his references and hence it is difficult to verify them. The author has used many Catalogues in English and Vernaculars and given dates for authors and their works in some cases. On p. 643 of this volume the following reference to deals with aṣṭāṅgayoga and hence its explanations of older yogic terms will have to be accepted with caution.

The commentary on the H. P. published by the T. P. House viz Jyotsnā of Brahmānanda is a very modern work, as Meru-śāstri, the guru of Brahmānanda was alive in A. D. 1859.¹ Consequently this commentator of the H. P. repeats the explanation of उड्डायन and जालंधर bandhas given in the H. P. text.

Other works connecting the term उड्डायन with उड्डा to fly are (1) वराह उपनिषद् and योगकुंडली उपनिषद्. Chap. V of the वराह उपनिषद् says that as प्राण is always flying up (उड्डायन), so this बन्ध by which its flight is arrested is called उड्डायनबन्ध. Chap. I of the योगकुंडली उपनिषद् says, because प्राणः उड्डायते (goes up the Suṣumnā in this बन्ध it is called उड्डायन (see Serpent Power by Arthur Avalon, p. 212, foot-note 4). Though in one of the early great Upaniṣads viz. the Maitri Upaniṣad (VI, 18-21) we have, as pointed out by Prof. Ranade² an adumbration of later Hathayoga practices, the above mentioned Upaniṣads viz. the वराह and योगकुंडली Upaniṣads are obviously late productions composed at a time when the esoteric character of the Hathayoga had been thrown into the background and the necessity of manuals dealing with the enlarged Hathayoga technique had been felt by the gurus and their pupils alike. Though the aim of the Upaniṣads was a practical one viz. the realization of the Godhead by means of yoga and though there are scattered throughout the Upaniṣads certain hints for such a realization as observed by Prof. Ranade (p. 336 of Cons. Survey, etc.) it is doubtful whether this practice had in the early times taken the highly evolved form in which we find it in the Hatha tantras now extant. We shall have, however, to investigate the exact chronology of the two Upaniṣads, viz. the वराह and योगकुण्डली which explain the term उड्डीयान by connecting it with उड्डी to fly.

The Yogacintāmaṇi,¹ a compilation of Yogic texts by Śivānanda Sarasvatī, which quotes from the H.P. contains the following verses regarding the उड्डीयान बन्ध² from other texts :—

Page 147 — दत्तात्रेय :— “ आसनं सुदृढं बध्वा मूलबन्धं विधाय च ।

In the above quotations, the first three definitely refer to the उड्डीयान बन्ध of the H.P. and pertain to the Haṭhayoga proper while the last two taken from शिवयोग and शास्त्रान्तरे appear to have a reference to Tāntric tradition as is clear from the expressions “ उड्डीयानं ध्यायेत् ” and उड्डीयानपीठे तु तं ध्यात्वा. ” The Haṭhayoga practices appear to have a Tāntric³ background and hence in a compilation of Yogic texts like the Yogacintāmaṇi, Tāntric works have been quoted from as the term “शास्त्रान्तर” may possibly indicate. At any rate the term “उड्डियानपीठ” has its parallel in Buddhist Tantrism. Sādhanamālā,¹ containing a series of short works of Tāntric authors, belongs to the Vajrayāna School of Buddhism, which “introduced the worship of śaktis in Buddhism for the first time.”² According to Tārānath “Tantrism existed from very early times and was transmitted in the most secret manner possible from the time of Asaṅga down to the time of Dharmakīrti” (Geschichte, p. 201).³ In Vol. I of the Sādhanamālā the following reference may be compared to the reference to “उड्डियानपीठ” in the Yogacintāmaṇi.

2. Arthur Avalon in Serpent Power (Madras, 1924), p. 212, explains the term ‘ बन्धस ’ as ‘ bindings ’ i.e. certain physical methods of controlling प्राण.

No. 140 — ‘द्वादशभुज रक्तवर्ण ओडियान स्वाधिष्ठानक्रममारीची साधनम्’

“आदौ.....भगवती अनेकविधपूजाभिः संपूज्य.....वज्रभूमि वज्रप्राकारादिकं ध्यात्वा तन्मध्ये श्री ओडियानपीठं त्रिकोणमारक्तं etc.”

In the Sādhanamālā,⁴ four पीठs or sacred spots of the Vajrayānists are mentioned viz. (1) ओडियान, (2) पूर्णगिरि, (3) कामाख्या and (4) सिरिहट्ट. Dr. Bhattacharya states that the identification of the last two पीठs is certain. They are situated in the province of Assam. कामाख्या or कामरूप is a few miles from Gauhati, and सिरिहट्ट is modern Sylhet. The first two पीठs viz. ओडियान (also spelt as उड्डियान, ओड्डियान and ओड्यान) and पूर्णगिरि have not been identified with certainty.⁵ उड्डियान is the most frequently mentioned among the four पीठs. M. Sylvain Lévi places it somewhere in Kashgarh while M. M. Haraprasad Shastri places it in Orissa. Waddel (L. A.) identified

1. Sādhanamālā (G. O. Series, Baroda, 1928) by Dr. B. Bhattacharya.

2. Ibid, Vol. II, Intro. p. XXVI.

3. Ibid, Vol. II, Intro. p. XXVII — Asaṅga was a brother of Vasubandhu (280—360 A. D.) and Dharmakīrti very probably belonged to a period between 600 — 650 A. D. During a period of nearly 300 years Tantrism was handed down from Gurus to disciples. Finally Indrabhūti publicly preached these doctrines and exhorted people to follow them.

4. Sādhanamālā (G. O. Series, Baroda), Vol. II, p 453 — वज्रयोगिनीसाधनम् “पश्चात् पुनरापि ओडियानपूर्णगिरिकायाख्यासिरिहट्ट इत्यनेन पूजयेत्.”

5. Ibid, Intro. p. XXXVII — Dr. Bhattacharya states :— “पूर्णगिरि is sometimes identified with modern Poona but this is very doubtful, though at this stage it is extremely difficult to suggest any new identification.”

उड्डीयान with उद्यान in the Swat valley. Dr. Bhattacharya identifies it with Orissa. There is also mentioned in the Sādhana-mālā a deity called उड्डीयानकरकुला i.e. कुरुकुला as worshipped in उड्डीयान.¹ Indra-bhūti is described as a King of उड्डीयान.² Mr. Nalininath Das Gupta in his article³ on "Uḍḍiyāna and Sahore" tries to show that Uḍḍiyāna was a place in Bengal. Many Tāntric Buddhist scholars hailed from Uḍḍiyāna, for instance Lui-pāda, Ananga-Vajra, Thagana, Tailika-pāda, Saraha, Avadhūta-pāda, Nāgabodhi, Jñānavajra, Buddhajñāna-pāda, Amoghanātha, Dharmasrimitra, etc. According to Mr. R. M. Nath⁴ the ancient उड्डीयान is identical with Hojai, locally called Ojjai or Ojai. In spite of these divergent views regarding the exact location of उड्डीयान the fact remains that it was a very important ancient seat of Tantrism.

As regards the genesis of Tantrism Dr. Bhattacharya observes as follows :—

"It is then in उड्डीयान that Tantrism first developed and was probably transmitted to the other पण्डि, कामाख्या, सिरिहट्ट and पूर्णगिरि (which must be somewhere near) and thence to the rest of India."

It will be seen from the foregoing evidence recorded by Dr. Bhattacharya that उड्डीयान was the fountain-head of all Tāntric knowledge and practices. We have remarked above that the Haṭhayoga practices have a Tāntric background and this remark is vindicated

Mr. Nath observes :— "We are therefore of the definite conclusion that Hojai (in the Nowgong district of Assam) was the ancient Oddiyāna and portions of the present Monzas of Namati, Hojai, Jamuhamukh and Duar Bamuni were included within its boundary." The clue to this identification is furnished by the mention of उड्डीयान in the Kālikā-purāṇa Chap. XVIII ("उड्डीयाने चोदयुग्मं हिताय जगतां ततः") This mention of उड्डीयान in the Kālikāpurāṇa is very important as it occurs in this Hindu Tantric work which is earlier than 1000 A. D. (Vide my article on the "Date of Kālikāpurāṇa — Before 1000 A. D." published in the Journal of Oriental Research, Madras, Vol. X (1936) pp. 289 - 294.

by the following verse¹ from the Haṭhayogapradīpikā as quoted in the Yogacintāmaṇi (p. 142) :—

“ बन्धत्रयमिदं श्रेष्ठं महासिद्धनिषेवितम् ।

सर्वेषां हठतन्त्राणां साधनं योगिनो विदुः ॥ ”

The term हठतन्त्राणां is significant in the above verse because the author of the H. P. looked upon Haṭhayoga manuals as हठतन्त्र² i.e. as treatises dealing with Haṭhayoga, a branch of Tāntric knowledge and practice. As Buddhist Tantrism considered उड्डीयान as its home it is possible to conclude that उड्डीयान बन्ध was called after उड्डीयान the home of all हठतन्त्रs referred to in the H. P. in the verse quoted above. As, however, the H. P. is a late manual it forgot the real meaning of the term उड्डीयान and connected it with the Sanskrit root उड्डी, to fly.

The Yogacintāmaṇi of Śivānanda Sarasvatī contains a quotation from a work called शिवयोग referring to पूर्णगिरि, one of the four पीठs mentioned in the Sādhnamālā referred to above. This verse reads as under on p. 120 —

“ आकाशबीजं नवमं प्रसिद्धम् । त्रिकूटकं पूर्णगिरेश्च पृष्ठे ।

तत्रार्द्धशक्तिं शुभदां सुशून्याम् । ध्यायेत्तदष्टारसरोजमध्ये ॥ ” and later on p. 122 we find also the following verse in a long extract ushered in as “ शास्त्रान्तरे ” :—

1. Verse 76 of Chap. III (तृतीयोपदेश) of the Haṭhayogapradīpikā (T. P. H. Edition).

2. Evans - Wentz in his “ Tibetan Yoga and Secret Doctrines ”, p. 155, states that the Lamas recognize 4 chief classes of Yogic Tantras viz. (1) Tantras expository of the Thatness or Ultimate truth, (2) Tantras of the Occult or Mystic Sciences, (3) the Yogini and Shakti tantras and the (4) Kālachakra tantras. He further states that the Yogini or Shakti tantras are traceable to a learned teacher called Lawapa of Urgyan (or Odyana), the ancient name of a region, now comprised within the territory of Afghanistan ‘ in the west ’ of India. Padma Sambhava of Urgyan first introduced the Yogini tantras among the Tibetans. He is credited with having had eight Indian Gurus belonging to the eight different Schools of Buddhism. It would appear from this evidence that उड्डीयान (= Odyana or Urgyan) as the name of a region was known as the home of Tāntric tradition even in Tibet.

“तत्र पूर्णगिरौ पीठे शक्तिर्यात्वा विमुच्यते ।
उर्ध्वशक्तिनिपातेन अधःशक्तिर्निकुञ्चयान् ॥ ”

The Tāntric works of Hindu¹ persuasion (as distinct from the Buddhist Vajrayāna School) from which the above verses have been quoted in the Yogacintāmaṇi and which contain references to पूर्णगिरिपीठ (mentioned in the Sāadhanamālā) appear to indicate that the Hindu Tantras had not forgotten their common home viz. the several पीठs mentioned in the Sāadhanamālā, such as the उड्डीयानपीठ, पूर्णगिरिपीठ etc. Possibly in late works like the H. P. the Tāntric tradition was obliterated by the preponderance of the Haṭhayoga, though terms like उड्डीयानबन्ध reminiscent of the country of the origin of हठतन्त्रs were still retained in the Haṭhayoga phraseology.²

1. Cf. the following references to उड्डीयान and other पीठs pointed out by Mr. Nath (Jour. of the Assam Res. Society, Vol. V, pp. 50 — 51).

- (1) Tantrasāra (p. 350) gives a detailed list of all the Pīṭhas and Upapīṭhas viz. Kāmarūpa, Pūrṇa Śaila, Jālandhara, (“Jālandhara probably the modern Sitakunda ” J. A. S. B., 1898, Part 1, p. 20) Jayanti, Ujjaini, Uddisha, Uddīyāna etc. Then on p. 421 we get the following verse locating the पीठs in the different parts of the body :—

“मूलाधारे कामरूपे हृदि जालन्धरे तथा ।
ललाटे पूर्णगिर्याख्यं उड्डीयानं तद्दूर्ध्वके ॥ ”

- (2) The Kaulāvali Tantra (p. 15) gives the order of worshipping पीठs as follows :—

“चतुरस्रे पूर्णशैले उड्डीयानं जलन्धरम् ।
पूजयेत्कामरूपञ्च पूर्वादिक्रमयोगतः ॥ ”

2. Evans-Wentz in his Tibetan Yoga (Oxford, 1935), p. 25, records the meaning of the term हठयोग given by Brahmānanda in his commentary, Jyotsnā. The word हठ is divided into two letters ह and ठ, where ह means the Sun and ठ means the Moon. The term हठयोग means joining together of the Sun-breathing and the Moon-breathing. How far this meaning of हठयोग is historically correct will have to be investigated. Evans-Wentz further states that the secondary meaning of ह is Health and हठयोग means ‘Health-yoga.’

Arthur Avalon (Serpent Power, p. 201) states that ह and ठ represent

If the position taken up in the foregoing remarks regarding the common home of (1) the Buddhist Tantras, (2) the Hindu Tantras and the (3) Haṭha Tantras, which may be regarded as part of Hindu tantras (though the Haṭhayoga practices were also current in Tibet, where Buddhism flourished) then we may be able to give a definite starting point in the chronology of the several works on the Haṭhayoga now available in Manuscript form.

As Tantrism first developed in Uddiyāna and as Indrabhūti, King of Uddiyāna has been assigned to a period A. D. 687—717 onwards we may safely conclude that the name Uddiyāna as a seat of Tantrism must have been current say about 600 A. D. and consequently उड्डीयानबंध is as old as 600 A. D. or to put it generally it is as old as उड्डीयान पीठ where it was practised.

“ Indrabhūti was regarded as an authority on Vajrayāna and Tantra long after his time.” His sister was Lakṣmīṅkarā who became a Siddha and preached her own peculiar theories in a work called अद्वयसिद्धि, one copy of which is in the Oriental Institute, Baroda, while the original is with M. M. Haraprasad Shastri. The date assigned to this royal author is 729 A. D.² She was not only a sister of Indrabhūti but also one of his favourite disciples. We think this is a typical example in support of the study of yoga by women.

As many of the Haṭhayoga texts are of dubious age and authorship it is difficult to decide the exact antiquity of the three the Prāṇa and Apāṇa Vāyus and हठविद्या or हठयोग is the Science of the Life-Principle (See his work Power as Life). उपनिषद्ब्रह्मयोगी, the Commentator of the Yoga Upanishads (Adyar, 1920) defines हठ as under on p. 400 — “ ब्रह्मातिरेकेण देहादिकं नास्ति इति बोधः एव हठः, हठेन सम्यग्ज्ञानेन मृत एवासौ देहः ॥ ४५ ॥ “ या निशा सर्वभूतानां ॥ इत्यादिस्मरणात् ”

1. Evans - Wéntz in his Tibetan Yoga states that the Yoga Philosophy which is fundamental in all the treatises translated by him from the Tibetan and which gives unity to them, when they are assembled in one volume, had like the Tantrism, sources in India, (p. 2). “ Marpa, the first of the Tibetan Gurus of the Line of the Gurus of the Great Symbol is said to have passed 18 years as a शिष्य in India and to have consulted 100 learned Indian philosophers ” (p. 110).

bandhas viz. (1) the Mūlabandha, (2) the Uḍḍiyanābandha and the (3) the Jālandharabandha as described in these texts. We shall, therefore, fix at least one limit for the date of these practices. Jñānadeva or Jñāneśvara, the Maharashtra saint wrote his masterpiece Jñāneśvarī in 1290 A. D. (Śaka 1212).¹ The Maharashtra tradition states that Trimbaknāth, the great grandfather of Jñānadeva was initiated by Gorakṣanātha, who was himself a spiritual descendant of Matsyendranātha. Gahinīnātha, a disciple of Gorakṣanātha initiated Nivr̥ttinātha and Jñānadeva and hence Prof. Ranade thinks that he was a historical person. It would thus be seen that the Nātha-Sampradāya,² which is noted for its Haṭhayoga practices had been established in the Maharashtra in the age of Jñānadeva, who was himself a Yogī, having been initiated by Gahinīnātha as stated above. Accordingly we find in the Jñāneśvarī a reference³ to the three bandhas of Haṭhayoga. He calls them by the names of “मुलबन्ध”, “जालंधर” and “बोढियाणा” which correspond to the three Sanskrit terms मूलबन्ध, जालंधर and उड्डियान of the Haṭhayoga texts. In the detailed description of these bandhas given by Jñānadeva we don't find any attempt on his part to connect the उड्डियान बन्ध with the Sanskrit root उड्डी to fly as has been done by the author of the H. P. Then again the

1. Ranade : Mysticism in Maharashtra, 1933, p. 29.

2. The Nātha Cult probably took its origin from the Yoginikaula cult, the chief seat of which was Kāmarūpa. The Kaula-jñāna-nirṇaya edited by Dr. Bagchi (Cal. Sans. Series No. 3, Calcutta, 1934) from a unique Nepalese MS, written probably towards the middle of the 11th Century, informs us that Matsyendranātha belonged to the Siddha or Siddhāmṛta Sect, primarily connected with the Yoginikaula Cult, which was closely connected with Haṭhayoga on the one hand and the Buddhist Tantra on the other. (Vide Dr. S. K. De's review of the Kaula-jñāna-nirṇaya in Oriental Literary Digest, Poona ; August 1937, pp. 3 — 5).

1. Sākhare : Jñāneśvarī, with a Marathi translation and Notes, Poona, 1912. The occasion for bringing in these bandhas is furnished by the verses of the Bhagavadgītā viz. Chapter VI, verses 12, 13, 14, which prescribe the practice of yoga (उपविश्यासने शुज्यात् योगमात्म-विशुद्ध्ये) The oṛis describing मूलबन्ध end with the line “अर्जुना हँ जाण मुलबन्धाचें लक्षण” etc. (ee) on p. 164. The Oṛis describing जालंधर बन्ध end with the line “तो जालंधर म्हणजे” (c) and those describing उड्डियान बन्ध end with the line “नामिस्थानातळवटी बोढियाणा तो” (290) (page 166).

term 'वोडियाणा' used by Jñānadeva corresponds to the term "आडियान" (a variant of उडुयान) used in the Sādhnamālā of the Vajrayāna School of Buddhism. We are, therefore, of opinion that A. D. 1290 is a definite chronological limit for the antiquity of these bandhas and of Hathayoga practices in general, though the chronology of the several हठतन्त्रs will have to be investigated separately. If negative evidence is looked upon as having any value in this discussion we may state that the H. P. is later than the Jñāneśvarī (1290 A. D.) in view of the absence of the H. P.'s explanation of the term उडुयान finding any parallel to it in the Jñāneśvarī, which describes these bandhas in extenso, without the faintest effort to connect it with "flying up" or "soaring up."

The usages of the term उडुयान recorded above may now be stated briefly as follows :—

(1) उडुयान बन्ध, (2) उडुयान कुरुकुला, (3) इन्द्रभूति, King of उडुयान, (4) उडुयान पीठ, (5) Urgyan' mentioned in Tibetan Yoga as the ancient name of the region to which belonged the teacher Lawapa from whom are traced the Yoginī or Śakti tantras.

Further evidence in support of our hypothesis that the term उडुयान बन्ध of the Hathayoga takes its name from the country of उडुयान and that the term जालंधरबन्ध does likewise is furnished by the सौभाग्यलक्ष्म्युपनिषद्, a *Shaiva Upanishad*² published by the Adyar Library.

The Hindu Tantras, like the Buddhist Tantras, have retained the tradition about the पीठs and their symbolic representation in Tantric theory and practice. The सौभाग्यलक्ष्म्युपनिषद् (p. 113) alludes to this tradition in the following verse :—

“महाशून्यं ततो याति सर्वसिद्धिसमाश्रयम् ।
चित्तानन्दं ततो भित्वा सर्वपीठगतानलः ॥ २ ॥”

The commentator's explanation of the above verse concludes as under :—

“प्राणानिलः कामरूपपीठादि सर्वपीठगतो भवति ”

2. Dr. F. W. Thomas in J. R. A. S. 1906, p. 461, footnote — “The Buddhist Sanskrit form of the name of Udyāna is Uddiyāna or Oddiyāna, and the presence of a r or at least a cerebral seems to be attested by the Tibetan Urgyan.”

2. Vide Shaiva Upanishads with the commentary of the Upanishad — Brahmayogin, Ed. by A. Mahadeva Sastri, Adyar, 1925.

On page 116 we have the following reference to कामरूपपीठ :—

“ आधारे ब्रह्मचक्रं.....ध्यायेत् तत्रैव कामरूपपीठं सर्वकामप्रदं भवति इत्याधारचक्रम् ”

On page 117 उड्याणपीठ is mentioned :—

“ द्वितीयं स्वाधिष्ठानचक्रं.....ध्यायेत् तत्रैव उड्याणपीठं जगदाकर्षण-सिद्धिदं भवति ”

On page 119 we have references to जालन्धरपीठ and पूर्णगिरिपीठ :—

“ ब्रह्मरन्ध्रं निर्वाणचक्रं.....ध्यायेत् तत्र जालन्धरपीठं मोक्षप्रदं भवति ”

“ नवममाकाशचक्रं.....ध्यायेत् तत्रैव पूर्णगिरिपीठं सर्वेच्छासिद्धिसाधनं भवति ”

The commentator Upaniṣad-Brahmayogin in commenting upon the above passages from the Upaniṣad nowhere attempts to explain the names कामरूप, उड्याण, जालन्धर and पूर्णगिरि.

In the above references we are concerned with the terms उड्याण and जालन्धर as the two योगबन्ध of Hāṭhayoga viz. उड्डीयानबन्ध and जालन्धरबन्ध which have taken their names, according to our hypothesis, from the countries of their origin viz. उड्डीयान or उड्याण and जालन्धर, in the same way as the पीठs viz. उड्याणपीठ and the जालन्धरपीठ.

We have brought forth sufficient evidence regarding the correct derivation of the term उड्डीयान. We shall record in a subsequent paper some evidence regarding the derivation of the term जालन्धर in support of our hypothesis mentioned above.

Institute, Poona. It consists of about 57 folios and appears to be a copy made in Samvat 1931 i. e. in A. D. 1875 at Vikramapura from some old Ms which records the date of composition of the commentary of Dhaneśvara. It begins as follows :—

The commentary does not contain many references to previous works and authors. My cursory perusal of the Ms has disclosed the following references :—

अमर — fol. 2, 7, 10, 13, 15, 17, 19, 20, 23, 24, 25, 26, 28, 29, 33, 35, 36, 37.

In the above list the reference to यादवप्रकाश the author of lexicon वैजयन्ती gives us one terminus to the date of Dhaneśvara's commentary viz. “ the middle of the 11th Century. ”¹ This is consistent with the date of composition recorded by the author himself in the colophon of his work which reads as follows :—

fol. 56a — “ आसीन्निर्जलवंशपद्मतरणिः स्वाचारचिन्तामणिः ।

The foregoing verses tell us that our commentator Dhaneśvara belonged to “Daśakura” caste of Brahmins. His father's name as given in verse 1 is Somanātha which is the same as Bhaṭṭa Someśvara repeated in verse 3. The composition of the commentary was completed in the year represented by the chronogram कर, इन्दु, राम, इन्दु, which is equal to 1312 Śaka. Other particulars regarding the date are (1) month of Vaiśākha, (2) Śukla or bright fortnight, (3) Guruvāra or Thursday and (4) Citrā constellation. The name of the Samvat as recorded in verse 4 quoted above is Ananda. According to the normal reading of the chronogram viz., “कर, इन्दु, राम, इन्दु” we get Śaka 1312 as the year in which the commentary was completed by the author. The Samvat year corresponding to Śaka 1312 is *Dhātṛ*¹ and not Ananda as mentioned in the verse mentioned above. This discrepancy between the normal reading of the chronogram and the name of the Samvat specified by the author makes our verification of the date quite difficult. I am, therefore, inclined to read the chronogram as “इन्दु, कर, राम, इन्दु” without changing the words of the chronogram but merely by transposing the first two words “कर, इन्दु.” This reading gives us Śaka “इन्दु, (1), कर (2), राम (3), इन्दु (1) = 1231 Śaka = A.D. 1309. According to *Indian Ephemeris*² we have Ananda Samvat for Śaka 1231 and if my interpretation of the date is correct the date of completion of the commentary by its author Dhaneśvara would be equivalent to Thursday,³ 17th or 24th April 1309.

1. Vide Indian Ephemeris, V, p. 383.

2. Vol IV. p. 220.

3. Ibid. — In the Śukla pakṣa of Vaiśākha of Śaka 1231 we have two Thursdays (17th or 24th April 1309) and as the commentary does not record the exact tithi I am unable to determine exactly what Thursday is meant by the author. Perhaps the expression चित्राह्नकक्षके” may be of some use in determining what Thursday is meant by our author. Possibly Thursday, 24th April 1309 is the exact date of the work.

The above chronology for Dhaneśvara's commentary on the Caṇḍisataka leads us to the question of the chronology of the commentary on the drama Anargharāghava, the authorship of which seems to have been ascribed by Aufrecht¹ to our Dhaneśvara. Let us now see if these two authors of the name Dhaneśvara are identical.

The Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute contains a fragment of Dhaneśvara's commentary³ on the Anargharāghava viz. No. 319 of 1884-87. This Ms begins as follows :—

As the Ms is incomplete there is no colophon and consequently we have no means of knowing if the author had recorded any information about himself in the concluding part of the work. It is, however, clear that Dhaneśvara, the son of Somanātha and author of the commentary on the Caṇḍīśataka is different from his namesake of Bhāradvāja gotra referred to in the above extract from the commentary on the Anargharāghava and whose genealogy¹ is recorded by its author in detail but which contains no person of the name Somanātha.

The difference in the genealogies of the two Dhaneśvaras as noticed above is sufficient to prove the mistaken character of Aufrecht's suggested identity of these two authors. I shall, however, record some further evidence in support of my remarks about the difference of authorship for both the commentaries.

1 Though the text of the MS No. 319 of 1884-87 as reproduced in the extract recorded above is corrupt we can gather the following genealogy from it:—

If the work Nāṭyapradīpa mentioned by Dhaneśvara in his commentary on Anargharāghava is identical with the only work of this name, mentioned by Aufrecht as the work of Sundaramiśra composed in A. D. 1613, we are compelled to fix the date of this

1. Aufrecht records no work of this title.

2. Aufrecht, CC I, 284 — “ नाट्यप्रदीप written by Sundaramiśra in 1613, Hall, Preface to Daśarūpa, p. 1. Quoted by Rāmanātha on Amarakośa and by Vāsudeva on Karpūramāñjarī. ”

Krishnamachariar (Classical Sans. Lit. p. 872) states that King Gajapati Virāśri Nārāyaṇadeva who ruled about A. D. 1700 at Parlakimidi refers to संगीतकल्पतरु in his own work Saṅgītanārāyaṇa.

commentary after 1613 A. D. This conclusion harmonizes with the reference by Dhaneśvara to संगीतकल्पतरु, which is a work on music composed before A. D. 1650 or so as it is mentioned by Raṅga-nātha in his commentary on the Vikramorvaśīya (A. D. 1656) and by Nārāyaṇadeva in his Saṅgītanārāyaṇa (about A. D. 1700.)

In view of the foregoing data regarding the chronology and genealogy of the two commentators of the same name Dhaneśvara we arrive at the following conclusions:—

- (1) Dhaneśvara, son of Bhaṭṭa Someśvara of the Daśakura caste composed his commentary on Bāṇa's Caṇḍisataka in A. D. 1309 (Śaka 1231).
- (2) The above Dhaneśvara is different from Dhaneśvara the son of Udayaśarman, who composed his commentary on the Anargharāghava after A. D. 1613.

It is, therefore, clear that Aufrecht's entry regarding the identity of the above mentioned "Dhaneśvaras" is not borne out by evidence gathered by me from the available Mss of their works. Both these authors appear to be separated in point of time by more than 300 years, besides having different genealogies.

58. References to a lost Work on the Pāṭigaṇita of Śrīdharācārya by Makkibhaṭṭa
(1377 A.D.) and by Rāghavabhaṭṭa (1493 A.D.)†

Mr. S. B. DIKSHIT, in his History of Indian Astronomy,¹ observes that a Ms of work called त्रिशतिका consisting of 300 verses in āryā metre and dealing with पाटीगणित is available in Kashi Rājakiya Pustakālaya² and that the following verse appears at the beginning of this Ms :—

नन्वा शिवं स्वविरचितपाटया गणितस्य सारमुद्धृत्य ।
लोकव्यवहाराय प्रवक्ष्यति श्रीधराचार्यः ।

Mr. Dikshit concludes from the above statement of the verse that Śrīdhara must have composed another work on पाटीगणित larger in extent than the त्रिशतिका.

The conclusion arrived at by Mr. Dikshit raises the following questions regarding the bigger work of Śrīdhara on the पाटीगणित :—

- (1) Are there any references to this bigger work made since Śrīdhara's time by other subsequent writers ?
- (2) What is the exact title by which the work was known to these writers ?
- (3) Are there any extant Mss of this work traceable in libraries or elsewhere, since Mr. Dikshit wrote his History of Indian Astronomy in 1896 ?

Though I cannot answer all these questions in the present note I am able to answer the first two questions on the strength of the following evidence which is no less than, about 450 years old :—

† Journal of Indian History, Madras, Vol. XVI, pp. 259-262.

1. Published in Marathi, Poona, 1896, pp. 311-312.

2. Possibly the Library of Govt. Sanskrit College, Benares.

Rāghavabhaṭṭa who composed his commentary *Padārthādarśa*¹ in A. D. 1493 on the Śāradātilaka refers to Śrīdhara's smaller and bigger works in the following manner :—

“ श्रीधराचार्योक्तेन प्रकारेण क्षेत्रफलमानीतं तच्च स्थूलम् । यतो गणितग्रन्थानामियं शैली यत् स्थूलं सूक्ष्ममपि फलानयनमुच्यते । तत्र भगवता श्रीधराचार्येण बृहत्पाट्यां प्रकारद्वयमप्युक्त्वा तत्संग्रहे त्रिशतीग्रन्थे स्थूला एव प्रकारा दर्शिताः । भास्कराचार्येण तु लीलावत्यां स्थूला इव सूक्ष्मा अपि प्रकारा उक्ताः । तां बृहत्पाटीं चावलोक्य मया सूक्ष्मं फलमिदमानीतम् । तदेव सूक्ष्ममिति मन्यते चेत्तदा मूले अस्यन्तं फलाधिक्यं स्यात् ” etc.

It would be clear from the above extract that Rāghavabhaṭṭa in A. D. 1493 had before him the bigger work of Śrīdharācārya and that he had used it (तां बृहत्पाटीं च अवलोक्य मया etc). The name of this bigger work was बृहत्पाटी while the smaller work was known to him as त्रिशती² which is the same as त्रिशतिका mentioned by Mr. Dikshit as stated above. About this work Dr. Eggeling³ remarks :—

“ Gaṇitasāra also called Trīṣatī, a compendium of arithmetic, by Śrīdharācārya, the precursor of Bhāskarācārya, whose Līlāvātī seems to have been written in distinct imitation of this work.”

As Bhāskarācārya wrote his Līlāvātī in imitation of the Trīṣatī it must have been very popular among astronomers of his time. Our curiosity, therefore, to know more of the bigger work, viz., the बृहत्पाटी, of which the त्रिशती is an abridged version, increases, but as no Mss of the बृहत्पाटी have been recorded so far we must rest satisfied by trying to record all references to and quotations from this work wherever found. I shall now record a reference to

1. Ed. in Kashi Sanskrit Series, 1934, p. 99.

2. Aufrecht records the following Mss of Trīṣatī in Cata. Catalogorum.

this bigger work of Śrīdharācārya which is earlier by 100 years than the reference to the work by Rāghavabhaṭṭa in 1493 A. D.

Makkibhaṭṭa who had been assigned to A. D. 1377¹ by Dr. Bibhūtibhusan Datta mentions a work of Śrīdharācārya called the नवशती and quotes from it as will be seen from the following extract² from his Commentary called the Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa on Śrīpati's Siddhānta-Śekhara edited by Babuji Miśra :—

“ कोट्यादिलक्षणं श्रीधराचार्येण नवशत्यामुक्तम् ॥
एकं दश शतं तस्मात् सहस्रमयुतं ततः परं लक्षम् ।
प्रयुतं कोटिरथार्बुदमब्जं खर्वं निखर्वं च ॥
तस्मान्महासरोजं शङ्खःसरितां पतिस्वन्यम् ।
मध्यं परार्धमाहुर्ग्रथोत्तरं दशगुणाः संज्ञाः ॥ इति ॥ ”

Pt. Babuji Miśra states in a footnote³ to the above extract that Śrīdharācārya prepared an abridged version of this work of his viz., the नवशती, the name of the former being the त्रिशतिका and that M. M. Sudhakara Dvivedi has published an edition of the work. The identity of the नवशती with the bigger original of Śrīdharācārya's work on the पाटीगणित designated by Rāghavabhaṭṭa as बृहत्पाटी seems quite possible as stated by Pt. Babuji Miśra and the following additional information regarding the bigger original is furnished by Makkibhaṭṭa's reference noted above :—

- (1) The original work consisted of 900 verses नवशती and hence was termed नवशती or a “Compendium of 900 verses,” in Makkibhaṭṭa's time (A. D. 1377).
- (2) As Makkibhaṭṭa quotes from it he had before him a MS of the work and it is reasonable to suppose that the work was quite popular in the 14th Century. This conclusion is in harmony with the statement of Rāghavabhaṭṭa in 1493 A. D. that he had used a Ms of the bigger work of Śrīdharācārya on the पाटीगणित ("मयाबृहत्पाटी

Aufrecht records no Mss of this bigger work of Śrīdharācārya either under the title नवशती or बृहत्पाटी. Perhaps a Ms of this work may still be traced and the foregoing particulars may facilitate proper search for the Mss of this important work of Śrīdharācārya by scholars intrested in the history of Indian Mathematics and Astronomy.

Identity of Makkibhaṭṭa, the Author of a Commentary on Śrīpati's Siddhānta- śekhara, with Makkibhaṭṭa, the Author of a Commentary on the Raghuvamśa †

Aufrecht does not record any MSS of a commentary on the *Siddhānta-Śekhara*¹ of the astronomer Śrīpati by Makkibhaṭṭa. We must, therefore, thank Pt. Babuji Miśra, for bringing to light at least at a fragment of this commentary called the Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa on the first three chapters and about half of the fourth chapter² of Śrīpati's text (up to verse 75). Makkibhaṭṭa himself tells us that he was well versed in many subjects viz. : (1) Veda, (2) Grammar, (3) Poetry, (4) Vedānta, (5) Logic, (6) Dharmaśāstra, (7) Prosody, (8) Rhetoric, (9) Drama, (10) Purāṇas, (11) Astronomy, and (12) Yogaśāstra (verse 4). He is assigned to Śaka 1299³ (= A. D. 1377). Generally Makkibhaṭṭa follows Āryabhaṭa. The following references to earlier authors and works are found in the fragment of Makkibhaṭṭa's commentary⁴ published by Pt. Babuji Miśra :—

4. Mr. D. V. Ketkar of Bijapur informs me that Makkibhaṭṭa's commentary on Śrīpati's Siddhānta - Śekhara has freely borrowed from the Brahmasiddhāntavāsanābhāṣya of Caturveda Pṛthūdaka-svāmin, son of Bhaṭṭa Madhusūdana. Makkibhaṭṭa, however, does not mention by name the source of his borrowing. The India Office MSS of Pṛthūdaka's commentary (Nos. 2769 - 70) are fragmentary and hopelessly jumbled together. The Govt. B. O. R. Institute, Poona, has a good MS of this commentary, viz. No. 339 of 1879 - 80. It is, however, in a decaying condition. It is dated Śaka 1595 (A. D. 1673) ' Bhādrapada, Śu. 5, Gurau ' — folios about 255.

Items Nos. 24 and 25 in the above list prove that Makkibhaṭṭa wrote a commentary called the गणितविलास on the बृहद्भास्करीय, which Pt. Babuji Miśra explains¹ as the work of भास्कर who was the chief pupil of Āryabhaṭa (Śaka 444 = A. D. 522). No. MSS of this गणितविलास have been recorded by Aufrecht. So far only two works on mathematics composed by Makkibhaṭṭa have been known, viz. (1) the गणितभूषण commentary on the Siddhānta-Śekhara mentioned above and (2) गणितविलास, a commentary on the बृहद्भास्करीय mentioned by Makkibhaṭṭa in the गणितभूषण. It is possible that an erudite scholar like Makkibhaṭṭa well versed in different branches of learning, as stated by him in verse 4 of his introductory remarks to the commentary गणितभूषण, may have written original works or at least commentaries on works pertaining to subjects other than mathematics.

I propose in this note to prove that Makkibhaṭṭa the author of the Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa is identical with Makkibhaṭṭa, the author of a commentary on the Raghuvamśa, a fragment of which is available in the India Office Library. This identity will prove Makkibhaṭṭa's interest in Kāvya literature.

The only reference to Makkibhaṭṭa's works found in Aufrecht's *Cata. Catalogorum*² is the following :—

‘ भक्तिभट्ट—Raghuvamśapradīpikā (Sargas 1-9). At the end of Sarga XIX, the statement is found that Makki wrote the commentary as far as Sarga 14 and the remaining Sargāḥ were explained by Jñānendra.’³

Reference to the MS of the above commentary made by Aufrecht is:—

- (1) “B. C. 410”¹ This MS was presented by Dr. A. C. Burnell to the India Office Library. It is described by Prof. Keith in his *Catalogue of India Office MSS*² under two different numbers, viz. No. 6992 and 6993, the first number comprises the commentary of Makkibhaṭṭa proper while the second comprises the supplementary commentary on Sarga XIX only by Jñānendragiri.

Makkibhaṭṭa's commentary available in No. 6992 for is Sargas, I – III only. The identity of authorship of the Raghuvamśa-pradīpikā and the Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa will be clear from the following comparison of textual matter at the beginning of both the works:—

It will be seen from the above comparison that the introductory verses in both the commentaries are almost identical. The Raghuvamśapradīpikā contains 3 verses at the beginning while the Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa contains 4 verses, out of which verse 3 only is not found in the Raghuvamśapradīpikā. Then again the last 2 lines of verse 1 in both the commentaries differ in expression though the metre is identical. A study of the India Office MS of the Raghuvamśapradīpikā may furnish more data to support the identity of authorship for both the commentaries, which is, however, obvious from the above comparison of common passages and which, coupled with the identity of the name Makkibhaṭṭa, needs no elaborate proof. It would, however, be worth while to analyse the fragment of the India Office MS of the Raghuvamśapradīpikā with a view to seeing what more light it can throw on the chronology of Sanskrit authors referred to therein. Such a study would be all the more desirable especially in view of the exact date of Makkibhaṭṭa's Gaṇitabhūṣaṇa, viz. A. D. 1377 already referred to in this note and the rarity of MSS of Makkibhaṭṭa's works so far known, viz. : (1) गणितविलास (2) गणितभूषण and (3) रघुवंशप्रदीपिका.

Besides the Siddhānta-Śekhara commented on by Makkibhaṭṭa, Śrīpati wrote the following works:— (1) Jātakapad- dhati or Śrīpatipaddhati (2) Jyotiṣaratnamālā or Śrīpatiratnamālā, (3) Ratnasāra, (4) Śrīpatinibandha, (5) Śrīpatīsamuccaya, (6) Dhikotīdam Karaṇam, (7) Dhruvamānasa Karaṇam. I am concerned here with the work Jyotiṣaratnamālā in the above list. Pandit Babuji Miśra informs us in his Sanskrit Introduction to the Siddhānta-Sekhara (p. 9) that there are many commentaries on the Jyotiṣaratnamālā including one by Mahādevabhāṭṭa. Aufrecht¹ records a MS of a commentary on this work of Śrīpati by Śrīpati himself. Aufrecht does not say if this MS contains the commentary in Sanskrit or vernacular. I wish, therefore, to draw the attention of the Sanskritists to Śrīpati's commentary on the Jyotiṣaratnamālā composed in Marāṭhī. A rare MS² of this commentary was discovered by the Maharashtra historian Rajawade and published by him in 1914. It begins:— “॥ तेया ईश्वररूपा कालातें सि । ग्रंथकर्त्ता श्रीपति नमस्कारी ॥ मी श्रीपति रत्नाची माळा रचिती.” Students of philology will find much useful material in this specimen of old Marathi of about Śaka 950 (= A. D. 1028) which is the date assigned to Śrīpati by the learned editor of the Siddhānta-Sekhara. In his work ‘Dhruvamānasākhyā’ Śrīpati states that he was the son of Nāgadeva and grandson of Keśavabhāṭṭa and that he wrote the work in “रंदिणीखण्ड.”³ Pandit Babuji expresses his inability to identify this place or to state anything definitely about the place where the work was composed or the birth-place of its author. According to Mahādeva who commented the Jyotiṣarat-

1. Cata. Catalo., I, p. 213 — ‘B. 4, 184’ — This MS was in the possession of one Morarji of Vadhavan. As Bühler does not give any description of this MS it is impossible to say if this commentary on the Jyotiṣaratnamālā by the author was composed in Sanskrit or in the vernacular.

2. Rajawade describes this MS as follows on pp. 81-82 of the Bharata Itihasa Mandal Series No. 8 (Śaka 1836 = 1914 A. D.). The MS was found at Nevāse and consisted of 74 leaves. It was written about 466 years ago as the copyist has recorded the years, 1369, 1370, 1371, 1372, and 1373 on the reverse of the 4th folio. The language of the commentary is almost identical with that used in the Jñāneśvarī (p. 83).

3. This information is furnished by the following verse quoted by Pt. Babuji Miśra:—

“अटके शवपुत्रस्य नागदेवस्य नन्दनः ।

श्रीपती रोहिणीखण्डे ज्योतिःशास्त्रमिदं व्यधात् ॥” namālā of Śrīpati, Śrīpati was of *Kāśyapagotra*¹. Mr. S. B. Dikshit assigns Śrīpati to Śaka 961 (= A. D. 1039).² From the fact of Śrīpati's composing a Marāṭhi commentary on one of his works it would be reasonable to conclude that he belonged to Maharashtra or at least to districts where Marāṭhi was spoken in the middle of the 11th century.

Vide Bhandarkar : Report (1882-83). ‘The author of Jyotīratna-mālā was the son of Nāgadeva and grandson of Keśava, who, of course, was a different person from the father of Gaṇeśa. This Keśava belonged to the Kāśyapagotra while Keśava of Nandigrāma was a Kauśika’.

59. New Light on the Chronology of the Commentators of the Mahābhārata †

In the list of Mss of the commentaries on the Mahābhārata prepared by Dr. V. S. Sukthankar, the Mss of the Vidyāsāgara's commentary are recorded as follows :—

विद्यासागर — रत्नावली (on अभाषर्वन्)

— Comm. on शान्तिपर्वन्

— रत्नावली (on भीष्मपर्वन्)

आनन्दपूर्ण भुनन्दि — व्याख्यानरत्नावली (on अनुशासनपर्वन्)

In view of the above Mss of Vidyāsāgara's or Ānandapūrṇa's commentary on the Sabhā, Śānti, Bhīṣma and the Anuśāsana parvans we must thank Prof. Dinesh Chandra Bhattacharya for drawing our attention to a fragment of Vidyāsāgara's commentary on the आदिपर्वन् recently* acquired by the Varendra Research Museum of Rajshahi, Bengal (Ms No. 1898). We are further thankful to the Professor for his close study and analysis of this fragment of 67 folios containing Vidyāsāgara's जयकौमुदी commentary on the आदिपर्वन् upto chap. 69 or so. With regard to the date of this fragment we are informed by the Professor that it is “about 150 years old.” We are further told by the Professor that this is “the most extensive commentary ever written on the Mahābhārata” and that “the author had an access to almost a bewildering mass of Mahābhārata literature and indulges from the very start with learned discussions on textual variations from a large number of texts and commentaries collected from different parts of Eastern India.” According to Vidyāsāgara's computation the Mahābhārata contains 1,02,555 verses. Speaking of the chronology of the commentary Prof. Bhattacharya states :— “We would tentatively place the author about 1700 A. D.” In this connection I have to draw the attention of my friend to the following papers on Vidyāsāgara published by Dr. Raghavan and myself :—

† Annals (B. O. K. Institute), Vol. XXV, pages 103–108.

(1) In 1939 I published my paper on “Date of Ānandapūrṇa alias Vidyāsāgara, the commentator of the Mahābhārata — Between A. D. 1200 and 1350” in the Bhārata Itihāsa Mandal Quarterly, Poona, Vol. XX, Part 1, pp. 29-36. I have proved in this paper that Vidyāsāgara is definitely earlier than A. D. 1400 as we have Mss of his works dated A. D. 1405, 1435 and 1568.

(2) Dr. V. Raghavan immediately wrote a paper corroborating my findings and published his paper on “The Date and Works of Ānandapūrṇa Vidyāsāgara” in the Annals of Oriental Research (Madras University), pp. 1-5 of the offprint sent to me. In this paper Dr. Raghavan has pointed out that our author in his Prakriyā-mañjarī states that he wrote it when King Kāmadeva, a devotee of Śiva, was ruling :

“ श्रीकामदेवे जगतीं प्रशासति
श्रीशैलकन्यापतिभक्तिधारिणि ।
विद्योदधेरुत्थितमेतदारुत्
टीकामृतं भूसुरहर्षवर्धनम् ॥ ”

King Kāmadeva mentioned in this stanza has been identified with Kāmadeva, the Kadamba ruler of Goa, whose inscription of Śaka 1315 or A. D. 1393 describes him as a devotee of Śiva at Gokarna. Dr. Raghavan, therefore, concluded : “We may, therefore, place King Kāmadeva and Vidyāsāgara safely about A. D. 1350.”

It would thus be seen that Vidyāsāgara flourished about A. D. 1350 and not “about A. D. 1700” as suggested by Prof. Bhattacharya.

Dr. Raghavan’s account of Vidyāsāgara’s Works shows clearly the erudition and abilities of this great scholiast. This conclusion is in harmony with the list of authorities quoted by Vidyāsāgara in the 67 folios of his commentary on the Ādiparvan now disclosed to us for the first time by Prof. Bhattacharya. This list is similar to the list of authorities mentioned by Vidyāsāgara in his Vedāntic work Nyāya-Candrikā (Madras Govt. Mss Library — MS R No. 2931). I note below in brief for ready reference both these lists of citations :—

The foregoing citations in Vidyāsāgara's works of c. A. D. 1350 are very important for the chronology of Sanskrit literature. I am concerned here with the chronology of the commentaries on the Mahābhārata mentioned by Vidyāsāgara in the Ādiparvan commentary before us. With reference to these commentaries and their authors I have to observe as follows :—

(1) अर्जुन — He may be different from अर्जुनमिश्र Mbh commentator. गदानन्द in his comm. on Mbh possibly refers to this अर्जुन :— “ बोधो विमलबोधोऽत्र वचनोऽर्जुनेऽर्जुनः ” (Vaṅgiya Sāhitya Pariṣat Ms).

(7) चतुर्भुजमिश्र — This author quotes मेदिनी lexicon. I have proved the date of मेदिनी to lie between c. A. D. 1200 and 1275 in a special paper to be published shortly. As विद्यासागर of c. A. D. 1350 quotes चतुर्भुजमिश्र we may fix up this commentator, between A. D. 1275 and 1350.

(10) जगद्धर — There is no commentator on the Mbh of this name in Dr. Sukthankar's list.

(11) जनार्दन — — Do —

(14) देवबोध, देवस्वामिन् — The earliest commentator on the Mbh possibly before A. D. 1150. His आदिपर्वटीका has been edited by Dr. R. N. Dandekar (B. O. R. I. edition) and the उद्योगपर्वन् टीका has been edited by Dr. S. K. De, in the Bhāratīya Vidyā Bhavan Series, Bombay.

(16) नारायणसर्वज्ञ, सर्वज्ञ — also called सर्वज्ञनारायण. He is considered to be identical with his namesake the author of a Comm. on मनुस्मृति who according to Mm. Prof. Kane flourished between A. D. 1100 and 1300 (vide p. 267 of Sukthankar Memorial Edition Vol. I (1944) edited by P. K. Gode.) This chronology harmonizes with Vidyāsāgara's reference to नारायणसर्वज्ञ in c. A. D. 1350.

(24) मुनि — This commentator is not found in Sukthankar's list. गदानन्द possibly refers to him in the following line :—

“ देवो मधुमुनिर्वाच्यो मिश्रो वाच्यश्चतुर्भुजे । ”

मुनि was a definite commentator of the Mbh as appears from the expression “ क्वचिन्मुनिटीकायाम् ” used by Vidyāsāgara.

(26) लक्ष्मण — Sukthankar's list shows the Mss of the commentary of लक्ष्मण on सभा and विराट् Parvans of the Mbh. The comm. is called विषमोद्धारिणी (on विराट्पर्वन्).

(31) विद्यानिधिभट्ट — He is not mentioned in Sukthankar's list.

(32) विमलबोध — Sukthankar's list shows his commentary on all the 18 Parvans of the Mbh. I have proved that विमलबोध is later than A. D. 1150 (vide pp. 394- 397 of Annals B. O. R. I. XVII). Now that Vidyāsāgara mentions him (c. A. D. 1350) the date of विमलबोध may be taken to lie between A. D. 1150 and 1300 or so.

(33) वैशम्पायन — Sukthankar's list shows his commentary on the शान्तिपर्वन् (भोक्ष्यर्षम्). विमलबोध refers to this commentator in the following lines :—

“ निघण्टुभाष्यनिगमनिरुक्तानि विशेषतः ।
वैशम्पायनटीकादि देवस्वामिमतानि च ।
वीक्ष्य व्याख्या विरचिता दुर्घटार्थप्रकाशिनी ॥ ”

[Vide p. 270 of Sukthankar Memo. Edition, Vol. I (1944)]

(46) सृष्टिधर — He is not mentioned in Sukthankar's list of Mss of Mbh commentaries. In his article on the Mbh commentators (Annals, B. O. R. I. Vol. XVII, p. 185) सृष्टिधर is mentioned. Prof. Bhattacharya states that व्यासागर mentions another सृष्टिधर and his commentary called भाषावृत्ति and further points out that व्यासागर “ takes the two सृष्टिधर as identical. ” This identity needs to be investigated.

It will be seen from the above notes that all the commentaries on the Mahābhārata, numbering about a dozen, mentioned by Vidyāsāgara are prior to A. D. 1350. It is for the first time that we are able to put a definite limit to the dates of these commentaries on the strength of the Ādiparvan-ṭīkā fragment so carefully analysed by Prof. Bhattacharya. It is worthwhile analysing Vidyāsāgara's commentary on the Sabhā, Śānti, Bhīṣma and Anuśāsana parvans referred to by me already in this paper. I hope that the information recorded and discussed by me in this paper will clarify the problem of the chronology of the Mahābhārata commentaries to a considerable extent as all the commentaries made use of by Vidyāsāgara are earlier in point of date than A. D. 1350.

60. Authorship of Sarasvatīvilāsa, a Digest of Civil and Religious Law †

Prof. P. V. Kane observes about the work Sarasvatīvilāsa in his *History of Dharmaśāstra*¹ as follows :—

“Pratāparudradeva, while ruling his capital Kāṭakanagara called together an assembly of pandits and compiled an extensive digest of civil and religious law. The royal author feels qualms of conscience on the question of eulogising himself and his family but stifles them easily by saying that a poet can also be an appreciative critic of his own production.” “The Sarasvatīvilāsa being a work composed under the express orders of a king for the benefit of his subjects makes the nearest approach to the Austrian conception of law as a command addressed by political superiors to political inferiors and enforced by a sanction.”

It is evident from the above remarks that the work Sarasvatīvilāsa is a compilation and the “qualms of conscience” felt by the royal author in eulogising himself and his family appear to be thrust on the royal patron of this compilation. Prof. Kane, however, does not record any information about the Pandit under whose supervision the work of compilation was carried out. This information can, however, be supplemented by the note of Prof. S. K. Aiyangar² on the commentary of Mahimnastava by Deśayāmātya, who “says that he comments upon Mahimnastava through the grace of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara, his guru (preceptor), whom he compares with the God Gaṇapati in wisdom. Lolla Lakṣmīdhara whom he praises as his guru was a very celebrated scholar of his time. We find him as the author of the Koṇḍavidu and Kaza inscriptions of Krishna Raya. He has written works on Astronomy, Astrology, and the Mantraśāstra as well as on all the six darśanas (religious schools) and Law. He was the author of the work Sarasvatīvilāsa upon Law, attributed to Pratāparudra. This Pratāparudra was the ruler of Orissa, contemporary with Krishna-raya, who became his father-in-law. Lolla Lakṣmīdhara enumerates Sarasvatīvilāsa among his works in the colophon to his commentary on Saundaryalaharī. He was the author of a portion of the cyclopaedic work on Astronomy, Astrology and allied subjects called Jyotiṣa Darpaṇa."

We have, therefore, to take it on the authority of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara himself that he was the real author or rather the editor of the compilation Sarasvatīvilāsa. At any rate between the rival claims of the royal patron of the compilation and of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara re. the authorship of the Sarasvatīvilāsa we are inclined to believe more in the latter's independent testimony than in the statements made in the compilation attributing the authorship to the Royal Patron, who is made to feel the so-called "qualms of conscience." These "qualms of conscience" at best give a plausible appearance to the claims of Royal Patron regarding the authorship of the work. Secondly the fact mentioned by Prof. Aiyangar that Lolla Lakṣmīdhara was also the author of a portion of another encyclopaedic work called Jyotiṣa Darpaṇa furnishes a good analogy in support of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara's authorship of Sarasvatīvilāsa.

I wanted to examine the colophon of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara's commentary on the Saundaryalaharī which gives a list of his works including Sarasvatīvilāsa. Unfortunately I could not get any printed edition of the work, if at all published, nor any Manuscript containing the pertinent reference. There are two Mss of this commentary in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, viz. No. 424 of 1884-87 and No. 824 of 1886-92. The first of these copies is incomplete while the second is complete but the colophon it contains lacks the pertinent list of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara's works required by me. As Prof. Aiyangar has not documented his remarks I am unable to verify them either in a printed edition of the commentary or in a manuscript. Under the circumstances I must presume that the statement of Prof. Aiyangar is based on reliable evidence of some Mss of the commentary of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara or other records on which he has based his note on the Mahimnastava.

61. A Commentary on the Naiṣadhīya - Carita by Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa and its probable Date — Between A. D. 1431 and 1730 or the first half of the 16th Century †

Aufrecht¹ records the following Mss of the commentary called Gūḍhārthaprakāśikā by Lakṣmaṇa, son of Rāmakṛṣṇa :—

(1) “ — Peters. 4. 27 (1). Extr. 26. ”

(2) “ — Stein 69 (8-15). ”

No. 1 of the above entries is the same as No. 716 of 1886-92 in the Govt. Mss Library. This Ms contains the commentary of Lakṣmaṇa on the 1st Canto only. No 2 of the above entries of Aufrecht is a Ms belonging to the Library of H. H. the Maharaja of Jammu and Kashmir described by Dr. Stein on p. 69 of his Catalogue (1894).

The Manuscript No. 716 of 1886-92 referred to above contains commentary for only the 1st Canto of the Naiṣadha and consists of 31 folios. Even such a small portion of the commentary bristles with numerous references to earlier works and authors as will be seen from the following list :—

1. काव्यप्रकाश (fol. 1).

Peterson has given an extract of the beginning of this MS on p. 26 of the Extracts published along with his Fourth Report. This extract tells us that Rāmakṛṣṇa was the name of Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa's father and that his brother's name was Dinakara. The MS ends as follows on folio 31 a — “ प्रासृतोभानुपमोविबुधः श्रीरामकृष्णशर्मा पं. लक्ष्मणशर्मा कृतबालैषध-

गुढार्थप्रकाशिकां टीकां ॥ १४६ ॥

इति लक्ष्मणभट्टकृते नैषधीयव्याख्याने प्रथमः सर्गः समाप्तः ॥

संवत् १७८६ ज्यैष्ठकृष्ण १ भादमे ६ ॥ शुभमस्तु ”

The present Ms was written in A. D. 1730. This year, therefore furnishes one terminus to the date of this commentary of Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa. The other terminus is easily furnished by the reference to Rāyamukūṭa or Mukūṭa (vide reference No. 25 in the above list) who wrote his commentary on the Amarakośa in A. D. 1431. We, therefore, get two limits for the date of this Naiṣadha commentary viz. 1431 and 1730. Previous commentators of Naiṣadha mentioned by Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa are :—

- (1) नृहरि (vide reference No. 7 in the above list).
- (2) नारायण (vide reference No- — 30 नृहरिनारायणौ)
- (3) जीवातु of Mallinātha (vide reference No. 9 above).

Prof. Handiqui' assigns नृहरि or नरहरि to about 1380 A. D. As regards Nārāyaṇa's date Prof. Handiqui observes :—

“ Nothing is definitely known about Nārāyaṇa's date. It is, however, certain that he is earlier than 1637 A. D. as there is a Ms of his commentary written in Saṃvat 1693, being No. 368 of 1884-87 preserved at the Bhandarkar Institute. ” Prof. Handiqui also states that as Nārāyaṇa quotes from Medinikośa (about 14th cent.) he may be assumed to be later than A. D. 1440 and earlier than 1637. These limits for Nārāyaṇa's date do not conflict with our limits for Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa's date viz. 1431 and 1730.

Prof. Handiqui' assigns Mallinātha to the “ latter portion of the fourteenth century ” i. e. between A. D. 1350 and 1400. This date also harmonizes with our limits for Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa's date viz. 1431 and 1730 A. D.

Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa very often refers to a writer of the name तांडव (vide reference No. 51 above) and in one place he is bracketed with the commentator नृहरि on folio 27 as “ नृहरितांडवौ ” analogous to “ नृहरिनारायणौ ” on folio 7 (vide reference No. 30). This reference gives us an impression that तांडव must have been a commentator of the Naiṣadha. Aufrecht does not record any reference to तांडव or his works. That Lakṣmaṇabhaṭṭa availed himself of many previous commentaries is clear from his own statement made in the beginning of the work viz :—

“ करोमि नैषधस्याख्यामन्यादृष्टपथानुगाम् ॥ ५ ॥
संति यद्यपि सद्गयाख्या बुधानां नैषधे शतम् ।
तथाप्यमुष्या वेदग्धीं केचिद्विज्ञातुमीशते ॥ ६ ॥ ”

62. Date of Rāghavabhaṭṭa, the Commentator of Kālidāsa's Abhijñāna Śākuntala and other Works — last Quarter of the 15th Century (1475-1500 A. D.) †

Though Rāghavabhaṭṭa's commentary on the Śākuntala has been very much exploited by many annotators, none has cared to investigate the facts connected with the family history of this popular commentator. I propose in this note to record all data gathered by me in connection with the chronology and family history of Rāghavabhaṭṭa and trust that other scholars who may have made a closer study of his commentaries will be inclined to publish the results of their study to supplement the information supplied by me in the present note.

Aufrecht records the following Mss of Rāghavabhaṭṭa's works :—

अर्थोद्योतनिका¹ by राघवभट्ट — B. 2, 124 ; Burnell 173b ; Rice 254 ; Bühler 554,

राघवभट्ट² — अर्थोद्योतनिका on Śākuntala

उत्तररामचरित्रटीका³ by राघवाचार्य, Oppert 2287 ; II, 3597, 8171 ;

मालतीमाधवटीका, N. W. 618.

राघवभट्ट⁴ — son of पृथ्वीधरभट्ट — अभिज्ञानशाकुन्तलटीका अर्थोद्योतनिका

Though I have not examined all the above mentioned Mss, some of them being quite inaccessible to me, they appear to establish that Rāghavabhaṭṭa wrote commentaries on (1) the शाकुन्तल, (2) the उत्तररामचरित and (3) the मालतीमाधव.

The above references¹ show the critical nature of Rāghava-bhaṭṭa's commentary and his vast learning. It is, therefore, not a vain boast when he calls himself 'निशातमति', 'साहिस्वरत्नाकर', 'सकलकलाशास्त्रप्रवीण' in the colophon to his commentary. The MS used by Mr. Kale for his 1913 edition of the text with Rāghava-bhaṭṭa's commentary was procured for him "from Dharwar by Mr. G. V. Manerikar, Drawing Master, from Mr. Dikshit's Library" (preface p. 1). Mr. Kale adopted the text of Rāghava-bhaṭṭa without alterations, except in a few cases.

Rāghavabhaṭṭa invokes God 'गजास्य' or Gaṇapati at the beginning of his commentary. He wrote this commentary at 'श्रीविश्वेश्वरपत्तन' i. e. Benares. He was a devotee of God विश्वेश्वर of Benares. His father's name was पृथ्वीधर as will be seen from the following colophon of the commentary :—

“ नाट्यालंकृतिशास्त्रतत्त्वविदुषाऽभिज्ञानशाकुन्तल-

That a devotee of God विश्वेश्वर residing at Benares should develop Tāntrik predilections is quite in the fitness of things. I propose to identify our राघवभट्ट, author of the commentary on the Śākuntala and other dramas, with the following राघवभट्ट whose works have been recorded by Aufrecht' :—

राघवभट्ट — कालीतश्वरहस्य, दुर्गातश्व, पदार्थादर्श, (शारदातिलकटीका). He is quoted in तन्त्रसार (Oxf. 95b) in शाकानन्दतरङ्गिणी (Oxf. 104a), by रघुनन्दन (Oxf. 292b), by कमलाकर (Oxf. 279a), by विट्ठल (Oxf. 341a).

Peterson² describes a Ms of पदार्थादर्श (शारदातिलकटीका) in the Library of H. H. the Maharaja of Ulwar and it is the colophon of this Ms that enables us to identify our commentator of the Śākuntala with the commentator of the Śāradātīlaka. We quote below in extenso the colophon under reference as it furnishes us with all the points necessary for our proposed identification :—

“ पुरं गोदावर्या विलसदुपकण्ठे जनततं

The points of identification furnished by the two commentaries viz. the अर्थघोतनिका and पदार्थादर्श can be tabulated as follows :—

अर्थोद्योतनिका on शाकुन्तल	पदार्थादर्श on शारदातिलक
(1) The author's name is mentioned as श्रीराघव in the following line :— व्याख्येयं सरसा निशातमतिना श्रीराघवेण स्फुटा (2) Father's name is पृथ्वीधरभट्ट; compare “भट्टश्रीपृथ्वी-धरात्मज” in the colophon. (3) Place where the commentary was written is विश्वेश्वर-पत्तन or Benares. (4) राघवभट्ट is described as “साहित्यरत्नाकर”, “सकलकला-शास्त्रप्रवीण” in the colophon. The colophon of Dharwar Ms used by Mr. Kale being brief, no further details about Rāghavabhaṭṭa's family are available.	(1) Compare the name श्रीराघव in the following :— तन्त्रेऽस्मिन्सुधिया व्यधायि रुचिरा श्रीराघवेण स्फुटा । (verse 11) (2) Father's name is also पृथ्वीधरभट्ट compare “श्रीभट्ट-पृथ्वीधरनामधेयः” (v. 3). (3) Place where the commentary was written is विश्वेशपुरी or Benares. (4) राघवभट्ट is also called “साहित्यरत्नाकर”, “कलासु कुशलः” etc. (v. 6). The colophon of the Ulwar Ms is quite informative and the author has taken care to record the history of the family in detail and hence we get a more detailed account including grand-father's name and the date of the work.

I believe the above points of identification leave no doubt about the identity of the two राघवभट्टs viz. (1) One, the author of the commentary on the Śākuntala and (2) the other, the author of the commentary on the Śārādātīlaka. In fact they supplement each other and provide us with detailed information about Rāghavabhaṭṭa's family which may be summed up as under :—

Rāghavabhaṭṭa's family was originally residing at जनस्थान or Nasik in the Mahārāṣṭra on the banks of the river Godāvari. His grandfather Rāmeśvarabhaṭṭa was a very learned man expert in dialectics (वादिमहेशसिंह). His son Prthvīdharabhaṭṭa was well-versed in Mīmāṃsā and Vedānta and was much respected by his contemporaries on this account as also on account of his spotless character. After some time he migrated from Nasik to Benares and resided there till his death. At Benares he gave birth to a son called Rāghavabhāṭṭa who became expert in Vedānta, Nyāya, Mīmāṃsā, Mathematics, Medicine, Erotics, Music and other arts. He completed the commentary on the Sāradātīlaka on Sunday, in the month of Pauṣa, Śukla Pakṣa of Saṃvat 1550 (Raudra) which corresponds to Sunday 15th December 1493 A. D.

The Ulwar Ms¹ is very important as we get the date of Rāghavabhāṭṭa from its colophon. As Rāghavabhāṭṭa must have written this work when he was sufficiently equipped intellectually we can assign Rāghavabhāṭṭa's literary career to the last quarter of the 15th century (1475-1500 A. D.). His father must have migrated to Benares before A. D. 1450 or so. Benares then attracted Mahārāṣṭra pandits like Rāghavabhāṭṭa and his illustrious father and the tradition is to a certain extent still maintained by the modern professors at the Hindu University.

1. Since writing the above note an edition of the Sāradātīlaka with Padārthādarśa (Kashi Sanskrit Series No. 107) 1934, came to my hands. It contains the colophon found in the Ulwar MS as quoted by me in this note (vide p. 552).

63. Identification of Historical and Geographical Names in the Lakṣmaṇotsava, a Medical Treatise composed in A. D. 1450†

In the last issue of the *Karnāṭaka Historical Review*¹ Dr. Har Dutta Sharma's article on Lakṣmaṇotsava — An important work on medicine has been published. In this article Dr. Sharma has recorded all important data furnished by a Ms of the work in the Govt. Mss Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, viz. No. 911 of 1887-91. The first chapter of this encyclopædic work on medicine gives us a genealogy of the author's patron Lakṣmaṇa. According to this account the author's patron was a resident of Mathura and was a Kāyastha of the Māthura class. The B.O.R.I. Ms described by Dr. Sharma is a copy dated Saṃvat 1767² = A.D. 1711 and the date of composition is Saṃvat 1506³ = A.D. 1450.

Authorship of the work :— The work is called लक्ष्मणोत्सव. As it is encyclopædic in its contents it may have been composed by different collaborators. At least three names in verse 3 at the end suggest this possibility. These names are (1) क्षेमशर्मा, (2) वेदशर्मा and (3) दामोदर. Three more names are furnished by verses 4 to 8 at the end of the work. These names are :— (1) पुरुषोत्तम, (2) जगच्छ्री and (3) अर्हदास. Dr. Sharma concludes that पुरुषोत्तम may

2. The Ms ends on folio 218 — “समाप्तोयं लक्ष्मणोत्सव ग्रंथः ४००० । अथ शुभसंवत्सरे श्रीविक्रमार्कगताब्दानि १७६७ वर्षसमये चैत्रमासे कृष्णपक्षे तिथौ पंचम्यां चंद्रदिने श्रीमदाचार्यवर्य गच्छमुकुट श्रीमदाचार्य (6 letters erased)स्य छात्रपूज्यपरम-पूज्यशूरवीरधीरगंभीरदांत. इत्यादि सप्तवंशति गुणविराजमानश्री (5 letters erased) तस्यावलोकनार्थमिदं छजमल्लेख लिपीकृतं कर्णपुर्या ॥ श्रीरस्तु शुभमस्तु. ”

This Ms was copied in A.D. 1711 at कर्णपुरी. Mr. Nando Lal Dey identifies कर्णपुर with कर्णगड near Bhagalpur. (See his Geographical Dictionary. p. 94).

3. See Extract 430 in Peterson's Catal. of Ulwar MSS, 1890 (p. 163). This Ms of Lakṣmaṇotsava records the date of its composition as follows :— रसग्योमशारेद्वैकैर्वति विक्रमवत्सरे । मार्यो (गें) शुक्ले हरिदिने पूर्णो नवो नवो बुधे ॥ ” have been a guide and a critic in the composition of the work, while जगच्छी and अर्हदास were the courtiers of the author's patron. In verse 39 we get a reference to लक्ष्मण after whom the work is named :— “ अथ नाम सुलक्ष्मणोत्सवमिमं वृत्ते सुधीर्लक्ष्मणः. ” In the colophons of chapters the work is described as लक्ष्मणप्रथिते, and not लक्ष्मणरचिते as pointed by Dr. Sharma. From these and other points discussed by Dr. Sharma, he concludes that लक्ष्मण was the patron of the author. Dr. Sharma later records evidence which supports लक्ष्मण's authorship of the work, for instance, the last two lines of verse 38 which read :—

“ सोयं जर्वजनान्विलोक्य विविधातंकार्दितान् लक्ष्मण
कर्तुं तान्विरुजः करोति करुणासिंधुनिर्वंधं शुभम् ॥ ३८ ॥ ”

As Dr. Sharma leaves the question of authorship undecided, I intend to help him to decide it by identifying the historical and geographical data furnished by the work.

Genealogy of Lakṣmaṇa :—Chapter I of Lakṣmaṇotsava contains 41 verses from which verses 9 to 39 give us the genealogy of Lakṣmaṇa which may be indicated in the following series of names :—

दयनाग - लोहड - सहदेव - दामोदर - धर्मदेव - खतले - रैपाल - गजपति - स्थिरराज - दासूक - कामराज - अमरसिंह - जालप - विक्रमश्रीः - पृथुश्रीः - धनराज - भ्रमाजरर - उद्धरण - महीचन्द्र - अमरसिंह - (अमरश्री' or v. 1. सोमराज) - लक्ष्मण - रावण.

In the above list of names we are concerned with लक्ष्मण and his father अमरसिंह. Verses 32 to 41 pertain to लक्ष्मण and are more or less laudatory. He is called कल्पवृक्ष (v. 33). He bestows wealth profusely (वाञ्छातीतवसुप्रदः), and is always full of tenderness and humility (मृदुर्नम्रः) (v. 36), He is dharma incarnate (धर्मं मूर्तमिवोदित — v. 37). This description of लक्ष्मण supports Dr. Sharma's view that he was the patron of the author or authors responsible for this medical compilation which goes by his name ; because it is incon-

1. This name printed in bold type in verse 28 of the extract may not be a proper name but is only an equivalent of अमरसिंह to whom were born two sons लक्ष्मण and रावण, as indicated in verses 29 and 32 :—

v. 29 :— “ तस्य द्वौ तनयौ.....ज्येष्ठो लक्ष्मणसंज्ञकः समभवत् तस्यानुजो रावणः । ”

v. 32 — “ प्रसूतोऽमरसिंहाख्यकासारात्कमलोपमः । लक्ष्मणो भाति भूलोके कंठ्ण-ceivable that an author who is described as नम्र or full of humility should write in a bombastic manner any laudatory verses about himself. लक्ष्मण built at नवग्राम,¹ a tank (दीर्घिका), and a rest-house (धर्मशाला - v. 38). We are told in verse 39 about the sources of the present compilation. These are the samhitās of सुश्रुत, वाग्भट, अत्रि, and चरक. Besides these texts the opinions of भेडाचार्य, नित्यनाथ, and others have been utilised and their essence incorporated in this work.

मौलिक or भोलिक was the name of लक्ष्मण's mother as stated in verse 37 [देवी मौलिक (MS भोलिक) संज्ञिका..... प्रासूतं यं निर्मलम्].

Amarasimha, the father of Lakṣmaṇa — Dr. Sharma states that Amarasimha "held some high position at the court of Mahamandakhān (= Mahammad Khān or Mahmūd Khān)" as indicated in verse 25² of Chap. I of the work. This महमंदखान is styled as

1. The nearest phonetical equivalent of the name नवग्राम found in the Imp. Gaz. of India, Vol. IX, p. 199, 1886) is Naogāon. Places recorded as having this name are :—

(i) Naogāon = Nowgong (A district of Assam); a town in Bundelkhand.

(ii) Naogāon in the Rajshahi district, Bengal, between Hamirpur and Chhatarpur state. I am inclined to identify नवग्राम with modern Nowgong the local names of which as recorded in the Gazetteer are "Nāogāon" and "Naugaon" in Bundelkhand, Central India. The Gazetteer states that a Rajkumar College in memory of Lord Mayo was opened here in 1875. The distance in a straight line on the map between Biana or श्रीपथ and this Nowgong (= Naugāon = नवग्राम) is about 200 miles. It is reasonable to suppose that this Naogāon formerly formed part of the territory governed by Muhammad Khan of Biana and लक्ष्मण built a tank and a dharmasālā within the territory governed by his patron king Muhammad Khan. The possibility of लक्ष्मण's constructing the tank, etc., at a place in Assam or Bengal appears to be rather remote. The exact identification of नवग्राम needs, however, more evidence.

2. This verse reads as follows :—

"येनाशेषशकोत्तमात्प्रविलसत्प्रौढप्रतापानल-

ज्वालालीढसमस्तवैरिनिवहारण्यात्पदं प्रोक्षतं ।

लब्ध्वा श्रीमहमंदखानसुनृपात् प्रत्यर्थिकांतानो-

शकीसम (v. 25) and शकेश in verse 5.¹ The work was composed in A. D. 1450 as previously stated by me. In verse 7 we are told that महमंदखान was ruling when the work was composed.² It is, therefore, clear that in A. D. 1450 महमंदखान the Śaka king (= शकेश) was reigning at श्रीपथ town. Amarasimha's mother's name was लाडमा (or लाउमा) (v. 26 — यो लाडमा (लाउमा)स्य जननी शुभकल्पवल्पाः प्रादुर्भवन् etc.).

The foregoing lines give us the necessary historical and geographical particulars about लक्ष्मण and his family. We have now to see if any of these particulars could be identified on evidence from contemporary or earlier sources.

Identification of श्रीपथ — Mr. Nando Lal Dey makes the following entry about श्रीपथ in his Geographical Dictionary,³ p. 193 :—

Śrīpatha — Biana, ninety miles east of Jaipur (Indian Antiquary, XV).

J. F. Fleet has identified Biyānā with the town of the name श्रीपथा mentioned in the Biyānā stone inscription dated Samvat 1100 = A. D. 1044.⁴ In this inscription the expression श्रीपथायां पुरि indicates that the name of the town was श्रीपथा as used in the eleventh century, while in the लक्ष्मणोत्सव composed in A. D. 1450 we have the expression पुरे श्रीपथनाम्नि. In the first expression the word श्रीपथा has a feminine ending in आ, corresponding to the feminine form पुरि, while in the second expression the word श्रीपथ corresponds to the neuter form पुरे. The change of था to थ caused by the change of gender of the word पुर, which has both the genders, viz, feminine and neuter, need not be an obstacle in our identifying श्रीपथ of A. D. 1450 with श्रीपथा of A. D. 1044 which

1. This verse reads :—

“तस्मिन्पुरे श्रीपथनाम्नि वंद्ये यशोविधुः सद्गुणरत्नसिंधुः ।
आस्ते शकेशो महमंदखानः शौर्यप्रतिक्षिप्तपराभिधानः ॥”

2. This verse reads :—

“नमन्महामृद्व्रजमौलिमालास्खलत्परागारुणपादपद्मे ।
तस्मिन्क्षितौ राजपदं दधाने ग्रंथः कृतः श्रीमहमंदखाने ॥ ७ ॥”

3. Cal. Ori. Series, No. 21, E 13, 1927.

4. Ind. Ant. Vol. XV, p. 9. — “Biyānā is the chief town of the Tahsil of the same name in the Bharatpur State in Rajputana.”

Fleet has already identified with Biyānā in the Bharatpur State in Rajputna.

We have now to see if the name श्रीपथा for Biyānā was in actual use in the fifteenth century. Fortunately Fleet has already pointed out¹ that another Biyānā inscription dated Samvat 1503 = A. D. 1447 actually uses the name श्रीपथा (ओं ॥ सिद्धिः ॥ संवत् १५०३ वर्षे आषाढवदि ९ शनौ दिने श्री श्रीपथायाम्, etc.). This inscription proves beyond doubt that the name श्रीपथा for Biyānā was current in A. D. 1447, i.e., three years before the date of composition of the work लक्ष्मणोत्सव, and that it has been changed to श्रीपथ in verse 5 of Chap. I of the work to suit the neuter gender of the word पुर in the expression तस्मिन्पुरे श्रीपथनाग्नि वंद्ये. It is, therefore, clear that श्रीपथ (A. D. 1450) = श्रीपथा (A. D. 1447)

= श्रीपथा (A. D. 1044)

= Biyānā or Biana in the Bharatpur State in Rajputana.

Identification of महमंदखान :— Dr. Sharma has already equated महमंदखान with Muhammad Khān. We have now to find out if there was any Muhammadan prince (शकेश or शकीत्तम) of the name Muhammad Khān at Biana reigning either as an independent sovereign or as a tributary to some sovereign power.

It appears that Muhammad Khān of Śrīpatha or Biana, at whose court Amarasiṃha held some high position, is identical with Muhammad Khān of Biyānā who surrendered to Mubarak Shah II in February 1427.² Mubarak Shah II was a Sultan of Delhi belonging to the line of Sayyids³ which ruled from A. D. 1414 to 1443.⁴ Mubarak Shah II succeeded his father Khizr Khān two days after the latter's death on 20th May 1421.⁵ He was murdered at Mubarakābād on 19th February 1434.⁶

Though Muhammad Khān of Biyāna surrendered to Mubarak

Shah II in February 1427, he appears to have seized Biyāna again. Mubarak then started in person for Biyāna but was withheld by the news that Ibrāhim Shah Sharqui was then marching on Kalpi. Between February and March 1428 Ibrāhim returned before Mubarak. Mubarak then marched to Biyāna and besieged Muhammad Khān, who capitulated a second time. Mubarak appointed a governor for Biyāna and returned to Delhi on 30th May 1428.¹

The Lakṣmaṇotsava tells us that in A. D. 1450 Muhammad Khān was ruling at Śrīpātha or Biyāna² (तस्मिन्श्चितौ राजपदं दधाने — v. 7, Chap. I).

It is possible to suppose that though he capitulated twice to the Sultan of Delhi between February 1427 and May 1428, he might have assumed independence after Mubarak's death in A. D. 1434. What heroism was shown by Amarasimha, the father of Lakṣmaṇa, in all the encounters of his patron king Muhammad Khān with the Sultan of Delhi, we are unable to say. In verse 25 of Chap. I the expression शौर्येण सूर्यायितम् with reference to Amarasimha appears to indicate that he did play some valorous part in his master's battles against his enemies.

I have attempted to identify the names महमदखान, श्रीपथ and

1. Duff, ibid, p. 248.

2. See Imp. Gazetteer, Vol. II, 1885, p. 418 — Biana is on the route from Agra to Mhow, 50 miles southwest of the former. The town is of considerable antiquity. It is a spot of great sanctity in the eyes of Muhammadans. It is mentioned by Ferishta as a place of importance in 1491, when it stood a siege against Sikandar Lodi. Babar describes it in 1526 as one of the famous forts in India.

Biyānā (= Biana) is a railway junction being the 3rd important railway station from Muttra (= Mathurā) southward (Muttra — Bharatpur — Bayana — Sawai Madhopur — Kotah). Bayana appears to have been famous for its indigo in the 1st half of the 17th century. The East India Company purchased this indigo and exported it. [See India Office Records — supplementary Calendar (1600-1640 A. D.), London, 1928, sections 279-81 and others]. Some pre-historic human remains were found at Bayana in 1910 (see p. 374 of Prehistoric India by Panchanan Mitra, Calcutta, 1927.)

नवग्राम in this paper, as Dr. Sharma has left the question open¹ for such an attempt in his analysis of the work Lakṣmaṇotsava. I trust that Dr. Sharma as also students of mediaeval history will examine my identification of these names and bring more information to bear on this question from sources which I cannot command at present.

1. See p. 7, Vol. III of the Karnāṭaka Hist. Review:— Dr. Sharma remarks—“Unfortunately at present we cannot identify these places ; nor do we know of Mahamandakhān.”

64. The Terminus Ad Quem for the Date of Bhānudatta, the Author of the Rasamañjarī †

Dr. S. K. De makes the following remarks¹ while dealing with the date of Bhānudatta, the author of the Rasamañjarī :—

“ The other terminus is furnished by the date of one of the commentaries on the Rasamañjarī called the Rasamañjarīvikāśa (or Vilāsa) by Gopāla (alias Vopadeva), son of Nṛsimha which is expressly dated in 1428 A. D. ” Dr. De further² states that “ the comm. is dated Sāṃvat 1484 = 1428 A. D.Mr. Shridhar R. Bhandarkar points out (Rep. of Second Tour 1904-06, p. 36) that the date is 1494 and not 1484 as given by Stein (extr. p. 273) but he thinks it is Śaka era, in which case the date of commentary will be 1572 A. D. ”

As the above statement of Dr. De left me in uncertainty about the exact terminus I examined the grounds of Mr. Bhandarkar's statement that the year belongs to the Śaka era and that the date of the commentary would, therefore, be 1572 A. D. My examination shows that Mr. Bhandarkar's conclusion is correct as will be seen from the following facts :—

(1) Mr. S. R. Bhandarkar's remarks³ about the date of the commentary under reference are as follows :—

“ The date of composition is given as युगरन्ध्रवेदधरणी गण्येगिरोवत्सरे. ' रन्ध्र means nine and so the date is 1494 and not 1484 as given by Stein. The era is not specified. But the name of the cyclic year Angiras shows that it is the Śaka year. So the era of the date of Stein's Ms must be the Śaka era since the date is 1514.”

2. Ibid p. 252.

3. Report of a Second Tour in Search of Sanskrit Mss in Rajputana and Central India — 1904-05 and 1905-06, p. 36.

(2) Mr. Bhandarkar is correct in taking ९ to mean nine and not eight as interpreted by Stein in his extract on p. 273 of his Catalogue (see p. 120 of Ojha's Palaeography of India, 1918). Hence the year is 1494 and not 1484.

(3) Dr. Stein was doubtful about his interpretation of the chronogram as he records it with a sign of interrogation thus — “युगन्ध्रवेदधरणी (1484?) गण्ये गिरो वत्सरे.”

(4) Dr. Stein could not properly make use of the incorrect expression “गण्ये गिरो वत्सरे” as recorded in his Manuscript. The correct expression is found in the Ms seen by Mr. Bhandarkar and which he records as “गण्ये गिरो वत्सरे.” In this expression the presence of the anusvāra gives us clearly the word ‘अंगिरो’ instead of the word गिरो which could not make any meaning in Stein's Ms.

(5) Mr. Bhandarkar is also correct in stating that Āṅgiras is the name of the Śaka year and not of a Saṁvat year. This statement is borne out by a reference to Indian Ephemeris (Vol. V, 1922, p. 346) where the name of Śaka 1494 is mentioned to be Āṅgiras. On p. 77 of the same volume Saṁvat 1494 is mentioned to have Raktākṣa as its name which conflicts with the name अंगिरस् as given in the Ms.

It will thus be seen that the date of the com. Rasamañjarī-vikāśa is A. D. 1572 and not 1428 A. D. Consequently the later terminus for Bhānudatta's date is A. D. 1572 and not 1428 A. D.

65. Bhānudatta, Author of the Pārijāta and Bhānudatta, Author of the Rasamañjarī †

Mr. K. P. Jayaswal in his *Introduction*¹ to the Descriptive Catalogue of MSS in Mithilā makes the following remarks about Bhānudatta, a writer on alanikāra :—

‘The Rasamañjarī (a very popular book by Bhānudatta, a Maithila (देशो यस्य विदेहभूः, p. 52) has several MSS (38 to 38P). It is the composition of a Vedāntist, for the instruction [it is reported] of his own son. The author flourished in the fourteenth century. The oldest MS is dated Ś. 1689. His Rasataranṅinī (Nos. 36 to 36G) is also a well-known treatise on sentiments. He is one of the last writers of the Hindu State of Mithila. This has as many as five commentaries.’

According to Dr. S. K. De,² the date of Bhānudatta, the author of the Rasamañjarī is ‘earlier than the 14th century and later than the 12th century A. D.’³

According to Mr. P. V. Kane⁴ Bhānudatta’s father Gaṇeśvara is very likely Gaṇeśvaramantrin, brother of Vireśvara, whose son Caṇḍeśvara composed the Vivādaratnākara and weighed himself in gold in 1315 A.D. Therefore, Bhānudatta flourished towards the end of the 13th and the beginning of the 14th century.

Conference* published in Summaries of Papers (Allahabad, 1926, pp. 40–43) and states that in this article he ‘has attempted a closer approximation of Bhānudatta’s date to the end of the 15th and beginning of the 16th century.’

4. Sāhityadarpaṇa, Intro., p. cxviii.

According to Dr. Hara Datta Sharma¹ the poets Bhānukara and Bhānudatta are identical and as Bhānukara's patron was King Virabhānu² of the Baghela dynasty, who flourished between A.D. 1500 and 1550, Bhānudatta 'should be placed in the beginning of the 16th century A.D.'

The foregoing views of four different scholars on the problem of Bhānudatta's date tempt me to record some more data having some bearing on this problem, and which none of these scholars has examined so far. If an attempt has been made to prove the identity of भानुकर³ and भानुदत्त, names not quite identical, there is every reason to examine the namesakes of भानुदत्त and their works. One such namesake is भानुदत्त, the author of a work on dharmasāstra called the Pārijāta, a MS of which has been described by Mr. Jayaswal.⁴ It is in Maithili characters. The work consists of prose and verse. Jayaswal describes it as 'a manual of dharmasāstra, dealing with Tithivicāra by Bhānudatta.' The following two verses at the beginning of the work give us some information about the author Bhānudatta and his parentage :—

1. Vide Annals, Vol. XVII, pp. 243-258 — The Poet Bhānukara.

2. Vide my article on the Identification of Virabhānu (Calcutta Oriental Journal, Vol. II, pp. 254-258).

3. Vide Annals, Vol. XVII, pp. 247-48 — Dr. Sharma records numerous verses from the works of भानुदत्त viz. the Rasamañjarī, Rasataranṅinī and Gitagaurīpati, all of which are ascribed to Bhānukara in various anthologies. I think this list instead of proving the identity of भानुकर and भानुदत्त only explains the indiscriminate manner in which the names of the two authors were confused. भानुदत्त was the son of गणपति or गणेश्वर but the name of भानुकर's father has nowhere been traced. Once the name भानुदत्त was confused with भानुकर even the parentage of the one was thrust on the other, as proved by the following verse found in an anthology of Venīdatta (1644 A.D.) called पद्यवेणी (MS No. 375 of 1884-87).

Folio — 676

वसुधा विबुधास्तर्कतिग्मांशुकरतापिताः ।

कवेः श्रीभानुदत्तस्य पारिजातो निषेव्यताम् ॥ ३ ॥ ”

In verse 2 quoted above the reading ‘गणपतिः’ in line 1 makes no meaning. The correct reading ought to be ‘गणपतेः’ because भानुकवि or भानुदत्त is here instituting a comparison between his own काव्य and that of ‘गणपति’ and hence to balance the expression ‘काव्यं भानुकवेस्तथा’ we must have the corresponding expression ‘यथा गणपतेः काव्यः.’ The expression ‘अनयोः संगमः’ in the second line of the verse appears to indicate that भानुकवि is comparing his own काव्य with the काव्य of गणपति, who is in all probability his father.

If the above interpretation is accepted we are in a position to state that गणपति was भानुदत्त’s father.

Let us now turn to भानुदत्त the author of works on alamkāra viz. the Rasamañjarī and the Rasataranginī, the problem of whose date has engaged the attention of so many scholars, Mr. Jayaswal, Mr. Kane, Dr. De and Dr. Sharma, referred to above.

In the work called Rasamañjarī भानुदत्त gives information about himself in the following verse :—

“ तातो यस्य गणेश्वरः^२ कविकुलालंकारचूडामणिः

देशो यस्य विदेहभूः सुरसरिकुलोलकीर्तिरिता ।

पद्येन स्वकृतेन तेन कविना श्रीभानुना योजिता

वाग्देवीश्रुतिपारिजातकुसुमस्पर्द्धाङ्करी मञ्जरी ॥ ”

The particulars regarding Bhānudatta, the author of the Rasamañjarī and those of Bhānudatta the author of the Pārijāta may now be compared as follows :—

1. Rasamañjarī (Benares Sanskrit Series, 1904), p. 247.

2. In the Rastaranginī (p. 23) commonly ascribed to भानुदत्त the father’s name is stated as गणपति in the following verse quoted by Dr. Sharma (Annals, Vol. XVII, p. 245)—

‘ ताते निर्गच्छति गणपतौ नाकमद्यापि तस्या etc.’

Author of Rasamañjarī	Author of Pārijāta
(1) Here the name of the work is given as मञ्जरी which is described as 'वाग्देवी श्रुतिपारिजातकुसुम-स्पर्धाकरी मञ्जरी.'	(1) Here the name of the work is given as पारिजात ('पारिजातो निषेव्यताम्').
We are tempted to think that in the above line there is a श्लेष on the word पारिजात, the author hinting thereby that the present work मञ्जरी or रसमञ्जरी rivals his earlier work पारिजात.
(2) The father of the author of the Rasamañjarī is गणेश्वर (= गणपति) — 'तातो यस्य गणेश्वरः.'	(2) The father of the author of the पारिजात is also गणपति ('यथा गणपतेः काव्यं' and 'अनयोः संगमः श्लाघ्यः').
(3) The author of the Rasamañjarī calls himself भानु-कवि ('कविना श्रीभानुना योजिता').	(3) The name of the author of the पारिजात is also भानुदत्त कवि ('कवेः श्रीभानु-दत्तस्य पारिजातो निषेव्यताम्').
(4) The author of the Rasamañjarī hailed from Mithilā ('देशो यस्य विदेहभूः').	(4) The MS¹ of the पारिजात comes from Pandit Jadu-vira Miśra, Khopa, Phulapāras, P. O. Darbhanga.
(5) गणेश्वर, father of भानु-दत्त is styled as 'कविकुलालंकारचूडामणिः.'	(5) The father of the author of पारिजात was also a great poet (cf. 'यथा गणपतेः काव्यं').

The above comparison of particulars about the authors of the Rasamañjarī and the Pārijāta shows : (1) an identity of names,

1. MSS in Mithilā, Vol. I, p. 278 — MS No. 257 — 'पारिजातः by भानुदत्त.'

(2) an identity of parentage of these authors, (3) a similarity of description of the fathers of the two authors and (4) possibly identity of the provinces from which they hailed. As the Mithila MS of the पारिजात described by Mr. Jayaswal is not before me I cannot conclude anything more at this stage of my inquiry. I would, however, request Mr. Jayaswal to examine this MS of the Pārijāta and give us the benefit of his analysis in the light of my suggested identity of the two Bhānudattas, as adumbrated in the comparison of particulars gathered from the -Rasamañjarī and the Pārijāta and recorded above.

I shall now explain the bearing of my hypothesis of the identity of the two Bhānudattas :—

(1) Mr. Jayaswal states that the Pārijāta by Bhānudatta has been quoted by Vācaspati and Caṇḍeśvara.¹

(2) Mr. Jayaswal further states that Caṇḍeśvara is the greatest name of the 14th century. According to Mr. P. V. Kane² Caṇḍeśvara's literary activities begin with A. D. 1314 and if Caṇḍeśvara quotes the पारिजात of Bhānudatta the date of this Bhānudatta would be before A.D. 1314.

(3) Now if our hypothesis about the identity of the two Bhānudattas, one the author of the Rasamañjarī and the other the author of the Pārijāta, is accepted, the date of the author of the Rasamañjarī goes before A. D. 1314.

(4) This new limit of A. D. 1314 for Bhānudatta's date is in favour of the following dates so far discussed and recorded :—

(1) Earlier view of Dr. De — Bhānudatta's date, ' earlier than 14th century and later than the 12th century A. D. '

1. MSS in Mithila, Vol. I, Intro., p. vii.

[In the दानरत्नाकर of चंडेश्वर described by Jayaswal (p. 205) we have the line :—

' कल्पद्रुमः पारिजातः कामधेनु क्वचित् क्वचित् ' and in शुद्धिरत्नाकर of चंडेश्वर (p. 436) the line containing a reference to पारिजात reads :—

' न ग्रामीयोऽत्र समीपवासी पारिजाते तु इतरेष्वर्चायेषु उपाध्यायादिषु ' etc.]

[वाचस्पति in his तीर्थचिन्तामणि (p. 182) mentions पारिजात in the following line :— ' श्रीकृत्यकल्पद्रुमपारिजातरत्नाकरादीनवलोक्य ग्रंथान् '].

2. History of Dharmasāstra, Vol. I, Section 90.

(2) Kane's view — 'towards the end of the 13th and beginning of the 14th century.'

(5) This new limit A. D. 1314 is against the following dates fixed by scholars :—

(1) Mr. Jayaswal states that Bhānudatta 'flourished in the 14th century.' — This view will be untenable if the limit of 1314 A. D. is accepted, though the possibility of a junior contemporary quoting from a senior contemporary's works may remove the inconsistency to a certain extent.

(2) Dr. De's revised view — 'end of the 15th and beginning of the 16th century.'

(3) *Dr. Sharma's view*¹ — 'Beginning of the 16th century.'

1. Dr. S. K. De in his note on 'Bhānudatta and Bhānukara' (vide Annals, Vol. XVII, pp. 297-8) doubts the reliability of the evidence of anthological compilations, on the strength of which Dr. Sharma tries to identify the poet Bhānukara and Bhānudatta. Dr. V. Raghavan in his note on 'Bhānudatta and a verse ascribed to him' (vide Annals, Vol. XVIII, pp. 85-6) supports Dr. De's view mentioned above by citing a verse from Dr. Sharma's article itself which is ascribed to Bhānukara in one anthology but is really from the drama Bālabhārata of Rajaśekhara.

Sāgara, the Commentator of the Mahābhārata
— Between A. D. 1200 and 1350 †

Dr. V. S. Sukthankar¹ in his article on the Mahābhārata Commentators mentions Vidyāsāgara as one of the 22 commentators of the Great Epic. As, however, Dr. Sukthankar has not attempted to give us any information regarding this commentator, I propose to record in this paper some details of information regarding this commentator and to fix the limits for the date of his commentary.

Dr. M. Krishnamachariar² also gives a list of the Mahābhārata Commentators in which we find the name: Ānandapūrṇa. This

To this number of 22 commentators we have to add the name of Gadānanda, author of Bhāratajñānadīpa. Gadānanda mentions some previous commentators :—

Samanvayasūtravivṛtti.¹ Hall p. 96.

In the above list of Ānandapūrṇa's works the MS of Samanvayasūtravivṛtti referred to by the entry "Hall p. 96" is identical with the MS described by Fitz Edward Hall in his Bibliography of Indian Philosophical Systems (Calcutta, 1859). Hall describes this MS as follows :—

"XXXIX — Samanvaya-Sūtravivṛtti — A Commentary on the second aphorism of No. 1 (Brahmasūtra). By Ānandapūrṇa Muni, otherwise called Vidyāsāgara, disciple of Abhayānanda. The copy inspected was transcribed in the Samvat year 1461, leaves 207, Ślokas, 6900. Ben. Coll."

This MS of Ānandapūrṇa's work was copied in Samvat 1461 = A. D. 1405, while the Baroda MS² of Nyāyakalpalatikā was copied in Śaka 1356 — A. D. 1434 i.e. 29 years later.

Dr. Das Gupta³ assigns Ānandapūrṇa to the "Sixteenth Century." Elsewhere he states :— "Ānandapūrṇa (A. D. 1600) who commented on Śrīharṣa's Khaṇḍana-Khaṇḍa-Khāḍya wrote the Nyāyacandrikā in four Chapters refuting the views of the Nyāya, Mīmāṃsā and Vaiśeṣika."⁴ Ānandapūrṇa's *Nyāyakalpalatikā*⁵ (Baroda MS copied in A. D. 1434) is also mentioned by Dr. Das Gupta as also his Commentary called *Bhāvaśuddhi*⁶ on the Brahma-Siddhi. The date "A. D. 1600" for Ānandapūrṇa is again repeated by Das Gupta⁷ in the following remarks :— "Ānandapūrṇa (A. D.

CC III, 144 — "समन्वयसूत्रव्याख्या — a comm. on Brahmasūtra 1, 1, 4. Hz 855 (Is this by Ānandapūrṇa?)"

2. Vedic MSS, Vol. I, G. O. Series, Baroda, (1925), p. 80.

3. History of Indian Philosophy, Vol. II, 1932, p. 52 — "Padmapāda's Pañcapādikā was commented on by Ānandapūrṇa and Nṛsiṃha in the Sixteenth Century"

4. Ibid p. 57.

5. Ibid p. 83.

6. Ibid p. 87 footnote 1.

7. Ibid p. 103 — footnote 2 reads :— "As Mr. Telang points out 1600) who wrote his Vidyāsāgarī commentary on Śrīharṣa's Khaṇḍana-Khaṇḍa-Khāḍya and also a commentary on the Mahāvīdyāvidambana wrote a commentary on the Pañcapādikā."

Presuming now that Ānandapūrṇa assigned by Dr. Das Gupta to "A. D. 1600" is the author of the works called the Samanvaya-Sūtravivṛtti (a MS of which was transcribed in A.D. 1405 as stated by Hall) and the Nyāyakalpalatikā (a MS of which was copied in A. D. 1434 as stated in the Baroda Vedic MSS Catalogue) we have to point out that the date "A. D. 1600" for Ānandapūrṇa assigned by Dr. Das Gupta is directly contradicted by the dates A.D. 1405, and A.D. 1434 in which years these two works were copied. These dates also contradict Dr. Das Gupta's date "Sixteenth Century" for Ānandapūrṇa mentioned once on p. 52 of Vol. II of his History of Indian Philosophy as we have noted above. If copies of Ānandapūrṇa's works were made in the first half of the Fifteenth century how is it possible to state that he flourished later in the "Sixteenth Century"?

The evidence recorded in this paper suggests a date for Ānandapūrṇa, earlier than A. D. 1400 in view of the extant copies of his works written in A. D. 1405 and A. D. 1434. This evidence not in his Introduction to the Mahāvīdyāvidambana it seems that Ānandapūrṇa lived after Śaṅkara Miśra (A. D. 1529) as is seen from his criticism of his reading of a passage of the Khaṇḍana-Khaṇḍa-Khāḍya, p. 586 (Chowkhamba)."

Page 123 — "Vādindra's Mahāvīdyāvidambana has two commentaries one called Mahāvīdyāvidambana-vyākhyāna by Ānandapūrṇa etc."

1. Even if we presume that the date of the copy viz. "Samvat 1461 (Samanvayasūtravivṛtti) represents a śaka year making this date correspond to A. D. 1539 it is impossible to take the date of Ānandapūrṇa to 1600 A. D." as Dr. Das Gupta has done. The Baroda MS of the Nyāyakalpalatikā being, however, definitely a copy made in Śaka 1356 (= A. D. 1434) it is impossible to presume that "Samvat 1461" is equivalent to "Śaka 1461." We are, therefore, compelled to investigate the exact chronology of Ānandapūrṇa's works in the light of these two mutually supporting dates of copies of his works viz. A. D. 1405 and 1434, and unless these are contradicted by any other stronger testimony, the view developed in this paper that Ānandapūrṇa is earlier than A. D. 1400 must remain unchallenged.

only contradicts the "Sixteenth Century" or "A.D. 1600" fixed by Dr. Das Gupta for Ānandapūrṇa's date but also upsets the date for Ānandapūrṇa recorded by M. M. Prof. Kuppuswami Sastri in his recently published edition of the *Brahmasiddhi*¹ in the following extract² :—

Ānandapūrṇa alias Vidyāsāgara wrote in the latter part of the 16th Century a copious commentary on the Brahmasiddhi and this also is available in manuscript³ in the Government Oriental Manuscript Library, Madras. "

According to these remarks Ānandapūrṇa flourished between A.D. 1550 and 1600. It will thus be seen that the difference between my limit of A. D. 1400 for Ānandapūrṇa's date and that recorded by Prof. Kuppuswami Shastri is more than 150 years to say the least and hence cannot be easily reconciled. I would, therefore, request⁴ M. M. Prof. Sastri to examine his evidence in support of his date for Ānandapūrṇa in the light of evidence recorded in this paper and give us his final verdict on this question in a more authoritative manner than that adopted by a novice in the present paper.

The Ms of Vidyāsāgara's commentary on the Mokṣadharmā (Mahābhārata) described by Prof. H. D. Velankar in his catalogue of B. B. R. A. Society's Mss¹ is a copy written in Samvat 1624 i.e. A. D. 1568. This fact by itself would warrant our pushing back the date of Ānandapūrṇa alias Vidyāsāgara before A. D. 1550 and not after A. D. 1550 as M. M. Prof. Sastri has done in his remarks quoted above. Prof. Velankar, however, who records the Ms dated Samvat 1461 (A. D. 1405) described by Hall (Index, p. 96) of Ānandapūrṇa's commentary on the Brahmasūtras makes the following remarks about his date :—

“ If this Vidyāsāgara is the same as the one mentioned under No. 699² above he must have lived at the beginning of the 15th Century. ”

The identity, suggested by Prof. Velankar, of two persons of the name Vidyāsāgara, one of which is connected with the year 1476 (Samvat or Śaka) rests on unsure foundation because there is nothing in support of it except the similarity of name. But for the

1. Vol. II (Hindu Literature), 1928, p. 294 — MS No. 978. Prof. Velankar states that the author does not quote profusely in this commentary. The references recorded by Prof. Velankar are from अमरकोश, योगयाज्ञवल्क्य, विज्ञानेश्वर, वैजयन्तीकोश. The MS ends :— “ इति श्रीपरमहंसपरिव्राजकाचार्य-अभयानन्दपूज्यपादशिष्येण आनन्दपूर्णमुनीन्द्रेण विद्यासागरापरनामधेयेन विरचितायां व्याख्यानरत्नावल्यां शान्तिपर्वणि. मोक्षधर्मः समाप्तः संवत् १६२४ समये आषाढ शुदि ६ बुधस्पतिवारि ”

2. This is a MS of पुरुषार्थप्रबोध of ब्रह्मानन्दभारती composed in (Samvat?) 1476. The work was supervised by विद्यासागरवादीन्द्र and विबुधराजसरस्वती while it was being composed at मळवली on the banks of असनसी river (मळवलीमिधे ग्रामे शिष्टभूसुरभूषिते असनस्यास्तीरतटे स्थित्वा दृष्टिमनोहरे). The author alludes to भारतीतीर्थ called विद्यारण्य, अमरानन्द (author of स्वात्मयोगप्रदीप, धर्मसारसुधानिधि, नित्यनाथ, नैर्ऋत्यसिद्धि, मानवसंहिता, रसेन्द्रचूडामणि, विश्वरूप, शंकरसंहिता, शिवधर्म, शिवरहस्य, सिद्धान्तशासन, सौरसंहिता, स्मृतिभास्कर, स्मृतिरत्नावली, & स्मृतिसारसमुच्चय). The verse occurring at the end of each chapter reads : “ षण्मुनीन्द्रकृतात्युग्रशापपापामयौषधे। अस्मिन्ग्रन्थे.....अंशे.....अध्याय ईरितः ” The Chronogram “ षण्मुनि-इन्द्र ” = 1476. If this is a Samvat year it would be equal to A. D. 1420 but if a Śaka year it would be equal to A. D. 1554.

two dated copies of Ānandapūrṇa's (Vidyāsāgara's) works, prepared in A. D. 1405 and 1434. Prof. Velankar's suggestion of the above identity would have been a good hypothesis to work upon. As matters stand, however, I am compelled by the cumulative force of three dated copies of Ānandapūrṇa's work (of A. D. 1405, 1434 and 1568) to push back his date before A. D. 1400 unless stronger testimony leads us to conclude otherwise.

The other terminus to the date of Ānandapūrṇa is furnished by his reference to विज्ञानेश्वर¹ and वैजयन्ती² in his commentary on the Mokṣadharmaparaṇa. The date of Vijñāneśvara, the celebrated commentator of the Yājñavalkya Smṛti lies between A. D. 1070 and 1100³ while the date of the Vaijayantī lexicon of Yādavaprakāśa lies about the middle of the 11th century i.e. about 1050 A. D. because he has been identified with the preceptor, and afterwards a pupil, of Rāmānuja whose life-time is variously stated as A. D. 1017-1137 or 1055-1137.⁴ In view of the evidence recorded in this paper I am inclined to assign Vidyāsāgara to a period between A.D. 1200 and A. D. 1350.

4. The work has been edited many times in India. I shall refer in this paper to the Calcutta Edition of 1915 published by Jānakīnātha Kāvyatīrtha (Text with Comm. of Gurunātha Vidyānidhi Bhaṭṭācārya and a Vaṅgānuvāda). The Union List of Indic Texts in American Libraries by M. B. Emeneau, 1935, records only one edition of this chariar' records the following information about our author and his works :— " Gaṅgādāsa was son of Gopālādāsa of Vaidya caste. In six chapters he describes in his Chandomañjarī the varieties of metres and illustrates them by verses in praise of Kṛṣṇa. He also wrote Acyutararita, a poem in 16 cantos and Dineśacarita in praise of the Sun. His father wrote a play Pārijātaharaṇa."²

Gaṅgādāsa was apparently a devotee of Gopāla³ and perhaps this devotion to Gopāla he inherited from his father Gopālādāsa. He refers to earlier works and authors as also to his own works in the Chandomañjarī. These references are as follows :—

According to our author's own statement in the last verse of the Chandomañjarī he composed (1) अच्युतचरित, (2) कंसारिशतक, (3) दिनेशशतक and (4) छन्दोमञ्जरि. On folio 43 he quotes a work of his own with the remark "ममैव गोपालशतके." Are we to take गोपालशतक as a separate 5th work of our author or as identical with

1. In the edition of the Chandomañjarī by Rāmadhana Bhattacharya (1934), p. 152, the following note occurs :—

"अतः परं क्वचित्पुस्तके 'इति कौशिककाव्ये' इति क्वचिच्च 'अथ शालतालतमाल कन्दलपाटलादलकोमला । इति कौशिककाव्ये' इति पाठः"

2. The last verse of the Chandomañjarī reads as follows :—

"सर्गैः षोडशभिः समुज्ज्वलपदैर्नव्यार्थमव्याशयै—

येनाकारि तदच्युतस्य चरिते काव्ये कविप्रोतिदम् ।

कंसारेः शतकं दिनेशशतकद्वन्द्वश्च तस्यास्त्यसौ

v.l. "गदाधरस्य चरितं" in Ms No. 5 (vide p. 4 of the Cata. of Mithila MSS, Vol. II by K. P. Jayaswal, Patna, 1933), MS No. 5A described by Jayaswal is a modern copy dated Śaka 1808 = A. D. 1886. Of these MSS of the Chandomañjarī No. 5A is in Maithili characters while No. 5 is in Bengali characters.

कंसारिशतक ? No MSS of कंसारिशतक are recorded by Aufrecht. In the MSS at Bikaner¹ there is a MS of गोपालशतक which is described as "an anonymous poem containing a hundred stanzas in praise of Gopāla." Is this गोपालशतक identical with गोपालशतक mentioned by our author and from which he quotes a verse.² If this verse could be identified in the Bikaner MS the question of identity or otherwise of the two works can be finally settled. Aufrecht mentions no MSS of any work of the titles दिनेशशतक or of अच्युतचरित. It is really a matter for pity that the three poems of our author, whose छन्दोमञ्जरी is represented by numerous MSS, should be lost to us inspite of their being definitely mentioned by him at the end of his only existing work. If some scholar at Bikaner takes the trouble of identifying the verse from गोपालशतक quoted by Gaṅgādāsa in the extant MS at Bikaner Palace Library which is mentioned as गोपालशतक and if its identity is proved, at least one of Gaṅgādāsa's lost works will be restored.

In the Chandomañjarī our author quotes two verses from his *Acyutaśataka*³ (on pp. 10, 41) and one verse from his father's *Pārijātaḥaraṇanāṭaka*¹ of which Oppert records two MSS as we have noted above. These MSS, however, are not now available in any public library so far as I am aware.

Prof. M. T. Patwardhan in his *History of Prosody*² refers to Gaṅgādāsa's Chandomañjarī but does not record any information about Gaṅgādāsa and his other works.

We have shown above that Gaṅgādāsa quotes from a work on prosody called *Chandogovinda*³ composed by his guru. No MSS of this work are recorded by Aufrecht but the work is mentioned in a commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara, composed by Dinakara in A. D. 1684. The verse from Chandogovinda quoted by Gaṅgādāsa on p. 14 of the Chandomañjarī reads as follows :—

1. Ibid, p. 9 — “ तथा मत्पितुः पारिजातहरणनाटके —

सिन्दूरपूरकृतगैरिकरागशोभे शश्वन्मदस्त्रवणनिर्भरवारिपूरे ।

संग्रामभूमिगतमत्तसुरभकुम्भकूटे मदीयनखराशनयो विशन्तु ॥ १३ ॥ ”

2. Chandoracanā (Karnatak Pub. House, Bombay, 1937) pp. 558-559. Prof. Patwardhan observes that Gaṅgādāsa appears to have borrowed some of his definitions of the vṛttas: Udgatā, Bhujāṅga-prayāta, Maṇigūṇanikara, Śālinī and Rucirā from Utpala (= Bhaṭṭa-Utpala) who flourished in the 10th century. He has taken some definitions from Kedārabhaṭṭa and some he has composed himself. In the 7th stābaka Gaṅgādāsa mentions three varieties of gadya (prose) in the following verse :—

“ अकठोराक्षरं स्वल्पसंज्ञामं ‘ चूर्णकं ’ विदुः । तत्तु वैदर्भरातिस्थं गद्यो हृद्यतरं भवेत् ॥
भवेद् ‘ त्कलिका ’ प्रायं समासाद्यं दृढाक्षरम् । वृत्तकदेशसंबन्धाद् ‘ वृत्तगन्धि ’ पुनः स्मृतम् ॥ ”

3. Vide Aufrecht CC 1, 191 — छन्दोगोविन्द metrics, by Gaṅgādāsa. Quoted Oxf. 198b, in Vṛttaratnākaraḍarśa, IO 1555. According to Aufrecht (CC 1, 97a) वृत्तरत्नाकरादर्श (which mentions Chandogovinda) was composed by Divākara in 1684, IO 1555. The India Office MS 1555 of Vṛttaratnākaraḍarśa was copied in Śaka 1699 = A. D. 1777. The description given on p. 304 of I. O. Catalogue (Part II, 1889) by Eggeling that this Commentary was composed in “ A. D. 1740 ” is wrong because the chronogram “ पूर्णाब्धिषप्तैकमिते प्रवर्षे ” refers to Samvat 1740 (= A. D. 1684) and not A. D. 1740 as stated by Eggeling. Works on Prosody referred to in this Commentary in 1684 A. D. are :— (1) छंदोगोविन्द fol. 7a, (2) छंदोविचिंति, fol. 25, (3) छंदोमञ्जरी, fol. 226, 29, (4) छंदोमातङ्ग, (5) छंदोमातङ्ग, fol. 21, (6) छंदोमाला, fol. 20b, (7) पिङ्गलश्री by Lakṣmidhara, (8) वृत्तकौमुदी, fol. 20b.

“ अयञ्च श्लोकछन्दोगोविन्दे मम गुरोः ।

श्वेतमाण्डव्यमुख्यास्तु नेच्छन्ति मुनयो यतिम् ।

इत्याह भट्टः स्वग्रन्थे गुरुर्मे पुरुषोत्तमः ॥ २० ॥ ”

The popularity of Chandomañjarī is proved by no less than six different commentaries on it, viz., those of Kṛṣṇarāma, Govardhanadāsa, Candrasekhara, Jagannātha Sena, Dattarāma and Varṇśidhara. Aufrecht records the following MSS of these commentaries :—

CC I, 192^a — Oppert, II, 8213; Comm. by Kṛṣṇarāma (NW 616); by Govardhanadāsa (L. 2492:), by Candrasekhara; Chandomañjarījīvāna IO 1289, by Jagannātha Sena IO 1491, by Dātārāma L. 2066. Oudh XVIII, 30 (by Dātārāma), by Varṇśidhara L. 2534.

I am not sure if the commentary by Kṛṣṇarāma referred to above (NW 616) is composed by Kṛṣṇarāma¹ who was a teacher of Āyurveda in Jaipur State about 1900 A.D. and who is said to have composed a work on metrics called Chandaśchaṭāmardana.

The next commentator Govardhanadāsa was a Vaidya himself like Gaṅgādāsa. The only MS² of his commentary on the Chandomañjarī recorded by Rajendralal Mitra describes the work as consisting of 1067 ślokaś.

The third commentary on the Chandomañjarī by Varṇśidhara

1. Vide p. 301 of Classical Sans. Literature by Krishnamachariar. Other works of this Jaipur teacher are Kacchavamśa, Jayapuravilāsa, Āryālaṃkāraśataka, Palāṇḍuśataka, Muktaka, Muktāvali Holamahotsava and Sāraśataka.

2. R. Mitra : Notices of Sanskrit MSS, Calcutta 1884, vol. VII, p. 246 — No. 2492. The MS begins—

The MS ends—

‘ इति सद्गङ्गागोवर्द्धनदासकृता छन्दोमञ्जरीटीका समाप्ता । ’

is also represented by a single MS described by Rajendralala Mitra.¹ The fourth commentary is by Dātārāma and is represented by two MSS one of which has been described by Mitra.²

The fifth commentator is Candraśekhara and his commentary is called Chandomañjarījīvana and is represented by only one MS in the India Office Library.³ The sixth commentator is Jagannātha Sena,⁴ son of Jaṭādhara with the title Kavirāja. His mother's name was Devakī. Jagannātha is also called Kavirāja in the colophon as well as in the opening verses of the commentary.

In the absence of any critical study of the foregoing commentaries on the Chandomañjarī, it is difficult to say anything about their chronology and consequently they do not furnish us with any chronological limits for the date of the Chandomañjarī.

This commentator calls the author of the Chandomañjarī as “कविर्गङ्गादासनामा भिषक्.” Perhaps a study of this MS may make it clear whether Gaṅgādāsa Vaidya was an ancestor of Govardhanadāsa Vaidya or whether only the kinship of professions is alone responsible for the composition of Govardhanadāsa's commentary.

1. Mitra, Notices, vol. VII, p. 286, No. 2534. No information about Vamśidhara can be gathered from the description recorded in the Catalogue. The extent of the commentary is 519 ślokas.

3. Ind. Office Cat. Part II (1889), p. 306, No. 1102—This MS is in Bengali characters and has the “handwriting of c. 1750 A. D.” Vide p. 313. One Candraśekhara, son of Lakṣmīnātha Bhaṭṭa composed a Sanskrit treatise on Prakṛta metres called the Vṛttamauktika (IO MS No. 1114).

4. Ibid. p. 306, No. 1101 — This is the only MS of Jagannātha Sena's commentary.

We have seen above that Divākara in his Vṛttaratnākaraḍarsa (fol. 226 of IO MS) composed in A.D. 1684 mentions Chandomañjarī. This reference gives us a sure terminus to the date of the work. Then again a MS of the Chandomañjarī in the India Office Library is dated A. D. 1679.¹

Gaṅgādāsa quotes (p. 14) a verse of Jayadeva. If this Jayadeva is identical with his namesake, the author of the rhetorical work Candrāloka, who is assigned to 13th century² we get two limits to the date of Gaṅgādāsa, say about 1300 A. D. and 1650 A.D. But these limits are too wide and we should try to narrow them down.

In the commentary of Gopālabhaṭṭa on the Kṛṣṇakarmāmṛta, which quotes a work called the Bhaktirasāmṛtasindhu composed in A. D. 1541 (= Śaka 1463) and which, therefore, must have been composed between A. D. 1541 and A. D. 1605 in which year a MS of this commentary was copied, we find that Chandomañjarī has been quoted³ several times. On the strength of these references to Chandomañjarī in a work composed in the 2nd half of the 16th century i. e. between A. D. 1541 and 1605 I am inclined to narrow down the limits of Gaṅgādāsa's date to a period between 1300 and 1550 A. D.

The lower limit of A. D. 1550 for Gaṅgādāsa's date fixed by me is in harmony with the remark of Aufrecht⁴ that the Chandomañjarī is " often quoted by Lakṣmīnātha on Prākṛtapīṅgala." According to Peterson⁵ one Lakṣmīnātha " composed in 1600 " a commentary called Pīṅgalārthapradīpa.

1. India Office Cata. Part II (1889), p. 305 – MS No. 1099 — This MS is in Devanāgarī characters and bears the date " संवत् १८३५ " in the Colophon. The Catalogue gives the equivalent date as "1657 A. D." which appears to be incorrect as the Chronogram for the date of the copy is बाण, अग्नि, हय, एक = 1735 Samvat.

The B. O. R. Institute, Poona, possesses the following MSS of the Chandomañjarī :— (1) No. 383 of 1895-98 (2) No. 714 of 1891-95, (3) No. 452 of 1892-95, (4) No. 715 of 1891-95, (5) No. 447 of 1899-1915. Of these MSS No. 715 of 1891-95 is written in Bengali characters. All the five MSS appear to contain the text only. No. 714 of 1891-95 ends as follows :— “ संवत् १८०६ मिति मांगिश्री वदि १ भौमवासरे महास्माउत्तिमचेद लिपिकेते सवाईजयपुरमध्ये.” “ This MS was, therefore, copied in A. D. 1750 at Savai Jaipur by a scribe of the name Utimchand. MS No. 715 of 1891-95 contains the following chronogram on the last folio :—

“ बाणकालेन्दुमिते शकाब्दे सिंहे गते भास्वति शुक्लपक्षे ”

I am unable to interpret the chronogram or verify it at present because the words बाण (= 5), काल (= 3) and इन्दु (= 1) give us Śaka 135 and if this is equivalent to Śaka 1350 we shall get A. D. 1428 as the value of the chronogram. This date may perhaps be the date of the copy and if it is correct the limits for Gaṅgādāsa's date will be say A.D. 1300 and 1400 but this line of argument needs more corroborative evidence before it is taken as reliable.

There is one MS of the Chandomañjarī in the recently founded Ujjain MSS Library.¹ The Vaṅgiya Sāhitya Pariṣat contains six MSS of the work² of which four MSS bear the dates Śaka 1767 (= A.D. 1845), Śaka 1670 (= 1748), Śaka 1700 (= A.D. 1778), Śaka 1677 (= A.D. 1755) but they are not useful for the chronology of the work as we have recorded earlier chronological evidence.

According to the description recorded in the India Office Catalogue³ of a MS of the Ujjvalanīlamāṇi, a Vaiṣṇava work by Rūpa-

1. Cata. of Oriental MSS, Ujjain, 1936, p. 44 — MS No. 1148 (273).

2. Des. Cat. by Chintaharan Chakravarti, 1935, pp. 218-219.

3. Sanskrit MSS, Part III by Eggeling, 1891, p. 358b — MS No. 1231. Dr. Eggeling observes that the authorship of the Ujjvalanīlamāṇi traditionally ascribed to Rūpagosvāmin is not endorsed by the present MS nor expressly stated in the commentary. Mr. M. Krishnamachariar, however, includes the Ujjvalanīlamāṇi in the list of Rūpa's works (vide p. 288 of Classical Sanskrit Literature, 1937). Jivagosvāmi's commentary on this work was composed in A. D. 1580. The Ujjvalanīlamāṇi has been edited in the Kāvyamālā 95. For an account of Rūpa's life see D. C. Sen's History of Bengali Literature (Calcutta) 503, (vide p. 376 of Outline of Religious Literature of India by J. N. Farquhar, 1920).

gosvāmin we find that on folio 71a of this MS (line 7) the Chandomañjarī is quoted. Rūpa Gosvāmi was born in 1490 A. D. and passed away in 1563 A.D. If this Chandomañjarī quoted in the Ujjvalanīlamani is identical with that of Gaṅgādāsa and if we can suppose that the Ujjvalanīlamani was composed say after A.D. 1515 when Rūpa Gosvāmi must have been 25 years old and before A. D. 1563, the date of his death, we may be justified in concluding that Gaṅgādāsa's date is earlier than about 1525 A. D. so that the limits for his date would be c. 1300 and c. 1500 A. D.

Mr. Pañchānan Bhaṭṭācārya in his Sanskrit Introduction to the edition of the Chandomañjarī and the Vṛttaratnākara (Calcutta, 1915) p. 5. observes that no one has yet determined when Gaṅgādāsa, the author of the Chandomañjarī flourished and in what part of India. From a reference to the poet Murārimiśra, the author of the Anarghyarāghaviya, made by Gaṅgādāsa in the Chandomañjarī we can only infer that Gaṅgādāsa is posterior to Murārimiśra. No other proof can be found regarding Gaṅgādāsa's date.¹ We only know that he was the son of an eminent vaidya of the name Gopāladāsa and that his mother's name was Santoṣā (संतोषातनयः). In addition to the Chandomañjarī Gaṅgādāsa composed the Acyutacarita, Gopālaśataka and Sūryaśataka.

In view of the above remarks on Gaṅgādāsa and his works made in 1915, the necessity of the present paper on Gaṅgādāsa and his works will be easily appreciated as I have here attempted to focus together some useful data which will go to clarify the issues regarding Gaṅgādāsa and his works to some extent at least.

1. Miśra Jagannātha who composed his Chandakṛpīyūṣa between A.D. 1750 and 1793 (vide my article in New Indian Antiquary, Vol. I p. 682) states that Nārāyaṇa, the commentator of the Vṛttaratnākara opposes the views of Mañjarī or Chandomañjarī (मञ्जरीकथनरुद्धानानां नारायणादीनां). Nārāyaṇa composed his commentary in A. D. 1545. If the statement of Miśra Jagannātha mentioned above is correct Nārāyaṇa becomes posterior to Gaṅgādāsa that is to say the work Chandomañjarī becomes earlier than A. D. 1545, the date of Nārāyaṇa's commentary on the Vṛttaratnākara. This argument, if accepted, would also support the limit of A. D. 1500 for Gaṅgādāsa's date fixed by me on other independent evidence recorded in this paper.

68. Godāvaramiśra, the Rājaguru and Mantri of Gajapati Pratāparudradeva of Orissa, and his Works — Between A. D. 1497-1539 †

Aufrecht¹ records two MSS of the work *Yogacintāmaṇi*² a work on yoga viz. (1) “Kaṣin. 30” and (2) “Bhr. 220.” The first of these MSS is not available for examination, being in private possession as far back as 1880 when the list indicated by the entry “Kaṣin” was made. The second MS of Aufrecht’s entries viz. “Bhr. 220” is the same as No. 220 of 1882-83 of the Government MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. It is fragmentary, many of the folios in the body of the manuscript having been lost previous to its acquisition from Gujarat by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar. The beginning and end of the MS have, however, been preserved intact and afford useful historical data about the author and his date.

Aufrecht wrongly ascribes this work to Gorakṣanātha. The colophon of the 4th Pariccheda on folio 131 reads — “श्री गोदारमिश्र (विरचिते योगचिन्तामणौ).” The letter व appears to have been dropped from the name “गोदारमिश्र” recorded in this colophon. A verse at the end of the MS gives the correct name of the author viz. “गोदावर” and not “गोदार.” This verse reads :—

† Poona Orientalist, Vol. IX, Nos. 1 and 2, pp. 11-19.

1. Catalogus Catalogorum, Part I, p. 165a.

2. This Yogacintāmaṇi is a work on Yoga and should be distinguished from another work of the same name on Materia medica composed by the Jain writer Harṣakīrtisūri, pupil of Candrakīrti. Harṣakīrti belonged to the Nāgapura Tapāgaccha. Candrakīrti was honoured by Salem Shah who was emperor of Delhi between 1545 and 1553 A. D. (vide R. G. B. Report 1882-83, p. 43—Extract on p. 227). Candrakīrti commented on the Sārasvataparakriyā of Anubhūtiśvarūpācārya. Another writer who belonged to this Nāgapuriya Tapogaṇa is Amarakīrti who composed a commentary on the Ṛtusambhāra (No. 372 of 1887-91). An edition of Harṣakīrti’s Yogacintāmaṇi was published in 1912 with a Gujarati commentary by Pūraṇacandra Sarma of Ahmedabad.

This name “ गोदावर ” is also supported by the colophon of the 1st Pariccheda on folio 22 and it reads — “ गोदावरमिश्र- (विरचिते योगचिंतामणौ). ” This MS begins —

“ श्रीगणेशाय नमः । चक्रायुधं सिद्धमुनीन्द्रवधं ।

The father of गोदावर was बलभद्र (verse 2) to whom he bows at the commencement of the work. The colophon of 1st Pariccheda reads as follows on folio 12 :—

“ श्रीमन्महाराजाधिराजगजपतिप्रतापरुद्रसहस्रधारितकनककेशरिचतुष्टयावेष्टित-

The MS is dated Samvat 1772 (A. D. 1715) as will be seen from the following colophon :—

“ इति श्रीमहाराजाधिराजगजपतिप्रतापरुद्रदेवस्वहस्तधारितकनककेशरिवेष्टित-

The above extract gives us the following information about the work and its author :—

(1) गोदावरमिश्र, the author of the योगचिंतामणि was the राजगुरु or royal preceptor of गजपति प्रतापरुद्रदेव. He was called कविपुंगव, पंडित-राज on account of his great learning and वाजपेययाज्ञि perhaps on account of his having performed a वाजपेय sacrifice.

(2) The MS was copied at Benares in Samvat 1772 in the month of Kārttika, dark fortnight (Vadi) on Budhavāsara which was an amāvāsyā day.¹

Godāvaramiśra refers to the following works and authors in the MS of his Yogacintāmaṇi before us :—

46. पितृचरणैः अद्वैतचिंतामणौ fol. 131.
47. अस्माभिः (अ) द्वैतदर्पणे fol. 131.

In the above list our author refers to his own works, those of his father बलभद्र as also those of his grand-father, whose name has not been disclosed to us. We may now tabulate these works as follows :—

(1) Grand-father referred to as पितामहचरणैः and पितामहचरणाः	}	—	{	(1) काशीमीमांसा (2) संक्षेपशारीरकवार्त्तिक
(2) बलभद्र referred to as पितृचरणैः	}	—	}	(1) शारीरकसारपुरुषोत्तम- स्तुति (2) अद्वैतचिन्तामणि
(3) गोदावरमिश्र referred to as अस्माभिः	}	—	{	(1) योगचिन्तामणि (2) तन्त्रचिन्तामणि (3) (अ)द्वैतदर्पण

As the MS analysed by me is fragmentary we cannot say if Godāvaramiśra has recorded any other works in the Yogacintāmaṇi (in addition to those recorded in the above list) composed by the members of his family. Judging, however, by the names of the above works we are justified in supposing that the family of this royal preceptor or राजगुरु of राजपति प्रतापरुद्रदेव was a very learned one and hence must have been respected and honoured at the court of Pratāparudradeva some generations earlier than our author, who was himself a highly honoured राजगुरु as his titles कविपुंगव, पंडितराज, and वाजपेययाजि amply indicate in the colophons before us. In verse 2 at the commencement of the work the author states that his father बलभद्र was his विद्यागुरु (बलभद्रसंज्ञं विद्यागुरुं...नमामि). The avowed purpose of writing the present work on Yoga is indicated by the author in verse 3 as follows :—

“ यद्व्यासवाचस्पतिभोजदेवैः
पातंजलीयं निरणायि तत्त्वं ।
अन्यत्र सिद्धं यदपेक्षितं च
तदत्र संक्षिप्य निरूपयामि ॥ ३ ॥ ”

The work is, therefore, a compendium or a manual based on the principles and practice of Yoga as enjoined by the Yogasūtra ascribed to Patañjali and elucidated by Vyāsa, Vācaspati, and Bhojadeva, whose commentaries on the Yogasūtras are available to us now as they were available to Godāvaramiśra. The present work is also supplemented by material from other sources not incorporated by the above commentators in their commentaries. The object of yoga theory and practice being Mokṣa or final emancipation, the author has briefly stated, in his work for the benefit of the mumukṣu or seeker after emancipation, such Yogic practices as are conducive to such emancipation. Other theoretic and psychic aspects of the Yoga have not been dealt with in this work for fear of increasing the bulk of the manual. They have been discussed at length, as the author tells us, by his respected grandfather (पितामहचरणः) in his संक्षेपशारीरकवार्त्तिक and by his father (पितृचरणः) Balabhadra in his अद्वैतचिन्तामणि as also by our author himself in his (अ)द्वैतदर्पण “अस्माभिरथ द्वैतदर्पणयुगपदनुवर्णिताः.” The author further informs us that he has deliberately excluded from the present treatise those details of Yogic theory and practice which are enjoined as essential in Tāntric manuals (“भूतकापालिकग्रंथोक्ताः विशेषाः”) because they are opposed to the teaching of the श्रुति and स्मृति.

According to the colophons quoted above Godāvaramiśra was the rājaguru or royal preceptor of Gajapati Pratāparudradeva. I am inclined to identify this king with Gajapati Pratāparudradeva¹ of Orissa who ruled between A.D. 1497 and 1539. If this identification is accepted, the date of the Yogacintāmaṇi can be safely assigned to the first quarter of the 16th century. This conclusion is in consonance with the reference to Bhojadeva (c. A. D. 1050) made by our author and the date of the MS before us viz. A.D. 1716. Unfortunately the list of authorities cited by Godāvaramiśra furnishes no other clue to the earlier limit for the date of the present work than Bhojadeva (c. A. D. 1050). Gajapati Pratāparudradeva belonged to the Solar Dynasty of Orissa that ruled between A. D. 1435 and 1540, a period during which Orissa attained its highest glory in all directions.² It is possible to suppose that the family of Godāvaramiśra must have been patronized by the predecessors of Pratāparudradeva viz. पुरुषोत्तमदेव and कपिलेन्द्रदेव.

1. Vide p. 413 of P. V. Kane : History of Dharmaśāstra, Vol. I (1930).

2. Vide p. 213 of Orissa in the Making by B. C. Mazumdar, Calcutta University, 1925. The Solar dynasty was a shortlived one as it lasted for three generations represented by कपिलेन्द्रदेव, his son पुरुषोत्तमदेव and his grandson प्रतापरुद्रदेव. Govinda Vidyādhara, a minister of Pratāparudradeva, assassinated the sons of his master and usurped his throne in A. D. 1541. He was a Bhoi by caste. His two successors were also Bhois. They were succeeded by Telengā Mukunda Deva who died in A. D. 1568. After his death Orissa came under the rule of Mahomedans.

Pratāparudradeva was the father-in-law¹ of Kṛṣṇadevarāya of Vijayanagar. The dharmaśāstra work Sarasvatīvilāsa though attributed to Pratāparudra was composed by Lolla Lakṣmīdhara,² who spent his early days at the court of the Gajapati at Cuttack and then migrated to Kṛṣṇadevarāya's court.³ It is thus clear that Godāvaramiśra, the rājaguru of Gajapati Pratāparudra was a contemporary of Lolla Lakṣmīdhara, the real author of the Sarasvatīvilāsa. It is also clear that Pratāparudra was a great patron of letters.⁴ He should not be confounded with Pratāparudra of the Kākatiya dynasty (Warrangal), the patron of Vidyānātha, the author of the Pratāparudra-yaśobhūṣaṇa. This king ruled between A. D. 1568 and (1319 ?) 1328 A. D.⁵

It appears that our Godāvaramiśra composed a work called हरिहरचतुरङ्गम् which is represented by a MS in the Govt. Oriental MSS Library, Madras. My friend Prof. V. R. R. Dikshitar recently sent me a copy of his erudite volume on *War in Ancient India*⁶ wherein he records a summary of the contents of the work as follows :—

“ Harihara-Caturāṅgam (Oriental MSS Library, Madras).⁷

1. Vide Sources of Vijayanagar History by S. K. Aiyangar, Madras, 1919. Tukkā, the daughter of Pratāparudra was married to Kṛṣṇadevarāya. Five Sanskrit verses are by tradition ascribed to Tukkā and in them she bemoans her husband's neglect of her (p. 143).

6. Published by Macmillan and Co., 1944, pp. 363-364.

7. Vide pp. 5698-99 of Triennial Catalogue (1919-20 to 1921-23) Vol. IV—Part 1. Sanskrit C.—MS R. No. 3848, folios 158 (Grantha Characters) Transcribed from a MS of Harihararājaguru, Cochinajagannathapuram, Kudala Post, Ganjam district. Deals with (1) गजलक्षण, (2) रथलक्षण, (3) अश्वलक्षण, (4) पत्तिलक्षण, (5) धनुर्विद्या, (6) नीति, (7) युद्ध and (8) क्रीडा.

It is the work of Kuruvājapeyayāji¹ Godāvaramīśra, the minister of Mahārājādhirāja Gajapati Pratāparudradeva. Thus the work belongs to the 15th century A. D. (or the early 16th). Its study is valuable in that it indicates the continuity of traditional methods and prescriptions, and in this connection furnishes additional information from sources known to the author at the time of composition. This manuscript of the Harihara-Caturaṅga is divided into 8 books. The first four deal with the fourfold force in the order of elephants, chariots, horses and infantry. While the sections on elephants and horses occupy nearly 90 pages respectively, the information under the headings of chariots and infantry is meagre and occupies about four pages in the manuscript. The last four books deal respectively with Dhanurveda, Rājanīti, Dhanurvedyā and Kriḍāyuddha, (This last is a period of training or apprenticeship after the period of study is over). In the opening lines of book V the author expresses his indebtedness to previous works on the Dhanurveda and in this connection mentions four works — the Aśanasasāṃhitā, Viracintāmaṇi, Kodaṇḍa Caturbhujam and Sārasaṅgraham, all of which are probably lost today. Towards the end of the sixth book, another work, called Jayacintāmaṇi is referred to. It is said to be a work bearing on astronomy and astrology and the king is advised therein to set out on an expedition at an auspicious time. ”

The name of the author is recorded in the following lines at the commencement of the work :—

“ श्रीदुर्गाचरणाभोजद्वन्द्वचन्दनबिन्दुना ।
कृतिगोदावरणेयं तत्प्रसादाद्विरिच्यते ॥
धीरगोदावरस्येदं (यं) कृतिरास्तां मुदे सताम् । ”

At the end also similar lines are recorded as follows :—

“ यत्प्रसादादिमां चक्रे धीरगोदावरः कृतिम् ।
श्रीदुर्गाचरणाभोजे तस्मिन्नेतां सम्पद्ये ॥ ”

The following colophon is identical with that in the Yoga-cintāmaṇi —

इति श्रीमन्महाराजाधिराज गजपतिप्रतापरुद्रदेव — स्वहस्तधारितकनककेसरी-
चतुष्टयावेष्टितशातकुम्भ — (मयकुम्भ)सम्पन्न मेघाडम्बराभिधानसितातपत्रशोभमान-

1. “ कुम्भ वाजपययोजि ” is a misreading for “ (राज) गुम्भ वाजपेययाजि ” mentioned in the Colophon.

कविपुङ्गव पण्डितराज गुरु¹ वाजपेययाजि मन्त्रिवर² गोदावरमिश्रविरचिते हरिहर-चतुरङ्गे अष्टमः क्रीडापरिच्छेदः ॥ ”

It is clear from the above extracts that Godāvaramiśra, the author of the Yogacintāmaṇi and his name-sake, the author of the Harihara-Caturāṅga, are identical.

Prof. Dikshitar states that the Harihara-Caturāṅga mentions four earlier works :—

- (1) औशनससंहिता (2) वीरचिन्तामणि
(3) कोण्डचतुर्भुजम् (4) सारसंग्रह

and that all of these are probably lost today. Perhaps it may be possible to trace some of these works or their MSS. Aufrecht makes the following entry regarding the वीरचिन्तामणि :—

C C I, 594 — “ वीरचिन्तामणि by Śārṅgadhara.

[360, 3084. Bik 708. Peter 2.188 (वीरचूडामणि)
This is merely an extract from the शाङ्गधरपद्धति (ch.
80 धनुर्देद) ”

The Śārṅgadharaṣṭhāṭī was composed in A. D. 1363 by शाङ्गधर and if the वीरचिन्तामणि mentioned by गोदावरमिश्र is identical with Ch. 80 (on Dhanurveda) of the Śārṅgadharaṣṭhāṭī we can easily fix A. D. 1400 as the earlier terminus for the date of Godāvaramiśra. This terminus harmonises with the date of this author—minister of Gajapati Pratāparudradeva³ fixed by me already in this paper.

1. In the Yogacintāmaṇi we have “ पाण्डितराज राजगुरु. ”

2. This epithet मन्त्रिवर is not recorded in the colophon of the योगचिन्तामणि. In the colophon of the 1st Paricceda of the हरिहरचतुरङ्ग the epithet मन्त्रिवर is also recorded.

3. Vide pp. 410-414 of P. V. Kane's History of Dharmaśāstra Vol. I (1930) where Kane gives detailed information about the dharmaśāstra works ascribed to Gajapati Pratāparudra—for information about the empire of Orissa and its emperors see JBORS, V, pp. 147-148 and Ind. Anti. 1929, pp. 28-33.

69. Dates of the Works of Kāyastha Cāmuṇḍa †

I

DATE OF RASASAṆKETAKALIKĀ OF KĀYASTHA CĀMUṆḌA AND HIS REFERENCE TO AN ANECDOTE ABOUT KING SIMHAṆA.

Vaidya Jadavaji Trikamji Acharya, whose efforts in the cause of the publication of ancient works on Indian Medicine are really praiseworthy, has published in the Ayurvedīyagrantha' mālā a work on rasas or Medical preparations called the Rasasaṅketakalikā.¹ In the preface to this work the Editor makes the following remarks regarding the author and the importance of his work :—

“ स चायं चामुण्डः कस्मिन् समये कतमे वा जनपदे समजनीति निर्णेतुं न किञ्चिदपि साधनमुपलभ्यते । ग्रंथश्चायं लघुरपि अतिसरलत्वात् विशदार्थत्वात् दृष्टप्रत्यया-
ल्पप्रयत्नसाध्यप्रयोगवत्वाच्च रसचिकित्साग्रन्थेषु मूर्धन्यः । पुत्रप्रदरसप्रभृतयः केचन
अपूर्वप्रयोगा अप्यत्रोपलभ्यन्ते । ”

In the above remarks, I am here concerned with the date of the author of the Rasasaṅketakalikā and not with the medical value of the treatise which an editor of Vaidya Jadavaji's status and reputation is most competent to judge.

When the above book was published Aufrecht's Catalogus Catalogorum was in existence. It appears, however, that this Catalogue has not been used by the Editor in making the remarks quoted above to the effect that there are no means for determining the place and time of Cāmuṇḍa, the author of this Rasasaṅketakalikā. The following entry² in Aufrecht's Catalogue would certainly have helped the Editor to study the question more carefully :—

† Poona Orientalist, Vol. V, pp. 1-10.

1. Edited along with Rasasāra of Govindacharya, 1915, Bombay.

2. Cata. Catalo. Part I, p. 185.

“ चामुण्ड' or चण्ड कायस्थ wrote at Medapāṭa under King Rājamalla (1489): उवरतिमिरभास्कर med. Bik. 643. Lahore 22; रससंकेतकलिका med. L. 910. K. 216, Oudh 1877, 62. ” In an article contributed by me to the Annals of the Bhandarkar Institute (Vol. XII, pp. 294 — 296) I have proved that Cāmuṇḍa Kāyastha wrote his Ṣvaratimiraḥkāra in Saṁvat 1546 (= A. D. 1490) during the reign of King Rājamalla of Mewād (1474 to 1509). I shall, therefore, try in this paper to prove the identity of the Author of the Ṣvaratimiraḥkāra with the author of the Rasasaṅketakalikā.

In the first verse of the Rasasaṅketakalikā the author states that he composed the work and that his name is “ चामुण्डः कायस्थवंशभूः. ” In the last verse of the Ṣvaratimiraḥkāra (v. 63 on folio 116 of MS No. 920² of 1884 — 87) the author calls himself “ कायस्थश्चण्डनामा. ” This identity of names is not sufficient to prove the identity of authorship for the two works under reference because in the Rasasaṅketakalikā no chronological and historical data are available. I have, therefore, tried to find if any verses are common to both the works. Fortunately my cursory perusal of both the works has enabled me to detect the following lines in the Rasasaṅketakalikā which are found also in the Ṣvaratimiraḥkāra:—

1. Aufrecht, III, 40 mentions a चामुण्ड as the author of a work called वर्णनिघण्टु (Peters 6, 399) which is identical with No. 399 of 1895-98 in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. The identity of this चामुण्ड with the author of the Rasasaṅketakalikā will be examined in a separate note. Aufrecht also records (Part III, 130) a work on jyotiṣa called वर्णनिघण्टु but its author is not mentioned. It appears to be a different work from the वर्णनिघण्टु of चामुण्ड referred to above.

2. This MS is dated Saṁvat 1689 (= A. D. 1633). It was copied at Ajmere and contains two impressions of a seal on the last folio. The seals are in Persian script. Mr. G. H. Khare of the Bharata Itihasa Mandal has given me a tentative deciphering of these seal-impressions, according to which the Seal contains the words “ Keśav Ibn Ganesh Kher. ” If this reading is correct it would mean that the Seal belongs to some owner of the MS subsequent to the date of the Copy viz. A. D. 1633. Keshav Ganesh Kher is a Maharashtra Brahmin name while the copy was made at Ajmere in Rajputana and the MS was acquired by Sir R. G. Bhandarkar from Gujarat.

The above matter common to both the works proves beyond doubt the identity of authorship especially in view of the identity of names of the authors referred to already. In spite of the common matter the relative chronology of the two works cannot be determined unless either of the two works is found mentioning the other work by name.

The work Rasasaṅketakalikā composed, therefore, during the reign of King Rājamalla of Mewar (1474-1509 A. D.) is very important as pointed out by Vaidya Jadavaji Trikamji Acharya in his Preface. Among the several rasas mentioned in this manual we find one called “क्रव्यादरस” prescribed against the lethargic condition of the bowels and want of appetite (agnimāndya). Verses 67 to 72 of the Fourth Ullāsa of the work describe the method of its preparation, which is concluded with the following verses narrating its marvellous effects and miraculous properties :—

“ भोजयेत्कण्ठपर्यन्तं गुरुमाभिषभोजनम् ।
क्षिप्रं तज्जीर्यते भुक्तं पुनः काङ्क्षति भोजनम् ॥ ७३ ॥

घटश्रवाकुम्भयोनिवृकोदरशनैश्चरैः ।

अस्य संसेवनादेते सर्वे जाता महाशनाः ।
अतः संसेव्यते भूपैर्महदग्निविवृद्धये ॥ ७५ ॥

कुर्याद्दीपनमद्भुतं च पचनं दुष्टाय योच्छेदनं
तुन्दस्थौल्यनिबर्हणं, गरहरः शूलार्तिमूलपहः ।
गुल्मप्लीहविनाशनो बहुरुजां विध्वंसनः संसनो
वातग्रन्थिमहोदरापहरणः क्रव्यादनामा रसः ॥ ७६ ॥

सिंहणक्षोणिपालाय भूरिभोज्याग्रियं रसम् ।
दत्तवान् भैरवानन्दो भूयो ग्रामाष्टकं ददौ ॥ ७७ ॥”

The above extract gives us an impression that ancient Indian kings were addicted to over-eating and required special medicines to enable them to digest everything they swallowed.” “अग्निविवृद्धि” or stimulation of appetite was more a matter of concern for the well-fed kings than for the famished peasants. Verily this miserable condition of the kings afforded a nice opportunity for the ancient physicians to make a fortune and hence in verse 77 of the above extract we get an anecdote about King सिंहण who is stated to have been ‘भूरिभोज्याग्रिय’, excessively fond of eating or rather a glutton. A physician by name भैरवानन्द administered the क्रव्यादरस to this King and the King was so much pleased by its marvellous effects that he gave the physician no less than eight villages as a reward.

Students of history proper may perhaps be able to verify the above anecdote and its historical content. The anecdote is amusing enough as it is cited by Kāyastha Cāmuṇḍa as an illustration from history to prove his point contained in the line: “अतः संसेव्यते भूपैर्महदग्निविवृद्धये ।” i.e. the क्रव्यादरस should be taken by kings to effect a good appetite.

Vincent Smith¹ mentions a Yādava king of the name Singhaṇa

1. Early History of India, Oxford, 1924, pp. 451-452.

(= सिंहण) (A. D. 1210) “ who invaded Gujarat and other countries and established a short-lived kingdom almost rivalling in extent the realms of the Chālukyas and Rāshtrakūtas.” Inscriptional references to this Singhaṇa describe him as under :—

“ अस्ति ध्वस्तसमस्तवैरिविसरप्राढप्रतापानलः
कुदश्वेतदिगंतकीर्तिरमलः श्रीसिंघणः क्षोणिपः ।
येनाहारि हरीभसंभृतमतिस्कीर्तं समस्तं क्षणा—
द्राज्यं प्राज्यमथा जनस्य दलिताधाराधराभूषणम् ॥ २ ॥ ”¹

Singhaṇa ruled from Śaka 1132 (= A. D. 1210) to Śaka 1169 (= A. D. 1247)² i.e. for a period of 37 years. Whether he gave any village to any physician of the name of भैरवानन्द as stated in the Rasasaṅketakalikā of Kāyastha Cāmuṇḍa is a matter for investigation. That he did entertain court physicians is proved by the fact of one of the inscriptions mentioned above being composed by an eminent physician who was at the same time noted for his poetic talents. The name of this poet physician was Mādhava, son of Dhaneśvara-bhaṭṭa of the Viṣṇuvṛddha gotra and belonging to the Taittirīya Śākhā. The pertinent verse³ supplying this information reads as follows :—

“ सदैवो भिषगग्रणी कविवरश्रीमाधवो विप्राद्
(—) क्षे विक्रमसं(शं)ककेलिविपुलां चक्रे प्रशस्तिं शुभां ॥
पुत्रौ भट्टधनेश्वरस्य सुमतेः श्रीविष्णुवृद्धस्य यो
वंशेजायत शास्त्रया विमलया यस्तैत्तिरीयः कृता ॥ ४२ ॥ ”

In inscriptions, devoted more to the praise of kings than to their criticism, it would be difficult to find anything to justify the adjective ‘ भूरिभोज्यप्रिय ’ with reference to King Singhaṇa of the inscriptions. In the *Kīrtikaumudī*⁴ of Someśvara a good description of the prowess of King Singhaṇa in his invasion of Gujarat is given, but no reference to his personal habits could be traced in such poetic descriptions. Besides there are two more namesakes of king Singhaṇa. One of these was called Simharāja or King Simha, though his full name was Singhaṇa. He was probably the brother of Parammadeva, the successor of Seuna Candra (1069 A. D.) of the early Yādava Dynasty.¹ The other namesake of King Singhaṇa is Singhaṇadeva² the last prince of the Kalacuri Dynasty whose grant dated Śaka 1105 (= A.D. 1183) was brought to notice by Dr. Fleet in 1875 and published in the Indian Antiquary. Singhaṇadeva was the brother of King Soma. It was at the instance of a woman that King Soma made a grant in the year Śaka 1096 (= A. D. 1174). Her name was Sāvaladevī, who is represented to have been dearer to the King than his own wife. "Her brother was Bhairava by name who had exercised himself on the musical instruments especially on the Brahmavīṇā and was skilled in beating time."³ Bhairava and his sister Sāvaladevī had, therefore, great influence at the court of King Soma of the Kalacuri dynasty, the brother of Singhaṇadeva. Is it possible to suggest that this Bhairava had anything to do with Bhairavānanda of the Rasasaṅketa-kalikā, who administered क्रव्यादरस to सिंहण क्षोणिप and got eight villages as a reward?

The above anecdote about the fondness of king Simhaṇa for excessive eating (भूरिभोज्यप्रियत्व) reminds me of a similar tradition current in the Maratha country about Peshwa Bajirao II. Whatever be the truth of this tradition with regard to this last of the Peshwas and his personal habits the fact remains that he was instrumental in indirectly encouraging gluttony to a certain extent. Making due allowance for the charitable motives which prompted him to feed the Brahmins on an enormous scale and pay them dakṣiṇās in addition we are constrained to admit that the system engendered indolence instead of encouraging learning, which was the original object of the system.

It appears that the system of feeding Brahmins on a grand scale and paying them dakṣiṇās began early in the Peshwa period. For instance, in an entry in the Peshwa's' Diaries for 28th July 1736 we read the following entry :—

“Panta Pradhan performed the ceremony of feeding the Brahmins from Śrāvaṇa Śuddha Pratipadā. On the Nāgapañcamī day dakṣiṇā was distributed at the rate of 1 to 2 rupees per head. 4000 to 5000 Brahmins had gathered for the purpose.”

Now compare with the above account the following account of a similar feast to the Brahmins given by Bajirao II at the close of the Peshwa Period :—

“The ceremony in the month of Śrāvaṇa (was duly celebrated) and dakṣiṇā was distributed as usual (to Brahmins). This year the number of Brahmins was less by ten to twelve thousand. Khicaḍī was served for five days as in the previous years. On Monday at 17 ghaṭikās in the day (at about 2 P. M.) the distribution of dakṣiṇā to the Brahmins assembled began. Owing to some showers of rain on that day the Brahmins did not attend the feast in large numbers. On the following day it was arranged that dakṣiṇā should be distributed simultaneously at all the four gates. This arrangement resulted in the admission of the entire number of Brahmins inside (the enclosure). Shrimant Rājaśrī Dādā (= Raghunathrao Kurundvadkar) had been appointed as one of the distributors of dakṣiṇā and he worked in that capacity. On Tuesday afternoon Sindia (= Mahadji Sindia) was personally present at the ceremony. On that occasion he distributed rupees in handfuls to certain meritorious or austere Brahmins from Poona. (Out of this number) some ten to twelve persons received as dakṣiṇā Rs. 800, 400, 150, 200, each and so on. The total number of Brahmins recorded at the four gates (of the enclosure) was 32,231. Total amount of money distributed was Rs. 1, 13, 281. Three Brahmins of weak constitution expired on this occasion.”²

It would, therefore, appear that the modest number of 4000 to 5000 of Brahmins fed in A. D. 1736 had increased to more than

DATE OF VARṆANIGHAṆṬA OF KĀYASTHA CĀMUṆḌA — A. D. 1482 (SAMVAT 1538)

Aufrecht² records only one MS of a work called Varṇanighaṇṭa by Cāmuṇḍa. This MS is identical with No. 399 of 1895-98 in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona, and consists of 2 folios only. It appears to be a vocabulary of tāntric terms. It begins as follows :

1. Vide remarks of Dr. Sen in his Administrative System of the Marathas, Calcutta, 1925, p. 471—Originally the Dakshina System was instituted by Dabhades but was continued by the Peshwas after the fall of that family. It was originally meant for scholars but was extended to Brahmins in general. "Bajirao II spent about 4 lacs of rupees annually in Dakshina grants." Mr. Elphinstone maintained a Pathashala at Poona out of the Dakshana grant.

Feeding of Brahmins to their heart's content and giving them dakṣiṇas at religious sacrifices was practised in the Peshwa period. Raja Savai Jaisingh of Jaipur (1699-1743 A. D.) who performed an Aśvamedha Sacrifice gave plenty of dakṣiṇās and feasts to Brahmins on that occasion. The following verses from Īśvara Vilāsa Kāvya, a poem dealing with the Jaipur dynasty describes this sacrifice in chapters IV and V of the same. In chapter V we get the following verses —

“ अस्मिन्यज्ञे जायमाने यावद्यद्येन याचितं ।
तावत्तत्तेन विप्रेन क्षिप्रमस्मादलभ्यत ॥ २९ ॥ ” “ एवं स दक्षिणाभारं नभूरिव्रह्मभोजनैः ।
सांगं न वाजिमैधानां चक्रे पंचोत्तरं शतं ॥ ५२ ॥ ”

(These verses are quoted from MS No. 273 of 1884-86 in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona. This is the only MS of this poem discovered so far and hence important.)

2. Cata. Catalogorum, Part III, p, 40.

संत्राद्यः परमं बीजं मूलवेदाद्यतारकः ।

The author's name as given in verses 1 and 2 is चंद्र or चामुण्ड कायस्थ and not mere चामुण्ड as stated by Aufrecht. He is identical with कायस्थ चामुण्ड the author of ज्वरतिमिरभास्कर, a treatise on fevers and रससंकेतकलिका or a treatise dealing with rasas or certain medical preparations. We have shown elsewhere¹ that the work ज्वरतिमिरभास्कर was composed in A. D. 1489-90 (Samvat 1546) though the exact date of the रससंकेतकलिका cannot be determined.² However, we are sure that it was composed during the reign of King Rājamalla of Mewar (1474 to 1509 A. D.).

The work Rasasaniketakalikā begins with the words “ शिवं नत्वा ” corresponding to the first line of Varnanighaṇṭa viz. “ आराध्याखिल-नायकं पशुपतिं ” showing thereby that Kāyastha Cāmuṇḍa was a devotee of God Śiva. His father's name as recorded in the Varnanighaṇṭa (verse 1, line 3) was Kumbha (श्रीमत्कुंभतनूद्भवः). In the Jvaratimirabhāskara also he is called कुंभसूनुः in the following verse :—

“ देसे श्रीमेदपाटे रसयुगसरभूमानवपे दसग्यां
शुक्लायामश्विनस्य त्रिदसगुरुदिने योगिनीपत्र(त ?)नस्थः ।
भूपे श्रीराजमहले निवसति वसुधामंडले कुंभसूनुः
कायस्थश्चंद्रनामा ज्वरतिमिरहरं भास्करं संविधत्ते ॥ ”

The above verse occurs in MS No. 920 of 1884-87. In the Bikaner MS of the Jvaratimirabhāskara instead of “ कुंभसूनुः ” in the

1. Annals (B. O. R. I.) Vol. XII, p. 294-96.

2. See my note on the Date of Rasasaniketakalikā published above.

above quotation we have the reading “कुंभसूने” which becomes applicable to “राजसूने” and in fact राजसूने was the son of King Kumbha but the reading “कुंभसूने” of the Bikaner MS is wrong as in the वर्णनिर्घंट, कायस्थ चामुण्ड is clearly stated to be “कुम्भनन्दन” and hence “कुम्भसूने” is the correct reading. The composition of the present vocabulary, Varṇanighaṇṭa shows that the author was a follower of tantras and mantras, for the proper application of which the vocabulary viz. the Varṇanighaṇṭa was composed. The MS ends as follows :—

“ श्रीशिवायामाचार्यसदुषो गोपितः पुरा ।

नस्तुटीकरणाथैस्तुल्यं कृतवानहं ॥

चामुण्डेनागमज्ञानं ग्रंथोऽयं प्रकटीकृतः

इति श्रीचामुण्डकृतो वर्णनिर्घंटः समाप्तिसफाणीत् ॥ ”

The work was composed in the Saṃvat year 1538 represented by the chronogram (“राज, अष्ट, दश, शुभ”) = A. D. 1482 i.e. eight years before the date of composition of the work Jvaratimira'bhāskara (composed in A. D. 1490). King Rajamalla was reigning at the time. The work was composed at Yognīpura.¹ Rajamalla of

1. Kāyastha Cāmuṇḍa's Jvaratimirabhāskara was also composed at योगिनीपुर (= योगिनीपत्तन of the verse quoted in this note from the Jvaratimirabhāskara). As Rājamalla was the King of Medapāṭa (= Mewar) योगिनीपुर or योगिनीपत्तन must have been in the old province of Mewar. Its exact location and identification need more evidence for being determined with accuracy.

योगिनीपुर has been identified with modern Delhi (see Dynastic History of Northern India, Vol. II by H. C. Ray, Pp. 801, 1095, 1145). See also J. A. S. B., Vol. XLIII, Part I, Pp. 106–109 and E. I. XXI, 281).

योगिनीपुर has nothing to do with Jogipura settlement mentioned by Badaoni in the following passage regarding Akbar's interest in Yogies :—

“ It was this craving for unravelling the mysteries of the uni-

70. Date of the Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā of Puruṣottama — Before A. D. 1495 †

No attempt has hitherto been made to put definite limits to the chronology of the *Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā*¹ of Puruṣottama, though this poem was published about 48 years ago. In a note on the author of this poem in 8 Stabakas the editors state that the time and place of this author is doubtful.²

In view of the above statement I propose to record in this paper some data which will enable us to put some definite limits to the date of Puruṣottama.

Aufrecht records some MSS of the Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā as follows :—

† Adyar Library Bulletin, February 1941, pp. 13-16.

1. Kāvya-mālā No. 31 (N. S. Press, Bombay, 1892) Ed. by Durgāprasād and Parābh.

2. Ibid — “ पुरुषोत्तमः । मानी-विष्णुभक्तयोर्मतापित्रोर्लब्धजन्मा विष्णुभक्तिकल्पलताप्रणेता पुरुषोत्तमकविः कस्मिन्काले कतमं जनपदमलंनकारेति संदिग्धम् ”
The editors then refer to several theories about the chronology and identification of Puruṣottama as follows :—

(1) Anandarāma on p. 14 of his Intro. to नानावैसंभद् states that Puruṣottama belonged to बङ्ग or Bengal and was descended from हलायुधवंश. He flourished not later than the latter part of the 12th century A. D.

(2) Kavi Caritra (in Marāṭhi) tells us that Puruṣottama was the King of Orissa and Kalinga and flourished in the 14th Century of the Śālivāhana Śaka. His Capital was at Cuttack. He composed त्रिकाण्डशेष, हारावली and एकाक्षरकोष.

(3) Rajendralal Mitra states in his Notices of Sanskrit MSS that Puruṣottama flourished either in the 10th or 11th Century A. D.

The editors observe that whereas the author of त्रिकाण्डशेष and other works is called पुरुषोत्तमदेव at the end of these works, our author's name as mentioned in the विष्णुभक्तिकल्पलता is given as पुरुषोत्तम only.

C C III, 174 — विष्णुभक्तिकल्पलता by Puruṣottama. AS p. 177. (2 MSS) Comm. by Mahidhara AS. p. 177.

The above entries show that the work Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā (= VBK) has found three commentators. Of these three the dates of two are definitely known as A. D. 1590 and 1621. We must, therefore, search for the date of VBK before A. D. 1590, which is the later limit for the date of this work. Let us now see if we can take this limit backwards from A. D. 1590. Fortunately for

1. The correct date is Samvat 1654 = A. D. 1598.

2. MS No. 86 of 1883-84 in the B. O. R. Institute MSS Library is a commentary प्रकाश by महेश्वर on वि. भ. कल्पलता. It ends as follows :—“अथ विवरणनिर्माणकालः।

The chronogram अथ, अंबुधि, राग, भूमि = Samvat 1647 = A. D. 1591 in which year the work was composed.

The MS of the work is dated Samvat 1667 = Śaka 1533 = A. D. 1611. This MS, therefore, was copied 20 years after the work was composed. Aufrecht's date A. D. 1621 is wrong.

us we have a dated MS of the text of the VBK in the India Office Library which was copied in A. D. 1495¹ and hence is earlier by 103 years than A. D. 1598 (= Sam. 1654) which is the exact² date of Mahīdhara's commentary Prakāśa on the VBK. We must, therefore, search for Puruṣottama's date before A. D. 1495. Maheśvara's commentary on the VBK was composed in A. D. 1591 and not in A. D. 1621 as stated by Aufrecht³ (CC I, 591).

The above data show the following chronology of the Mss of the VBK and also of the commentaries on the work :

- A. D. 1495 — Date of India Office MS of VBK.
- 1591 — Maheśvara composed his comm. on VBK.
- 1598 — Mahīdhara comments on VBK.
- 1611 — Date of a MS Maheśvara's Comm. on VBK.

These dates enable us to conclude that Puruṣottama lived

1. Vide p. 1475 of I.O. MSS Cata. VII, 1904—Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā a poem in 8 Stabakas, consisting of meditations and devotional effusions on the names and qualities of Viṣṇu by Puruṣottama, son of Viṣṇu and Māni." The MS ends : — "समाप्तोयं विष्णुभक्तिकल्पलताख्यः संवत् १५५१ वर्षे चैत्रे शुदि १० गुरौ दामोदरेण लिलिखे ॥ मानी माता पिता विष्णुर्यस्याख्या पुरुषोत्तमः । विष्णुभक्तिलतां चक्रे सतां चक्रे कृताञ्जलिः ॥" The 2nd MS of VBK (IO No. 3909) dated Samvat 1848 = A. D. 1792. The third MS (No. 3910) is dated "about A. D. 1650" and ends as follows :— "इति श्री विष्णुभक्तिकल्पलताविवरणे चित्रप्रबोधो नामाष्टमः स्तवकः ॥ समाप्ता विवृतिः ॥

श्रुतिबाणरसेन्दुमानवर्षे नभसि स्कन्ददिने सितेऽर्कवारे ।

महिदासबुधो गिरीशपुर्या कृतवान्कल्पलताप्रकाशमेतं ॥"

The chronogram श्रुति (4) बाण (5) रस (6) इन्दु (1) = Samvat 1654 = A. D. 1598.

2. Aufrecht records A. D. 1590 as the date of Mahīdhara's Prakāśa Comm. but this statement is incorrect as the exact date of this Comm. is Sam. 1654 = A. D. 1598 and not A. D. 1590, which is the date of Mahīdhara's another work Mantramahodadhi (Sam. 1645).

3. Aufrecht's date A. D. 1621 for the composition Maheśvara's Comm. on the VBK is directly contradicted by the date of Ms No. 86 of 1883—84 which was copied in A. D. 1611 i. e. ten years earlier before the work was composed (in A. D. 1621 according to Aufrecht.)

before — say A. D. 1450 — and therefore we must try to make a search for his date in sources of prior date i.e., before A. D. 1450.

The earlier terminus to the date of the VBK will have to be fixed on the strength of internal evidence. Unfortunately the nature of this devotional poem calls for no references by the author to earlier authors or works and consequently the task of fixing the earlier limit becomes rather difficult. Whether and to what extent Puruṣottama's present poem in 8 Stabakas was influenced by earlier Vaiṣṇavite works, I cannot say at present. I have not also traced any references to the VBK in later Vaiṣṇavite or other works. There are some Vaiṣṇavite works with titles analogous¹ to the Viṣṇubhaktikalpalatā but their priority or posteriority to the present work will have to be examined separately before anything could be definitely said in this matter.

1. Cf. Aufrecht, C C I, 592 — “विष्णुभक्तिचन्द्रोदय, विष्णुभक्तिप्रबंध, विष्णुभक्तिमाहात्म्य, विष्णुभक्तिरहस्य, विष्णुभक्तिस्तुति, and C C II, 758 — हरिभक्तिकल्पलता by विष्णुपुरी, हरिभक्तिकल्पलतिका by श्रीकृष्णसरस्वती, हरिभक्तिलता, हरिभक्तिलतिकास्तव etc.

71. The Kāmasamūha of Ananta, a Nāgara Brahmin, Composed in A. D. 1457 †

Aufrecht¹ makes the following entry in his Catalogue regarding a work called ' Kāmasamūha ' :—

“ कामसमूह alamk. Composed in 1457² by Ananta, IO 396. Oxf. 218a. B. 346. Peters. 3. 22a. 366. 394. D. 6. ” This work Kāmasamūha contains verses illustrative of amatory sentiments composed by Ananta, son of Bhiṣagvarya Hīramantrimaṇḍana. That Ananta belonged to आभल्लवंश and his father's name was मण्डन can be seen from the following verse on folio 1 of MS No. 15 of 1869-70 in the Govt. MSS Library at the B. O. R. Institute, Poona :—

† Journal of Oriental Research (Madras), Vol. XVI, Part I, pp. 74-81.

1. Cata. Catalogorum I, p. 93.

2. This date of composition is recorded in the India Office MS No. 396 (Vide I. O. Cata. Part III, p. 364a). The chronogram recording the date is found in the following verse :—

“ गंवत् पञ्चदश प्रोते चन्द्रवेदपवनसरे (१) ।
नेचयुवले चन्द्रदशां तिथौ वारे च भार्गवे ॥ ”

The work was composed in Sāṃvat 1514 in the month of Caitra, Śukla pakṣa, 14th tithi, Bhṛguvāra (Śukravāra) which corresponds to Friday, 13th April 1457 A. D. Vide Indian Ephemeris Vol. V, p. 116). The expression चन्द्रदेव = 14 and not 41 as interpreted by Eggeling. Hence पञ्चदश + चन्द्रदेव = 1514 and not 1541 Sāṃvat.

M. M. Haraprasad Sastri describes a MS of Kāmasamūha in his Des. Cata. of MSS (A. S. B.) Vol. VI 1931, p. 434. This MS is very nearly complete. M. M. Sastri states that the author is Ananta the son of त्रिमण्डन with this title “ भिषङ्मुकुटालङ्कारहार. ” The correct name of Ananta's father is मण्डन and not त्रिमण्डन, as clearly stated by him in verse 78 — “ मण्डनतनयोऽनन्तः ” (folio 6 of B. O. R. I. MS No. 15 of 1869-70). Obviously Sastri's statement is based on a wrong copy of the name in the MS before him.

“ भाभल्लवंशजातेन मन्त्रिमण्डनसूनुना ।
अनन्तेन महाकाव्यप्रबन्धः क्रियते मया ॥ ६ ॥ ”

It is not recorded in the work what office of a minister (मन्त्रि) was graced by मण्डन and under what ruling prince he worked in that capacity. It appears that मण्डन was the son of नारायण as we are told on folio 5 in the following verse :—

“ विद्वज्जनसभानन्दा (दो) मन्त्री नारायणात्मजः ।
मण्डनस्तस्य पुत्रेण वर्ण्यन्ते स्मर्तव्योऽधुना ॥ ६९ ॥ ”

On folio 6 our author calls himself सकलशास्त्रज्ञ in the following verse :—

“ मण्डनतनयोऽनन्तो मन्मथरूपः सकलशास्त्रज्ञः ।
अभिमतदाता रचयति रूपं बालाव्यवस्थायाः ॥ ७८ ॥ ”

On folio 8 we find the following verse containing a reference to nose-ornament¹ repeated verbatim from earlier anthologies :—

“ सुधामयोऽपि क्षयरोगशान्त्यै नासाग्रमुक्ताफलकच्छलेन ।
अनङ्गसजीवनदृष्टशक्तिमुखामृतं ते पिबतीव चन्द्रः ॥ १५ ॥ ”

The following verse beside its rhetorical implication shows that lamps used in India had no lamp covers² to protect them from wind :—

Folio 10 — “ दीपो वातभयात्तन्व्या वस्त्राञ्चलतिरोहितः । विलोक्य कुचसौन्दर्यं मकरः कम्पते शिरः ॥ ५४ ॥ ”

We have already pointed out that नारायण was the grandfather of अनन्त and father of मण्डन. This information is corroborated by the following verse on fol. 21 :—

“ नारायणात्मजः श्रीमान् मन्त्रिर्धर्ममण्डनो द्विजः ।
तत्सुतेन प्रियावस्था प्रयाणे वर्णिता मुदा ॥ ६ ॥ ”

1. Vide my article on the Antiquity of the Hindoo Nose-Ornament-Annals, XIX, 313-334. The verse “सुधामयोऽपि etc.” is found in the Sūktimuktāvalī of Jalhana composed in A. D. 1258 and in Sārngadharapaddhati (A. D. 1363).

2. I propose to prepare in due course a paper on references to lamps in Indian literature.

As अनन्त composed the कामसमूह in A. D. 1457¹ we may assign the following chronology to his father and grandfather :—

नारायण (C. 1400 A. D.) – son मण्डन (C. 1430 A. D.) – son अनन्त (A. D. 1457). अनन्त belonged to the नागरजाति as stated by him on folio 4I :—

“ नागरजातिजातेन मन्त्रिमण्डनसूनुना ।
अनन्तेनमहाव्यासतीवृत्तं प्रकाशितम् ॥ ”

This family hailed from a town² founded by अहिम्मद —

Folio 39 — “ अहिम्मदनिर्मितनगरे विहितावसतिश्च वृद्धनागरिकः । मण्डनसूनुनन्तो रचयति सेवाविधि नार्याः ॥ ७७ ॥ ”

The place of Ananta's residence viz. “ अहिम्मदनगर ” mentioned by him in the above verse may be identical with Ahmedabad

1. The Ms “ B. 3. 46 ” of Kāmasamūha mentioned by Aufrecht is dated Samvat 1619 = A.D. 1563 and was in the possession of नालकण्ठरण-छोड of Ahmedabad (Vide pp. 46–47 of Böhler's Cata. of Gujarat etc. MSS, Fasci. I, Bombay, 1872). On p. 2 of Fasci. I Böhler observes “ If no remark is added the era in which the MSS are dated is Samvat. ” In view of this remark the year 1619 given as the age of the MS of Kāmasamūha on p. 47 of Faci. III is a Samvat year.

2. According to the Bombay Gazetteer Vol. I, pt. 1 (1896) which deals with the history of Gujarat, Ahmad I (1411–1441 A. D.) of Gujarat built Ahmedabad in A. D. 1413. As अनन्त belonged to the नागर caste, the town “ अहिम्मदनिर्मितनगर ” must be identical with the modern Ahmedabad in Gujarat which is generally the home of the Nāgara Brahmins. If this identification is accepted the कामसमूह appears to have been composed at Ahmedabad 44 years after the founding of Ahmedabad in A. D. 1413. अनन्त appears to refer to the foundation of Ahmedabad as a contemporary event of fresh occurrence.

Ahmad I of Gujarat also built a town of the name Ahmadnagar (Himatnagar the modern capital of Idar state) in A. D. 1427 (Vide p. 83 of History of Gujarat by Commissariat, 1938). It is also possible that अनन्त may have been the resident of this “ अहिम्मदनगर ” (Himatnagar). If this identification is accepted the कामसमूह was written 30 years after the foundation of Ahmednagar.

(founded A. D. 1413) or Ahmadnagar (Himmatnagar¹), the capital of Idar State (founded A. D. 1427), both of which were founded by Ahmad I of Gujarat. It is not possible to identify “अहिम्मद-नगर” with modern Ahmadnagar (founded by Ahmad Nizam Shah in A.D. 1494) as such identification would result in an anachronism.

In the following verse on folio 3 we get the name of Ananta's guru viz. आनन्दपूर्ण —

“ ध्यात्वा समस्तगुरुकार्यविधौ समर्था
 श्रीशारदा कविजनस्य सुखे वसन्तीम् ।
 आनन्दपूर्णगुरुपादयुगं प्रणम्य
 व्याख्यां विधाय सुरभे रचयत्यनन्तः ॥ २७ ॥ ”

Is it possible to suppose that आनन्दपूर्ण mentioned in A. D. 1457 as the guru of Ananta is identical with आनन्दपूर्ण² alias विद्यासागर the

1. Vide Archaeological Finds in Idar State, Himmatnagar, 1936, p. 7 — Himmatnagar is 55 miles north of Ahmedabad. It was founded in 1426. (The Bombay Gazetteer gives A. D. 1427 as the year of its foundation); P. 38 — “History of Idar State attests that the Nagir Brahmins and Banias formed a large percentage of the population of the State in the olden times. It seems when Grahāditya, son of Shilāditya, the last king of Mallabhipur, came in possession of Idar State in the 7th century, he brought with him from Vadnagar, many Nagir families out of gratitude to his foster-mother the Nagir lady Kamalavati. They held responsible posts in the administration and spread all over the State. Many Shiva-panchāyatan temples and step-wells in the State are said to have been built by them. The Nāgirs left the State in large numbers in the 17th century when there was a great exodus on account of the tyranny of Rao Jagannāth.” (If the above evidence is correct the home of Nāgara Brahman Ananta and his family must be Himmatnagar.)

2. See my paper on this author in the B. I. S. Mandal Quarterly, Poona, Vol. XX, Part 1, pp. 29-36. In this paper I have referred to Ānandapūrṇa's works of which there are MSS dated A. D. 1405 and 1434. See also Dr. V. Raghavan's article on this author in the Annals of Oriental Research, Madras University (Vol. II part 1). The chronology of the two आनन्दपूर्ण is as follows :—

commentator of the Mahābhārata? This latter आनन्दपूर्ण was a contemporary of the Kadamba ruler of Goa, one of whose inscriptions is dated Śaka 1315, A. D. 1393.

I shall now record below several verses at the close of different topics of the कामसमूह in which अनन्त refers to himself :—

1. This village may be identical with Parola in the East Khandesh (Bombay Presidency).

The account of our author of the कामसमूह as gathered from the foregoing analysis would be as follows:—

अनन्त, the author of कामसमूह, belonged to भाभलवंश. He was a नागर Brāhmin. His grandfather's name was नारायण. His father was मण्डन, who is styled as मन्त्रि or minister. मण्डन is also called a court-physician (भूपतीनां भिषग्वरः) who was proficient in veterinary science - गजायुर्वेदवेत्ता) and was another धन्वन्तरि or physician of gods. अनन्त twice calls himself वृद्धनागरिक, resident of a town founded by अहिस्मद. This town may be either Ahmedabad founded by Ahmad I of Gujarat in A. D. 1414 or it may be identical with Ahmadnagar (Himmatnagar, Capital of the Idar State) founded by the same king in A.D. 1427. The कामसमूह, composed by अनन्त (in his old age) in A. D. 1457 (Friday, the 13th April) is an anthology bearing on Kāmasāstra and its several topics. अनन्त refers to his guru आनन्दपूर्ण only once in the कामसमूह. This आनन्दपूर्ण may be identical with आनन्दपूर्ण alias विद्यासागर the commentator of the Mahābhārata and writer of some Vedānta works, who was a contemporary of Kāma-deva, the Kadamba ruler of Goa (c. 1393 A. D.). Evidently अनन्त may have been a junior contemporary of आनन्दपूर्ण or विद्यासागर, if my identification of his guru आनन्दपूर्ण, as suggested by me is proved on independent evidence. Like his father who was an eminent court-physician, अनन्त was also proficient in the science of medicine as he calls himself “ भिषग्विद्याविद्. ”

As the कामसमूह is avowedly an anthology bearing on Kāmasāstra it would be interesting to trace some of his verses to their original sources. This work, however, has been made difficult by the author himself, who makes no mention of the sources from which he has borrowed. He only makes general statements about his borrowing, such as:

“ ग्रन्थानालोक्य सर्वशः ”, “ बहुनि शास्त्राणि विलोक्य भव्यान् । संगृह्य पद्यान् सुकविप्रणीतान् । ”

It appears that अनन्त has mixed up his own composition with that of previous writers.

I have not studied the question of references to the कामसमूह in later literature but shall note here one reference of A. D. 1787, in which year a copy of the कामसमूह was prepared in Poona at some cost as stated in a recent book¹ dealing with the Peshwa period.

1. पेशवाईच्या सावलीत by N. G. Chapekar, Poona, 1937, p. 293 — Śaka 1709 = A.D. 1787. Mr. Chapekar refers to the India Office MS mentioned by me already in this paper. He is not, however, aware of the 2 MSS of the work at the B. O. R. Institute in the Govt. Mss Library viz. No. 15 of 1869-70 and No. 283 of 1884-86, as also the Calcutta MS of the work described by Haraprasad Shastri (p. 434 of R. A. S. B. MSS. Cata. Vol. VI, 1931).
